any woman who will support him in accustomed style," it continued. The story referred to the actor as "Francis X. Busman, movie Adonis."

"I think I'm the first movie actor in history to admit failure and to admit I'm in search for a wealthy wife. Of course I mean failure in a financial sense, not as an actor," counsel continued to read from the clipping.

"I suppose I might be called a prospective Gigolo or something," the clipping went on.

"Bushman never said that," the actor asserted indignantly. "The whole thing was a publicity stunt."

The clipping was admitted as evidence.

He still stuck to the story Hamilton was intoxicated at the time of the accident. It also developed Bushman's driver had not paid an $18 hotel bill at Wardsville, although the actor said he had given the chauffeur money to pay it. The $700 repair bill was also unpaid.

ROME ACCEPTS U.S. INVITATION

Study British Response For Hint as to Stand on Trade Deal.

MAIN TOPIC WAR DEBTS.

ROME, January 31 (C.P.). — The Italian Government accepted to-day the offer of the United States Government for a discussion of the war debt as soon as possible after Franklin D. Roosevelt takes office as American President.

The acceptance was made without reference to possible trade discussions. The announcement simply stated that Premier Mussolini has given a favorable answer to the United States Government's offer.

The communique said: "The head of the Government has given instructions to the Ambassador in Washington to respond favorably to the offer of the American Government to discuss the question of debts."

Italy's acceptance was indicated by the reaction following the publication of the offer last Tuesday. In the meanwhile, however, the Government was studying the British response to a similar offer and the American reaction to it in order to decide what course to take in regard to possible trade or other concessions.

It was understood that President-elect Roosevelt desired compensation in some form for revision of the debts.

Weddings

SMART—SIMMONS.

A pretty wedding was solemnized quietly last evening at St. John's Church, when Edna Kathleen Simmons, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Simmons, and Mr. Frank George Smart of Peterborough, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Smart of Shepton Mallett, Somerset, England, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rt. Rev. Archdeacon Blagrave.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a dress of maroon silk flat crepe, with felt hat to match, brown suede gloves and bouquet of pink and white carnations tied with wide white ribbon.

The bridesmaid, Miss Lillian Simmons, sister of the bride, wore Monet blue French silk crepe crepe trimmed with grey, with matching felt hat, grey gloves and bouquet of pink tulips and white narcisus, tied with wide pink ribbon.

Mr. Earl Francis acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty supper was served to the immediate relatives and friends of the bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. Smart will live in Peterborough.

Obituary

MRS. ELIZA JOSEPHINE MANNING.

Following a brief illness, the death occurred on Saturday of Eliza Josephine Smith Manning, wife of Rev. Henry M. Manning, at her home, 389 Manor Road, East. Mrs. Manning, who was in her eighty-third year, was well-known both in Ontario and Western Canada, having accompanied her husband, a former Methodist minister and pioneer missionary, who ministered to many charges. She was born in Collingwood, Ont. Shortly after their marriage fifty-eight years ago, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Manning went out to Western Canada as missionaries, laboring among the Indians and were stationed at Winnipeg, Edmonton and Fort MacLeod. Returning to Eastern Canada, Mrs. Manning gave valuable assistance to her husband as he served numerous pastorates, among these being charges at Peterborough, Brampton, Clinton, Toronto, Uxbridge. Upon Rev. Mr. Manning's retirement in 1913 they took up residence in Peterboro and later in Oshawa. They came to Toronto to reside in 1925. Mrs. Manning was a member of Manor Road United Church. She had endeared herself to many congregations and was a devoted and active worker in the various missionary and women's organizations. Surviving her are her husband, three daughters, Mrs. A. H. Milner, Brampton; Mrs. J. E. Middleton, Peterborough; Mrs. J. H. Hare, Toronto, and two sons, Dr. Kempt Manning of Toronto and H. T. Manning of Stratford. The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Manor Road United Church. Interment was at Newmarket Cemetery.

Charles C. Dawson of R.R. 1 Balleboro recently shipped six hogs to Canada Packers Limited. Pure bred Yorkshires, 5 months and 2 weeks old, the hogs had an aggregate weight of 1,340 lbs., or an average of 224 lbs. each.

Largest Contribution To Relief Fund Will Be Made By The Two Governments

The largest contribution to Peterborough's Relief Fund will be made by the Government. It is a donation from the provincial federal treasuries, and its size depends upon the interest and generosity of local citizens in their response to the present appeal.

If we attain the objective of $20,000, the Government grant will be $40,000, and the total of $60,0000 will be available for helping to relieve the actual needs of so many families whose wage incomes have been cut off through no fault of their own.

The sheer of helplessness of hundreds of husbands and fathers does make a deep appeal to those who are more favorably situated, but this sentiment should be more than a feeling of sympathy and goodwill. Its genuine virtue is being tested now by the appeal which the community through its committee is directing to the citizens who sympathy is translated into a gift of money in whatever amounts they can afford.

Up to yesterday just 175 contributions had been received by City Treasurer Adams, and the fact that there are comparatively few one and two dollar subscriptions surely is not to be regarded as an evidence that those who can only afford to give that much decline to do so because it seems too small. The measure of the contribution is the spirit that actuates it and the means from which it is drawn.

The larger sums are the framework of the Fund; the smaller ones will help to amplify it as the expression of the community's willing and sympathetic heart to give whatever can be afforded.

The number of contributions will be a gauge or criterion which, it is sincerely hoped, will soon become more representative of Peterborough's spirit of generosity than the list already shows.

Turning to the first page in the City Treasurer's office, the following contributions are recorded in the order in which they were received, and others will be reported daily:—

Campbell Will Attempt To Break Own Land Speed Record About February 10

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (C.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, still somewhat weak and shaky from an attack of influenza, arrived to-day on the liner Aquitania, en route to Daytona Beach, Fla., where he will attempt to raise his own world land speed record in his rebuilt racing car, Bluebird II.

"I'm all set to go as soon as beach conditions warrant," Sir Malcolm said, and went on to explain that would be about Feb. 10, the time of the full moon, when tide conditions are best on the Florida Beach.

Sir Malcolm was suffering from a high fever when he boarded the liner at Southampton last Tuesday, but he was able to get out of bed Saturday, and has been up and around since.

"I'm a little weak and flat," he said ruefully, and everything is too much trouble, but I expect all that to pass in a day or so."

Sir Malcolm will leave to-night at 10 o'clock for Daytona Beach. His car, which arrived last week, already has been shipped there to be set up and tested.

Coal Combine Probe Is Opened In Toronto

The inquiry was held wholly in camera with only those giving evidence or their counsel in attendance. "It is always easier to obtain frank and honest statements when the proceedings are held in private," Mr. McGregor explained.

Representatives of almost every section of the retail and wholesale coal trade in Toronto are expected to attend the hearing, which will continue for the rest of the week.

Canadian Coal Men Fight Freight Jump

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (C.P.)—Sixteen Canadian bituminous coal consumers and dealers to-day joined the opposition to the proposal of United States railroads for a 30 cents-a-ton increase in Lake cargo rates on coal destined for points east of the Straits of Mackinac and West of Brockville, Ont.

The carriers contended, in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve the increase, that the present rates on Lake cargo coal were meant primarily for coal shipped to the Western part of the Lakes. Shipments to Lake Erie and Western Lake Ontario points have increased by leaps and bounds, they said, thus depriving the railroads of revenue from short hauls.

Kinsmen President Is Going To Toronto

Mr. Percy and his wife expect to leave the city some time this week. His successor here will be S. J. Puttenham who is being transferred from one of the Toronto branches.

Entering the service of the bank in 1919 in his home town, St. Thomas, Mr. Percy has since worked up the ladder to promotion at Kitchener, Chatham, Hamilton, West Lorne and Sarnia. He came to George Street Branch from Sarnia in October 1929.

One of the older members of the local Kinsmen Club, Mr. Percy was this year elected president. He had also held office as treasurer of the club, and was representative of the club on the Relief Committee.

BIG BUSINESS PROMISES AID; FARMERS WAIT

Insurance Company Moves Private Moratorium on Farm Foreclosures.

SEVEN STATES INVOLVED.

(By Roy P. Porter, A.P. Staff Writer.)

DES MOINES, Jan. 31 (A.P.) — The American dirt farmer sat on his mortgaged throne to-day as big business and legislative bodies in seven States and the District of Columbia rushed to his rescue.

Big business, represented by five insurance companies among those holding $400,000,000 worth of mortgages in Iowa alone, bowed before the farmer with definit pledges in Iowa alone, bowed before the farmer with definite pledges and indications of moratoria in his plight.

Beside the insurers stood legislators ready to draft relief bills.

A series of events moved swiftly yesterday to turn the spotlight on the overalled king. What the farmers may expect in the way of assistance lies in these developments:

1.—The New York Life Insurance Company led the parade of insurers in proclaiming a private moratorium on farm foreclosures.

2.—The Aetna, Connecticut Mutual and Connecticut General Life Insurance Companies telegraphed Governor Clyde Herring of Iowa that they will comply with his proclaimed request to hold up farm foreclosures.

3.—The Iowa Senate Committee on emergency legislation approved a proposal to form a State-wide organization to assist both mortgagor and mortgagee.

4.—A South Dakota newspaperman—W. R. Ronald of Mitchell—attempted to override the Institute of American Meat Packers in a hearing on the Domestic Allotment Bill at Washington in defending the price fixing measure. He differed with the views held by the meat packers that the bill would be harmful.

5.—In Michigan, Colorado, Minnesota and Nebraska farm holiday groups joined to protest tax sales and to hear sheriffs and judges accede to their demands and help plead their troubles with mortgage holders.

FORECLOSURES ARE SUSPENDED

Prudential Insurance Action Applies to All Owner-Occupied Farms.

37,000 INVOLVED.

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 31 (A.P.) — The Prudential Insurance Company announced to-day the suspension of all foreclosures on owner-occupied farms in Canada and the United States. The suspension will be effective indefinitely.

The suspension by the Prudential involves 37,000 farms and an investment of $200,000,000 or less than one-tenth of the company's resources.

In the case of farms occupied by tenants, the Prudential will proceed as usual, the company said, adding that there were exceptions where the company would not foreclose.

Another insurance company with offices here, the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company announced it would comply with the request of Governor Clyde Herring of Iowa and suspend all foreclosure proceedings in that State.

The action of the Mutual Benefit involves $32,670,000, of which $5,000,000 is in foreclosure litigation.

Livingstone Stewart Is Guest Speaker

Livingstone Stewart, president of the Young People's Society of Stewart Hall, was guest speaker last night at the regular meeting of the Young People of Mark street United Church. Mr Stewart gave a very interesting and helpful talk on "Education for World Peace."

The vice president of the society, Miss Edith Elmhirst, was in the chair for last night's meeting.

Arrangements were made to hold a skating party (weather permitting) on the last Monday in February, and it was decided to donate $25 to the church building fund.

Cleveland Robb, chairman of the Lookout committee, explained the workings of his group and asked the members to be on the watch for new additions to the membership roll.

Miss Helen Heffernan, a member of the Young People's group at St. Andrew's Church, took the Worship service and read the Scripture lesson.

A pleasing vocal duett was given by Miss Frances Wand and Miss Bertha Binks, entitled "Beulah Land."

A series of enjoyable games and the service of refreshments brought a profitable evening to a close.

Signs of Spring In Chandos Twp.

APSLEY, Jan. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—Prolific signs of Spring are reported from Chandos Township. Leonard Johnston says he saw three flocks of wild geese last week, three blackbirds were seen together by a young lady, and Ned Tanner reports having seen a woodchuck sunning himself. While the ice on Loon Lake is about 13 inches thick, it is giving away from the shore, and as a consequence many who cross the lake have had a wetting, falling into the water and having to crawl ashore. Robert Tanner was one of the victims on Saturday.

INQUIRIES MADE IN FOUR TOWNS

TROUBLES AT ROCKLAND.

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (C.P.)—Four Ontario towns figured to-day in unemployment relief inquiries or in adjustments of the operation of their systems. In addition, the City of Sudbury relief will be operated by a government committee that has charge of the Sudbury district.

A general pronouncement on the relief question came from Premier G. S. Henry of Ontario at Sarnia last night when he intimated certain centres may be seeking to obtain from the Government more than is due them.

The spotlight of relief inquiries remains focussed on Sturgeon Falls in Northern Ontario, where a Royal Commission is entering its fourth week probing alleged irregularities in the system. Auditors found the Government had been charged greatly in excess of town expenditures.

An inspector of the municipal board will visit Alexandria in Glengarry County, where the practice is alleged of accepting a 10 per cent. discount from merchants on purchases of relief supplies. The town maintains though full Government payment is made for supplies, the 10 per cent discount arrangements was openly arrived at as a co-operative scheme to further relief and maintain the town financial position.

Inspector A. H. Thorburn, whose district comprises largely Prescott and Russell Counties, has completed investigations at Hawkesbury and Rockland. A misinterpretation governing direct and indirect relief at Hawkesbury was straightened out, he said.

In Rockland, the inspector said the relief committee had run into difficulties because of the refusal of banks to supply information concerning relief applicants' accounts. He said everything was "in good order" at Rockland.

JUDGE T. H. PUGH DIES IN DAKOTA

Deceased Was Born in the Township of South Monaghan.

12 YEARS ON BENCH.

From Dickinson, North Dakota word has been received of the death of Judge Thomas H. Pugh, a native of South Monaghan Township.

Of Irish - Canadian extraction Judge Pugh was the son of the late John and Sarah Pugh. He was born at Bensfort, S. Monaghan on July 6, 1868, and was educated at Port Hope. He went to North Dakota in 1897, and before becoming a jurist, he served in public office as an alderman in 1912 and 1913.

Survivors include his wife, a son Douglas and a daughter Mrs. Gail Austin all of Dickinson, also three brothers Alfred, Abner, and Robert Pugh all of Manitoba, and three sisters Miss Mildred Pugh of Valcarres, Saskatchewan and Mrs. Ben Johnson of 239 Lake street, Peterborough and Mrs. William Breckenridge of R. R. II Peterborough, and six grandchildren.

In its account of the funeral services for the late Judge Pugh, one of the Dickinson newspaper states in part:

"Membersof the Masonic, Elk and Oddfellow lodges and the Eastern Star, together with a large group of his close friends and relatives attended the rites, despite the heavy snow that brought motor travel in and out of the city practically to a standstill. Scores of other, however, including many fellow members of the bar and judges of the state supreme court, unable to get to Dickinson for the services sent their sympathy to the bereaved family.

"Simple services marked the final tribute to the veteran jurist. Rev. Edgar Winn, officiating delivered a glowing eulogy to the deceased. Judge Pugh's character, he said, was appropriately summed up in three words "Friendship, Fidelity and Faith"

12 Years on Bench

"Judge Pugh had served twelve years on the bench of the Sixth Judicial District. He was 64 years old. He had fought a valiant but losing battle against cancer for two years. Steadfastly refusing to accept the fact of his failing health, he continued to perform his duties of office, even after his strength was so exhausted that his waking hours were shortened to brief intervals during the day".

"At the November 8 election, he was renamed to a four-year term by a record majority, testimony of his widespread popularity through the district he served so well and faithfully".

"Among members of the bar Judge Pugh was known as one of the most outstanding legal minds in the State. He was admirably fitted both in knowledge and a sense of fair play to hold his judicial position."

Formerly southern Europe supplied the world with gladiolus, but the United States now supplies the great bulk of this crop.

Petes Blank Bowmanville 2-0; Juniors Shutout Cobourg 7-0

GILLESPIE PLAYS BRILLIANT GAME IN THE NET AS LOCALS SHUTOUT RUBBERTOWN OUTFIT

Petes Deserve Victory at Bowmanville Although Having Little Edge on General Play — Carry 2 Goal Lead in Second Game of Group Series.

ARCHIE WEIR INJURED IN FIRST OF GAME; FORWARD PLAYERS SET TERRIFIC PACE

Journeying down to Bowmanville for the first game of their O.H.A. group championship series last night, the Petes' intermediates shut out the homesters, 2 to 0, in a sparkling sixty minutes of hockey on fast ice. A fair-sized crowd of Bowmanville rooters kept the place in an uproar till the fast-travelling Blue and White squad scored its second goal, in the third period. Their other one came in the first.

Play was fast, close and thrilling from start to finish, with the Petes deserving the win but having little edge on the general play. The two-goal margin gives them an advantage in the home and home series, the return contest being here Friday. Last night's game was marred by an accident to Archie Weir, stellar local defenceman. He had his nose broken early in the first period when checking a man, the latter's stick hitting him hard as he fell, though quite accidental..

Weir was helped from the rink and taken in charge by a doctor, his wound necessitating two stitches and a clip to close. The Petes played the rest of the contest handicapped by the loss of this outstanding player. But they proved just as strong as the battling Bowmanville bunch the whole way.

Brilliant in Goal.

Aside from a brilliant performance in the goal by Jim Gillespie, none of the Petes outshone the others. They all worked their heads off and kept up a terrific pace and a fine checking game. The second forward line in particular starred at effective back-checking, while LeBarr and Howe proved hard to penetrate on defence. Jarvis' sweeping check at centre, Creighton and Hatton at all-around fighting hockey, threatening offensive play by Ellis, Dundas and Dallin. These were the reasons why the classy Wright outfit blanked the enemy.

Martyn turned in a great goal-tending job for the homesters, both those that beat him being impossible to save. He stopped all kinds of tough ones, and he had good support from his whole team. The two Pipers and Jamieson were most effective, while Hooper was tricky as ever at times. Four penalties apiece marked it as a clean game, though Referee Armstrong certainly didn't give the visiting team any breaks.

Open At Fast Clip.

The teams opened up at a fast pace on good ice, with the locals threatening right off the bat. The period was still young when Hooper tore down and tried to split the Petes' defence. Howe and Weir closed in on him, the former getting in a square bodycheck and toppling Hooper over suddenly against Weir. As Hooper fell his stick flew up and struck Archie across the nose. Weir was helped off the ice, his nose broken by the blow.

Both goalies had plenty to do as play rushed from end to end at a speedy and even clip, with the fans rattling the rafters with their roars. Cameron drew a penalty for tripping Creighton, as "Red" sifted in with what looked like a sure goal. LeBarr almost got through, and then Chartren was chased for tripping. The Petes had a decided edge then but could not fool Martyn. Ellis and Dundas worked in nicely but the shot was smothered. With three minutes to go, the local second line got in and scored on a fine piece of close-in combination. Jarvis shoved the puck across before the goal, Hatton banged one that was blocked and Creighton slapped in the rebound.

Several Close Calls.

Howe went off for holding to start the second, and the homesters nearly scored half a dozen times but Gillespie was right on. Good backchecking and defence-work kept Bowmanville at bay till Howe returned, but then LeBarr got it for tripping. Play was furious but still the rugged Liftlockers stood them off. Howe and I. Piper were benched for roughing it, though it was a raw one on Eric who hadn't made a move. The locals then began peppering Martyn but couldn't find a hole, and play continued hard and even, but scoreless, till the bell.

Ellis missed an open net on a fine rush early in the third and the Petes continued to buzz around for awhile. Howe's hard rush and shot was blocked, and I Piper made Gillespie come out fast to save. Then Dundas hurled himself through the defence back of Ellis to take the latter's rebound and blaze it in for the second local marker. Bowmanville turned on the works and only fine backchecking by the second line and brilliant net-guarding kept them off the score-sheet. LeBarr got it for charging, and Ellis gave a fine display of stick-handling to kill time, the bell finally being rung for ragging the puck.

Defensive Hockey.

Hooper got the finger next for charging and both Dallin and Dundas threatened to sink another. Hatton, Creighton and Jarvis all worked deep into enemy territory several times, but Bowmanville came right back with hard rushes that kept the local defence and Gillespie working overtime to handle. The homesters had four up and fighting hard at the last, with the Petes satisfied to play a strictly defensive, and canny brand of hockey till the final gong.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Gillespie; defence, Weir and LeBarr; centre, Ellis; wings, Dallin and Dundas; alternates, Howe, Jarvis, Creighton and Hatton.

Bowmanville: Goal, Martyn; defence, Densem and Cameron; centre, G. Piper; wings, I. Piper and Jamieson; alternates, Chartren, Hooper, Prindle and Candler.

Summary:

First Period

Petes—Creighton (Hatton, Jarvis) 17.00

Penalties—Cameron and Chartren.

Second Period

No score.

Penalties—Howe, 2, LeBarr, I. Piper.

Third Period

Petes—Dundas (Ellis) 4.00

Penalties—LeBarr, Hooper.

WINGS TANGLE WITH RANGERS

Win for Amerks To-night Will Cut Leafs' Lead to Six Points.

SENATORS AT CANADIENS.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—(CP)—Intra-sectional warfare features tonight's four-game National Hockey League card, headlined by Gotham's battle of the Titans where Detroit Red Wings, rudely halted in the season's longest winning streak, tangle with New York Rangers. Start of a ne wvictory trail and a tie for leadership in the group standing beckon Red Wings to supreme effort.

Tied for second-place with Detroit, Boston Bruins are at home to Tommy Gorman's last-place Chicago Black Hawks who have yet to win a game from Art Ross' heavyweights this season. Boston can join Detroit and Rangers in a triple-tie for leadership of the group—if the Red Wings win, and they can defeat Chicago.

Canadian section clashes bring together the group-leading Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans at the home of the Stanley Cup holders. Toronto has yet to score a win over the Star-Spangled crew this season. In three attempts the best they could do was tie on the last occasion Joe Simpson's men were in Toronto and lose twice in New York.

Stung by a 9-1 trouncing from Rangers, Ottawa Senators travel to Montreal to meet the last-place Canadiens. Newsy Lalonde's Habitants can tie with Ottawa for fourth place by winning.

With Montreal Maroons idle, the game at Toronto may effect the standings. A win for Americans will out the Leafs lead to six points and place the New Yorkers in undisputed possession of second place now held jointly with Maroons.

Belleville Loses to Maroons 4-2

SMELTERS WIN INITIAL GAME

FINAL COUNT 4-1.

MARMORA, Jan. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—The first hockey game which has been possible this season was played on the Marmora rink at short notice on Saturday evening between the Marmora and Deloro Seniors. The ice was in very good shape and a goodly sized crowd viewed the game.

Within five minutes of the start Deloro scored through A. Phillips, and H. Dorie, Marmora, tried hard to reduce the lead but Murray was in his best form in the visitors' goals. In the second half play was livelier and whereas Marmora had hard luck on more than one occasion, the visitors again successfully tested G. Hewitt through Brown and Stewart. Play in the third period was very vigorous and generally of the individual type. The veteran Neal finally scored for the homesters, who conceded Deloro their first win in the league by 4-1.

W. Kerr, Jr., refereed to the satisfaction of both teams. Teams:

Deloro.—Goal, R. D. Murray; defence, A. S. Brown, H. Dorie; centre, A. Phillips; wings, John O'Neill, G. Stewart; subs., G. O'Neill, W. Simmons, E. Phillips, C. Clemens.

Goal umpire.—F. Clemens.

Marmora.—Goal, G. Hewett; defence, F. Burns, C. McCoy; centre, G. McWilliams; wings, F. Burns, H. Hewitt; subs, R. Campion, T. Shannon, R. Neal, H. Bradley.

Goal umpire, P. Gray.

TEMPEST IN TEAPOT.

LONDON, Ont. — Word was received in London to-day from Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the Canadian Radio Commission, indicating the question of preference for civilian bands over permanent force organizations for broadcasting would be settled satisfactorily.

"The matter has been much exaggerated," Mr. Charlesworth said. "Relations between the Commission and the musicians of London are most cordial.

REDMEN'S RALLY IN 3RD CANTO ACCOUNTS FOR WIN

STIFF CHECKING.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 30.—(Special to The Examiner).—Campbellford intermediates upset the old dope sheet last night when they handed the Belleville Doherty Athletic Club their first defeat of the season, 4-2, coming from behind like a good team should, to knott the count at two all and bagging a couple in the final frame and left a crowd stunned from the suddenness of the attack and the relentlessness of their playing. It was not a pink tea affair and more than one free for all was staged during the pastime, Sherry and Buster Whitton tangling, while Harry Morgan and Fred Igram had a couple of brushes and the blows that were exchanged were no love taps either. It was the best played and with the most sustained speed of any game played here this season and the winners had full credit for their fine play. Belleville was handicapped in that Nicoll, their star center man of the second line, suffered a painful hip injury in the first period and did not come back until the final frame, was near completed.

Oustanding Stars

The Ingram brothers stood out like a beacon on a rock bound coast. Harry bumping all and sundry on the defense, as well as making many excellent rushes, while Fred Ingram carried the play along the boards and was the most constant threat in driving low hard shots at Tice. "Buck" Hulin, a goalie who was always good, was pressed into service and he made good in a big way, but he was helped in his wonderful work by the sniping of the Belleville crew, they not trying to pick the corners, but rather taking pot luck at the pads and that is what a goalie wears them for—to stop the rubber thrown at him. "Buster" Whitton went well and was a constant threat, but Ken Davis was lashed to the mast all evening.

For the losers, "Red" Macdonald, "Pete" Morgan and Gord McBrien were easily the best. The team as a whole, combined better than did Campbellford, but their work was nullified by the constant backchecking of the Northerners. Campbellford were content to let Belleville carry the play to them, relying on their quick breaks and parried thrusts on goal, to win the verdict and their system bore fruit. The speed at which Belleville travelled was sure to have its effect before game time and once the speed merchants were whittled down to the winners' size, it was simply the matter of taking them and this they did quite conclusively. Pete Morgan scored the first goal in the first five minutes of play. Sherry carried down through center and after passing the blue line laid over a perfect pass to Pete. He siddled around McArthur, and not finding an opening went around the net to hook the rubber into twine. Early in the second frame, Alex Weir countered on a pass from Red Macdonald catching Hulin flatfooted on the play but the two goal lead was shortlived as Buster Whitton counted from a scramble in front of the Belleville net. The softest goal of the night was scored by Harry Ingram, Tice falling for the drive, the puck passing under his body. Opening the third frame Campbellford turned on the juice and McKay scored on a nice combination play from Fred Ingram and Harry Ingram put the game beyond doubt, when he travelled the length of the ice to beat Tice from close range. The locals tried hard and missed many opportunities by poor marksmanship. Campbellford played a strictly defensive game and held their lead until the end.

Line up:

CONNY SMYTHE WANTS KILREA OF SENATORS

Leaf Manager Willing to Trade Blair, Gracie and Doraty for Left Winger.

ALSO LEND ROBERTSON.

No cash is involved in a deal Smythe proposed to Frank Ahearn, president of Ottawa Senators, which would bring Kilrea to Toronto. In return for the blonde flyer Leafs would give an entire forward line and loan Senators a defenceman for the balance of the season.

Smythe told Ahearn he would send Andy Blair, Bob Gracie and Ken Dorathy to Ottawa for one of the few high-grade forwards Senators have on the roster. In addition he would send Freddy Robertson, Syracuse defenceman, who is the property of the Toronto club, to Ottawa on loan for the rest of the campaign.

Not Confident.

The Leaf boss said last night he had written his offer to Ahearn, who admittedly is in search of material to bolster Senators. One of the National League's most disappointing performers after getting away to a fast start, Senators have tobogganed with hardly a halt since late in December.

But even Smythe was none too confident his offer would be accepted. The Ottawa management has indicated a willingness to use the young Kilrea, Wally, in a deal or trade Alex. Smith, defenceman, or Alex. Connell, veteran goalie. He has announced Hec Kilrea is not on the market.

The Toronto offer, involving three Leaf players who between them have scored almost as many points as Ottawa's crack Cooney ,Weiland-Frank Finnigan-Kilrea line, may move Ahearn to change his mind. Kilrea has scored 10 goals and made five assists so far this season, and the trio has accounted for 48 scoring points.

Total 35 Points.

The "pepper line" Smythe offers for Kilrea has put up 35 points, Doraty accounting for 13 and Blair and Gracie 11 each.

Two years ago the Toronto manager teamed up with Senators to complete one of hockey's biggest deals. Smythe got King Clancy, but he gave two forwards, Eric Pettinger and Danny Cox and cash reported to amount to $30,000 in return for the sensational defenceman.

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS SWAMP LAKESHORE AGGREGATION UNDER 7-0 SETBACK ON COBOURG ICE

Winners Garner Three Goals in First and Two in Second and Third in a Game in Which They Were Complete Masters All the Way.

FORWARDS DISPLAY ALL-AROUND TEAMWORK AS LOCAL SET DAZZLING PACE TO COP WIN

Their speedy attacks working with perfect cohesion and machine-like precision, while their defensive tactics effectually smothered the onslaughts of their opponents, the Peterborough juniors furnished Cobourg with another lesson in the 1933 brand of hockey, whitewashing them in their own ice palace on the lakeshore last night by 7 goals to 0.

In all their movements the young Petes showed the marked benefits derived from Coach Frank Buckland's tuition. Cobourg could not withstand their well-drilled attacks, while the frenzied offensive that the home squad unleashed in the last period broke helplessly on their nicely marshalled defences.

Not only did the winners show better all-around teamwork, but they also outspeeded and outlasted the husky Cobourg crew. Except in some stages of that hectic final stanza when the losers threw every man up forward in their desperate attempts to place a marker on the score column, the Petes were in full control of the affair.

Score Three in First.

Stepping out in the first period, they ran in three goals. In the second they added two more, and in the final gallop they garnered two more despite the fact that they were mainly on the defensive.

The Petes' smartly executed attacks put them in the driver's seat at the outset and play ranged up at the Cobourg end. They grabbed their initial counter when Calladine carried the rubber up to the goalmouth. His shot was deflected, but MacGregor dug the disc out of the corner and passed smartly to Jay, who was camped out in front and whose shot found the corner of the twine.

Calladine led several other sorties that ended in pileups near the nets, as Goalie Mitchell barged out to meet him. However, the Petes' centre fooled Mitchell when he snared his own rebound, circled the back of the nets and flicked one in from the side.

The Petes were hanging nicely to their checks and the Cobourg thrusts mostly ended up in solos in the corner or their hurried shots from well out were wide of the mark. Burley set sail with a rush, was bodied at the defence, but Cadd, coming up behind, retrieved the disc and swept in on top of Mitchell for the third goal.

Calladine Scores Again.

Early in the second canter, a Cobourg rush ended in the corner. Calladine speeded up centre, leaving the opposing forwards flat-footed and split the defence with a knee-high shot that found the twine.

Cobourg had been carrying their sticks rather high and were charging in their determined drives to keep the busy Petes out. Comrie was waved to the penalty box three times in quick succession for charging. Calladine and Cadd teamed up for their next goal, Calladine slipping the elongated defence man the disc as they met the Cobourg defence pair. Cadd's shot beat Mitchell from close in.

All except the Cobourg goalie swept down upon the Petes in a solid wall in the last 15 minutes of the game as the home brigade strove grimly to register. Although they hemmed the Petes in, their scoring efforts were barren. Sanderson, between the winner's posts, handled all the rubber that was tossed at him in large doses at this stage. Cadd broke free and fed a pass to Calladine who raced in on Mitchell to score easily.

A few minutes later Jay and MacGregor did the same thing, the former doing the gunning to nick the seventh and last counter.

Stellar Performances.

Picking stars on the winners' lineup is difficult, since all ten players turned in stellar performances. Perhaps Calladine as the pivot man to the first line's attack was outstanding, his speed, trickiness and heady playing making him quite noticeable. Although they didn't gain the score sheet, the second line was most effective, all three of its members surprising the Cobourg fans with their burning speed and dash. Cadd instituted many rushes and was steady on the defence, while both Weir and Fenton also loomed largely in the play. No player on the team has shown just as much improvement as Sanderson, who is turning out to be a clever, staunch net-minder who is gaining steadying assurance as he masters all the tricks in his business.

Henderson was the best on the ice for Cobourg. He was not only fast, but every rush he made was dangerous, as he is a nice stickhandler. Comrie and Goody teamed nicely on the defence, but the former was sometimes clumsy in his moves, which drew the condemnation of Referee Edgars, who, by the way, had an easy evening as both teams were wholly disposed to tend wholly to the game.

The Teams.

Peterborough—Goal, Sanderson; defence, Cadd and Weir; centre, Calladine; wings, MacGregor and Jay; alternates, Fenton, Hill, Williamson and Burley.

Cobourg—Goal, Mitchell; defence, Comrie and Goody; centre, Henderson; wings, Bevins and Hie; alternates, E. Parker, J. Parker, Lucas and Johnston.

COOK SHARES SCORING LEAD

HORNER TOPS "BAD BOYS."

MONTREAL, Jan. 31. — "Bill" Cook, right-winger, secured four points during scoring splurges of the New York Rangers during the past seven days, while Laurence Northcott, left-winger of Montreal Maroons, only scored two. Consequently, the weekly scoring statistics of the National Hockey League last night showed these two players deadlocked for the leadership, each having 29 points. Northcott's were made up of 19 goals, highest in the whole league, and 10 assists, while Cook has 15 goals and 14 assists.

"Red" Horner of the Toronto Leafs continues to pile up penalties, having spent 98 minutes, more than a game and a half, with the timekeepers. He is 20 minutes ahead of the leader in the United States Division, "Ching" Johnson, Rangers, who has served 78 minutes.

BAMBINO IS ASSURED OF $20,000 YEAR

LIVES LIKE URBAN SQUIRE.

(By Alan Gould, A. P. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP)—No one, including Babe Ruth himself, seems to be doing a great deal of worrying about whether the big fellow takes a $25,000 "cut" in salary this year.

The Babe doesn't need to, although he will be astute enough to effect a compromise, if that is necessary, before he signs his 1933 contract. As we sat down to talk things over, past and present, he dismissed the salary business with this side remark:

"It's a good thing I walloped that home run in the third game of the world series or they might have asked me to take a $50,000 cut. It sure got that one when I needed it."

Baseball's fair-haired "boy", now nearing 40 and about to start his 20th year in the major leagues, has generally gained what he needed or what he desired. He is "fixed" financially, for life, no matter whether he quit baseball, this year or next, than he has of taking a parachute jump off the Empire State building.

The Babe has known the year when he squandered close to $100,000. He admits it. Things were so bad that, at one time, on the insistance of Miller Huggins, half of Ruth's $52,500 salary with the Yankees was kept by the club until the end of the season. But Ruth "blew it" as soon as he got the cash anyway.

The elderly home run slugger now lives the life of an urban squire during the off-season. Aside from his family and evenings at home, his main interests are in playing golf, going hunting or fishing, attending the movies once or twice a week. It costs him probably from $15,000 to $20,000 a year for living expenses of the entire Ruth household. The rest goes into the "sock" he says.

Ruth has enough invested now in annuity or income contracts to guarantee him, at any time he retires, upwards of $20,000 a year. He has protected his wife and daughters with similar investments. He never dabbled much in the stock market anyway, though he is somewhat proud of the fact he came off with a profit when he did. He doesn't like to gamble for high stakes. Five dollar "Nassau" at golf suits him.

Between his outdoor hobbies and his gymnasium work, the Babe keeps in good physical condition the year-round. The days are gone when he could and did set the pace in any brewery beer-drinking contest or start off the day with a light breakfast of steak, potatoes, pie and a half dozen cups of coffee. He weighs around 228 these days, looks healthier than ever, says his legs give him no trouble during a day's 36 holes of golf.

That double-header up at the Brock to-night ought to be worth dropping around to see. It's a City League twin-bill with P.C.I. playing St. Peter's at eight, and Rangers meeting Rotary at nine. They play good, fast hockey and get a fair following, but we'd like to see the two school teams draw a real crowd of their noisy rooting classmates, and also Rangers and Rotary fans Rotarians should get behind their hockey representatives, at the same time seeing how plenty of real hockey is being developed in this same circuit.

* * * * * *

Regent and Capitol theatrical puck teams are supposed to sort of tie into each other later on this p.m. on the same ice. Quite a few of these disorganized—anyway, they're not organized hockey—tussles are being run off in the wee sma' hours lately. It was Rink Rats against Examiner All-Stars last e'en; this picture-house thing tonight; McLeod's Drug Store Cowpunchers vs. Cowan's News-butchers late to-morrow night; and a return engagement starring Hollywood Inn and Sugar Bowl at ten Thursday. Oysters, oysters, raw, raw, raw!

Looks like a sell-out on that benefit game for George Merrett at the Brock to-morrow night. Tickets going fast all over town, rush and reserve both, and everybody and his gal friend saying, "Sure, we'll be there with bells on." A good cause, a good game and a good night for such an affair—you can't beat that combination. The teams will be very well-matched, don't worry about that. A mighty strong E.P.L. all-star aggregation will give the powerful Petes, who are in their O.H.A. group play-offs now, a battle that will be remembered for a long time. A good City League game, and a weird serio-comic affair, one before the benefit contest and one after, supplement it.

* * * * * *

Not the least of the attractions, we'll bet, is the appearance of Irvin Bailey and King Clancy of the Toronto Leafs as referees. Both have their followings here and both are well-known to the Peterborough hockey public, especially Bailey whom we look upon as a local boy because of his playing here. Clancy has starred for years in the N.H.L. and these were the two players originally asked to come down. Both are real sports and accepted pronto, with the Conny Smythe's permission.

* * * * * *

A couple of O.H.A. shutouts away from home for local teams last night is not so dusty. We sort of figured our juniors would pull a repeat against Cobourg, and they just romped through to grab a 7-0 count without bringing out the perspiration. The young Petes looked good and should wind up their schedule with a win in Port Hope Friday, keeping their win record intact. They're safe now for the playoffs with the winner of the Fenelon Falls-Lindsay argument this week. Good stuff, boys.

* * * * * *

The intermediates' first play-off game in Bowmanville last night was altogether a different proposition. They not only perspired freely, but were actually caught sweating a couple of times. In fact, three times—every period. It was a furiously fast contest from the very beginning and never eased up till the end. Both sides showed they liked fast ice and play was open and clean, with the fans having a chance to yell their heads off all through. Two goals is a fair lead for that return game here Friday, but the Petes will likely need it.

* * * * * *

Archie Weir had tough luck, having his nose broken to start the game. It was accidental, when he and Howe checked Hooper and the latter's stick, as the Bowmanville husky was falling, clipped Weir across the bridge of the nose. The doctor who fixed him up said the stitches should be out by Thursday, so Archie may be back in uniform for Friday's game. We certainly hope so as the Petes will have to be at full strength to grab off the group title, we're thinking. Bowmanville was always tough on Peterborough ice. The Petes certainly did great to blank them down there last night, with a man off early in the contest.

* * * * * *

It was a swelegant night for goalies, both Gillespie and Martyn starring in the nets. Both had a busy night, and Jim turned the opposition back repeatedly when they were right through. His best effort yet, we'd say. Martyn also went unusually well, and no one could have stopped the two that were scored. Incidentally, five of the Petes figured in those two markers, three getting the first and two the second. All the Petes played fine hockey, and they had to. We think they should win their group, now.

* * * * * *

Lakefield copped another E.P.L. game last night, beating Westclox, 3-2, in Lakefield. It must have been a fine old tussle, and shows these Cement town boys are coming along. They walloped Norwood handily last week, and with only one sub most of last night's game, had enough to trounce a strong Clockmaker's crew. Naturally, the Lakefield fandom is getting "hotted" up and bigger crowds piling into the arena to see 'em in action. The two Wanamakers continue to star, while Jewell and Stenner were also good last night. H. White and Epps were the best of the Westclox, according to our report.

* * * * * *

This and that: Campbellford waltzed into Belleville last night and took some of the cockiness out of the Doherty A.C. to the tune of 4-2 . . . . Referee Armstrong of Oshawa called some bad decisions against the Petes in Bowmanville last night, but every ref has a night off . . . . It was 2-all between All Saints and Maroons in the West End Loop last night . . . . And 5-4 for Examiner All-Stars over the Rink Rats at the Brock . . . . Then Murphy's Rangers went down to Norwood and beat a team there, mostly City Leaguers, 2-1 . . . . King Edward School hockey teams plays Lakefield Public School at 4.30 Wednesday at All Saints' rink . . . . Congrats, Peterborough and Lakefield curlers on nice wins yesterday, and for earning the right to represent this group in the Ont. tankard and district cup competitions.

ENGLISH LINE THROWS UPSET IN FIRST GAME

Defeats Hoard's 2-1 in East Seymour Hockey League Opener.

MENIE ALSO WINS 4-0.

BURNBRAE, Jan. 31.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— The surprise team of the East Seymour League, English Line, stepped into Hoard's ice a most determined manner, to win the opener of Saturday's double header by two goals to one. Menie won handily over a weakened Pethericks squad by four goals to nil in the second encounter.

The first game was fast and clean only one penalty being handed out by Referee W. Owens, Don Peake of the Line being the offender. While each player on the ice gave a good account of himself, Shillinglaw and Harry Stevens with Goalie Ted Owens starred for the winners. Jeffs was easily the best for the losers, with Hobbs not far behind. Ken Oddie was closely checked and met with several hard bumps which slowed him up considerably. The Line gang jumped into an early lead when Harry Stevens took Shillinglaw's perfect pass at the goal mouth to beat Ray Oddie on a close-in shot. Early in the second period, Shillinglaw scored on a blue-line shot after a fine rush, but the Line boys carried the play right into Hoard's territory and Ted Peake almost scored on two occasions, going in for rebounds. The third period saw Hoard's pressing with every ounce of energy and Jeffs carried the brunt of attack with Hobbs peppering the net from every angle. With the period more than half gone Jeffs shot from the blue line, went into the corner for the rebound and scored off Owen's pads. From then on, the Line had to use every trick in the bag to keep the fighting easterners away from the goal line. Hoard's were rather short on alternates and this in a measure caused their defeat, but the Line team played a wonderful combination game and were popular winners.

Pethericks Falls 4-0.

Weakened by the absence of Don Watson and Southworth, two of their fastest men, the light Pethericks squad could not pierce the Menie defence and were beaten by a four to nothing count. Menie counted in the first minute of play, added three in the second on nice combination play, and were held scoreless in the third. Harold Dunk refereed the game and handed out three penalties, one to A. Watson for dropping Rannie, one to E. Whitton for the same stunt on Anderson, and one to Little for scoring when Turner had the puck in his hands. Little was offside on this play and the score did not count anyway. Craighead and D. Milne were the usual stone-wall defence, while the Menie starting line combined well for the first two goals. Ken Milne and Linn were the pick of the subs, the former being responsible for the other two Menie counters.

Stars in Goal.

Turner, in goal for the losers, was the star of the game, stopping shots from every angle, as the superior weight of the winners tore them in on the goal. Dorie in his first game of the season showed promise, while G. Kerr, J. Watson and Barnum showed flashes of form on the forward line.

Menie—Goal, Eagleson; defence, Craighead and A. Milne; forwards, E. Whitton, J. Rannie and Nelson. Subs, Linn, W. Whitton, K. Milne, Wallace Little.

Petherick's— Goal, Turner; defence, D. Kerr and Dorie; forwards, G. Kerr, A. Petherick, G. Petherick. Subs, J. Watson, A. Watson, Barnum, Anderson.

League Standing.

	Won.	Lost.
Hoard's	1	1

The games scheduled for next week are: English Line vs. Menie, and Petherick's vs. Hoard's. These games may be played on Wednesday if ice can be secured, in an effort to speed up the schedule. Local announcement will be made of any change.

GORILLA JONES REGAINS TOP OF N.B.A. MIDDLEWEIGHT HEAP

JEBY GIVEN DECISION.

CLEVELAND, January 31. —(A. P.)—One of Willie (Gorilla) Jones' famous punches to-day had placed him once again at the top of the world's middle-weight heap, as seen through the official eyes of the national boxing commission.

A right to the jaw of Sammy Slaughter that traveled little more than three inches last night returned to the Akron negro the title he lost a year ago. The end came in the seventh. Scarcely, however, had the 8,000 fans concluded one of the wildest ovations in Cleveland's ring history in tribute to the husky battler than they witnessed a weird finish of another fight that sent them home arguing.

Jeby Given Decision.

Ben Jeby, recognized in New York State as the middle-weight champion after beating Frankie Battaglia, of Winnipeg, won the unusual battle by decision of the referee but as he climbed out of the ring he left a wildly gesticulating Paul Pirrone urging him to come back and fight some more.

Pirrone had been floored six times in the first five rounds. When the bell clanged for the start of the sixth, he sat unconcerned, obeying the command of his manager, Eddie Mead, to wait for a count of nine. Jeby, floored once himself, stood punching the air above Pirrone' head and begging the Clevelander to "come on" as referee Freddy Block pumped out the count.

When Pirrone's handlers finally gave him the 'go on," Block lifted Jeby's hand in token of a technical knockout. So, while Pirrone stood in the centre of the ring asking more fight and speculators milled about threatening dire punishment to Jeby and his handlers, Jeby donned his bathrobe and called it a night.

The boxing commission upheld the decison. Jeby's title was not at

BAILEY - CLANCY WILL OFFICIATE AT THE MERRETT BENEFIT GAME

MUST PRESENT TICKET.

The largest hockey crowd of the year is expected at the Brock street rink to-morrow (Wednesday) night for the Merrett benefit game between the Petes and the E.P.L. All-Stars. This game starts at 8.30 o'clock and already tickets have been sold in large quantities, both reserved and rush, all over town for the past week. Two outstanding N.H.L. players in the persons of "Ace" Bailey and "King" Clancy, both of the Toronto Maple Leafs, world's champions, will officiate at this game, at which every player, official, newspaperman, etc., must pay to get into the arena.

A strong, flashy All-Star team, made up of the pick of the East Peterborough Hockey League, and managed by Alex Kempt of Norwood, will play the Peterborough intermediates, and this alone will be a real exhibition, as the All-Stars are quite likely to hand the cocky but classy Petes their first defeat of the season. Given fast ice, and the spotlight before a couple of thousand excited fans, and a sizzling, holly-contested battle should result. Many of the intermediates in the E.P.L. feel they are just as strong as the O.H.A. huskies, so the game will have that personal issue which makes for keen competition, without any slowing up till the last bell.

Two Other Games

Two other games are also listed on this card for fans who wish to take advantage of the bill for the same price. P.C.I. and Rotary of the City League, both strong contenders for the loop title this year—P.C.I. being on top now, and Rotary having copped the cup last year—resume their feud and it will be a dandy as many fans found in their first meeting two weeks ago. This game goes on at 7.15, and then following the big contest at 8.30, McLeod's Drug Store Cowboys will ride herd on Cowan's Newsboys. Late-staying fans take in this latter embroglio at their own risk. Those interested in the whole hockey bill to-morrow had better grab off their ducats now as it is quite likely to be a sell-out long before game time. Remember, it's for George Merrett, popular local player, who lost an eye this season in a hockey game.

QUEENSLAND DEFEATED BY NINE WICKETS TO-DAY

The scores were: Queensland, 129 and 192 (C. V. Grimmett six for 40 and seven for 85); South Australia, 249 and 76 for one wicket (Gilbert four for 58).

Edmonton Superiors Start For Dominion

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (C.P.).—After scoring a grand clean-up on Europe's hockey hopefuls, Edmonton Superiors steamed home to-day to land in Canada's Allan Cup mix-up—a scramble from which the defending champions, Toronto Nationals, already have been ousted and from which McGill University's prospective intercollegiate champions may retire voluntarily.

Superiors, expected to arrive at Halifax or Saint John late this week, will hurry out to Alberta in time to get into the thick of the amateur play-down tussle. Meanwhile the National Sea Fleas, king pins of the senior Simon-Pures a year ago, ponder plans which may send them to Europe for a late-winter tour.

Officers Elected Omemee Hockey Club

OMEMEE, Jan. 31.— (Examiner Corespondence.)—A large and enthusiastic meeting of hockey fans was held at the school on Wednesday night. On the motion of W. Brockley, Dr. McPhee was appointed chairman.

Officers were elected as follows:
President—J. Mackey.
Honorary President—W. Mitchell.
Vice-President—Mr. Pickett.
Sec-Treas.—W. Earle.
Manager and Coach—Dr. McPhee.

A committee was appointed to provide transportation for out of town games, also to arrange games.

It was the consensus of opinion that there is a wealth of good material on hand and with proper coaching the team should supply some splendid amusement for hockey enthusiasts the rest of the winter.

Friday evening a team from Lindsay played the local hockey team at Sturgeon street rink. For the first two periods the play was very even, the score being 4-4, but in the last period the homester players started checking and they quickly scored six goals while holding the opposition scoreless, the final score being 10-4.

PLAY-OFF SITE SET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (C.P.). —Taking action immediately after being informed of his appointment, Frederick W. Rubien of New York, new chairman of the National A.A.U. Hockey Committee, announces this year's United States amateur hockey championships will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York City, March 12 to 26.

The championships, which will be the third held under the jurisdiction of the A.A.U., will be played both on Sundays and week days.

Close Contests Won Church Hockey Loop

Four good Church Hockey League games were staged last night, at All Saints' rink, a good following of fans being treated to spots of smart hockey in every contest on a good sheet of ice. St. Paul's juveniles won from St. Andrew's 5 to 4, in the first one; All Saints' juniors took a close 3-2 nod over Mark Street in the second game; the third one went to St. Paul's juniors over George Street; and Murray Street and Trinity juniors wound it up, the latter team having the best of it to cop an 8-1 decision.

Australia May Bar "Bodyline" Bowling

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 31 (C.P. Cable).—The Board of Cricket Control of Australia is taking steps to have "bodyline" bowling such as they allege marred the sportsmanship of the first three Test matches with England, barred from all Australia cricket in the future.

The board does not consider the "leg theory" tactics of Harold Larwood, English trundler, dire enough to warrant the cancellation of the two remaining Test matches with England. This was revealed to-day in the contents of a note sent to the Marylebone Cricket Club in furtherance of the board's objection to the English bowling which they claim is "unsportsmanlike and not cricket."

The earliest Greek inscriptions cannot be traced back earlier than the seventh century B.C.

AT THE GRAND

"GEORGIA MINSTRELS"

"At 11.45," old-time minstrel expression, signifying the start of the daily "grand parade," will be heard Thursday this week, when The Georgia Minstrels come to town.

Each day, the 40 men will gather in front of the theatre "at 11.45," for a parade. The brass band, drum major, singers, dancers and comedians will all fall in line, dressed in long-tail minstreal coats, "stovepipe" hats, and immense, brightly-colored bow ties.

Richards and Pringle were the original founders of the Georgia Minstrels, 77 years ago. Arthur Hockwald, present owner and manager, took over the show 20 years back, and has kept it alive with new performers, scenery, music and routines ever since.

Their present tour, under the direction of Panchon and Marco, finds them in an entirely modernized show, with other outstanding colored acts added to their personnel, lavish new settings, and modern costumes.

Collegiate Leads City Hockey Loop

Two good City Hockey League games are scheduled for the Brock this evening, running from eight o'clock till ten. The first one sees the fast-travelling P.C.I. squad tackling their old school rivals, St. Peter's. They go on at eight bells, and this should be a fine, close contest between these student teams. Rangers and Rotary tangle at nine, and this also promises to be a fast contest. Rangers lost a tough 4-3 decision to P.C.I. Saturday, being two players short, but at full strength again, they will doubtless give the champion Rotary team a stiff fight. These games are drawing more fans every time out, and deservedly as they show a snappy brand of junior hockey. The ice will be fast to-night. Following is the standing to date, with P.C.I. and Rotary being billed to play at 7.15 Wednesday night, preceding the Merrett benefit game:

P. C. I.	3	3	0	6
Rotary	3	2	1	4
Norwood	4	2	2	4
St. Peter's	3	1	2	2

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"IF I HAD A MILLION."

A new technique is visible in this talkie. There are fifteen actors, all of them notable, there is a galaxy of writers and directors. And, instead of the usual story in which continuity binds the threads together, there is a series of unrelated and colorful little episodes. "If I Had a Million" is quite unique in many ways.

Richard Bennett is the main figure. The gallant old theatrical warhorse has the role of John Glidden, a very rich man who is about to die and who hesitates to leave his vast wealth to relatives or the vast crowd of sycophants who swarm like vultures about his death-bed. So he rises up and proceeds to beat the doctors and lawyers and distribute his wealth. He acts the "god in the machine" in his own way.

It is an extraordinary way and strange results ensue. Charles Ruggles, a henpecked Henry, steps into the picture and goes out, smashing china; then there is the blonde girl of the speakeasy, Wynne Gibson; the old, ribald book-keeper, Charles Laughton; George Raft, a crook who outwits himself finally, when he exchanges wealth for a dime bed in a flophouse; Alison Skipworth, that ancient dame who always looks like a lady with a decided past, and her husband, getting even with the road-hogs; Gene Raymond, a murderer about to go to the chair; Gary Cooper, a marine, with his gay companions, Jack Oakie and Roscoe Karns, and May Robson, the king pin of them all, as an inmate of an old ladies' home.

"If I Had a Million" is packed with interest of a new type, and is the sort of fairy-tale thing that might happen in real life, if anyone had ever thought of it before.

Then we have Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle staging a comeback in a comedy, entitled "Hey, Pop!" with plenty of his old silent picture mannerisms in evidence. —Jeanette.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

There was a brave general
His name was Booh,
When the enemy ran,
He ran away, too.
—Shadow Saying.

WHEN THEY heard the soldiers shouting and waving their spears, the five shadow children expected to hear the next minute that the battle had been won. That wasn't the case at all. What happened was that a new general (at least the shadows thought he must be a general) came marching towards them.

You mustn't forget that the shadows were inside the book called Ancient History, and that all that they saw happening had already happened hundreds of years ago. They were in front of the city of Troy, which was surrounded by a igh wall. The Greek soldiers were trying to capture the city but the Trojan soldiers wouldn't let them get inside the walls. So the Greek soldiers were keeping anybody from bringing food inside the walls. They hoped that when the Trojans got hungry enough, they would open the gates and let the Greeks inside. In this way the Greeks would capture the city.

Knarf Has a Scheme

The general finally came very close to the shadows. I don't think he would have noticed the shadows except that Knarf suddenly stepped forward and cried: "I have a scheme for getting over the walls." At this the general looked down at the shadow boy and said: "What is your scheme?"

"Well," answered Knarf, "first get a ladder, then you put it against the wall, and then you climb over the wall. That's all there is to it."

The general shook his head. "I'm afraid that scheme won't do. We haven't any ladders, and moreover if we were to put a ladder against the wall, the Trojan soldiers would tip the ladder over and all our men would fall and get black and blue marks, or something. You'd better think of another scheme."

A Big Wooden Horse

As the general was saying this, another soldier came up to him. "My name is Ulysses," the soldier said. "I think I have a good scheme for getting inside the wall."

"Do we need a ladder?" the general asked.

Ulysses shook his head. "We don't need a ladder at all. We need a big wooden horse."

"A big wooden horse!" the shadows exclaimed. "A hobby horse?" Ulysses didn't seem to know what a hobby horse was. He explained to the general that they would have to build a huge wooden horse. But Knarf cried that they didn't need to build a horse. They could use the children's hobby horse. So all the shadows ran out of the book.

(Tomorrow—The hobby horse.)

BABY'S COLDS

BEST FOR ADULTS, TOO

Many Would Wed Finders of Gold

SUDBURY, Ont., Jan. 30, — (C.P.). — When J. G. and J. L. Kenty, hardy sons of Nova Scotia, lifted the moss from a slab of gold in a vein north of Brett Lake, Swayze Township, they turned the key in the door to a prospector's dream.

Apart from their interest in the Kenty Mines, however, they have won columns of publicity and all kinds of fan mail. Included in the fan mail are numerous proposals of marriage and a flood of applications for jobs. "I guess they must like my looks," observed Jack Kenty with regard to the marriage proposals.

Pupils Of Miss Rome Give Studio Recital

A very pleasing studio recital was held in the Reid Street Hall on Saturday night, when pupils of Miss Marguerite Rome were heard in pianoforte selections, assisted by little Dorothy Cunningham, violin pupil of Roy Rome.

A paper on "Music, the Breath of our Being," was given by Miss Mary Sisson, while Nora Hughes gave a paper on "Hands."

At the close of the program, refreshments were served.

A large number of parents and friends of the pupils were present. The different selections were played with good taste and excellent tone, and almost entirely from memory.

The program included the following numbers: "The Buttercup," by Jean Leach; "Early One Morning," by Dorothy Clarke; "Daffy Down Dilly" and "A Sad Story," by Agnes Pogue; "Blue Bells of Scotland" and "Olive's Waltz," by Greta Huffman; duett, "At Play," by Nora Hughes and Greta Huffman; 'Aerial March,' by Kenneth Elliot; 'Granpa's Farm,' by Gwen Friendship; "The Blue Bird," by Dorothy Pearson; "Children's March" (Percy Grainger), arranged for violin by Roy Rome, played by Dorothy Cunningham; "The Toy Shop," by Norma Stenson; "Little Drum Major," by Isabelle Pogue; "Building of the Ship," by Keith Sproule; "Goblins' Frolic," by Dorothy French; "Chaconne," by Billy Elliot; "Mongolia," by Mary Sisson; "Melody in F" (Rubenstein), by Esme Hitchins; "Nocturne in B Flat," by Lorraine Vass; "Toccatina," by Nora Hughes; violin solo, "The Harp of Tara," by Dorothy Cunningham; "Country Gardens," by Rita Sproule; duett, "Gavotte Rustique," by Mary Sisson and Miss Marguerite Rome.

TOO MUCH STRAIN

PHILADELPHIA. — Fireman Joe Kasper's desire to live cost him his life. While fighting a fire that destroyed a vacant house, Kasper was endangered for a moment by a falling chimney. As his companions shouted a warning, he leaped toward safety—and fell dead at their feet. Exertion had proved too much for his heart.

TWO DOGS SLEEP DURING HOLDUP

Armed Robber Scoops $15 From Till, Hurls Coppers Back and Flees.

NEAR HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, Jan. 31.—Armed with a nickel-plated revolver, an unknown gunman held up the Pines, a restaurant on Queenston Highway east of the city, yesterday afternoon, and escaped with $15 he took from the till. He threw back a handful of coppers into the restaurant before he ran to an automobile in which another man was sitting at the wheel. The car is believed to have fled along the cut-off to the Beach.

The Pines is conducted by Frank Galbraith. He and his wife were in Hamilton when the robbery occurred. Miss Isobel Cambridge, a waitress, was behind the front counter, and Mrs. H. Schokowski was in the kitchen. Miss Cambridge said that a car containing two men stopped in front of the restaurant and one man entered. He asked her if the boss was in, and when she replied in the negative the man asked for a package of cigarettes and proffered 20 cents in payment. Miss Cambridge said she was ringing up the sale on the cash register when the man came behind the counter, pressed the muzzle of a revolver into her side, and emptied the cash drawer. The man held the revolver so tightly against her side that it pained her, she said.

Miss Cambridge described the gunman as being about 26 years of age, wearing a dirty blue coat, a sweater and grey trousers. He also wore a dark grey cap pulled down over his face. Two watchdogs were asleep in the restaurant when the robbery occurred, but it all happened in a few moments and no outcry was raised by the waitress. A Provincial officer had eaten there but a short time before the gunman came. Miss Cambridge notified the Hamilton police, and motorcycle officers scoured the district, but the gunman and his accomplice had escaped.

MISSING VESSEL FOUND.

PHILADELPHIA.—Pilots arriving here to-day informed the Philadelphia Maritime Exchange that the Army dredge Chinook was anchored yesterday afternoon at Brown's Shoals in Delaware Bay, nine miles north of the Delaware Capes.

The dredge left Philadelphia on Friday for Norfolk with 75 to 80 men aboard, and some anxiety was felt at Norfolk as to her whereabouts because of the coast storm last week-end.

PAIR REMANDED IN OSHAWA CASE

INQUEST ADJOURNED.

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 31.—(CP).—Archie Hopkins and Mrs. Bella Davidson were remanded to-day on nominal charges of vagrancy following the discovery yesterday of the body of Thomas Sheridan, former alderman and war veteran, in a field near their homes. No plea was made by the accused. They were remanded to Whitby jail for eight days.

Meanwhile a post mortem held on the body of Sheridan revealed the fact that while he had two wounds on the head and several bruises on the body, the wounds in themselves were not sufficient to cause death.

Sheridan was found to be suffering from an enlarged heart, but medical authorities did not consider this the cause of his death. The theory now is that blows on the head brought about a coma or semi-coma, and that Sheridan died of exposure. His body was found in a field, exposed to bitter winds. He had not been dead for more than three hours when found, autopists said.

It was further said there was indication he had been drinking. The stomach has been sent to the provincial laboratories for examination and report.

In Hopkins' home police found about 500 gallons of cider and a quantity of alleged home-brew.

The inquest into Sheridan's death was started this afternoon and adjourned until a later date, pending receipt of the report from the provincial laboratories.

THOMAS HODGSON PASSES IN LINDSAY

Played Prominent Part in the Industrial Life of the Town.

LINDSAY, Jan. 31. — (Examiner Correspondence).—Death yesterday claimed one of Lindsay's leading citizens in the person of the late Thomas Hodgson, who passed away after a lengthy illness in his sixtieth year. The deceased was prominent in industrial activities all his life. After leaving school he went into the first plant of the Standard Chemical Company at Fenelon Falls. He was with the same company at Orillia for twenty years, later going to Parry Sound where he built a chemical plant. Some years afterwards he located at Donald, Haliburton County, where he erected a plant for the Woods Products Company. His first venture in Lindsay was seventeen years ago, when he built the Hodgson Company chemical plant, selling it five years later to the Lindsay Distillers, Limited. At the time of his death he was associated with the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant, erected here in 1929 by the deceased. He was a Presbyterian in religion, and was a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows and Orange Order. He is survived by six daughters, six brothers and two sisters.

Farmer is Injured.

William Clark, a farmer residing near Woodville, was the victim of a rather serious accident on the highway Saturday. His car skidded on the icy road and overturned. He sustained bad body bruises which required the attention of a physician. His car was also badly damaged.

Nelson and Fred. Woodcock, two brothers, residing near Kinmount, were given a $200.00 fine and a month in jail by Police Magistrate Jordan for being in possession of a still. Constable Woods discovered the still after a week's vigil, the two men operating it when the officer made his appearance.

Run Out of Money.

The Eagle Lake road, which runs from that point to the village of Haliburton, has been furnishing work for a great many of the unemployed in the north. Work on the project has been stopped, however, owing to the lack of funds. The Muskoka Construction Company, which had the contract, states that $30,000 would probably complete the work. If the Dominion and Provincial Governments will both contribute one-third of that amount, the contractors would provide the balance, providing the men work for a dollar a day twenty-six days a month. The men have agreed to do this.

The Fenelon Falls Anglers' Association are seeking signatures to a petition calling for the closing of Goose Lake to fishermen. The association also voted that the opening date for game fish remain as in 1932—first day of July.

It has been announced in railway circles that the C.N.R. had recently laid off some forty-nine trackmen and seven operators on the Belleville division. Local railwaymen fear that there will be a further reduction in the number of employees in this district.

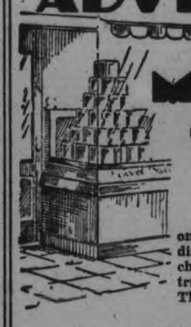
ADVERTISING for the MERCHANT of TO-DAY



Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough district with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

THE SELLING SIDE OF BUYING

We are treating in this article and that of last week two of the most important angles of the merchant's business.

The only side which approaches "Buying" and "Selling" in importance is that of "financing," but even the money question is tied up with the first two.

In last week's talk we discussed the "buying" side of "selling." In this we will carry on with the "selling" side of "buying."

We take for granted that goods have been put in stock with a very definite plan in mind as to WHEN, HOW and to WHOM they are to be sold.

When the farmer plows his field in the Fall he has very definitely in mind the planting, harvesting and sale of the crop 12 months or more ahead. But between plowing time and the sale, he sees the cost and time of harrowing, seeding, rolling, reaping, threshing and storage, which comes before the net return is in the bank.

Just so—between the "buying and the "selling" comes the care of the products, the advertising, whether in your newspaper, on a bulletin board, by mail or by word of mouth, supported by display in the store or in the window. ALL of these count in the cost before the final sale is made.

The careful buyer wisely takes into his calculation the cost of products, what they give him in the way of prestige and manufacturers' advertising.

These two—prestige and manufacturers' support—smooth the way to quicker and more profitable sales, and make more profitable every sales move made by the merchant. An unknown brand rings no bell of approval in the buyer's mind. Word of mouth support, store display, window space, all fall flat because there is no answering favorable reaction in the consumer's mind.

"Selling" calls for knowledge of the goods and people, that you may fit them to the needs and character of the prospect. The flour for different purposes—the other cooking ingredients for those who bake, pickle and preserve—the tinned and bottled foods for those who turn their energies in some other direction.

In the matter of foods, while there is a variation in the household need, the sale is largely for the whole household.

Household equipment is for utility, comfort, amusement and recreation. Here the goods and people must be fitted together. The June brides and grooms buying everything new are tuned only to immediate needs. Those further along buy for replacement to make work easier, to give added comfort, but always discarding with regret an article which has served them well through their building years.

Clothing or articles of dress must fit taste, individuality and pocket book.

Knowledge of the goods and their merit is vital also—ability to fit them to the needs of your customers—if goods do not fill a need, you may MAKE a sale but LOSE a customer.

Selling needs enthusiasm also—but enthusiasm tempered to suit the temperament of the customer. Eggs are not just eggs—but "select" and "guaranteed." Dress is not just a garment, but is the correct size, and suits madam's figure and hair—or has a dash and style that is just the thing for the younger set.

A man's suit gives girth to the thin, or slims the silhouette of the heavy weight—the hat to shorten the long face, or to lengthen the round one.

"Selling" is the test of "buying." The best buyer will not always guess right 100 per cent., but checking up of stock, not once a year, but as frequently as the season advances. Intelligent effort to move slow-moving goods will cut down the over plus. On seasonal goods, make every effort to clean out the balance of stock before the end of the season, that you may start the next season with a fresh stock.

I have treated this subject as though it were a one-man job—but, while the final word on buying may depend on the buyer, and the selling lead be given by the same man, each assistant in the store in touch with the people in front of your counters can help you to form a better judgment as to the goods that will sell. Helping on this buying side will develop more responsibility toward the "selling" of goods purchased.

RUSSIAN-CANADIAN TRADE PACT SEEN AS SOLUTION TO SITUATION

Trade, Cheese, Butter, Hides, Cattle, For Oil, Coal, Flax and Gold.

A. RAPPAPORT'S TALK.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 31 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—"Russian-Canadian Barter" was the theme of a very interesting and instructive address delivered to the Campbellford Rotary Club yesterday by Abraham Rappaport, local theatre manager, and one-time resident of Russia, who not only spoke of the question that is foremost in the minds of politicians to-day, but of his impression of that country which people to-day are inclined to frown upon.

The speaker made a plea for Russian interchange of trade with Canada, outlining a system of barter which he thought would be all to the advantage of this country.

He was, he stated, born in Russia, and at the age of ten became a Socialist, although he did not know what it meant. At the age of sixteen he had advanced to the stage of anarchist, the idea being that as a Socilist he believed in the distribution of wealth, but he could not wait for this, wishing to dispose of the wealthy to get their goods. Eventually, however, he saw the wrong in all this teaching, realizing that as soon as he obtained the wealth of others he became a capitalist the same as they were, whether he waited for the wealth or took it by force.

"And then I became an idealist," Mr. Rappaport declared, saying that "I will do the things that will be noble in life and help all men." As a boy he often saw the late Czar Alexandra, father of the murdered Nicholar, a tall bearded man, with a magnetic personality. He ruled the Russians with an iron hand, and many people wished to see him dead, yet he knew his people and country as no other man did, and surrounded himself with strong men.

Nicholas was a weak man, and did not know his country or the people like his father, but he was surrounded and moulded by his father's strong men. Then came the Russian revolution, when the cry of freedom was prevalent, and, declared the speaker, this was good for the educated classes, but to the uneducated it meant stealing, murder, and boodshed.

Then came Trotzky, who saw the evil of all this, and demanded discipline and formed the idea of Communism. After years of experiment this idea was not proving a success, Mr. Rappaport said. The leaders thought they would kill capitalism with capitalism, and created a false standard of money. But it was a complete failure.

Then started the division of the larger farms and a levy on the produce grown by the government, but the people did not respond, and only grew what was absolutely necessary for them. Central stores for food distribution then came into force, operated by the governments.

With this system if a person worked they received a food card and by waiting hours in a que could obtain their rations, but even this failed until these depots were turned over to private individuals, retaining control however.

"In Russia today there is no honey, no money, no food, the people are going bare-footed and conditions are far worse than generally supposed", Mr. Rappaport pointed out.

"What would happen to Canada if she traded with Russia today," the speaker asked, stressing the fact that Canadians had to look to the future of the country. Russia needed cattle, suppose 100,000 breeding cattle were traded to Russia for oil or some such product, in five years that country would have 800,000 at least of this stock and could then flood the markets at a lower figure than we could and ruin Canadian trade. This was not good for us he declared but there was a way.

Cattle and hides would benefit only a few in Canada he said. He believed in bringing prosperity to Canada and this could be done by tieing up Russia in trade over a period of years. Sell to her hides, raw and otherwise, cattle in proportion, cheese and butter, two of the staple products of Canada, and in return take oil in proportion of 15 per cent. coal 15 per cent, flax, to create the linen industry in Canada, at 20 per cent, and the remaining fifty per cent in gold.

"I believe", Mr. Rappaport stated, "if a barter like this was presented to the Canadian government it would not be refused." The small quantity of oil and coal from Russia would not hurt the other trade channels with Canada, and the selling of half the hides raw would not decrease the employment situation in that line in Canada. Such a treaty as this the speaker thought was the only solution to the present situation.

N. A. MacColl brought before the club the question of an inter-town meet between Cobourg, Port Hope Trenton and Campbellford which it was hoped to be arranged in the near future. This matter however was left over. President Eli Brunelle occupied the chair for the luncheon.

Obituary

In the death of Francis Sherlock there has passed out from among us one of the oldest residents of Peterborough. Stricken with paralysis at the early age of four years, he was brought to Peterborough by his parents shortly afterwards, and has lived here ever since.

He was well known by the older residents of this city and was loved and respected by all who knew him.

Until five years ago, when he took a stroke he could tell amusing stories of his early life in Peterborough.

On Jan. 23 he took a final stroke which left him helpless and he slept gently away until Jan. 30 into that realm where surely there will be found compensation for his lifelong crippled condition that could never be found in this life.

CLOCK MAKERS DEFEATED 3-2

George Wannamker Played Sensational Game in Nets in Lakefield Victory.

FEW PENALTIES.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—Fresh from their victory over the Norwood Combines, the speedy Lakefield E.P.L. players took on Westclox in Lakefield last night and finished on top, 3 to 2, in a fine exhibition of hockey on good ice before a big crowd. The home team had just one sub. the last half of the game, against four for the other side, but they kept up a hot pace till well into the third period, and then played a smart defensive games to hold an early lead.

The game was clean throughout, and it was marked by almost sensational goal-tending by George Wannamaker, which made up for the lack of substiting players, and stellar all-around play on the part of the whole team. The losers never eased up either, and made it a great fight. They had all the play in the third frame, but could only penetrate that strong defence upon one occasion. The score was 1-1 in the first and 3-1 for Lakefield starting the third frame.

Wingett Gets Initial

Halfway through a speedy opening stanza, Wingett notched the initial counter for the home crew unassisted. It was balanced one minute later by Jack White on a pass from Thirnbeck, and play was even and exciting all during this session. The second say the smaller crew from the Cement town hold a slight edge, although handicapped by having just one sub. for half of it. The frame was half gone when Jewell batted in Goal No. 2 from a scramble before the net. A few minutes later, R. Wannamaker came up fast, to go in and score another one. The Lakefield lads played a defensive game all during the third, with Westclox continually threatening with four men up, but G. Wannamaker was almost unbeatable. With three minutes to go, Whatley got through to chalk up one more for the Alarm outfit, and it ended that way.

The two Wannamakers, Stenner and Jewell starred for the winners, while H. White and Epps were outstanding for the other E.P.L. aggregation. The teams:

Westclox.—Goal, Doxie; defence, J. White, H. White; centre, Epps; wings, Milliken, Dinesen; alternates, Wood, Tuck, Thirnbeck and Whatley.

Referee—Jack Sabatino.

Summary

First Period:—
Lakefield—Wingett 15.00
Westclox—J. White (Thirnbeck) 16.00
No penalties.
Second Period:—
Lakefield—Jewell 15.00
Lakefield—R. Wannamaker ..18.00
Penalties—Stenner and Whatley.
Third Period:—

J. GALSWORTHY DIES IN LONDON

day at his request. He accepted in 1929 the Order of Merit for his services to literature and drama.

Galsworthy's wife, two other members of his family and two old family servants comprised the sorrowful company at his bedside as death came peacefully to one of the outstanding lights of modern English literature.

By coincidence, the announcement that Galsworthy had won the 1932 Nobel prize for literature, last November 11, came almost on the day of the publication of his last novel, 'Flowering Wilderness," a study of the English upper classes.

His last book was in a way a sequel to "Maid in Waiting," which in mood and subject matter derived from the "The Frayie Saga." In all, Galsworthy wrote 50 or more short stories and 25 plays, in addition to his novels.

In 1918, when Galsworthy had attained secure fame, he was offered a knighthood but declined.

REV. DR. S. D. CHOWN

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

TORONTO, January 31. — Ontario grain, approximate prices track shipping point: Wheat 40c to 42c, oats 20c to 22c, barley 32c to 32c, corn 32c to 34c, rye 29c to 30c, buckwheat 28 to 30c.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Jan 31—There was a slightly firmer feeling on the local egg market yesterday as the demand, stimulated by low prices, was fair enough to clear the bulk of supplies and prices moved to higher levels. Indications were that the egg market had reached its low point for the current price movement. Practically every market reported lower prices last week, and the demand picked up sufficiently to move the offerings.

Prices to country shippers were up 1c to 2c per dozen on all grades which was a complete reverse from the trend last week. They were quoted 16c to 19c for extras, 16c to 17c for firsts and 15c to 16c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Brokers offered graded lots in free cases at slightly firmer prices and quotations to the trade were steady at 24c for extras in cartons. 20c for firsts loose and 17c for seconds loose.

Butter.

A dull trade in butter eased prices slightly to 20½c for No. 1 silods and 20c for No. 2, with regraded quality about ½c higher. Creamery prints to the trade were quoted on a steady basis at 24c for No. 1 and 23c for No. 2

Cheese.

New cheese at 10c was firm and not plentiful. Brokers offered new makes at 10c for large, 10¼c for twins and 10½c for triplets. To retailers prices were quite firm at 11½c for large, 11¾c for twins, 12c for triplets and 14c for Stiltons.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—Fresh egg prices continued their advance on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

For the third consecutive day, prices gained a cent a dozen. The seasonable weather and a good demand gave strength to the market. Fresh extras, in carlots or less, were quoted at 21c, firsts at 19c, and pullets at 18c a dozen. Receipts were again light, only 602 cases arriving as compared with 1,696 cases last Monday.

Carlots or less of No. 1 grass butter were steady at 20½c to 20¾c a pound. Receipts were only 24 boxes.

Current receipts of Ontario cheese held unchanged at 9c for white, 10c for colored, and 10½c to 11½c a pound for early season make. Receipts were 11 boxes.

Potatoes remained firm, New Brunswick Green Mountains, per 80-pound bag, being quoted at 80c; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 80-pound bag, at 85c; and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 90-pound bag at 95c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Stimulated reports that an upward leap of wheat prices further along in the season was predicted by British Government advisers, breadstuffs here advanced yesterday.

British trade authorities were represented as having come to a conclusion that during the present year the world stocks of wheat would be greatly reduced, and that suply and demand would approximate more nearly to economic adjustment than had been the case for a long time. Another strengthening influence was that Washington official advices indicated European wheat consumption had not been curtailed to any large extent because of high import duties of various countries.

Gains Moderate.

Wheat closed firm, ⅛c to ⅝c above Saturday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅛c lower; oats, ⅛c down, and provisions unchanged to 5c decline.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, January 31. — Absence of selling pressure aided wheat futures to offset lack of foreign demand on the Winnipeg Grain Market yesterday and prices, though trading was extremely slow, closed fractionally higher. Traders appeared to be waiting for something to happen and the pit was deserted most of the session.

Values were ¼c to ⅜c higher at the finish. May moved with a ¼c range all day and closed at 45¾c, July held at 47¼c, and October at 48½c.

Market Interest Quiet.

No interest was shown in the market yesterday. For long stretches of time not a change in price was shown on the ticker. Export business was non-existent, but outside markets were steady, which, coupled with lightness of offerings, imparted the only degree of support apparent.

Taking note of the recent lack of interest in Canadian wheat, local traders found good reading in last week's world shipment figures, issued yesterday. These showed a drop of 2,500,000 bushels from the previous week and were set at 13,780,000 bushels. Southern Hemisphere countries supplied the bulk of this, only 4,322,000 bushels coming from North America.

Cash and coarse grains were lifeless.

CAMPBELLFORD

NEWS ITEMS FOR THE TRENT TOWN DISTRICT

The Rev. Father Corkery of Peterborough conducted services in St. Mary's Church on Sunday owing to the illness of the Rev. C. J. Phelan. Father Phelan was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, for treatment on Monday.

The Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion will make its first public appeal for support on February 13, 14 and 15, when the branch will sponsor a special feature picture at the Hollywood Theatre. Although arrangements are not definitely settled, the feature picture will be a British production. The extra demand this year for relief expenditures necessitates a strong appeal to the public for a generous support of the Legion's efforts.

Chief G. C. Bromley is having a difficult task this year to collect the annual dog tax, and by the returns it would seem that the dog population of Campbellford is decreasing. It is estimated that there are 200 canines in the municipality, but up to the present only 11 licenses have been sold. Dog owners, however, have to February 15 to buy their tags.

Mr. Charles Black, prominent local merchant, who was recently taken to New York Hospital for treatment, underwent an operation on Saturday last. His condition on Sunday evening was reported to be satisfactory.

Mrs. E. Plummer is visiting for a few days with friends in Corbyville.

Mr. A. E. Mosthoff has returned to his home in Saganaw, Mich., after attending the funeral of the late Mr. Chas. H. Nadoo. Mrs. Mosthoff is remaining with her mother, Mrs. Nadoo, for a short while.

CARROL COOPER IS ELECTED PEOPLE'S WARDEN AT MEETING

Various Reports Read at Annual Meeting of St. Mark's Church, Warsaw.

INSTITUTE GATHERING

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Jan. 31.—The annual vestry meeting of St. Mark's congregation was held in the church Warsaw on January 24th. Rev. J. T. O'Connor Fenton presided.

All church offices were then declared vacant, and election of officers for the ensuing year took place. New officers are: Rector's warden, Carrol Cooper; people's warden, Donald Davis; sidesmen are Messrs Elmer Cooper, Gordon Coffe, Thomas Davis and John Myles. The report of the Ladies' Guild was read by the president, Mrs. Albert Cooper and showed a fair balance on hand. A financial statement of the cemetery board was given by the secretary of the cemetery board. Gordon Cuffe was engaged as caretaker of the cemetery. George Parsons was appointed lay delegate to the synod. The meeting closed with prayer.

Women's Institute

The town hall, Warsaw was comfortably filled on Friday evening for a special meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute, the principal feature of which was a health talk by Dr. Munro. Mrs. Roland Payne was pianist for the general singing. Mr. McDonald gave a short address in which he spoke of the people who showed and those who had to be showed. Mrs. McIlvena sang "Say, Hello to the Folks Back Home. Little Milo Payne recited, "Mamma's Help" and Doreas Lloyd gave a reading "At Half Mast" by Pauline Johnson, who recited the same selection herself when here over twenty years ago. Albert Bryan sang "My Pal, My Mother". Mrs. Wilkinson gave a delightful piano selection. "The Two Larks". More assembly singing and then Dr. Munro's talk. He was thankful it was advertised as a talk, and neither a lecture nor an address, as it was his own—and a synopsis will appear later. One thing he urged was protection against diptheria by the use of toxoid. Henry Batten sang "Spring Time in the Rockies", Mrs. G. G. Taylor accompanied him on the piano. Albert Bryan and Oliver gave an amusing little skit. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered. Mr. McDonald and Dr. Munro and all others who had helped make the evening a success.

Miss Jean Munro accompanied Mrs. McIlvens and Mr. Bryan when they sang.

After the National Anthem, light refreshments were served, a pleasant half hour was spent. Some of the men looked as though they were agreeably discussing weighty matters.

HANNA OPPOSES BOARD OF THREE TO DIRECT C.N.R.

Former President Urges Five in Address Before Senate.

AGAINST AMALGAMATION.

Also Votes Against Proposed Arbitral Tribunal to Enforce Cooperation.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1. (CP)—Opposing a board of three trustees to direct the affairs of the Canadnan National Railways and declaring himself in favor of five, D. B. Hanna, former president of the C.N.R. gave evidence before the railway committee to-day. Mr. Hanna also expressed it would be to enforce co-operation between the C.N.R. and the Canadian Pacific. Equality antagonistic were Mr. Hanna's views arraigned that the two railway systems be amalgamated.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, heard Mr. Hanna sketch the history of railroading in Canada since 1882. The fromer president of the C.N.R., who was superseded by Sir Henry Thornton in 1922, recalled the incidents constructed with the building of the transcontinental and severely criticised that enterprise. He blamed Canada's tangled railway problems on the orgy of railway building which had featured the first decade of the present centry.

Board of Five

With regard to the Railway Bill which has for its purpose the implementing of the report of the Duff Commission, Mr. Hanna would have a board of five trustees, headed by a chairman who had a know-

GEORGE TAYLOR WINS 1ST PRIZE

847 Coppers in Quart Sealer in Examiner Window.

FOUR WERE TIED.

The Examiner Dollar Day contest of estimating the number of coppers in a quart sealer, attracted a great deal of interest, the exact number of coppers in the jar being 847, and George R. Taylor, R.R. No. 8, Peterborough, estimated the number exactly, receiving the first prize of ten dollars.

The second, third, fourth and fifth prizes are divided between Arthur Thompson, 183 Aylmer street; Mrs. L. A. Shearer, 512 Gilmour street; Hugh Fife, 219 Barnardo avenue; F. O. Phillips, 278½ Reid street, each estimating 850 coppers; Bert Allen, 587 Water street, is winner of the last prize, estimating 851 and receives $1.

The prizes will be paid as above on Monday next, unless there is some protest on the awards.

The Weather

The past month of January was in some respects much like January of last year. We had but one day (January 1) of below zero temperature (5 below.) The temperature frequently went above 40 degrees, and on the 19th got up to 52 degrees. This was a very high figure for January, and I believe constitutes a record. The snowfall was about 7 inches, but adjacent to the city there was barely sufficient at any time to make good sleighing. The rainfall was 1.17, or a total (combined with the snow) of 1.89. By way of variation we had a heavy thunderstorm on the 22nd. To-morrow will be Candlemas day, and it remains to be seen whether Bruin will remain true to tradition and come forth from his winter siesta to pose as a weather prophet. —W. P.

JAPAN IS READY WITH NEW PLAN OF SETTLEMENT

High Official Indicates Certain Objections to League's Formula Withdrawn.

CABINET DECISION MADE.

Fresh Instructions Cabled to Envoy Sitting at Geneva Conference.

TOKYO, Feb. 1.—(A.P.)—An official spokesman indicated to-day that Japan has withdrawn certain objections to the League of Nations' formula for conciliation of the Manchurian dispute and would make new proposals for a settlement on that basis.

After an extraordinary session this morning of the Cabinet to discuss Japan's relations with the League, Foreign Minister Yasyua Uchida made a report to the Emperor. Then he telegraphed instructions to the Japanese delegation at Geneva which the official spokesman called "very important."

He indicated the delegates were authorized to concede other points blocking conciliation under paragraph three of Article 15 of the League covenant, if the League drops its intentions to enunciate non-recognition of the Government of Manchukuo in Manchuria and further limits the competence of the proposed conciliation committee.

House of Commons Members and Senators Meet in Caucus.

BILL NOW IN SENATE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—(C.P.)—Liberal members and Senators will oppose amalgamation of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, it was decided to-day at a party caucus.

In addition to opposing amalgamation of the railways, the party went on record as favoring the maintenance of the integrity of the Canadian National. It was understood individual members expressed the view that if amalgamtion were to be entertained at all, it should be that of the two railways under government, rather than private ownership.

TRAIN WRECKED 1 KILLED, 3 HURT ON IRISH ROAD

Tragedy Occurs as Dublin-Belfast Express Hits Gap —Rails Torn Up.

STRIKERS BLAMED.

Service Being Maintained By Volunteer Crews Taken From Other Departments.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland. Feb. 1—(A.P.)—One man was killed and three were injured to-day when a Dublin-to-Belfast mail train was derailed at Dromiskin where a section of rails had been ripped up, presumably by strikers.

Railway workers walked out yesterday in portest against a pay cut but the operators ave maitnained curtailed service with volunteer crews from other departments.

Clerk Acting as Guard.

The man who was killed was a clerk from the Dublin ofice, riding the train as one of the guard. Only a few passengers were aboard.

It was early in the morning when the train struck the gap in the rails. It left the track and the locomotive plowed into a field. The engineer was badly hurt and the fireman less seriously injured. Two coaches were telescoped.

Parts to repair the manifold cost the officer $19.20. To-day in traffic court Valyntine entered a plea of guilty and was fined $14.00 and $4.50 costs by Magistrate Langley.

Dismisses Technocracy — Says This is Only Ox Cart Stage of Machine Age.

OLD ERA PASSING.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The New York Times published today under a Detroit dateline a copyrighted interview with Henry Ford in which the automobile manufacturer declared that these are not bad times but good ones, and that we are on the threshold of an inconceivably bright future.

He said that it is the development of machines which will bring the bright new era and he smilingly dismissed technocracy.

"Technocracy seems to me misnamed," he said. "I see little evidence of technical experience in it. Its diagnosis of present conditions is partly correct, but when it assumes that present conditions are permanent, when it forgets the fluid and progressive elements in life, it simply goes on the rocks.

"The machine age is barely started now. In the real machine age which is to come the dirt and ugliness and confusion and noise and disregard of human rights which are all about us today will be done away with. This is only the ox cart stage of the machine age.

Ben Kern is the father and he's out of work. He has seven sons, Chester, Lester, Vester, Wester, Nester, Kester and Jester.

One Building Permit Issued In January

The absolute doldrums into which local building has sunk in recent months was graphically disclosed to-day by the records of the city engineer's office. Only one building permit was taken out last month. It represented some alterations in the new Eaton store and the estimated cost if the job was $1,100.

However, January a year ago was even worse in building activity. One permit was taken out, representing a repair job estimated to cost $800. So that this January is $400 better than the same month a year ago.

EXTORTION PLOT SENDS ITALIAN TO PORTSMOUTH

Sought by Letters to Obtain $80,000 From Wealthy Toronto Contractors.

GIVEN SIX YEARS.

Extortion By Threatening Letter Made on Mimico Brother.

HAMILTON, February 1 (C.P.).—Basilio Torossi was sentenced to six years in Portsmouth Penitentiary to-day when he pleaded guilty to having written extortion letters to James and Joseph Franceschini, wealthy Toronto contractors.

Torossi's sentence wrote "finis" to a dramatic tale of blackmail and extortion tactics. After a search of some months' duration by Provincial Police Torossi was arrested last night when he wa ked into the police station here and declared he could give the officers some information regarding the writer of the letters demanding $80,000 from the Franceschini brothers on threats of death.

For some time Myrtle, 11-year-old daughter of James Franceschini, had a police escort to and from school, while the home on the Lake Shore Highway near Toronto was heavily guarded night and day.

Provincial Police were called into action by Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General of Ontario, and the long search for the writer of the letters followed. Inspector A. H. Ward travelled thousands of miles, visited numerous Ontario cities, and then crossed the international border into Michigan and New York States in search of evidence.

Clue in Detroit.

In Detroit last week-end it is understood, the inspector first found information which definitely linked Torossi with the extortion incident. He was watched for some days, and then last night walked into the Provincial Police office and asked what progress was being made in the Franceschini case. Let into conversational trap, he broke down and confessed to having written the series of extortion letters.

No less dramatic than the apture and sentence of Torossi is the career of James Franceschini, the immensely wealthy contractor, who first dug ditches when he came to Canada. He rose steadily from the ranks of laborers and gradually began to take contracts himself, finally emerging as head of a great construction firm.

Brief Trial.

The court proceedings to-day were brief. Inspector Ward was the only witness called. He produced several letters which had been sent to the Franceshini family. Two of these missives were signed by the "Humanitarian Anarchist Society" and demanded James Franceschini

Suspected Poisoning Victims All Recover

GALT, Ont., Feb. 1.—(CP)—All victims of suspected Potomaine poisoning which followed a banquet here have fully recovered today, it was reported here. More than 70 persons were afflicted with nausea and illness following the Burns club dinner and club officials declare they have been unable to trace the source of the trouble.

Originally it was believed tainted lemonade was responsible, but later it was alleged tainted meat may have caused the illness. None of those taken ill were seriously affected.

Narcotic Agents Swindling Each Other Provide Police Laugh—and Gun Fight

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1—(AP)—Detectives chuckled today at they told how they captured agents of two narcotic rings in the act of swindling each other with a fake roll of bills and two boxes filled with bogus narcotics. The farce had an unhappy ending, however, for as police crashed into the room where the two-edged hocus-pocus was going on, they killed one of the conspirators in a gun fight.

As told by detectives the story was this:

An American, who said he was John Edward Baston, millionaire, let it be known in the underworld he was in the market for narcotics to smuggle into the United States. A doctor described as a member of an entrenched narcotics ring, made a deal with him.

A price of 78,000 pesos (about $25,000) was to be paid for 40 pounds of narcotics. Police, who learned all about the deal from an informer, broke through the door of Baston's hotel room just as the deal was being consummated. A volley of shots met them and they replied, killing one of Baston's accomplices, a Filipino whose name was listed as Rudolfo Hulen Fernandes. Six of the traffickers were seized.

When they examined the evidence, the detectives found the "narcotics" were harmless powder and the $25,000" was a roll of white paper with two currency notes wrapped around it.

Witness Suicides; Prompted by Fear Court Is Informed

Sturgeon Falls Official Reluctantly Halts In Expressing Feelings As Commissioner Warns Him Regarding Statements Calling For Apology.

BELIEVES TOWN WOULD HAVE HAD NO RELIEF UNLESS IT USED THE TACTICS IT DID USE.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., February 1 (C.P.). — The belief that Tousant Valade committed suicide last night because of intimidation by the Royal Commission now inquiring into relief expenditures here, was voiced to-day by Theodore Legault ,when called before the Commission as a witnss.

Valade killed himself early to-day by cutting his throat with a razor. His widow and nine children survive. He was a witness before the Commission last Friday and had appeared depressed since then.

"I cannot keep silence," Legault declared to-day. "That man took his own life as a result of his intimidation, the fear of being called back. It has thrown consternation—"

"Now, stop," Judge J. M. Hall interrupted. "This Court calls what witnesses it considers necessary without—"

"Do you mean this Court is trying to intimidate any man?" W. H. Williams, K.C., commission counsel, demanded, leaping to his feet.

"I've got to express this," Legault said.

Warning From Williams

"Don't get excited and make statements that you have to apologize for, like you did before," Mr. Williams warned.

"You may silence the vote of duty now but—" Legault began, but Mr. Williams interrupted: "You had to apologize once before."

Legault sat down and counsel began his examination. Answering a question Legault said: "Apparently you discovered a lot of padded lists and I say now that the town of Sturgeon Falls would not have got any relief if they had not done this."

Judge Hall: "What do you mean, if they had not done this?"

Legault: "I presume if the town had not used these means."

Judge Hall: "What means do you mean, explain."

SAYS PRISONER ABLE TO WORK

Doctor Testifies He Examined Smith After Release From Hospital.

PROBE CONTINUES.

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (C.P.).—Frank Smith, who died at Burwash Prison Farm July 12 last, was quite able to work after his release from the prison hospital in May, 1931, Dr. W. M. Moseley, London, to-day told the investigation into Smith's death when the probe resumed. Dr. Moseley was physician at the farm for 18 months, he said. Smith was suffering from a social disease, and was admitted to hospital on May 6 and discharged on May 21.

"Was he able to resume the ordinary work at the camp?" asked Joseph Sedgewick of the Ontario Attorney-General's department.

"I would say yes," replied the witness.

Dr. Moseley had been present when Smith was confined to solitary cells, and was consulted before the punishment had been inflicted. He had visited the prisoners once a day in the solitary cells.

After Smith's release from "solitary," Dr. Moseley said he had examined him carefully. "He was undernourished but there was no indication of organic trouble."

Smith had been strapped for malingering, and again there was no evidence of organic trouble prior to the punishment.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 12.—The Zionist movement, the return of a landless people to the country of its origin, there to start life anew, the spanning of an abyss of two thousand years, is a phenomenon unequalled in the annals of history. Yet Zionism is not a mere whim on the part Pierre van Paassen of some philanthropists who want to establish a haven of refuge for a few millions of the world's dispossessed and downtrodden. It is an unavoidable necessity both for the Jews and for the non-Jewish world. The Jews had to return to the land if they were not to disappear in the vortex of persecution and in the modern melting-pots of assimilation, such as America. A people without a land of its own is a people without

44 Births in City During January

As far as vital statistics at the city clerk's office show, 1933 did not make a very good start. Births during January this year numbered only 44, 17 less than in the same month last year. Marriages too were down, there being ten as compared with the dozen couples who walked the bridal path last January and the 16 weddings in December. There were 33 deaths, nine fewer than in the same month a year ago.

PARLEY WITH U.S. NO BARTER DEAL IN BRITISH EYES

Chamberlain Tells American Newsmen Adjustment Benefits Creditors Much as Debtor.

OTTAWA PACTS STAND.

Claims Many Adjustments to be Made Before Britain Returns to Gold.

LONDON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Great Britain does not look upon the approaching debt conference at Washington as a "great swapping deal" Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared to-day at a luncheon of American newspaper correspondents.

The agreements achieved at the Imperial Conference in Ottawa last summer "cannot be torn up" he said, and the British government's hands are tied by those agreements so far as they affect any arrangements with the United States.

Neither can Britain "contemplate with equanimity return to the Gold Standard until we are certain that it will work better than it did just before we left it" he said.

"Great Britain believes in a stable international standard of value, but there are many conditions to be fulfilled before she returns to gold."

Changes Necessary

He numerated some of those conditions: First, settlement of the war debts problem; second, lowering of trade barriers; third, modification of the maldistribution of gold, and fourth, settlement of disturbing world political problems or progress toward their solution.

In connection with his declaration the Washington meeting will not be a "swapping deal" Mr. Chamberlain said:

"The conception of concessions by Great Britain in return for the scaling down of war debts is not a British conception.

"The British view is that these obligations are not those of an ordinary debtor and creditor, but that adjustment is as much in the interest of the creditor nation as of the debtor."

Youths Are Captured In Smith Township

The flight of two youths from the Ontario Industrial School, at Mimico, was ended in Smith township Monday afternoon with their apprehension by Provincial Constable W. Warren and John Edgar, of the Children's Aid Society.

The youths had broken out of the industrial school late Friday, and made their way to a house in Smith Township, where, they had been advised by a fellow prisoner in the school, they would be safe. However, the Smith Township farmer phoned Mr. Edgar on their arrival and their capture followed.

Yesterday they were taken back under guard to the industrial school. The youths told local police that they had made their break for freedom because they had received ill-treatment at the school.

No Government Would Consider Terms Proposed

Commons Told Of Winnipeg Syndicate's Plan—Big Profit For Them If Canada Would Take Any Loss Through Soviets Failing To Take Delivery Or Pay Up.

PREMIER ANNOUNCES NEW TARIFF BOARD LIKELY BE ANNOUNCED BEFORE END OF WEEK.

OTTAWA, February 1 (C. P.). — Before the end of the week Canada may have a Tariff Board for the first time in three years. The expected announcement is being awaited with keen interest because of the sharp political controversy which has raged around the Tariff Board in the past.

Premier R. B. Bennett informed the House of Commons yesterday he hoped to be able to announce the personnel of the board before the end of the week. He stressed the difficulty of securing the men required for the board in pursuance of his undertaking to make it representative of more than one shade of political thought.

The last Tariff Board was created by the former Liberal Government, but was abolished by Mr. Bennett soon after taking office. Legislation providing for a new board was passed two years ago, but the board was never appointed. In the Canada-United Kingdom Trade Treaty signed last summer the Canadian Government undertakes to set up the board and it is now proposed to do so.

The main estimates for the fiscal year 1933-34, expected to show much paring of expenditures, may be laid before the House to-day.

Tax Dodger's Bill

A Government bill aimed at income tax dodgers and designed to plug loopholes in the Act was advanced one stage in the House. Lawyer-members, particularly a group on the Government side, protested against one section which would permit re-assessing and collection of penalties in any false income return since 1917.

After a two-hour discussion, the bill was reported through committee stage with the exception of one clause containing the retroactive power. The bill tightened the Act in relation to personal or family corporations, a favorite legal hideaway of tax-dodgers.

Discussion hinged around one section which read: ". . . the Minister may at any time assess, reassess or make additional assessments upon any person for tax, interest and penalties." Another clause stipulated this would apply to all returns since 1917, and all changes in the personal corporation sections, to returns since 1925.

John Hackett, Cons., Stanstead; R. B. Hanson, Cons., York-Sunbury, and William Euler, Lib., North Waterloo, suggested there should be some limit to the retroactive power but the Minister of Finance disagreed.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—(CP)—Details of the proposed $8,000,000 barter of Canadian cattle for Russian oil and anthracite had been given to the House of Commons today by Premier R. B. Bennett. He intimated there was slight possibility of the scheme being ratified by the government.

The Dominion, said the Prime Minister, was asked to back Russian seven percent bonds to a maximum of $4,000,000 to swing the deal and to guarantee the Winnipeg syndicate against breach of contract by the Soviets.

"I think this House will agree," said Mr. Bennett, "that no Canadian government would consider seriously a proposal to provide credit facilities for a syndicate of vendors, and at the same time guarantee the alleged purchasers, the Soviet government, would discharge its obligations to the vendors."

The barter scheme first was laid before the government last October by G G. Serkau of Winnipeg. It was proposed to exchange 100,000 grade and pure-bred Canadian cattle for Russian oil and a smaller per centage of coal. The government never has turned down the scheme although the Prime Minister's statement today indicated its disapproval.

The Winnipeg syndicate, said Mr. Bennett, "has produced no evidence that it has any agreement with the Soviet government and no communications regarding the proposals have been received from them (Soviets)."

Gov't Guarantee

Quoting from letters addressed to Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, the Prime Minister said the Winnipeg syndicate advised figuring "on a basis of the government guaranteeing Russian seven percent bonds, payable June 1, 1935 for such balance as may be owing to our corporation from time to time. The total amount involved in such guarantee I would estimate at not more than $4,000,000 at any time and only a very little of these bonds will remain unpaid at the end of the term for the reason he will be taking delivery continuously and the value of such deliveries will be applied on the bonds.

"It should be observed," the Prime Minister continues reading from the Serkau letter, "that the nature of this transaction is largely in the interests of the livestock industry, the profits to myself and my associates being merely a brokerage commission," this "commission" Mr. Bennett said, would have amounted to between 20 and 30 per cent.

The Winnipeg syndicate also would require, the Serkau letter indicated "some matter of protection against breach of contract by the Russian Government. . . ."

General Review

In a general review of Canadian-Russian and Anglo-Canadian trade relations, the Prime Minister referred to the famous Clause 21 of the Anglo-Imperial pact negotiated at the Ottawa Imperial Conference, aimed at state-aided dumping. "It was never suggested at any time during the Imperial Conference," continued Mr. Bennett, "that Great Britain should cease trading with Russia. On the contrary, the British representatives made it perfectly clear at all times that trading operations on a large scale had been carried out and that credits had been established which were renewed shortly after the conclusion of the Conference. Similarly, except for the articles covered by the (Canadian) embargo, there have never been any restrictions between Canada and Russian except that in 1931 Russia placed an embargo against the importation of any commodity from Canada."

The salmon pack of British Columbia for 1932, totalled 1,081,031 cases.

Fog in Winnipeg Boon to Bandits

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1 (C.P.)—Aided by a dense fog, unusual for Winnipeg at this time of the year, armed bandits were active in the city early this morning and several holdups were reported. Two pedestrians, a storekeeper and a jewelry store attracted bandits' attention in various parts of the city.

Throwing a dense blanket over the city, the fog made its appearance shortly before midnight, and did not lift until hours later.

THEATRES AIDED NEEDY FAMILIES

Famous Players Have Given Theatres Throughout Canada to Aid Needy.

ENTIRE PROCEEDS GIVEN

During the past two years. Famous Players Canadian Corporation theatres throughout Canada have successfully organized and carried out Food and Clothing matinees around the Christmas season. And they have turned their houses over for benefit performances for the needy, as was the case during the past three years in Peterborough.

It is doubtful if any other organization in Canada, other than those regularly engaged in such work, has been able to accomplish so much.

Here in Peterborough, various charitable societies have benefited by the kindness of the Corporation and the local manager, J. A. Stewart, who has, on three separate occasions, turned the whole proceeds of his theatre over to assist in the work of providing for the needy and unemployed of the city.

In Peterborough, special midnight shows at which the entire funds were presented to charity, were the rule In other places, food and clothing matinees were used for the same purpose.

In Toronto alone, the Imperial Theatre collected 2200 cans of soup and fruits, 10 bushels of potatoes, 1750 toys and over 1800 articles of clothing. Five truck loads were required to haul away the articles left at the Palace Theatre, while the Beach, the Belsize, the Capitol and the Oakwood all had similar results.

In Kingston, the Kiwanis Club and I.O.D.E. co-operated with the theatre; in Brockville, 600 cans of vegetables were brought in at the special children's matinee; in Cornwall the Elks gave presents and the theatre provided the entertainment; in the three Ottawa houses $360 was realized, with the help of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and I.O.D.E.; in Halifax, with the newspapers sponsoring the show, as The Examiner did locally, $225 was realized; at St. John, with the Boy Scouts helping; the Vancouver and district theatres were extremely successful, with one house, the Capitol of Vancouver, realizing more than two tons of foodstuffs; Moose Jaw, Edmonton, Regina and Calgary, had toy matinees, helped by the Boy Scouts and the Fire Departments, while to the Calgary house goes the credit for the idea of the Boy Scout Repair Shops which have spread across Canada. This year, besides thousands of toys received, between four and five tons of mixed vegetables were gathered at the Calgary Theatre.

In Hamilton a tie-up was arranged with the Canadian Canners whereby that firm donated one can for every two cans of their soup brought in by children, resulting in a total of more than 7,000 cans received, with many foodstuffs. In Niagara Falls, Brantford, Welland, Paris, Galt, Guelph, St. Thomas, London and Chatham, canned goods by the thousands rolled in, while in Windsor, more than 4250 cans of soup were presented and the manager was forced to give two performances to accommodate the patrons. At Walkerville and Owen Sound and Trenton the same fine results were attained, with hundreds of cans of soup and vegetables received.

Keene Church Plans Summer Centenary

KEENE, February 1. — Knox Presbyterian church held its annual meeting on January 17, when Rev. J. A. Sutherland, M. A., presided. The usual reports were read and approved. Special mention might be made of the W.M.S., which had a very successful year. It stands next to St. Paul's in the amount of its givings. The givings to the Sunday school work were higher than those of last year. The other branches of the work were satisfactory. Considering the difficulties of the times the church as a whole had a successful year.

It is to be specially noted that Knox Presbyterian Church intends holding its centenary this summer, when it is hoped that some prominent churchman can be secured for the celebration.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 1 (A.P.)—A Buffalo policeman found a man soundly asleep in the forks of a tree, two books in his arms. At the police station the man explained he stopped for a "couple of snifters" on the way home from the library and did not remember anything after that.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

MORTGAGE SALE REALIZES $2.17

Two Thousand Neighbors Rally to Aid Farmer—Give Back All Stock.

JOVIAL AFFAIR.

DESHLER, O., Feb. 1. — Two thousand neighbors, who jingled their pennies and shouted, "Sell it, sell it," to-day bought a farmer's live stock and implements for $2.17, at an auction sale held to satisfy a $400 mortgage.

They not only refused to take away their bargains—25-cent horses and six-cent implements—but arranged to give the property back on a 99-year lease and added a $5 "pot" to it.

The sale was the second in this section of Ohio, in less than a week, in which farmers have rallied to help a neighbor. In contrast to the one last Thursday near Bowling Green, at which a finance company manager was prevented from bidding by a stern farmers' assembly, yesterday's auction was a jovial affair. The finance company was not represented in the bidding.

Bids Please!

Auctioneer Milo Lybarger, called upon to dispose of two horses, two cows, implements and household goods of Farmer Cecil Kistner, four miles west of here, asked for bids on a harrow.

"Two cents," said some one. The bids rose until they reached six cents.

"Sell it! Sell it!" shouted the crowd. "Knock it off at six cents."

Lybarger did. He pointed to a hangman's noose, put up in the barn loft in a spirit of jest, and remarked: "There's the noose, boys."

"Good old noose," replied some one. "Guess we'll get the goods all right."

The sale went on for twenty minutes, with the horses and cows bringing the top prices of 25 cents.

"Don't bring up any big bills," said Ralph Weaver, Fostoria farmer, who made himself "master of ceremonies."

"We can't change 'em," he said as the crowd laughed.

U.S. CHECKS UP BRANCH PLANTS

SURVEY FOR SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (CP)—The United States Department of Commerce to-day was busily engaged in checking the number of United States industries with branch plants in Canada and their capital investment in the Dominion.

The recent ruling of the British Board of Trade that goods manufactured in Canadian plants of American firms must contain an Empire content of 60 percent instead of the old 25 per cent, has nothing to do with the survey, it was learned, his was ordered in a Senate resolution last year and is now nearing completion.

Department officials said Wall Street estimates that $1,500 000,000 is invested in United States industries established in Canada was probably not too high.

Although thoroughly familiar with the agitation that led up to the promulgation of the new order, its actual issuance at this time took Government experts somewhat by surprise. Great Britain it was recalled, had opposed during the Ottawa Conference the suggestion that it increase its content requirement to 50 per cent. It had been proposed that the requirement be made uniformly high throughout the Empire, but British delegates were represented as being opposed on the ground that the large amount of foreign raw materials going into its own products might make them ineligible for preferential duties in the Dominions.

EXCISE HIGHER CUSTOMS DOWN

Receipts From Import Duties $411,000 Under Last Year.

NEW PLANTS PLAY PART.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.— Decreasing imports and rising Dominion manufactures are indicated by the Customs and Excise revenue collected at Toronto in January.

Customs revenue dropped $411,000 from the total of January, 1932, while Excise revenue showed a gain of $211,769. Customs revenue includes duty, excise and sales tax on imported goods, Excise revenue as referred to here includes sales, excise taxes and excise duty on goods produced in Canada.

The total customs and excise revenue for January, 1933, was $2,864,620, a net decrease from the same month last year of $199,231.

The decrease in imports is understood to be due partly to tariff legislation and customs regulations such as those concerning dumping, exchange and valuation increases. The many new factories established in Canada during the past three years are producing goods formerly imported which would also account for the decrease in imports and rise in domestic manufactures.

ENGLISH POTTERY IN BIG DEMAND

Early in December last The Examiner carried a news story relative to a display of Staffordshire china and other British goods, at Routley's store here, in which it was stated: "Mr. Routley takes a particular pride in showing 'Queen Mary China,' which was first made in 1913 exclusively for Qneen Mary. Subsequently Her Majesty permitted the reproduction of the line for the purpose of fostering trade with the Empire. It is produced by the Paragon China Company of Longton, Stoke-on-Trent, England, and is one of the finest works of art from the potters of Staffordshire."

Mention of the article was referred to in the "Staffordshire Sentinel," published at Hanley, Stoke-on-Trent, and as a result The Examiner received a letter of acknowledgment to-day from Paragon China Limited, of Longton, which stated: "I saw an article in 'The Sentinel' on an exhibition of china in Peterborough, Canada, some time ago, and it would be really interesting to have particulars of this as we have just held a very successful one at the T. Eaton Company, Toronto. It is nice to know there are some English people out there who appreciate these efforts."

Exports of pottery from Britain last year aggregated 2,954,265 pounds as against 3,462,314 pounds in 1931, and 5,130,808 for 1930. The decline of shipments was therefore considerable. Canada was easily the best market with trade totalling 606,336 pounds, but this was largely down in 1931 when the total was 701,716 pounds. Two markets were decidedly up in 1931, namely Australia and Brazil.

CASH PERMITTED ON RELIEF SLIPS

Sturgeon Falls' Store Owner States Orders Came From Relief Officer.

TAX FIGURES REVISED.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., January 31 (C.P.). — Miss Blanche Marchildon, tax collector for Sturgeon Falls, corrected figures she had given the Royal Commission investigating relief disbursements to-day when she was again called to the witness stand.

Tax arrears increased from $42,136 in 1931 to $55,953 in 1932, Miss Marchildon told Judge J. M. Hall, Royal Commissioner. She had told the Commission previously arrears increased only $500. Tax arrears in 1930, she said, were $29,880. Assessment in 1932 was $1,973,822, and in 1931 was $2,172,643.

He was instructed by relief officer Joseph Cote to give cash for town relief vouchers marked "not good for cash," J. R. Virgo, manager of a chain store, testified.

In Cote's Orders.

"The first vouchers issued to relief road workers read, 'Good for $5,' or whatever the amount might be," he said. "The men told me the orders represented their wages and they wanted part cash and part groceries. I telephoned Cote and he told me to do as I pleased. Later, when the vouchers were marked 'Not good for cash,' I phoned Cote again and he told me I could give cash if I wanted to. I continued to give some cash on vouchers until a few days ago, when the inspector told me not to give any more."

In December, when the town sold 90 bags of potatoes to T. Legault for 45 cents a bag, he was paying from 55 to 65 cents a bag, Virgo said.

"Why didn't you try to get in with the town?" asked W. H. Williams, K.C., Commission counsel.

"Try and get in!" the witness replied.

COSTS COUNCIL $400.

LONDON, Ont.—The City Council here voted to pay $400 more than was necessary for liability and collision insurance for municipal motor insurances. The reasons were:

The acceptance of the highest tender split commissions among eight agents; the lowest tender was that of a United States firm. Although it cost the $400 to keep the business in Canada, the Council approved.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

IN THIS SEASON of coughing and discomfort from colds, it is well, to remember that tissue and crepe paper can become useful aids and decrease work during these periods.

* * * * * * *

It is not necessary to buy paper handkerchiefs, for these are deservedly higher priced than paper napkins. The handkerchiefs are dainty affairs of higher grade paper.

* * * * * * *

Cheap napkins are equally as sanitary when appropriated as handkerchiefs. Also there are various low-priced tissue-like varieties of paper which are excellent for such use. Some of them come boxed and in sizes which are suitable for handkerchiefs.

* * * * * * *

The great advantage of soft paper so used is that it can be easily disposed of. There has to be no washing of soiled handkerchiefs, and the danger of infection or contagion in a family is minimized.

* * * * * * *

It is unwise to have soiled handkerchiefs remain unwashed, and the one with the cold seldom feels like doing even the small laundry work which washing them involves.

* * * * * * *

Paper bags are a great help also in reducing work and in protection. For example, at night put a bag at the head of the bed occupied by the one with the cold. On he table by the bed put a supply of paper tissue.

* * * * * * *

In the morning the bag can be burned with the contents, or the bag emptied into a fireplace or stove and be incinerated.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

"DEAR MISS GLAD: I've been doing my own cooking lately, and am finding it very difficult to keep my hands clean and white. Everything I touch just seems to stain the skin. Could you tell me how to remove such discolorations from my hands?

"MRS JAY"

The best procedure is to keep half a lemond and a bottle of bleaching hand lotion at your kitchen sink. Rub the lemon on the stains frequently during the day, and then apply the hand lotion to keep the skin smooth. Another effective way to remove stains from the hands is to make a smooth paste of lemon juice and powdered pumice, and to rub it on the discolored skin. Be sure to rinse the paste thoroughly from the skin after its use. And massage your hands nightly with a good, rich cream or lotion, to counteract any drying effects of the day's routine.

"Dear Miss Glad: My hair has improved so greatly since I've been following the instructions in your 'Beauty Culture' booklet, that I simply had to write and thank you. The salt water treatments have stopped the hair from falling almost entirely. And the oil shampoos have made my tresses much thicker and glossier. My feet are worrying me now, however. I've always had healthy ones, but lately a bunion has been forming on my right foot. Can you tell me its cause?

"BEA."

Bunions usually result from the wearing of too-short shoes. The toes are crammed in the end of a short shoe, and the small bones in the great toe are forced back against the head of the bone to which they are attached. This causes the toe to rotate toward the outside of the foot, and the longer bone to change its position in the opposite direction. A surplus of tissue then accumulates, with the resulting inflammation and bunion. Properly-fitting shoes with a straight last will assist in eliminating a bunion and preventing its recurrence. But the best course always is to have bunions treated by a skilled chiropodist.

"Dear Miss Glad: A friend of mine has a booket of exercises that have done a great deal to develop and shape her formerly thin legs. She advises me to practice these same exercises every day, but my legs are fat, and I wish to reduce them. Do you really think that exercises that develop thin legs would also reduce fat ones?

"SARA."

It is indeed possible that exercises that develop thin legs will help to reduce fat ones. For exercises activates the tissues and makes them healthy and efficient. When thin legs are exercised, the circulation is stimulated, and the blood is enabled to carry nourishment to the tissues. This develops firm muscle in the starved tissues. When fat legs are exercised, the tissues become active and break down the excess fat. The exercises that have developed your friend's legs should prove just as effective in slenderizing your own over-plump ones, if you practice them vigorously and faithfully every single day.

CATHEDRAL PLAY ERS PRESENT PLAY "IT PAY S TO ADVERTISE"

Farcical Comedy Well Presented by Cast in Collegiate Auditorium.

SPLENDID CAST.

(By Jeanette)

The Cathedral Players of St. Peter's Cathedral parish made their bow to the city last night in a very smartly-enacted presentation of "It Pays to Advertise." It is doubtful if this well-known farcical comedy ever had a better presentation at the hands of amateurs. The sincere and universal applause of a very pleased audience that numbered nearly five hundred and fifty people, attested to the genuine interest taken in the work of a cast of talented players.

The stage of the Collegiate Institute, where the production took place, was arranged with an attractive library interior setting and the play itself, in three acts, was dressed in up-to-date fashion.

"It Pays to Advertise," is a three-act comedy with a farcical atmosphere, abounding in clever, humorous dialogue, and with action of the snappy, vivid type.

It portrays the efforts of a millionaire soap manufacturer to make a business man of his son, who sees no reason to irk himself with efforts to increase the family fortunes, but who finally sees the light through the efforts of his sweetheart and a gentleman who is very much sold on the value of advertising. How the trio finally put it all over the older gentleman and make him realize just what proper advertising can do to a product, works itself out, when his own soap, selling at three cents a cake wholesale, is made to yield a profit of 97 cents on every cake, all through the power of advertising that proclaims it to be "death to dirt, the most expensive soap in the world."

The four principals in the cast have a great deal of dialogue which keeps them talking most of the time. "It Pays to Advertise" is by no means a subtle play. The cards are on the table all the time. The audience knows every trick in the deck, from the minute that old Cyrus Martin conspires with his stenographer to get his son to go to work, to the moment when the fake countess unmasks her blackmailing intentions with charming and somewhat alarming sincerity.

Splendid Cast

The four main actors in the piece are the father, Cyrus Martin, who was splendidly portrayed by Jack McCabe, in a manner that left nothing to be desired; the son, Rodney Martin, with Jack Madden giving a perfect characterization of the young man who engineers a great scheme to sell soap, with the aid of his fellow-conspirator, Ambrose Peale. Jack Roach had this part, one of the principal roles of the play, and he carried it off as if he had been born to the task of talking about advertising and its value. His stage appearance, manner, diction and enthusiasm were just in key, and he got the interest of the audience with a splendid characterization.

Miss Marcelle McNulty, the other member of the main quartette of players, was as satisfactory as always in her role of Stenographer-sweetheart whose brains prove to be more than a match for those of the soap baron. She was Mary Grayson, a lady who would leave no one in doubt as to why gentlemen prefer blondes, and she added a touch of attractive femininity to the big business schemes of her companions. Her role was difficult but extremely well taken.

Of major interest also, in a differing type that brought to the fore a lady with adventuress tendencies, was Miss Peggy Roache, as the stunning Comtesse de Baurien. Gowned in Parisian simplicity and effectiveness, Miss Roche's brunette smariness gave a striking French touch to the production. She was a chic and vivacious schemer, who sought to acquire a great deal of money by dishonest means. It was a splendidly enacted role.

The other members of the cast, all with smaller parts, were fully as adequate as the main actors. They included Thomas Ryan, as the impressive man of business, William Smith; Dr. E. M. Crough, as the hard-hearted creditor, Donald McCliesney; Ernest Archambault as the tall and dignified butler, Johnson; F. J. Lonergan as Charles Bronson, in a brief entrance as a young man representing big business; and the two dainty feminine parts played by Miss Hilda Sullivan, as an office clerk, Miss Burke; and Miss Helen Archambault, as Marie, maid at the Martin's home.

Then there was Ellery Clark, son of Cyrus Martin's biggest rival in the soap business. David Edward, who had this part, deserves special mention for his excellent portrayal of the vacuous youth with the monocle and the vapid conversation. It was a highlight in a production that sparkled with clever acting.

Between the first and second act, Miss Geraldine Collins sang very sweetly two lovely songs, "Bird Songs at Eventide" and "Happy Day." She was applauded enthusiastically, as was also the splendid orchestra which played several times. This was a thirty-piece organization, including a fine range of orchestral instruments that were heard to wonderful advantage, led by Joseph Minicola.

Members of the orchestra included the following: First violins: A. Seidel, Joseph Nolan, Cecil Gallagher, Henry McDonell, Ray Leonard, Max Glover; second violins: John Burke, Clarence Collins, Francis Strano, Michael Pepe, Catherine Corkery, Gladys Perdue, Gertrude McDonell; guitar, Miss Veronica Scollard; clarinets: Philip Marocco, A. Schultz, Paul Minicola; trumpets: Charles Thirnbeck, Wesley Boorman; 'cellos: R. C. Searles, Jack Thackeray; trombone, Walter Miller; bass viol, W. H. Cunningham; drums, Gerard Lebarr, Jack Minicola; pianists: Miss Bernice Flynn and Miss Marion Best; banjo ukulele, Teresa Perdue.

A great deal of credit for the success of the production of the play is manifestly due to the excellent direction of George Lynch, whose expert ability in lengthy stage training were splendidly demonstrated in the very fine presentation made by the young people under his direction.

Jack McCabe acted as stage manager and properties were in charge of Frank Hickey and Frank Cain.

Those in charge of the play express themselves as grateful to Cain Brothers, for furnishings loaned; the Board of Education and H. R. H. Kenner, for co-operation; the Peterborough Examiner, for publicity, and to those musicians, not members of the parish of the Cathedral, who so generously and willingly donated their services to augment the personnel of the orchestra for the production, which was presented entirely for relief purposes.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

PERNIA, or chilblain, is a disturbance of the circulation in the feet due to exposure, to rapid changes of temperature, especially cold and moisture. A constitutional factor is also present, some people being more disposed to it than others.

There is considerable variation in severity of chilblains, and in the most severe forms they are hardly distinguished from definite circulatory diseases of the feet associated with ulceration and dry gangrene.

Prevention is more important than treatment. In people disposed to the condition, the greatest care should be taken to see that there is free circulation in the feet, especially during the winter time. Tight shoes and garters which encircle the leg should be discarded. Woolen socks or stockings, which keep the feet at a uniform temperature, are also helpful in prevention. A period of elevation of the feet for several minutes frequently during the day is recommended.

In active treatment the relief of itching or burning in the feet can be accomplished by washing in cold salt water; the feet are then wiped dry and covered with a mixture of iodine one part and soap liniment two parts.

Another treatment which has been reported by my correspondents to be beneficial, is to dry the diseased areas of the skin and then paint them with tincture of iodine. As soon as the iodine has dried, a think layer of ichthyol is smeared on and covered with as much cotton as will stick to it. A soft woolen stocking completes the dressing.

Still another treatment which has been recommended, is to paint the affected areas with iodized glycerin—equal parts tincture of iodine and glycerin—on retiring, covering with a stocking in order not to stain the bed clothes.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

P. C. C.: "(1) Are there so-called goiter belts in this country? (2) In what part of the country is baldness among men most common? Which part of the country is best fitted for the healthful growth of hair? (3) In what part of Alaska is consumption most likely to occur?"

Answer: (1) The distribution of simple goiter, as determined by the examination of drafted men in the army, is most frequent in the upper part of Michigan, part of Ohio, and the upper part of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and the Pacific northwest. It is least frequent along the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to the terminal border of Texas on the Gulf of Mexico. This applies only to simple enlargement of the thyroid gland. The exophthalmic form of goiter has not been shown to have any regional concentration. (2) There is no part of the country in which baldness is more common than any other part, nor any place where a healthful growth of hair is assumed. (3) I know of no proof that the incidence of consumption is more common in one part of Alaska than another.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs about one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill this big bottle. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

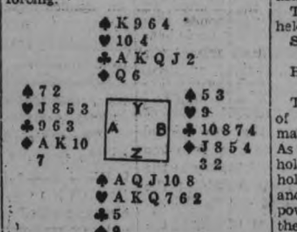
CHOOSING THE FORCING BID

BOTH THE opening bid of two and three are forcing bids, but they show quite different types of hands, and the responses disclose different kinds of supporting strength. The opening bid of two may be based upon a single suiter and nine probable tricks in hand; upon a two-suiter and eight probable tricks, or upon three biddable suits and seven playing tricks. The opening bid of three always means game in the declaring hand (with a reasonable adverse distribution of missing cards), and no support in trumps required. The three bid asks partner to commence showing Aces, the lowest Ace first. The next hand shows a game lost through selection of the incorrect method of forcing.



Bidding went: Z, 3-Hearts; Y, 4-Clubs; Z, 4-Spades (showing the Ace, to see what more his partner held in high honors); Y, 5-Clubs (showing th eK of that suit); Z, 5-Hearts; Y, 5-Spades (to show his K of Spades); Z, 6-Hearts.

A led his K of diamonds, followed by the Ace, which the declarer trumped. On the second round of hearts B showed out, and the declaration went down one trick. When bidders learn that si xtrumps, headed by A-K-Q, have only about three in four chances to drop all opposing trumps in three leads, they will not so often go down a trick or more.

Instead of making an opening bid of three on the above hand, Z should have forced with 2-Hearts. Y would have bid 3-Clubs, then Z should have tried 3-Spades. Y then should have bid 5-Spades, to show his slam probabilities, justifying Z in bidding 6-Spades, which could not have been defeated. All opponents could have won would have been one diamond trick. Two leads of spades would have dropped all opposing spades. Dummy would have enabled the declarer either to trump declarer's one losing heart, or have enabled him to discard three hearts upon dummy's established clubs.

Spades—A 7 5 3
Hearts—K 5
Clubs—A Q 10
Diamonds—A K 7 2

To the amazement of the bidder of the above hand, his partner made an opening bid of 2-Hearts. As the opening bidder could not well hold three biddable suits, he must hold either a single biddable suit and a hand worth nine tricks, or a powerful two-suiter. What should the holder of the above hand do? The question will be answered tomorrow.

THE PROPER ATTITUDE.

The Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham refused to have anything to do the other day with a resolution in favor of currency inflation as a solution of Canada's problems.

The county legislators showed a proper appreciation of their responsibilities when they declined to mix such a question into their discussion of municipal affairs.

If municipal bodies satisfactorily administer the business which properly comes under their jurisdiction they will be satisfactorily discharging their duties to the people whose representatives they are. Matters which belong to the sphere of the Federal Government are not part of the municipal agenda, and are properly kept outside by councils which have a true conception of their responsibilities.

And an issue so involved as the currency problem is not in any case a question to be decided after a brief discussion by a county council.

There are too many angles to the thing, too much diversity of opinion for a municipal council to take a stand one way or the other, and the Council of the United Counties was therefore quite justified in declining to take any notice of the petition received.

THE QUESTION OF PRICE.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald takes exception to the remark of a member of the Perth County Council to the effect that no matter how low the price of beef and pork was the consumer was always asking that it be lower.

"We believe," says the Stratford paper, "that the average consumer is willing to pay a fair price for what he consumes."

The Examiner is also satisfied that such is the case.

The remark is often heard these days among urban residents that the prices now being received by Canadian farmers for their products is a tragedy, and that it will be useless to look for a return of good times generally until those engaged in Canada's basic industry receive better returns.

Human nature being what it is, the consumer is not paying any more than he has to for what he purchases, just as the producer in more prosperous days did not hesitate to accept inflated prices when the conditions set the cost of farm products soaring.

But he is not attempting to beat down to lower price levels, and if it came about that better returns could be afforded the farmer for what he sells most urban dwellers would pay cheerfully, confident that the higher prices for primary produce was an indication that prosperity was emerging from around the corner.

A LESSON FOR YOUNG PLAYERS.

To-night's benefit game in aid of an injured Peterborough player will bring before local fans two of the outstanding stars of professional hockey in the persons of Frank Clancy and Irvin Bailey of the champion Toronto Maple Leafs, who will be the officials, their presence being a gesture of kindly co-operation on the part of two very clever exponents of Canada's national winter game.

Although not so old in years, both Clancy and Bailey are veterans in point of service in the monied ranks, and the fact that they are right at the top of their form and earning the plaudits both of fans and hockey writers, should not be without its moral for the younger generation in this city.

These two great players are able to keep in the forefront in the fastest game in the world because for the simple reason that they have kept themselves fit, because they have had the common sense to avoid the things that would have injured them physically; they are always in condition and therefore always able to give of their best.

The result is that in a game that demands of its exponents stamina and skill and courage they are still numbered in the first flight, despite the adage that youth must be served.

The lesson told by their record is there for all to read, and young players just at the threshold of their sporting career would do well to model their conduct after such illustrious performers as Messrs. Clancy and Bailey.

PICTURES FIT FOR CHILDREN.

It is notable that in his annual report J. C. Boylen, chairman of the Board of Censors of Motion Pictures for Ontario, found it necessary to express his regret at the lack of film subjects suitable for young people and children.

"While 'adult themes' have their place on the screen," he remarks, "the motion picture is the vehicle of entertainment for the masses. The screen's great pre-occupation, just now, with subjects unsuitable for family entertainment threatens not only to decrease the patronage of the young people but of their parents also. In this connection the board would repeat what has been so often pointed out by others, that parents and guardians have as much a duty supervising their children's selection of screen entertainment as they have in regard to plays and books."

There is a warning there that the film industry would be wise in heeding, The Examiner believes.

Much of the fare now being shown is not fit for youngsters, and the parents who exercise a proper supervision over what their children see in the way of screen entertainment are forced not only to keep their families away from the theatre on numerous occasions but often to stay away themselves.

It would seem to be good business on the part of the producers to pay some attention to that angle of their business and to endeavor to increase the number of films suitable for general showing.

Pictures need not necessarily be juvenile in their nature, but, on the other hand, crime plays and sex pictures form too large a part of the general program.

SHE'S A CAPITALIST—AREN'T WE ALL?

(From the Ottawa Journal)

Out in Calgary Miss Agnes MacPhail has been telling them why she, warring against capitalism and profits, has a little oil well of her own. A little oil well of which she is a director, and which sends out circulars telling people that if they buy its shares they will make a lot of money and live happily ever afterwards. Agnes says that she didn't buy her part in this well at all, that it was left her by an uncle. You see, according to Agnes, you're not a capitalist if somebody leaves you a well or a lot of money or real estate or something. It's only when you buy such things yourself that you can't get through a needle's eye or into Heaven either.

Well, we always thought that, to Socialists and people like Agnes, it really made no difference. Our idea, in fact, was that Socialists thought that it was a lot worse if the things were left to you, and you hadn't really earned them. "They toil not, neither do they spin."

Really, we're afraid that Agnes has got her political theories and ideals tangled up with her pocketbook. That, of course, is all right with us. If she (as she says) likes to eat, and have nice clothes, and to travel, we say go ahead and have a good time—why not? What we complain about is that Agnes, with her ideals balked by a wholesome womanly desire for creature comforts, should be tongue-lashing other people whose craving for such things clash with their ideals, too.

However, we wish her well with her well; and that no what-you-may-call it (a "bit," we think) freezes in it, which is what happened to one of ours. She's a capitalist, but—aren't we all?

AN INGLORIOUS CAREER.

Charles W. Morse is dead, but his passing means nothing to charity or philanthrophy. Morse apparently did not care for the other fellow. His chief concern in life was the forming of pools or mergers in which many unfortunates were crowded to the wall. But this was no concern of Morse. Bent on being a financial czar he did not bother himself about the miseries his ambitions might cause. An evidence of his indifference and of his ruthlessness is found in the ice "corner" which he effected in New York. In the 90's he formed the American Ice Company, which absorbed most of the independent concerns in the city. Those that remained soon found that pier facilities were barred to them. Morse had all available piers. Mayor Van Wyck was a large holder of American Ice securities. A year later the incorporation of the ice trust, ice which had sold at 30 cents a hundred pounds rose, one blistering midsummer day, to 60 cents. It requires no brilliant imagination to picture the suffering and misery that resulted from this abnormal but deliberate increase in the price of ice. What cared Morse if the milk for babies of the poor soured for lack of ice, and the young and the sick made to swelter in steaming tenements without the relief of cooling drinks? He was forced out of the ice business and the ghastly trust dissolved, as a result of a newspaper campaign. But he got out with $12,000,000, it is said, and the jingle of this money deadened the cry of the children.

Morse became a prominent and a feared figure in the banking world. He controlled five state banks and four national banks in the city. He also was digging into the insurance field, buying coastal steamship lines, and setting up a telephone company to compete with the Bell system in New England. He bought the Mallory Line, the Clyde Line, the Metropolitan Line and other coastwise steamship concerns, and acquired control of most of the river shipping between Troy and New York. From Maine to Texas he gobbled up competitors until he almost monopolized coastwise shipping from Portland, Me., to Galveston. On January 1, 1907, he merged his shipping interests in the Consolidated Steamship Line, with $60,000,000 capital. Then he and a group of friends undertook to form a copper pool.

The panic which broke in October, 1907, put him on the chute. One of his banks collapsed, and the Clearing House committee compelled him to retire from all the others. The stock in the shipping combine was wiped out and its $60,000,000 in bonds dropped to an aggregate valuation of $5,400,000—all that was left of $120,000,000. Morse's personal fortune of $22,000,000 vanished. Following the closing of the New Amsterdam Bank, a federal grand jury indicted him for misapplication of funds. Convicted, he was sentenced to Atlanta penitentiary for fifteen years, but he was discharged on order of President Taft, after he had served only a few years, because a board of examing physicians had decided that he could not live one month longer in confinement, or at most six months in the world outside the walls. He lived for 20 years after his discharge. This record of longevity can be equalled by many other "dying" prisoners.

Morse continued his financial machinations after his release and was twice indicted in the courts. In one case he was acquitted and in the other the charges were dropped after the jury had disagreed.

Such is the sordid, if sensational, career of Charles W. Morse. His collapse may be attributed to the fact that his sole concern seemed to be the making of money. If he had maintained an interest in his fellow-men, he would have steered clear of those "corners" which caused his ruin, since he would have been mindful of others. Ambition to make money is all right, but unless it is accompanied by a personal interest in humanity, it will result in disaster if not in disgrace. Those who do build up fortunes on the broken businesses and, sometimes, bodies of others, never gain the esteem or affection of their fellows which many regard as being infinitely more valuable than hordes of gold.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Parliament can always be counted upon to produce plenty of things about which to talk.

Premier Henry has ventured to cross swords with Miss Agnes MacPhail on the inflation question. That being a federal issue, Mr. Henry might have been well advised to leave it alone.

The Relief Fund campaign deserves more general and more generous support than it has so far been accorded. It represents an effort to share the burden among those most able to help.

Local police are beginning to take an interest in the matter of new license markers, and it looks as if a good many other people will have to be doing the same thing.

Mr. Hepburn declares that another session of the Legislature would be "a lame duck" affair, meaning that there is no mandate for a 1934 session. Probably somebody will retort that the redoubtable Mitch., not being a member of the Legislature himself, is a "lame duck" leader.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 31

When Kane rapped the door was opened by the maid who had admitted him the night Nanette was shot. Whereas on that night she was attired in the customary maid's costume today she wore a natty suit of tweeds, with white shirt open at the collar, revealing a throat of velvety whiteness.

He asked for Nanette and was told that she had not risen, that she was troubled by the wound in her shoulder. But he would not be denied. His persistence won and Dorotha admitted him.

"I will see if Miss LeRoi will admit you," she said in a thoroughly business-like manner.

He watched her disappear through the door into Nanette's boudoir. An expression of puzzlement was on his face. Where had he seen that girl before. He was certain that he had seen her somewhere, but just where he cou'd not recall.

She did not have the attitude of a maid. There was no servility in her manner. Instead, she was brusque, peremptory. She left the impression that she held a more important position in this household than that of a servant.

But for the life of him he could not place her. It angered him, too, for he had always prided himself on his memory. In the past it had served him in good stead, had aided him when he was deprived of important clues which he had seen but could not gain possession of.

Presently, she returned. "Miss LeRoi will see you," she informed him icily. "She is in bed and you must be considerate of her."

Then she was gone. Kane went in to Nanette. She was in bed, propped up under a mountain of pillows. She smiled at him and bade him welcome. He drew up a chair to the side of the bed and sat down. A shadow crossed her face, but he attributed this to pain from her wound.

He lost no time in making known the purpose of his call. "I suppose you have heard of the latest developments in the Bailey affair," he said.

"Yes," she replied calmly. I have seen the morning paper."

"Too bad," he muttered. "Chivington was a fine old man."

Nanette studied him through half-closed eyes. She wondered how much he knew, how much she could tell him without besmearing herself. Finally:

"He seemed devoted to his master," evasively.

"That," he laughed, "is an admirable trait unto itself."

"I agree thoroughly."

He leaned toward her. His keen eyes were studying her closely, though in them she saw nothing but a casual interest. He said:

"Do you remember our conversation at the hotel Saturday night? When I told you of Bailey's murder?"

She nodded indecisively. What was he driving at? Was he trying to ensnare her? She realized that she had to be careful, that he was seeking information.

He went on: "After looking into Bailey's past life I heartily agree with you. Bailey was a rotter, and if there ever was a man who deserved death he was one."

"Then," she countered, "why are the police trying so hard to find someone to hang for his murder?"

"The police," he told her, "must save their face. The department is under fire. Chief John Lee is determined that he is going to wipe the slate clean by hanging this murder on somebody, he doesn' care who."

"And you're helping him?" she berated him.

"No," and he smiled, "I'm try ng to show him up. He kicked me out last night."

"Why?"

"Because I wanted to find the guilty person and gather enough evidence to convict him before an arrest was made."

"Him?" she caught him up. "Then you think it was a man?"

"What do you think?" he flung back.

She allowed her lids to droop wearily. "I don't know," she said lazily. "But it doesn't seem possible to me that a woman could be guilty of such a crime.

"To the contrary," he snapped, "the crime has every appearance as being the work of a woman. In fact, one has been charged with the murder."

"Yes," drearily, "I saw in the papers."

"And yet," he went on, "Lillian Hull isn't guilty. I'm as sure of it as I am that I am sitting here talking to you at this moment."

"Why are they holding her? Why has she been charged with the murder?"

"Because she is a very foolish little girl. Lee thinks he has the motive established—and I admit it looks bad for the girl—but I believe he is all wrong."

She started to phrase a question but he went on:

"Lillian Hull was tangled up with Bailey before you came along. He threw her over for you. You know the old proverb, Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned. That is John Lee's case."

"That is a pretty strong case, isn't it?" she asked. The faintest trace of a smile played about the corners of her mouth. He saw it and:

"No stronger—if as strong—than would be the case against you."

He saw her pale under her rouge. "Isn't that putting it rather strongly?" grimly.

"Just let me draw a picture for you, a photomange, for instance. In the center is a woman—you. In one corner is a picture of a woman — you again—holding a smoking revolver while at your feet is the dead body of your husband. Immediately beneath that is another picture, that of a woman undergoing a facial operation while beside you stands a man saying, 'This is the end of Judy King Banning. From now on you are Nanette LeRoi.' There is another picture, that of an exotic actress with all Hollywood at her feet, toasting her, yet she looks at them afraid that she will be recognized. There is still another picture, that of this same actress quarreling violently with a man, Richard Bailey. A fifth picture reveals this woman standing over the still form of Bailey stretched out unconscious on the floor."

Nanette listened to him, fear in her eyes, Rodolf Holmes had pointed out all this to her last night and her reply had been:

"Do you think I am guilty?"

But now she was hearing it again. Last night she had passed it off with scarcely more than a reprimand and a shrug of her pretty shoulders. But she could not do that now.

"But there is another picture for this photomange," he said. "This one is not so pleasant. It is the picture that supplies the motive. A woman—again it is this exotic actress known as Nanette LeRoi is handing the man—who bears a striking resemblance to Richard Bailey—some money and she is saying, 'This is nothing but blackmail. I'm not going to give you any more money. If you want to tell who I am go ahead. I don't care.'"

Nanette bolted to a sitting posture. "Stop it!" she shrieked. "Stop it! You're trying to tell me that I murdered Richard Bailey because he was blackmailing me."

Kane shook his head. "No," he said coldly, "I am merely pointing out that a stronger case can be built against you than against that poor, foolish girl who is locked up in a cell down at the jail."

She stared at him, trying desperately to find words to express herself.

He went on: "I know that you did not kill Richard Bailey," consolingly. "I know, also, that Lillian Hull did not do it."

Dorotha had heard Nanette scream. Now, she burst in upon them. Nanette said:

"It's all right, Dorotha."

Once more Kane looked at her and tried to remember where he had seen her. But still she was as elusive as an elfin.

Nanette said, "Mr. Kane was telling me about his investigation of the murder."

Dorotha showed that she did not believe that. But she said nothing.

Taking his cue from that Kane told them: "I have just come from the hospital where that girl was taken—"

"She is dead. She died without naming her assailant."

"She—she regained consciousness?" Dorotha asked.

"Only long enough to say three words."

"Three words." Nanette stared at the ceiling. Her voice was colorless. "And they were—"

"Buddy tricked me."

Dorotha swayed slightly. She was deathly pale. Nanette's eyes were fastened on her.

"Buddy," Dorotha groaned. "Buddy tricked her."

SIR HENRY L. DRAYTON
Lawyer, Railways, Ex-Finance Minister

This is the signature of a man who gets much out of life because he puts so much into it. He is highly susceptible to impression and sensations. He runs through an experience in much less time than would be required of the average person to delve so deeply and to absorb the contents of any experience so thoroughly. He is the sort of man who lives many lives in one lifetime. From much experience he is old and wise in the knowledge of the world and its ways. But he accepts each and every experience as it comes his way as a completely new thing, to be measured by no rule of thumb—a source of wonder and pleasure. He at once courts and eschews wordly success. It is the achieving rather than the achievment that actually appeals to him. His efforts are commensurate with the difficulties inherent in the doing. The knottier the problem the greater is his energy and enthusiasm, but once the place of smooth sailing is reached he inclines to lose interest and wants new work. In so far as the type of work is concerned, he is so richly endowed in personality, talent and ability that he could be almost anything successfully that he had a mind to be, providing it was not of a strictly routine character. He demands interest and variety from life, likes life best when it bubbles and froths with the excitement of things to be done, things that tax him to the utmost of his capabilities. He is highly cultivated and cultured but in manner unaffected, natural and spontaneous.

OVERCOME BY FUMES.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 1. (C.P.) — Overcome by carbon monoxide gas before he could pass through an open door, John Cory, 35, met tragic death in his garage early Tuesday. Returning home after midnight, he evidently attempted to adjust the motor of his car after closing the large doors of the garage. Then he apparently felt the effects of the gas, reached a small side door and opened it. He fell back into the garage before he could reach the outdoors.

His body was found by his sister.

roots. It is from its own land that a people draws the strength to live. In some mysterious way the land enters into the marrow of the bones as well as into the make-up of its mind. Only on its own soil can a people build traditions, and from its own soil it draws legends and superstitions and philosophies and religion and all the other things which go into the making of a distinct nation.

New National Life.

The aim of Zionism is not merely to establish in Palestine a place of refuge for hunted Jews. Zionism aims at the transformation of Palestine into a Jewish Commonwealth, that is to say Jews are to give direction to the new national Jewish life that is developing there. It goes without saying that the Zionists have no intention to cause prejudice to the interests of the other inhabitants of the Holy Land. Nevertheless life in Palestine is to have a Jewish stamp. Jews are to be free to work out their own ideas on social relationships. They are to reconstruct Palestinian society according to the dictates of the Hebraic national genius.

In Palestine, in short, the Jew is to be at home. I know that many Jews feel at home in Canada, in Germany, in the United States and in South Africa, that they are excellent citizens of these countries, that they have risen to positions of eminence and high authority in many places, and that they would not dream of exchanging their present residence for a place in Palestine. Yet these Jews in America and Germany are gradually, by the force of circumstances, losing their Jewishness. They are being assimilated. First they become mere American or German citizens of the Mosaic faith. Nothing but a credal affiliation distinguishes them from the peoples among whom they dwell. After a time even the credal difference vanishes and they are lost to their people, because the Jewish people have no other ties in the countries of the Dispersion to bind them together except religion.

Checks Disintegration.

Zionism seeks to check this process of disintegration in Jewish life by the establishment of a national centre, by the setting up of a central station you might say, which will pump, as it were, new blood, new strength and new energy into the arteries of Jewish life all over the world. Zionism is therefore a supreme effort at Jewish national self-preservation.

Zionism is not merely the concern of those Jews actually living in Palestine. It is a matter of deep importance to every Jew in the world. Zionism is really Jewish nationalism, but not a nationalism which is animated by chauvinism and egotism or imbued with hatred and envy towards other nations. Its aim is to regenerate the Jewish people, to infuse new life into a Jewish world which is dying of anaemia, which is more and more losing its own character and which is more and more becoming submerged in the world at large.

Ultimately the Jewish Commonwealth in Palestine is to have its representatives in the councils of the nations. Jews who will speak up for their brethren who are undergoing nameless persecutions in other lands. At present the Jews are virtually at the mercy of humanitarian individuals who will plead their cause on occasions. There is no authentic Jewish voice in the world.

Voice of New Palestine.

That voice will come from the new Palestine, from the nucleus of a reconstituted Jewish homeland, with its own parliament, with its own representatives at Geneva, in London, in Warsaw and in Moscow. To the Jews of America and Canada, Palestine will be a spiritual centre. Palestine can never harbor all the Jews of the world and this is not the intention either, but Palestine can become and is becoming to-day in an increasing manner the centre from which radiates a revivified Jewish thought and learning and art. This is possible because Jews in Palestine are living a free, untrammeled Jewish life. In that country their creative abilities have free play. They are not hampered there by non-Jewish opinion. The Jews are no longer spiritual middlemen. The return to the land is proving an elixir of life first for the Jews in Palestine but also for the Jews of the whole world.

To non-Jews and Christians the Zionist enterprise is of importance because it assures an independent Jewish national contribution to the sum total of civilization. Civilization, as I have said before, is not a universal culture. Civilization is like a precious mosaic. A hundred fragments go to make up the ensemble. All together the hundreds of little colored stones form the beauty of the design. If you take one stone away, the whole mosaic is marred. The beauty is gone. For two thousand years one block was missing from the mosaic of civilization. That was the Jewish block. Zionism is putting it back. To any man who believes that the contribution of the Jewish people to civilization has been of value in the past, the attempt to make it possible for that people to contribute again freely, independently and according to the range of its own spirit, the Zionist Movement must be an undertaking of the first importance.

THIS AND THAT

I MET A PESSIMIST and his said he was sadder than usual today because he had just met an old friend who insisted on being cheerful all through his troubles...The Pessimist said it broke his heart, such cheerfulness. The old friend should have been weepy and desperate. But instead he managed to smile a little. And the Pessimist simply couldn't stand it....It was very sad.

When a man makes sage and sometimes critical remarks about "women," his wife mentally thinks he is talking about her.

When a woman makes a few acid comments on men, her husband always assumes that she is talking about him.

Not long ago trained investigators asked questions of 500 women; some were married, some were single and some had been divorced. Three-fourths of the divorced women thought that love flies out the window when poverty comes in at the door. But only one-third of the married women thought so. One-third of the divorced women thought that men are "mean" to women; only one-tenth of the married women think so.

And when they were asked if modern men are "romantic"; half of the married women thought so, but only one-third of the divorced women agreed .... These answers means only what you want them to mean. The divorced women may have married "mean" men, but the happily married ones may be happy just because they are the kind of women who do NOT think men are mean.

A quotation, from Thoreau, for these times: "I saw a delicate flower had grown up two feet high, between the horses' path and the wheel track. An inch more to the right or left had sealed its fate, or an inch higher; and yet it lived to flourish as much as if it had a thousand acres of untrodden space around it, and never knew the danger it incurred. It did not borrow trouble, nor invite an evil fate by apprehending it."

A THOUGHT

A TRUE MAN

Search thine own heart. What paineth thee
In others, in thyself may be;
All dust is frail, all flesh is weak;
Be thou the true man thou dost seek.

DIFFICULTIES

To this day I thank difficulties. They were more numerous than the nice happy incidents. But the latter gave me nothing. The difficulties of life have hardened my spirit. They have taught me how to live.—Mussolini.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A BANK'S BIRTHDAY

ON THIS DATE, in 1871, a new bank was opened at Toronto—The Dominion. Designed to further relieve the hold which Montreal banks then had upon the business of Ontario. All of the promoters in April, 1869, have passed except Sir William Mulock, then a practicing lawyer much in demand as a Liberal speaker, and now the chief justice of Ontario; the others were John Worthington, James Crowther and James Holden; but when the application was made for a charter the names of John Crawford, M.P. (afterwards lieutenant governor), Hon. J. C. Aikins (later lieutenant governor of Manitoba), W. S. Lee, Joseph Gould, John Ross, and Aaron Ross were added. It was not an easy matter to raise the necessary capital, especially in view of the fact that some of the promoters notably John Crawford, was trying to save the Royal Canadian Bank, but in November, 1870, new blood was brought in by the enlistment of James Austin, Frank Smith (afterwards Sir Frank), Peleg Howland, Samuel Nordheimer, and J. H. Mead. Mr. Austin, who was elected president, had retired from the board of the Canadian Bank of Commerce on a difference of opinion with William McMaster over policy as to gold transactions in New York.

The Dominion Bank, which is unique in never having absorbed a rival, soon branched out for business outside Toronto. Within a year branches were opened at Whitby, Oshawa, Orillia and Uxbridge, and it set an example to other banks by being the first to open a branch in its home city. It has had only five presidents—James Austin, 1871-97; Sir Frank Smith, 1897-1901; Sir Edmund Osler, 1901-24; Sir Augustus Manton, 1924-25; and A. W. Austin since; and it has only had four general managers, R. H. Bethune, 1870-96; R. D. Gamble, 1896-99; T. G. Brough, 1899-1906; and C. A. Bogert, 1906 to date.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1. (CP) — Wheat got away to a good start to-day when gains of about one cent were recorded. At the high points, however, offerings became quite libral and near the end of the first hour of trading part of the early gains were lost.

At the mid-session period values held an even ⅝ cent higher with many at 7⅜; July at 48½ and Oct. at 49½.

A good export business was confirmed worked overnight and this, together with the lower Canadian exchange rate, accounted for the advance, with practically all of the support credited to export interests. No figure was placed on the amount of export business would total more than 1,000,000 bushels, most of which was worked out of Vancouver.

Bulk of the offerings came from Chicago houses who were backspreading, which involved the selling of our futures against purchases in the southern market. Pit trade during the initial hour was quite active and the feeling toward the market was generally friendly.

Liverpool wheat declined owing to the pressure of Canadian and Argentine parcels and quotations near the close were 3/4d to 7/8d lower while Buenos Aires wheat at noon was ¼c to ¼c lower.

CANADIAN DOLLAR RECOVERS FROM EARLY DECLINE TO-DAY

HEAVY SELLING RECENTLY.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 1. —(C. P.)—The Canadian dollar recovered some of its early loss in exchange operations this morning, standing at noon at a discount of 17 3-16 cents.

Opening at 81 5-8 cents the dollar dropped another 1-8 of a point, reaching the lowest level since December 1931. Weakness in Canadian in London was said to have preceded the opening here at a decline of 2 3-8 from the close at 84 yesterday.

DEMAND FOR STERLING.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—(C.P.)—Demand for sterling in Canada to make settlement for Canadian securities sold here by Europeans, especially British holders, accounts for the strength of sterling and the weakness of the Canadian dollar. A. A. G. Harlow, head of the Foreign Exchange Department here of the Canadian Bank of Commerce said to-day.

There has been heavy demand of Canadan bonds and stocks in London and Paris for more than a week, Mr. Harlow pointed out, and in some quarters this is attributed to talk of inflatory measures here.

Mr. Harlow said to name a specific cause would be "guess work," and intimated the question of railway debts in Canada may have entered into the selling. He mentioned specifically selling of C.P.R. stock in London, and added that with the weakness of Canadian funds in London, New York would show a similar decline.

E. A. Pullan, manager of the Foreign Exchange Department of the Dominion Bank, expressed the opinion the drop in Canadian funds was "engineered in London." He pointed out the selling of Canadian securities contributed, but said it was difficult to give definite indication of the factors concerned in the movement.

SUGGEST CHANGING THE NAME OF CENTRAL CHARITY BOARD

Recommend To Council That Name be Central Relief Board.

ACCOUNTS ARE PASSED.

Members of the Central Charity Board proposed at their meeting Monday night that the name of their organization be changed to Central Relief Board.

The suggestion was recommended to the City Council because it was felt that the word charity does not apply to the temporary penury of many citizens who are ordinarily industrious and thrifty, but in the present circumstances are unable to help themselves.

The detailed work of scrutinizing accounts has increased to such an extent that the board decided to notify all such persons having accounts to send them in not later than the Thursday prior to the regular meetings.

City Clerk Armstrong was forced on Monday to muster up extra help from other offices in the city hall to check over the pile of accounts that had been received. And the work was not completed until late in the evening.

Provisions, $7,736.09; milk, $770.71; fuel, $2,611.90; rent, $1,911.39; clothing, $283.59; medicine, $15.09; doctors, $304; sundries, $67. Total, $13,700.27.

R. C. Braund was chairman of the meeting. The Peterborough Lumber Company's offer of 200 cords of hemlock millwood at $3.50 a cord and 600 cords of pine and spruce at $3.75 a cord was referred to a special committee composed of Aldermen Tuggey and McIntyre, A. B. Cunningham, Robert Mulligan and A. G. Metheral.

Canadian Dollar Closes At 84 Cents

FEAR DYNAMITE THEFTS MEAN TERRORIST PLOTS

PHILADELPHIA, February 1 (C. P.). — Scattered thefts of "amazing" quantities of dynamite sent Federal agents to-day on a widespread search for terrorists suspected of plotting the deaths of prominent Italians.

Chief Postal Inspector John W. Johnston disclosed the inquiry is in progress in six states following the bombing which killed Mrs. John M. Di Silvestro, wife of the American head of the Order of the Sons of Italy, injured 16 other persons, and demolished the Di Silvestro home here last week.

Johnston said an effort also is being made to determine if the Di Silvestro blast had any connection with the Easton, Pa., post office bombing in December, 1931, which caused three deaths and spread terror in half a dozen cities.

STUDENT MISSING

TORONTO — "It's a beautiful world, but not for me," Harry Mosner, 24-year-old Hebrew student, scrawled this farewell on the back of an envelope and has not been seen since. Mosner was despondent Sunday, and his family fears for his safety. He had interrupted his studies for the rabbinate several years ago to teach Hebrew, but recently left the role of instructor for an office position. It was to his unhappiness as an office worker his friends attribute his absence.

EINSTEIN WOULD SPEAK ENGLISH

Aim is to Deliver Addresses on Relativity While in States.

UNIFIED FIELD THEORY.

(By Walter B. Clausen, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 1.— (A. P.)— Prof. Albert Einstein, the bushy-haired relativist of Berlin, disclosed to-day that he is mastering the English language sufficiently to deliver lectures on relativity, and has made progress toward thinking out his unified field heory.

That is a work upon which he has engaged for 17 years, an effort to work out a mathematics to express all the basic laws of nature in one equation.

Using good understandable English to fill in between the mathematical terms, which are the only language the physicist can use to express his thoughts, the Professor frequently paused with index finger resting on his nose.

He would glance at the equation, then walk back, saying "no." "Ah. 'Yes' 'No, something is wrong.' 'Ach. Yes. It is all right. "Yah, it is perfect."

And so in the course of an hour's talk before a group of distinguished theoretical physicists here revealed that he had accomplished a new step toward the unified field theory goal. This step gives some solutions in the quantum theory that seems to reconcile it with relativity.

Lad Remanded Week On Stabbing Charge

CORNWALL, Ont., Feb. 1 (C.P.). — Arnold Redmond, 16-year-old Iroquois youth, was remanded until Feb. 7, when he was arraigned here this morning on a charge of causing grievous bodily harm to Principal F. C. Beaupre of the Iroquois High School. Redmond is alleged to have wounded the principal with a hunting knife in the school on Jan. 24, after being reprimanded. The remand was granted at the request of Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness, who stated Principal Beaupre, while making good progress at the Brockville Hospital, is as yet unable to leave the institution and appear as a witness. Beaupre is reported to be making satisfactory progress, attending physicians to-day expressed the opinion three or four weeks might elapse before he would be able to return to his home.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. — (AP) — Prime commercial paper 1-¼ per cent; foreign exchange irregular, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain 3.39½; France 3.90 3-16; Italy 5.10¼; Germany 33.74½; Montreal 82.50.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(A.P.) — Stocks slumped to-day on adverse dividend news and in the late trading ruled around their lows, the range of losses being fractions to about 5 points. Standard Oil of New Jersey was heavily sold, breaking 4 points before meeting much support. United States' Steel Preferred dropped 5. Losses of 2 to 3 points or so were shown by American Tobacco "B," American Telephone, Allied Chemical and Consolidated Gas, while United States' Steel Common, North American, Columbia Gas, Case and American Can were off at least a point. Rails were fairly steady. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (C.P.) — Prices showed little change in afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day, although the market continued active. A few issues were able to cancel small losses, but at the close against one were ten losses.

Interlisted issues continued steady. Canadian Pacific at 13½, International Nickel at 9⅛, and Brazilian at 8⅜ were all unchanged. Consolidated Smelters dipped 1½ to 59.

Montreal Power continued extremely active fluctuated within a range of two points, closing unchanged at 28¾. Other utilities were mainly lower. Bell Telephone at 89 and Power Corporation at 6 each lost a point. Montreal Power debentures yielded ½ to 41½, while quarter-point losses were shown by Shawinigan at 10½ and Winnipeg Electric at 3¼.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (C.P.)—All the high-priced gold shares rolled up gains on the Standard Mining Market to-day, but the best prices did not hold till the close. The big advances invited profit-taking and quotations tapered off moderately. The temporarily increased premium on U. S. funds gave the gold producers the strongest boost, though buying from New York had a tendency to move prices up also.

Lake Shore was the leader both in volume and price appreciation. It touched a new all-time top today at 37.25, and closed around $37. McIntyre, Dome and Hollinger all closed with gains of 25 to 40.

Trading in Noranda expanded considerably while the price held about steady. Nickel also was in better demand, but made no advance.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (C.P.). — The Toronto Stock Exchange had a big turnover to-day as a result of the stir created by the fall in the Canadian dollar and the selling of Canadian stocks in Europe. Prices churned about a good deal, being pressed up by temporarily falling Canadian exchange and borne down by a weakening New York market. After the buffeting was over the price level was found to be a little under the previous close.

Recessions of ¼ were marked up for Brazilian, C.P.R., and Nickel, while Consolidated Smelters dropped 2 and Ford "A" a fraction. Considerable pressure was exerted on the oils. Imperial and B.A. stood up well while International Pete slipped to 10 7-8.

The beverages were the firmest group. Both Walker issues were up, supported by expected for relief from export restrictions shortly and gains were also registered for Canada Bud, Distillers, Seagram and Canadian Industrial Alcohol.

SLASHED BY ROBBER.

TORONTO.—With his throat slashed in three places and badly weakened by loss of blood, Percy Letibesky, barber, staggering out of his shop early to-day and called a policeman.

The boy was crawling through a fence when his small calibre rifle was discharged. He was rushed to hospital, where an emergency operation was performed.

929 BODIES FOUND

ASUNCION, Paraguay—A Paraguayan communique today said the bodies of 929 Bolivian soldiers had been found yesterday on the Gran Chaco battle fields in the vicinity of Forts Herrera, Corrales and Nanawa (Ayala) . It was believed, however, the figure might be exaggerated.

TRADE BARRIERS ARE IMPEDIMENT

BE HEERFUL.

Mr. Gerald R. Larkin, president of Salada Tea Company, in addressing the annual meeting of the staff said: "Meetings such as this at the end of a good year are always a source of pleasure to everyone of us. When general conditions are bad, and when even our own business has, in a measure, reflected these conditions, we sometimes find the effort to bear ourselves cheerfully more than a little difficult. Any such feeling must be fought against and defeated by everyone of us, if we are going to make the following year a success. By cheerfulness I do not mean any foolish measure of optimism, although under present conditions I need hardly warn any of you against that, but I do mean a reasonable faith in the future based on the past history of this country, and of the world.

"There is undoubtedly a measure of defeatist propaganda being carried on. I have heard it said, and within the last month or two, that every country in the world, including Canada and the United States, is headed for revolution; that things are getting steadily worse every day. This talk comes, not as one might suppose, from extreme socialists or communists, but rather from people who are still in moderately comfortable circumstances but who, not having enough to do, allow themselves to absorb all the depressing features of present-day conditions and so reach a point where their judgment is entirely warped. We are all meeting people like this and must do our part to combat their ideas.

"As I see it, what the world needs is greater mutual understanding between its component parts; greater appreciation of each other's difficulties; less nationalism and more internationalism. It was exactly those features which won the war. There was real and sincere co-operation between the allied and associated powers. Unfortunately, immediately after the war, bad statesmanship concluded a disastrous peace; a peace that bred distrust, not only between the victors and the defeated, but also among the victorious nations themselves. Extreme nationalism supplanted what at least had been a form of partial internationalism, and all countries succumbed to it. Tariff walls were—and still are being built higher and higher until international trade has to all intents and purposes ceased to exist. What this country needs, what the United States needs, what the world needs is a breaking down of the greater part of these barriers if we are to return to our normal standard of living. You are probably already convinced of this; if so, work for it. It is sure to come, but the quicker it can be brought about the more quickly the pessimists will be discredited, and the more quickly reasonable optimism will be justified."

Mr. Macdougall, advertising manager, mentioned that newspapers, which form the backbone of their advertising, will be used just as extensively as ever by Salada.

HANNA OPPOSES BOARD OF THREE

ledge of the railway business in Canada. One would be a legal man, another a competent financial man and the remainder successful industrialists.

Instead of creating a tribunal to enforce co-operation, Mr. Hanna would continue to have all railway matters aired before the Board of Railway Commissioners.

His opposition to amalgamation was emphatic. He believed that, if the C.N.R. were conducted with rigid economy, it would still be successful; but there should be no more spending money on steamships, hotels, golf courses, and the like.

He had given evidence before the Senate Railway Committee in 1925, Mr. Hanna said, and had then warned of the mounting costs and heavy expenditures. A short time later a high official of the Canadian National had been quoted as saying, "Hanna and his ideas can go to hell." He had been accused of having no broad conception of the modern trend of railroading, and of being ignorant of the fact that to make money much money must be spent.

"Now, you see the result," said Mr. Hanna.

GRITS OPPOSE AMALGAMATION

influence the progress of the government's railway legislation through both Houses of Parliament. Senators as well as members of the Commons were present and very probably will reflect the "no amalgamation" policy during the debate on railway legislation in the Upper House.

The caucus discussed several subjects to-day but spent almost two hours on the railway problem.

DAIRY COMPANY IN BELLEVILLE SUED FOR $350

BUTTERMAKER.

An action in which Edward William Lutz of Havelock is seeking to recover the sum of $350 damages and costs for alleged wrongful dismissal from the employ of The Citizens' Dairy Company of Belleville was being heard in County Court here to-day before His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke. Additional to the claim for damages the plaintiff also sought to recover $44.79 as balance of wages owing, and interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from September 21, 1932 until judgment. There was a counterclaim by the defendant company.

The case was transferred here from Belleville. Plaintiff had as counsel C. A. Payne of the firm of Porter, Payne and Arnott, and the defendant company was represented by J. D. O'Flynn, of O'Flynn and O'Flynn, both of Belleville.

From the evidence it was learned that Lutz, a certified buttermaker, had applied for employment with The Citizens' Dairy in 1928, and had been given the management of their Havelock branch plant.

Complaints Received

He had given the firm entire satisfaction until June or July of 1932, when complaints were made about the high moisture content of the butter. At that time plaintiff was not actually engaged in the making of the butter although he still had charge of the plant. The butter-making was being done by William Masterson, while plaintiff was out on the cream collection route.

Apart from the high percentage of moisture in the butter, a condition that was not remedied as it should have been, officials of the dairy at Belleville also had to complain of plaintiff's slackness in attention to his other duties. Ultimately he was served with a written notice terminating his engagement as plant manager, and asking him to report to head office.

In evidence this morning the plaintiff stated in the year 1932 he was employed with the Citizens' Dairy under contract dated January 15 of that year. He was dismissed in September of last year because of the high moisture content of the butter. William Masterson was actually operating the churn, although plaintiff had been engaged as buttermaker. He said that during last year, besides being manager of the plant, he also drove a truck on the cream collection route.

He attributed the heavy moisture of the butter to the fact that the scales were not in good order; to Masterson's inefficiency to operate the churn, and also because the churn was not on the level. He had called these deficiencies to the notice of the officials of the company at Belleville and had also suggested that if they sent another man up to drive the truck he could remedy the defects. A man was sent up and Masterson refused to go out of the buttermaking room and allow the plaintiff to operate the plant, he stated.

Gold Medalist.

Plaintiff said he held first-class certificates as a buttermaker. He won a gold medal for buttermaking while in the employ of The Citizens' Dairy in 1929. Since his dismissal plaintiff had obtained employment at Canada Packers, Limited for sixteen and a half days for which he had received approximately $34. Those were his only earnings since September, 1932.

Under cross-examination plaintiff said he had a personal account with ployment with The Citizens' Dairy in 1928. He was engaged at a salary of $1,150 per annum, with the promise of a bonus of $50 if his services were entirely satisfactory. Under the terms of the agreement, the employee could be summarily dismissed, if he did not regard the terms of the agreement.

In reply to Mr. O'Flynn plaintiff said he had a persona account with a butcher named Kitchen. He paid his account with butter belonging to the Dairy Company, and then paid the dairy back out of his own pay.

Plaintiff admitted he had received several complaints about the high percentage of moisture in the butter from the Government dairy inspector.

He also admitted having told officials of The Citizens' Dairy that he was not doing his work right, and that the reason was due to family trouble he was having at the time.

H. J. Clarke, managing director of the company, had written to the plaintiff following the termination of his services and had complained that plaintiff had not made a satisfactory accounting of the stock on hand. He had demanded a proper accounting, failing which Mr. Clarke had threatened to take further steps.

Mrs. Lutz said she was present at the Havelock plant on September 21 last when an inventory of the stock on hand was taken. There was one pound of butter to the good.

H. J. Clarke, managing director of The Citizens' Dairy, in evidence said his firm operated a branch factory at Havelock. Lutz was engaged as plant manager at Havelock. Until the year 1932 the services performed by Lutz were satisfactory, said Mr. Carke . In June or July of that year complaints commenced to come in from patrons and also from the Government inspector. Witness visited the plant and found that Lutz was not doing the testing and grading of the cream properly. He was neglecting his duties, and while out on his cream collection route, he was drinking liquor, according to his own admission, Mr. Clarke testified.

Regarding the complaints made by Lutz about the machinery, Mr. Clarke said a new churn and tester had been installed.

Cross-examined. Clarke said there were three employees at the Havelock plant. Lutz had control of the employees so far as assigning them their duties was concerned. He had received a complaint from Lutz regarding Masterson's failure to obey orders. He had not taken action regarding Masterson, although he had ultimately relieved Lutz of his duties.

The case is proceeding this afternoon.

pay the sum of $80,000 over to Torcossi in Hamilton. Later Torossi in what was pretended to be a fit of frankness wrote directly to Franceschini saying he had received notice from the Anarchist Society they were blackmailing the contractor and asking the latter's advice as to how he, Torossi, should get out of the scrape without danger.

Magistrate H. A. Brubidge told Torossi: "Although the officers of the law have told me you have shown a disposition to aid them in clearing up this crime, still it is numbered among those offenses from which society must be fully protected. I am afraid I cannot allow your later attitude to persuade me to be lenient in your case. You are sentenced to six years in Portsmouth penitentiary."

NOT BAD TIMES, BUT GOOD ONES

knows just when industry will pick up, he said:

"This period that we are going through right now is the recovery. The bad times were back in 1929 and before. That was the real panic —that so-called prosperous period. Business, at bottom, never was so bad as it was in what we called boom times. The managers were off the job. People weren't really working or really thinking. Now they are. We are seeing now the passing of an old era and the beginning of a new one better than anything the world has known before."

Turning again to present conditions he said it "was exploiters who brought on this whole thing" and that "the workingmen have been exploited all the way up and down the line by employers, landlords, everybody."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Influenced by breaks in securities at New York and in wheat quotations at Liverpool, grain prices here underwent early downturns today. Liverpool cables told of pronounced pressure to sell Canadian and Argentine wheat abroad. Opening ⅝-¾ down, Chicago wheat futures went lower afterward. Corn started ⅛-⅜ off and subsequently sagged further.

FAVORABLE BALANCE IS SHOWN IN SOCIETY'S ANNUAL REPORT

OFFICERS ELECTED

MILLBROOK, Feb. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—A favorable balance of over two hundred dollars was an encouraging feature of the financial report presented at the annual meeting of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, held in the Town Hall on Friday, the retiring president, R. O. Larmer, in the chair, and a fair representation of the directors present.

The secretary-treasurer, J. N. McGill, presented the financial statement showing legislative grant of $380; municipal grant of $75; Counties' grant, $133.71; and township grant of $200; gate receipts at annual fall fair in October, $542.80; booths and stalls, $38.25; concert, $114.70; dances during the year had netted $136.25; entry fees, $131.55; Spring fair, $138.35; legislative grant, $50; total receipts from all sources, $4,251.26.

Expenditures, including $979.17 for prize list, $36 for departmental judges, and $2.00 for a local judge, totalled $4,034.21, leaving a balance of $208.05, and to this was added five dollars which had come in since the books were closed, audited and found correct. The treasurer also reported $1,576 offered in prize money at the Fall fair, $1,193.75 awarded, and $979.17 paid ,the directors at the November meeting deciding to pay 75 per cent. of the prize list. On motion of H. Tate and Nathaniel Belch, the financial statement was adopted as read.

Economy being the watchword for the current year, it was decided on motion of Harod Tate and James Whittington, not to hold the Winter fair, which usually comes in February, in 1933, discussion revealing the fact that street collections and donations fell off last year so considerably there was practically no balance when all expenses had been met.

James Whittington and N. Belch sponsored the motion that the Fall fair for 1933 be held on Thursday and Friday, October 5 and 6, and the election of officers followed, the list being: President, James L. McCamus; vice-presidents, Nathaniel Belch and Percy Stinson; directors: H. Tate, L. W. Smith, I. W. Larmer, H. A. Fallis, G. A. Fair, D. Sheppard, V. R. Hunter, Norman Earle, J. L. Fair, L. C. McNeill, L. H. Winslow, P. I. Bentley, M. McDowell, R. I. Fallis, T. W. McCamus, J. W. Hamilton, J. H. Paul, A. H. Jeffrey, R. McCamus, W. E. Ball, A. J. Henderson, R. J. McKnight, J. Whittington, R. O. Larmer, and B. Sharpe.

Lady Directors: Mrs. C. Thorndye, Mrs. H. A. Fallis, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Mrs. G. F. Harrington, Miss P. Burnham. Honorary Directors: W. T. Donaldson, John Tate, William Hanna, H. A. Paterson, F. W. Bowen, M.P.; W. J. Bragg, M.P.U.; G. H. Hootan, Reeve of Cavan; and P. Stinson, Reeve of Millbrook.

On motion, the annual meeting stood adjourned and the directors' meeting followed, the new president taking the chair, expresing gratitude for the honor conferred and the hope that in the two years ahead brighter days might dawn; Mr. McCamus also emphasized the need for better support in the township and village, and suggested a membership campaign to increase the list of those showing practical interest and support in this manner.

The motion carried to appoint J. N. McGill again to the office of secretary-treasurer, at a salary of $100, and the executive committee was named as follows: A. J. Henderson, H. Tate, L. W. Smith, H. A. Fallis, R. J. McKnight, G. A. Fair, R. O. Larmer, N. Belch, P. Stinson. Finance Committee: W. T. Donaldson, A. J. Henderson, G. A. Fair, N. Belch, J. L. McCamus. Grounds Committee: A. J. Henderson, Norman Earle, J. W. Hamilton, N. Belch, R. J. McKnight, I. W. Larmer, W. E. Ball, H. Tate, G. A. Fair, H. A. Fallis.

Mr. Kerr, manager of the Bank of Toronto, was present by request to address the directors regarding the note for $1,900 owed to the Bank, urging steps toward a reduction, if possible, during the current twelve months, the encouraging feature, however, being that there are no liabilities against the balance on hand except the interest on the note, and it is hoped to pay off one hundred dollars on the principal in the near future.

The motion to authorize the finance committee to make satisfactory arrangements with the Bank of Toronto for a renewal of the note was sponsored by L. W. Smith and G. A. Fair, and P. Stinson and A. Jeffrey were appointed auditors for 1933.

Reeve P. Stinson was named as chairman of the entertainment committee; Mrs. Harrington's name was added; the others being Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Miss Burnham, R. J. McKnight, P. I. Bentley, W. E. Ball, H. A. Fallis. The committee was left in charge of the arrangements for a concert and dance the beginning of March, if the suggestion was favorably regarded, and with the co-operation of the Cosmos Club it is hoped to stage a street dance next summer, provided that organization is willing to "stand by" for this annual event in favor of the Agricultural Society.

On motion of H. A. Fallis and G. A. Fair, the meeting stood adjourned; the next regular gathering of the directors being in March.

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

The tubes in your radio not only c... less power as they gradually weaken, giving less volume and poorer reception, but they also draw less current—that is, use less power from the power supply part of the set. As the power pack is designed to deliver a certain amount of current at a certain voltage, these weak tubes, by drawing less current than normal, allow the voltage to increas ethroughout the set. It is therefore poor economy to add one or two new tubes to a set with all weak tubes, as these new tubes will be operated on the abnormally high voltage and be weakened quickly. It is therefore better to change the complete set of tubes, if all are weak, thereby reducng the strain on the tubes and the set itself. Of course, if one tube has burned out or weakened rapidly and the rest test satisfactory, it is only necessary to replace the defective one.

Mr. W.A.H., Robinson street, — You wish to know if it is possible to substitute the new type 56 tubes in place of UY227-A tubes, and type 53 tubes in place of UY235-A tubes. Also, the advantage, if any. The type 227-A tube, when used as a detector, can be replaced with a type 56, and results in improved volume and tone in some sets. The type 56 tube has a different base than the type 235-A or 551-A tube, and therefore either the tube socket must be changed or an adapter used. The 56 tube makes a marked improvement in volume in some cases, but no noticeable advantage in others, depending upon what purpose the tube is serving in the radio. Adapters can be obtained, but as it is nearly always necessary to have the radio readjusted and sometimes a resistor added, it is just as well to change the socket itself at the time and thereby make a permanent and more satisfactory replacement.

Ed.—Mr. Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans. If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr. Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

BACKACHES
Not always due to Female Complaints

. . Says doctor who advises on care of kidneys and bladder

Backaches, nervous spells, bearing-down pains, dizziness and headaches are not always due to sicknesses peculiar to women.

Slight or temporary disturbances of the kidneys and bladder are frequently the cause of these pains. However, the condition can often be remedied quickly by Santal Midy Capsules, obtainable at most any drug store.

Santal Midy Capsules contain a precious East Indian extract which soothes the kidneys and acts as an antiseptic on the bladder. Don't wait until kidneys and bladder get in a serious condition. A small amount spent now for Santal Midy Capsules may save you hundreds of dollars and untold suffering. Get Santal Midy from your druggist—today.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—Stocks of butter and cheese held in Montreal warehouses as of yesterday were lower than at the end of last month, while eggs were higher.

Stocks of creamery butter totalled 127,403 boxes of 56 pounds each, compared with 165,816 at the end of last month, and 123,332 at this time last year. Dairy butter stocks were 232 boxes against 83 last month and 929 on Jan. 31, 1932. Stocks of cheese amounted to 70,810 boxes of 85 pounds each, in comparison with 79,496 on Dec. 31, and 54,187 boxes at the end of January last year. Fresh eggs stocks were higher than last month, but lower than this time last year, the figures being 12,014 cases of 30 dozen each, 3,902 and 15,230. Stocks of storage eggs were 5,886 cases against 15,295 on Dec. 31, 1932, and 14,026 on Jan. 31, 1932.

Prices held mainly unchanged on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday.

Fresh graded eggs in carlots or less were quoted at 21c for extras, 19c for firsts, and 18c a dozen for pullets. Prices to retailers were advanced a cent a dozen. Receipts were 1,737 cases.

On the cheese market, current Ontario white was sold at 9c; current Ontario colored at 10c, and Ontario early market at 10½c to 11¼c a pound. Receipts were 37 boxes.

No. 1 grass butter, in carlots or less, was quoted at 20½c to 20¾c a pound. Receipts were 400 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, per 80-pound bag, were 80c; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 80-pound bag, 85c; and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 90-pound bag, 95c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Spurred by augmented export call for Canadian wheat, grain values displayed relative strength yesterday.

Operating as a curb on Chicago wheat price advances, however, was the fact that enlargement of export business at Winnipeg was largely offset by weakness of Canadian currency. This discount on Canadian funds was the widest since last November.

Wheat in Chicago closed firm, unchanged to ¼ higher, compared with Monday's finish; corn ⅛ off to ¾ up; oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, and provisions varying from 2c decline to an equal gain.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 1. — Improvement in export demand and foreign sales that offset easiness at Liverpool caused by a further rally in sterling were responsible for fractional upturns in wheat values yesterday that left prices ¼c higher to unchanged.

May closed at 46¾c, July at 47⅞c and October at 48⅝c.

The freight situation stiffened a little at Vancouver, and with strong prices ruling for grain to the United Kingdom that port was credited almost all the 1,000,000 bushels estimated to have been exported from Canada.

Light pit offerings and unfavorable news from the United States south-west were further factors in steadiness here. Liverpool and Buenos Aires were fractionally lower.

Traders were unable to report any improvement in the demand for cash wheat and coarse grains.

Obituary

MRS. HENRY GREEN

QUEENSBORO, Feb. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—Word has just been received here that Matilda McKinnon, wife of Henry Green at Oak River, Manitoba, passed suddenly away at her home a few days ago. Mrs. Green was well known around Madoc and by many in Peterborough. She leaves to mourn besides her husband, two sisters, Mrs. Palmer of Oak River and Mrs. Hiram Green of Queensboro, and one brother, George McKinnon in Madoc township; also two daughters.

RUSH POINT

At the regular Rush Point Young People's League meeting, held on Thursday evenings at the White Church, the Scripture lesson was read by Miss Marjorie Newton. A song by Miss Jean Pollock and a reading by Miss Mildred Forbes were interesting items on the program.

The next meeting will be under the leadership of Gavin Buchanan.

A very painful accident happened to Archie McMillan recently when a wire, used for fastening a pair of heavy barn doors, swung back tearing into his eyelid and downward across the eye and cheek. The accident happened at the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Keating, near Campbellford, and Mr. McMillan was at once rushed to a doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parcels of Round Lake were in Peterborough on Tuesday of this week, attending the funeral of the late Mr. Robert McAdams.

Miss Janet Taite spent the week-end at her home in Castleton.

Backache, Kidneys Weak

WHEN your kidneys are in bad condition with pains across back, frequent arising at night, swollen ankles, or other distressing symptoms, try Dr. Pierce's Anuric. Read what Mrs. Earl Zufelt of 608 Park St., Niagara Falls, Ont., says: "My kidneys have bothered me at different times and I never failed to have the backache. The heavy ache across my kidneys lasted for weeks at a time and made me miserable. My kidneys were weak and often called me up at night. Headaches and dizzy spells were other complaints. Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets completely drove away every sign of kidney complaint. And, best of all, I have not been troubled with backache or kidney complaint since I took them."

Permanently Removed by Electrolysis.

MYRTLE BRECKENRIDGE HEADS DOLLAR DAYS' PRIZE WINNERS

MRS. ROSE WIGGINS, PARK ST., PETERBOROUGH WINS SECOND PRIZE WITH HER ESTIMATE OF 13,522

The count in the Dollar Days coupon box outside The Examiner last Friday and Saturday revealed 13,521 coupons to have been deposited against 21,220, last January. This represents a drop of 7,699 this year from the count of January, 1932. Still, taking into consideration today's economic conditions, with 700 Peterborough families on relief, the recent Dollar Days' results may be considered as having been worth while from a merchandising standpoint, to say nothing of releasing a considerable amount of money for circulation. Following are the prize winners, their estimating numbers and the amount of their prize money awarded. Twelve prizes in all, totalling $150 as advertised:

LIST OF SUCCESSFUL ESTIMATORS

Prize No's	Name	Number Blanks	Prize Amounts
1	Myrtle Breckenridge, Indian River	13,521	$ 50.00
2	Mrs. Rose Wiggins, 278 Park street	13,522	25.00
3	W. E. Meagher, 91 Crescent street	13,519	20.00
4	Mrs. H. Head, 59 Olive avenue	13,515	8.75
4	Miss L. MacMillan, 98 London street	13,515	8.75
4	Mrs. C. Hughes, 14 Charles street	13,527	8.75
4	Mrs. F. Marshall, 549 Harvey street	13,527	8.75
5	Harry Wells, 277 Prince street	13,513	5.00
6	D. A. Loomis, Y.M.C.A.	13,531	5.00
7	Mrs. B. Pickering, 562 Waterford street	13,510	5.00
8	Chas. Thomas, 271 Thomas street	13,533	2.50
8	G. McFadden, 452 Elm street	13,533	2.50

Total amount in prizes $150.00

It will be noticed that four tied for fourth place, two estimating just six below the correct number and two just six above the correct number. So, in fairness to all four, we have lumped the amounts of prizes 4, 5, 6 and 7—$15, $10, $5 and $5, respectively—distributing the total of $35 among the four successful contestants for fourth place. In this way each of the ladies who tied for fourth place get $8.75.

Two contestants also tied for the eleventh prize of $5 which amount has been split evenly between them.

As announced above, the actual number of blanks in the box was 13,521 and some 1,500 estimates were in the 13,000 class, the estimating running pretty close. The first prize goes to Myrtle Breckenridge of Indian River, who turned in her correct estimate on an "Examiner" estimating blank.

Remarkable Features of Contest

Other noticeable features of the contest follow. Fifteen contestants evidently believe that the figure "3" is a lucky number, each of their blanks reading "13,333." One lady, evidently in a pessimistic mood, figured that $374 for two days selling and buying, would be a safe estimate these days; while two others estimated that a million dollars and more should be realized on these recent Dollar Days. Quite a few citizens submitted their estimates in dollars and cents. Prizes will be awarded at The Examiner office, Saturday, February 4th.

Contributions To Relief Fund Left Entirely To Individual

In launching Peterborough's Relief Fund appeal the committee which was appointed at a public meeting to organize and direct it decided not to employ high pressure methods of other campaigns.

The amount of the personal contribution, if any, was left entirely to the individual citizen With the need of the Relief Fund so generally manifest and understood it was felt that if any slogan were adopted it might be "Let conscience be your guide."

In a few instances the committee has made calls on some citizens with very satisfactory results, but otherwise the so-called campaign has simply been an appeal to the generosity of the community in a social emergency that has no counterpart in recent generations.

"Give till it hurts" was the slogan of the Patriotic Fund and Victory Loan campaigns of the war years. It might have been dug up out of the dust and refurbished for the present community effort, and perhaps with a longer subscription list and larger returns than have been yielded by the sedate method employed in the present community appeal.

The committee at first intended not to publish the list of subscriptions, but the change of decision was made because of street rumors which could be corrected only by publicity.

Miss Breckenridge Wins Extra $10.00

When Miss Myrtle Breckenridge of Indian River came to Peterborough to shop on Dollar Day last week, she doubtlessly had no idea it would be such a lucky shopping venture as it turned out to be.

Among other places of business called on, Miss Breckenridge dropped into The Examiner Office and paid a year's subscription to the paper; she used The Examiner tickets to estimate on the Merchants' Contest, and one of these tickets won first prize of $50.00 and because the winning ticket was obtained at The Examiner office, The Examiner is giving Miss Breckenridge an extra $10.00 as was advertised.

The young lady winner can have this prize on or after Monday next.

WINNIPEG GROUP STILL HOPEFUL

Serkau Claims Syndicate Formed by Number of Wealthy Cattle Men.

MAY NOT NEED GOV'T AID.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1. —(CP)— Still hopeful that the export of Canadian cattle to Soviet Russia would begin in the spring, G. G. Serkau, head of the syndicate negotiating barter issued a statement today. He will furnish the Canadian government with evidence of the readiness of the Soviet foreign trade authorities to trade with the syndicate on the basis of the memorandum already submitted.

Mr. Serkau's statement follows a review of the situation made by Premier R. B. Bennett in the House of Commons yesterday. The syndicate has been strengthened, Mr. Serkau states, by the inclusion of men of financial substance in the cattle industry. Guarantees from the government may not be necessary.

Serkau Explains

The statement by Mr. Serkau follows in part:

"There appears to be a misunderstanding with respect to evidence indicating the hopes of the government of the U.S.S.R. to trade with our syndicate on the basis of the memorandum as submitted to the government of Canada I was not under the impression that any further evidence was wanted or awaited by the government. However, we are in constant communication with the U.S.S.R. foreign trade authorities and will promptly furnish the government any further evidence required.

"Our syndicate will be strengthened by the inclusion of a number of men of financial substance in the cattle industry who have expressed their willingness to join the syndicate. We expect to be able to carry out the project without guarantees as alternatively requested of the government or perhaps on a somewhat modified scale, but the market for cattle so important at this time will still be available to the Canadian livestock industry.

"We are satisfied that no legitimate business house would entertain a transaction of this nature on a commission of less than one cent per pound."

LINDSAY WORKERS TO CONSIDER CUTS

Presentation Made to Rev. Father K. Corkery Who Leaves for Wooler To-day.

LINDSAY, Feb. 1.—(Special to The Examiner.) — The local Brotherhoods of Railway Workers are scheduled to meet during the week-end to consider the proposed twenty per cent. wage cuts announced by the C.N. and C.P.R. railways. No official word of the proposed cut had been received by the officials of the organization from Senator Murdock, vice-president of the Trainmen's Association, but this will likely follow during the next few days.

Rev. Father K. Corkery, who today left to assume the duties of parish priest of Wooler, was the recipient of a double presentation in the K. of C. rooms last night. He received a purse from the members of the congregation of St. Mary's church and a club bag from the members of the Young Ladies' Sodality.

The Ontario Municipal Board has appointed a Board of Supervisors to administer the affairs of the Township of Dysart, in the county of Haliburton. The Board comprises F. R. Wilford, chairman, Geo. Weeks, John E. Hamilton, of Lindsay; C. Hodgson and H. B. Feir, of Haliburton. The municipal council has found it impossible for the present to meet all current obligations, and to protect the interests of the ratepayers and creditors, it is advisable to bring into effect benefits of the present legislation.

FIRST VICTORY OVER YORKERS THIS SCHEDULE

"Pepper" Line of Blair, Doraty and Gracie Plays Big Part in Triumph.

JACKSON ALSO STARS.

Bruins Fall to Hawks 5-1, While Red Wings Defeat Rangers Again 2-1.

TORONTO, Feb. 1. —(CP)— It's getting to be so tough for an outside team to beat the Maple Leafs in Toronto that guest teams at the palatial Maple Leaf Gardens have come to feel much like a British heavyweight as he steps into the battle pit of New York's anti-Anglo Madison Square Garden.

If New York Americans hadn't that sinking feeling when they started out last night against the Leafs it didn't take them long to acquire it as the world champions swept into a batting rally that brought them three goals in the first period and sent them along to a 7-1 victory.

It was the 11th win out of 15 home starts for the Leafs and the first triumph over Americans who walloped Conny Smythe's team twice in New York and held them to a tie in Toronto in three previous meetings.

Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, also noted heavy hitters in front of the home crowds, faded strangely last night. Bruins took a 5-1 thumping from Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings took to the air again with a 2-1 decision over Rangers before 15,000 New Yorkers.

The battles between leaders left Toronto five full games ahead of the joint second-placers, Americans and Montreal Maroons in the Canadian division and carried Detroit back into a tie with Rangers for leadership of the American section. The Leafs, who have won four of their last five games, will have to slump badly to finish out of first place.

Harvey Jackson, the league's leading scorer last season, climbed up with the leaders by contributing two goals and an assist to the Toronto win. He and Andy Blair and Ace Bailey broke up the American defensive system with first period goals and when the Amerks opened up in the third Happy Day, Red Horner and Joe Primeau each scored. Jackson got his second tally in the middle session after Johnny Sheppard had scored the lone New York counter.

Fighting hard to keep places on the Leaf roster, threatened by Smythe's offer to trade them to Ottawa for Hec Kilrea, Blair, Ken Doraty and Bob Gracie played a big part in the triumph. Even after Blair had been rushed to hospital after the first period with a skate-cut arm that will keep him on the sidelines for a week or more, his tiny partners kept up never-ending pressure.

Tommy Cook

Black Hawks used all the openings Boston allowed to pile up goals. Tommy Cook scampered in for one in the first period and Mush March and Paul Thompson made it very secure for Tommy Gorman's team early in the second. After Dit Clapper had reduced the margin two-two, March went to work again in the third session, passing to Johnny Gottselig for the fourth Hawk tally and getting the fifth himself.

Tail-enders in the Canadian division, Canadiens and Ottawa Senators skated through an unexciting duel at Montreal that the Frenchmen won in overtime. The win brought the Lalonde outfit to even terms with Senators.

Long Pit Lepine engineered both overtime goals, passing to Johnny Gagnon for the first and to Aurel Joliat for the second. Gagnon scored for Canadiens in the first period, Hec Kilrea deadlocking the game with a goal on Frank Finnigan's assist in the third.

MARMORA FALLS TO HAVELOCK 5-4

Forwards Play Aggressive Game in Central Hockey League Battle.

MARMORA, Feb. 1. (Examiner Correspondence). — An exciting game of hockey marked with several penalties was seen on the Marmora rink on Monday evening when the homesters lost to Havelock by 5-4. Watson opened up the scoring for Havelock on a pass from McLaughlin about five minutes from the face off. Shortly afterwards a dispute centred around a shot taken by Hewitt, the homester maintaining that that player had registered but it was ruled other wise. After William, Voyer and Wrightly had been penalized for infringements, Jack picked up a loose puck and netted the second goal for his team. Kennedy now had to undergo a storming which he stood gallantly until a skirmish took place in the goal mouth costing Neal a match penalty and the goalie an injury to his head. As this accident occurred after 18 minutes of play, the period ended there and twenty two minutes was agreed upon as the limit of the succeeding period. Early in the second molety, Jack again scored and McLaughlin followed in quick succession with a deceiving shot, which fobled the goalie, Jack scored his third goal a few minutes later on an assist from Paul Voyer. Marmora's aggressiveness at this stage of the game was rewarded by a goal as Burns sent in a hot shot from centre ice. Wrightly received a penalty for charging in centre ice. Homer Hewitt successfully tested Kennedy. There was no further scoring in this period which was marked by two more penalties to Havelock players before it closed.

Within five minutes of play in the third period McCoy scored unassisted and later received a penalty for tripping. Wrightly soon received the same assignment. With Marmora pressing hard, Kennedy made several good saves. After a few more penalties had been meted out to players of both teams, Marmora reduced Havelock's lead through McWilliams scoring on a rush. No further scoring ensued though both teams tried hard for goals. A good crowd witnessed the game.

The teams:

Marmora—Goal, J. McGrath; r. defense, F. Burns; l. defence, C. McCoy; centre, G. McWilliams; r. wing, R. Campion; l. wing, H. Hewit; subs., W. Flynn, T. Shannon, R. Neal, H. Brady.

Goal umpire—P. Gray.

Referee—Angus Clark, Havelock.

ROTARY CLUB IN 2ND PLACE

Clubmen Play Bang-up Hockey to Defeat Rangers' Outfit 4-2.

McCARROLL STARS IN NET.

Rotary took undisputed possession of second place in the City Hockey League, right behind P.C.I., at the Brock last night by defeating Rangers' Meat Market 4 to 2. The clubmen deserved the win on their play, particularly the last half when they ripped shot after shot at McCarrol, who pulled off a half-dozen great saves. Play was more even the first frame and part of the second.

The count was 2-1 for the winners in the first period, and 4-2 for them to finish the middle chapter. Despite a big part of the play in the last fast session, they could not add to their lead. The initial stanza was somewhat rough, a couple of fights and considerable slashing taking place, but Referee Rose checked them up quickly, and the rest of the game was comparatively clean.

Hickey and Snowden tallied the first goals for Rotary, the latter on a pass from Mowry. Payne got one in this go for Rangers. The second period saw Post and Tranter both fool McCarrol on hard shots, Mowry assisting Post. Watson made it two for Rangers in this frame. The third was fast and exciting, with Rotary testing McCarrol often, but unable to break through Rangers also turned in several dangerous rushes late in the game.

McCarrol, Payne and Bailey were probably the best of the losers, with the others also trying hard. Post, Elmslie, Tranter and Mowry all went good for the winners, Hickey showing smart hockey at times also. The teams:

Rangers — Goal, McCarrol; defence, Leggett and Gibson; centre, Watson; wings, Cournyea and Payne; alternates, McCullough, Boyler, Robinson and J. Bailey.

Referee—Abbie Rose.

TORONTO LEAF GOALTENDER TO VISIT CITY WEDNESDAY

Lorne Chabot, King Clancy and Irvin Bailey Will Officiate at George Merrett Benefit Game at Brock St. Rink This Evening.

"ACE" BAILEY

LORNE CHABOT

A wire from Irvin Bailey last evening stated that Lorne Chabot would be down along with him and King Clancy for to-night's benefit game for George Merrett at the Brock street rink. Toronto's great goalie, Chabot, will be a welcome addition to the other Leaf stars at this game, and he will doubtless be introduced on the ice to the vast crowd which will fill the arena.

Peterborough is unusually fortunate in obtaining these members of the world's pro hockey champions, all three of whom are among the most valuable players on the Leafs' roster this season. Both "Ace" Bailey and "King" Clancy have been getting most of the plaudits recently for fine hockey in the N. H. L., while Lorne Chabot has been a top-ranking goal-guardian for a number of years, and has been the main reason why Toronto is the toughest team in the big time to beat on their own ice. His willingness to come here to-night, with his teammates, marks him as a sportsman like Bailey and Clancy.

The local arena will likely be too small for the crowd expected to-night, according to advance sale of tickets. The ice should be good, and both teams will be right in there. The Petes, now in the group play-offs, will be at full strength but for Weir. Either Miller or Gillespie in goal; Howe, LeBarr and another defenceman not named yet who will replace Weir, guarding the blue-line; Ellis, Dundas and Dallin on the first string, and Jarvis, Hatton and Creighton relieving them—that's the Petes, managed by Eddie Wright.

Will Pilot All-Stars.

Alex. Kempt, of Norwood, will handle the E.P.L. all-stars. He will have Foley in goal; Lackey, Whatley, Webb and Scriver on defence; Epps and Northey at centre, and wings made up of Pat Calladine, Fred. Cripps, Maudsley, Williams and Milliken. Three players should make it a fine hockey game against the classy Petes. Bailey and Clancy will referee, perhaps a period each, with Chabot possibly agreeing to handle a period also. President Percy Bond of the O.H.A. will be master of ceremonies.

P.C.I. and Rotary, two of the strongest City League teams, play a game at 7.15, being over in plenty of time for the big contest at 8.30. The juniors play hard, fast hockey that is well worth watching. Following the Petes-all-stars' tussle, an exhibition game for some reason or other will be staged between Cowan's newsboys and McLeod's drug store cowboys, but whether it will be played on skates, horses or on legal lines remains to be seen. A big night with the money going to a worthy cause, paying off the doctor and hospital bills of Merrett, who lost the sight of an eye this season while playing an E.P.L. game in Lakefield.

An excellent game was played, both teams giving of their best: Ice in good condition and crowd good. At first it seemed as if Tweed had the advantage, scoring a goal early in first period. McGuire followed closely by one for Madoc by Phillips. The second period scored two more for Madoc, these being obtained by D. Whytock and another by Phillips. In third period Nickle scored and R. Whytock, while Rashotte made a second counter for Tweed.

Madoc.—Goal, Broad; defence, D. Whytock, Phillips; forwards, Ashley, B. Whytock, Nickle; alternates, Alexander, Stockloser, McQuigge, Stewart.

Tweed.—Goal, Shorey; defence, Smith, Cotton; forwards, C. Rashotte, McGuire; Terry; alternates, Leal, Ryan, Macrae, L. Rashotte.

Blair In Hospital With Injured Arm

TORONTO, Feb. 1. — Andrew "Andy" Blair, lanky centre-ice player of Toronto Maple Leafs, is in hospital today with a severe arm injury received in last night's National Hockey league game with New York Americans. Toronto won 7-1.

After scoring a goal in the first period, the former Winnipeg all-round athlete fell on the skate of Walter "Red" Jackson, another Winnipeg centre, and received a deep gash in his arm. Jackson's skate caught him on the outside of the arm midway between the elbow and wrist and penetrated to the bone.

Dr. E. Rush, club physician, said it was one of the worst cuts he had ever seen with the large muscle severed and a nerve injured. It is expected Blair will be in hospital for at least one week and will probable be out of hockey for three weeks more.

Southern Alberta harvested 150,000 tons of sugar beets last year, the largest on record for the province.

STUDENTS ADD WINNING STREAK

P.C.I. Adds to Lead Gained in Second Period to Defeat St. Peter's 4-1.

CLEANLY FOUGHT

P.C.I. ran its City Hockey League winning streak to four games, in as many starts, at the Brock last night, taking St. Peter's into camp 4 to 1. A small crowd saw a fast game on fair ice, with the rival student outfits battling hard, though cleanly. It was 1-1 in the first, and 3-1 going into the last frame. Both sides claimed goals that were not allowed.

The Collegians showed up better the second period, threatening continuously, and they had a small edge on play in the third. The first frame was close and classy. Fleming, in the Saints' citadel, turned aside a flock of hard ones, particularly in the second frame, though one marker was scored off his skate from the side. His defence was not outstanding, but the forwards worked hard. Murdoch pulled off some fine rushes. Wells got the only goal.

Lipsett tied it up in the first, Stabler and Archibald each tallied in the middle canto, and Kirkwood took Archibald's pass in the third to wind it up. Lipsett, Archibald, Kirkwood, Kingdon and Jopling all turned in a fine effort for the evening, with the whole team clicking nicely. Same-colored sweatered by the two outfits made for some confusion on combination. The teams:

St. Peter's.—Goal, Fleming; defence, O'Brien and Devlin; centre, Kennedy; wings, Wells and Murdoch; alternates, McCarthy, Peel and Crowe.

P.C.I.—Goal, Sloane; defence, Richardson and Jopling; centre, Kingdon; wings, Begley and Stabler; alternates, Kirkwood, Lipsett, Howland and Archibald.

Referee—Pat Calladine.

TRINITY COLLEGE WINS AT LAKEFIELD

Prep School Teams Give Clever Exhibition of Ice Game in 3-2 Victory.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—One of the premier Collegiate games of the season was played on Monday afternoon, when T.C.S. first team met The Grove first team in a game in which speed, combination and a nice exhibition of stick-handling all played a part. There was a large crowd and they were fully rewarded by the play. Although The Grove lacked the weight of their opponents, they fully matched them in speed and skill.

The fact that an official O.H.A. referee, Max Board, was handling the game, gave an added importance. The score, 3-2, for the visitors, indicates the evenness of play.

In the first period Macrae scored the only goal of the period after 15 minutes of hard play. Wynn got his penalties for the visitors and Wood one for the home team.

The scoring urge was felt by both teams in the second period, and Newman was bombarded in his citadel by The Grove forwards and by Wright in his spectaclar lone rush from behind his own blue line, but the sturdy goalie stood firm. Ames played a good game, but he did not have as many direct shots on goal in the second as his opponent. Kerrigan scored after six minutes of play for the visitors, and again two minutes later.

In the dying moments of the second, Stuart poked in a counter from close up and the score was tied. Penalties were numerous, tripping being the main offence on both sides. Wood, Stuart and Gunn were the offenders for The Grove and Padley, Wynn and Braden and Trenholme for T.C.S.

The third period was even faster than the two previous stanzas and both sides tried hard to add to their score. Ames had a bombardment of hot shots which he stopped nicely, and only one from Trenholme's stick caught him napping. This winning goal for the visitors was scored after 14 minutes' hard play and was the only counter in the period. Dench got three penalties, Braden two in the third.

Trenholme, Kerrigan, Padley and Bailey were outstanding with Wynn and Braden sturdy defence players.

For the Grove every player was good, but Wright and Macrae were the strongest aid to their team with Ames doing good work in goal.

The line-up was as follows:—

Grove Third Team Wins From Trinity

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Saturday afternoon The Grove third team won from the T.C.S. under fifteen team in a fast, clean game of hockey played on the Lakefield Rink. The score was 9-5, which gives a fair indication of the relative strength of the two teams. It was one of those games, so delightful to watch where the services of the penalty box and its guardian were not required. Keen, hard play with a close observance of the rules of clean sport make hockey the most exciting and interesting of games, and Saturday's game was an example of that style of sportsmanship.

K. A. Mackenzie was referee and there was a large crowd of interested spectators.

The star of the visitors' team was Keefer, captain of the team, with Miller and Scott featuring good play. Osler was in goal for part of the game and showed excellent form, steady and hard to pass.

For The Grove Ames played a very strong game and stopped some hot shots; Carter (captain of the team), Braid and McMaster were outstanding with Robertson playing strong also. The latter is the "Red Horner" of the team and has a hard shot.

McMaster scored the first goal after two minutes of play and again after three minutes he caught Henderson unawares. Ten minutes later Carter scored and one minute afterward McFarlane scored the first goal for T.C.S.

The second period showed The Grove going stronger than ever and T.C.S. still outclassed, Clarkson and Robertson both scored 3 and 7 minutes respectively, then Keefer scored for the visitors and in the closing three minutes of the period Dunn and Braid each planted a counter.

In the third period Osler, the T.C.S. sub goal keeper was put on and the play tightened considerably, Scott and Keefer each scored, and after ten minutes Clarkson put in another goal for The Grove; Keefer again got past Ames and Clarkson planted the last goal. The game was a fair exhibition of junior hockey. The line-up was:

Grove.—Ames, goal; Drake, Braid, defence; Carter, centre; McMaster, Herdes, wings; Clarkson, Dunn, Robertson, subs.

BISONS LEAD INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

4-1 Victory Over Windsor Lifts Buffalo Over Stars By Single Point.

11 WINS IN 13 GAMES.

TORONTO, Feb. 1. —(CP)— As present champions of the International Hockey League, Buffalo Bisons felt fully justified today in occupying their present position—first place.

A concerted drive which started on the last day of 1932 and continued through January brought its reward when a 4-1 victory over Windsor Bulldogs last night lifted Bisons over Syracuse Stars into the League leadership with a single point margin.

During that period Buffalo played 13 games, losing one, tying one and winning 11. Windsor inflicted the defeat while the last-place Cleveland Indians held the Bisons scoreless tie. Numbered among the victories were three from Syracuse.

Lot of Grief for Smith

Sammy Godin caused a lot of grief for Referee Guy Smith, when he bounced the deciding goal off the official's shins into the net. This started a bombardment of apples and peanuts, that contained intermittently for the rest of the game.

Lloyd Gross, leading marksman of the circuit, scored two of the winners' tallies and Lorne Carr notched the other. Eddie Rodden, the rambling hockeyist, garnered Windsor's marker.

The defeat was the Bulldogs' third straight.

GREYHOUNDS FALL TO MAROONS 2-1

Young and Bickell Are Marksmen in Lakefield District League Game.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — Young's Point Maroons won from Gill's Greyhounds in an exciting game played in the District League on Monday night, for which the E. P. Westclox-Lakefield game was a curtain raiser. These team have been practicing hard for this fixture and were in rare form.

N. Young scored for the Maroons in the first and again in the second while Ed. Bickell scored the Greyhounds' only counter in the second. 2-1 was the score and it was a hard fought game, with speedy attack and sturdy defence. The Greyhound ranks were not up to strength because the 'flu epidemic had not overlooked them, and several players were sick. The line-up was as follows:

Young's Point Maroons—W. Hamblin, goal; E. Johnston, D. Darling, defence; R. Wilson, centre; F. Carroll, H. Young, wings; J. Young, G. Tedford, A. Cummings, A. Wilson, subs.

Gill's Greyhounds.—N. Curtain, goal; T. Gill, H. Gill, defence; N. Graham, G. Kidd, wings; N. Bickell, L. Charlton, N. Coons, A. Roseboro, subs.

OF course not. Then why gamble on cheap "nameless" lamps that die young and waste electric current. Stick to EDISON MAZDA Lamps and be sure of getting your money's worth. Sold by better dealers everywhere.

FRANK CLANCY'S FIRST HOCKEY WITH LOCAL MAN AS MANAGER

STARTED IN CITY LEAGUE

Both Irvin Bailey and Frank Clancy now at the height of their professional hockey careers with the champion Maple Leafs have a Peterboro connection with their amateur days that may be recalled on their visit here tonight to lend color and interest to the benefit game at Brock street.

King Clancy

Bailey's association with the Peterborough O. H. A. team which brought the first senior championship to this city is still a pleasant memory with the fans of those happier days, but Clancy's relationship is rather tenuous. It is recalled by Nagle Phelan from the time when he and the late Leo Laj) Derocher attended Ottawa College back in 1912.

"Father Stanton was director of athletics at the college", the ex-Alderman told The Examiner this morning, "and when they decided to put a team in the Ottawa city league there was some talk about getting a good goal minder. I happened to mention "Laj" Derocher who had made good in Peterborough and as he wanted to improve his education we wrote him and asked him if felt like attending the college. The result was that "Laj" started to school again, and in his first appearance in the College net he was, as the boys say, terrible. It was an off night with him, and he was so bad that they yanked him about the end of the third period. However, in the next game he starred, and after that was a regular ace.

By the way, he acquired the moniker "Laj" from his baseball pals in Peterborough. He played second base, and because Larry Lajoie of the Cleveland Americans was the greatest middle sacker of his day, to such an extent that his name was almost a synonym for second base, somehow the name "Lajoie" was tagged on to Leo Derocher, and then it was abbreviated to "Laj."

After his first year in Ottawa Derocher liked the capital so well he wanted to remain there, and securing a position in the postal department lived there, I think, until his death. In the meantime, he was taking an interest in St. Brigid's athletic club, and was appointed manager of the hockey team.

Son of Football Star

I remember that when he would come home for Christmas and at Easter he used to tell us about the team. And then he began to mention a youngster named Clancy, whom he identified to us as the son of Tom Clancy, the famous half back of Ottawa College in its palmiest rugby days. And in hockey as well as everything else class will tell, as they say.

Any way, "Laj" used to tell us that this boy Clancy had all the ear marks of a great hockey player, and I distinctly remember his predictions, on more than one occasion, that Clancy was headed straight for the big league, then the N.H.L.

That is really the whole story as it relates very indirectly to Peterborough. Followers of hockey know what followed. Frank Clancy went straight from the Ottawa city league to the Senators. He was used as a forward for a while, and then one night a defense player was laid up. They put the "King" in as his substitute, and at last he had found his real place.

I don't think Frank Clancy needed much coaching as a hockey player, and certainly Derocher wouldn't have claimed credit for the development of this natural athlete, but I think "King" would like to know on his visit to Peterborough that the local hockey club was the training school of the man who was his first manager with St. Brigid's team of Ottawa."

REMAINDER OF PILOTS AGREE WITH CALDER

New System Calls For One Referee Assisted By Judge of Play.

AN ECONOMY MOVE.

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (C.P.)—The "economy refereeing" President Frank Calder is dishing up in the National Hockey League has the approval of all but two managers in the circuit, the Canadian Press discovered to-day. Only Joe Simpson of New York Americans and Tommy Gorman of Chicago Black Hawks dislike the 1933 system.

And Simpson conceded, It has its financial attractions."

Three weeks ago Calder discarded the two-referee system in favor of a plan where one official is in complete charge of the game, assisted by a judge of play whose only duty is to call offside plays.

The judge of play is a local man and the league saves money by paying him a smaller fee than a second referee required, while at the same time saving travelling expenses of the second official.

"A lot of stuff is missed" under the new arrangement, Simpson believes. The American coach would like to see the two referees back, but he isn't going to complain too much because the Amerks haven't been packing them in any more consistently than other teams.

The veteran Gorman said: "I do not think one official can spot anywhere near the number of rule infractions that occur during a hockey game." The Hawk manager is willing to watch a few more games, however, before he finally disapproves of the plan.

Eddie Gerard of Montreal Maroons qualified his approval. "Up to now the system has worked very well and as long as the managers make their men play hockey according to the rules the system should improve the game. But if the players want to fight, the job is apt to prove too much for one man."

"Working Out Fine."

Cy Denneny of Ottawa's Senators said he had not been keen for the change at first, but concluded it is "working out fine." Results, he said, have justified its introduction.

"This division of official duty is the only sensible method," said Art Ross, Boston Bruin boss. "To begin with it will give us an exact idea of the capabilities of our National League referees. It stands to reason that two officials, each intent on his own assignment, can work much more efficiently than if they were both trying to do the same thing."

According to Newsy Lalonde, Montreal Canadiens' coach, "It's a first-class idea and has been successful."

Conny Smythe of Toronto's Leafs: "I am perfectly satisfied with the new system of refereeing."

Lester Patrick, New York Rangers: "I am heartily in favor of the new refereeing system. In the past officials could always furnish an alibi for incompetent refereeing which the new system eliminates."

Badminton Titles At Stake Thursday

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 (C.P.)—Both the men's and women's champions will defend their titles at the Ontario Provincial Badminton championship tourney, which opens on the courts of the Rideau Winter Club here to-morrow. More than 55 players from out of town are entered in the title hunt which will end with the final rounds on Saturday. Toronto, Kingston, Niagara Falls and other badminton centres in the Province are represented.

Jack Taylor of Toronto, men's singles champion, will face stiff opposition from his fellow townsmen, Rod Phelan and Jack Cameron, as well as from George Goodwin, Jr. of Ottawa, runner-up for the Canadian title last year. Other Toronto entries are T. B. Hayle, S. B. O'Hara, C. K. F. Andrewes, Arthur Snell, H. A. Henderson, and Harry Sedgwick.

"SEAMAN" WATSON LEAVES FOR HOME

Has Engagement With Ben Sharkey in His Home Town, Return for Chocolate Bout.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (C.P.). — Thomas "Seaman" Watson, featherweight champion of the British Isles, was homeward bound to-day. He is returning to his home in Newcastle-on-Tyne, where he will soon meet another clever British featherweight, Benny Sharkey.

Offers for bouts have poured in from all parts of Canada and the United States since Watson's spectacular victory over Fidel LaBarba, sturdy Los Angeles boxer. They have all been turned down for the time being.

Watson, before sailing last night, promised he would be back in the United States. If Madison Square Garden can arrange to have Kid Chocolate, rebognized by the New York State Boxing Commission as world's featherweight champion, back in the country within the next few months, Watson will meet the "Keed" in a titular bout. Immigration authorities have barred the dusky Cuban, however.

Tony Canzoneri, the cocky lightweight champion, has challenged Watson. Canzoneri, who meets Billy Townsend, Vancouver welterweight at the Garden Friday night, has promised to scale around 132 pounds. The British champion would weigh in at about 131. If the Chocolate-Watson bout cannot be arranged it is almost certain the Seaman will take Tony on.

Sarazen's Cup Idea Is More Unpopular

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (AP)—How to keep from growing old: Mention Gene Sarazen's Proposal for installation of eight inch cups to the hard working members of the National Association of Green-keepers of the United States. The reaction to the suggestion, made by a news seeking reporter at the annual Association clinic, was explosive to put it mildly.

"We're having enough trouble getting the greens in shape with the smaller cups, one member said wrathfully. 'If they put in eight inch cups, we'll have to stay awake nights watching so the walls of the cups don't cave in."

BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

Three aces is a tough hand to beat, they say. Well, we're having an "Ace" a "King" and Lorne Chabot down here at the Brock tonight. Lorne himself would pass as a full house, or so it must seem to the opposition when Lorne is blocking that Toronto goal. These three are all aces in the N.H.L., all having a lot to do with the Leafs being world's hockey champs. And the trio will be at the benefit game for George Merrett this evening. Word was received last night from Bailey that Chabot would be down with "Ace" and Clancy. That's real sporting of the great goalie, as well as the other pair.

* * * * * * *

Aside from these puck celebritics, the game up there this p.m. promises to be some shucks, a fine E.P.L. all-star team clashing with the fas:-stepping Petes' Intermediates. It'll be exciting hockey, a nd preceded by a City League game, P.C.I. vs. Rotary, for fans who want to come early. Rush-seat specialists had better do their rushing right after the supper dishes have been bathed, or they'll be on the outside trying to look in. Yeah, looks like a sell-out.

* * * * * * *

Two more City League tussles were unravelled at the Brock last e'en, P.C.I. getting a 4-1 count over St. Peter's and Rotary slapping down Rangers with a 4-2 decision. Good and bad ohckey all mixed up, the ice being somewhat cut up and the players working their heads off rather than using them sometimes. Still, the kids dish up a lively brand of the sport and some of them are learning what to do with the rubber. P.C.I. and Rotary are both battling hard for the loop leadership this year, and may meet in the finals before long.

Incidentally, the Collegiate squad will have its return match with Grove School of Lakefield at the Brock, Thursday afternoon at 4.30. They played a week ago Saturday in Lakefield, terminating in a 3-all score, and was remarked upon as an unusually fine, close and clean contest. Ankle up there and get a load of two student teams letting themselves go after a hard day of algebra, Latin and one thing and another.

* * * * * * *

And here's one that might be worth letting other dates slide for: Westclox vs. Carters at the Brock at 8.30 Thursday. First meeting of the two local teams in this circuit, and unless we're more mistaken than usual, fans attending won't be dropping off into sweet slumber by any means. The Carters sort of seem to be going places, and the speedy Alarm boys are all burned up about that loss in Lakefield and other gloaming and it'll be too bad for somebody when they snap out of it. Sounds like something.

* * * * * * *

You can drag a hoss to water but it's a different problem to get him to guzzle any of it, unless said hoss has the desire. The Bowmanville junior hockey moguls were so peeved when the Petes were informed that there would be no playoff in this section of their group—first team automatically winning—that they intimated they might not try too hard to beat Port Hope in the next two games, thereby giving the Hopers a chance of tying the Petes, that is if the P. H. lads could lick Peterborough next Friday. But last night the Bowmanville youngsters trot down to Port Hope and win 4-3 in twenty minutes of overtime. Perhaps the afore-mentioned moguls decided to play hockey, or possibly the kids took it into their own hands, but anyway the result leaves the local juniors perched safely on the canary's perch.

The Belleville paper says: "It is beginning to look as though the winning of the Kingston City League did not do the Belleville D.A.C. players any good. For over two periods last Saturday night the Trenton intermediates, after a ninety-minute struggle the previous night and not having been on skates for some time, not only outplayed and outskated them but made the locals look very ordinary. For some unknown reason the local's forwards are not clicking together as was so evident in Kingston. No one can bring forth any reason for their present mediocre showing but we might add here and now if they don't snap out of their present trance pretty soon, they may find themselves reading of Campbellford playing in the O.H.A. playdowns."

* * * * * * *

Only two subs may be used by soccer teams this year in the O.F.A., but these may go back and forth as alternates during games. This was decided at the meeting in Toronto the other eve. Five districts, including Peterborough, dropped out this year, and the Ontario body will likely go further in the red, after dropping one grand last season. Incidentally, eleven teams are playing an indoor soccer league in Toronto now, seven players and seven subs, along the lines of box lacrosse. If local soccer officials got busy they might be able to start such a loop playing in the Armouries for a short Spring schedule. It's worth a think or two, anyway.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

GEORGIA MINSTRELS

The aggregation of all-star colored minstrels on the stage of the Grand to-morrow night in Fanchon and Marco's "Georgia Minstrels" are drawing approval from all ages and types of patrons, according to the management.

Memories of Lew Dockstader, George Primrose and other famous ebony organizations are called to mind by the older patrons of the audience. The old-fashioned cake walk, thick-soled clog dances, and tear-wringing ballads in the new show are done to perfection.

The younger generation comments favorably upon Clarence Dotson, The Three Georgia Browns, and others of the troupe who represent the new school of off-rhythm dancing, weird "hi-de-hi" singing, and discordant blue harmonies in orchestral music.

The Minstrels parade Thursday, "at 11.45" in true minstrel tradition. The orchestra plays a concert in the lobby as well.

The Minstrels are the famous Richards and Pringle group, with Fanchon and Marco presenting them in new settings and costumes, supplemented by additional artists. Le Roy Prinz directed.

SWAT SULTAN IS 20 YEARS IN PRO BALL

"No Idea of Quitting Summer Pastime for Some Years," Says Babe Ruth.

NEVER PLAY IN MINORS.

(By Alan Gould—A.P. Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 A.P.).—There was a time when Babe Ruth thought he would be quite happy to round out two full decades in major league baseball and then retire to the bench or grandstand, occupying a sort of "emeritus chair" in the national game. He's changed his mind.

The year 1933 will mark his 20th campaign in the American League, for which he is already well prepared, even though unsigned. He has not the slightest idea of making it a farewell tour.

"Say, I couldn't even think of quitting baseball, the way I feel now," the Babe told me. "It's not only money I can make out of it. I wouldn't know what to do with myself if I was out of the game. I ought to be able to play regularly at least two or three years more, maybe longer. Barring accidents, I do not see why I shouldn't be in every game with the Yankees this year."

Never Play In Minors.

For the time being, at least, Ruth has cast aside any thought of managing a big league club as a climax to his career. The one thing he is dead sure about is that he will never play in the minors, manage or own a minor league club.

"If I ever did manage a big league club, though, I would like the chance to build it up and not take over a ready-made outfit," he added.

The Boston Red Sox would appeal to him, on that account as well as for sentimental reasons. Many big league men would like to have Ruth go back to the hub, for just that purpose, but as he puts it himself: "Where's the money for that now?"

Bobby Leitham Is Popular On Coast

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1. (CP)—Add the name of Bobby Leitham of Montreal to the list of Canadians—Jimmy McLarnin, Billy Townsend, et al—who have endeared themselves to the fistic faithful of the Pacific Coast.

Before a small crowd in the Olympic auditorium here last night the black-haired, two-fisted bantamweight champion of Canada, went down to defeat before the flying fists of little Pancho, but not before he had given as rousing an exhibition of gameness as has been seen here in many a day.

BOWMANVILLE JUNIORS WIN OUT AT PORT HOPE

PORT HOPE, Feb. 1.—Bowmanville Juniors won a twenty-minute O.H.A. battle here last night against the Port Hope Juniors by 4-3. The locals trailed until the final session, and quickly added two goals to knot the count. In the second overtime session W. Bagnell scored on a scramble to put the visitors one up. J. Mutton in goal for the winners was the best man on the ice, while Record and Jim Phillipps were outstanding for the locals.

Bowmanville—Goal, J. Mutton; defence, Williams and Thickson; centre, C. Osborne; wings, D. Osborne and T. Bagnell; subs., W. Bagnell, Dunlop, Gunn, Mutton.

Port Hope—Goal, Cancilla; defence, McTavish and Record; centre O. Pillsworth; wings, Jack Phillips and Jim Phillipps; subs., B. Pillsworth, Rowland, Paeben and Douglas.

Referee—Armstrong, Oshawa.

SAILORS BEAT KITCHENER 4-1

Chances of Gaining Play-off Place in Senior "A" Series Obliterated.

SEVERAL PLAYERS ILL.

(By the Canadian Press).

Kitchener Empires' chances of reaching a play-off position in the Senior "A" series of the Ontario Hockey Association were practically obliterated to-day, following the 4-1 defeat inflicted upon them last night by Port Colborne Sailors.

Seven points behind the fourth-place Sailors, Empires have only five games remaining on their schedule. Port Colborne on the other hand have two of their remaining fixtures with the last place University of Toronto team. A win in either means four points, and cinching of their play-off berth.

Weakened by the loss of Hoch and Zuck, through illness, Empires put up a creditable display in an effort to earn a victory. Manager Irving Erb entered the game for the first time this season, and played a bang-up game on the defence.

Harry Gray led the Ports' attack, scoring two goals, one on a pass from Fan Heximer, the other on a solo effort. Vern Upper garnered a tally on a pass from Jack Cuthbert, and near the end of the game Chick Hudson broke clear while Kitchener were pressing and scored neatly.

MARK STREET MEN GUESTS OF KNOX

Men Enjoy Social Evening at Carpet Bowling and Other Games.

The Men's Brotherhood of Knox United Church were hosts last night to the members of Mark Street Brotherhood, forty-five of whom enjoyed a social evening, returning a visit they had received from Knox, earlier in the winter.

Carpet bowling was enjoyed, ten games being played during the evening, with keen rivalry and close scoring. As there was not accommodation for everyone to bowl at once, Alex Gillies, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, had crokinole and checker games arranged.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, the carpets were rolled up and John Allen and his assistants brought on the refreshments. Several members of the cast of "Nautical Knot" a musical comedy being prepared by Knox choir came down to enjoy the refreshments and later presented part of the program.

Joseph Lancaster, president of the Men's Brotherhood, acted as chairman and welcomed the friends from East City. A short, but interesting program included the following: The "Gloom Chasers" orchestra, composed of Herb. McCannan and Bert Arnott, harmonicas, Frank Clarke, banjo and Harry Hotson, piano, gave a number of selections which were thoroughly enjoyed; solo, "Johnny Schmoker", James Gerrard; a parody of Tamo Shanter in best Scotch style William Thompson; addresses, Rev. Charles Daniel, Rev. William McDonald, James Ellis, President of the Mark Street Brotherhood; and Thomas Hendry, teacher of the class.

All emphasized the value of social events in keeping up the morale of the people during these trying times.

After singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" the gathering broke up after a most enjoyable evening of Christian fellowship.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

This is hobby horse
Isn't it quiet?
You think you can make it gallop?
Well darling, just try it.
Shadow Sayings.

THE SHADOW children found a hobby horse, but Hanid, who was a very clever little shadow girl, kept saying to Knarf: 'But it isn't big enough."

"It is big enough," he answered her. At any rate, it was so big that the shadows, try as they would, could not move it. Finally they made themselves small again, and crawled back into the book called Ancient History. You remember, they had crawled into the book a little while before and had found themselves before the city of Troy, which the Greek soldiers were trying to capture. Only they couldn't get inside the walls. Then a Greek soldier named Ulysses thought of a scheme. He said that they ought to build a huge wooden horse, and place it in front of the gates to the city of Troy. Knarf had thought the children's hobby horse was going to help the Greeks to get inside the city walls. "You can't ride on it," Mij said to Ulysses.

Ride in the Horse

Ulysses shook his head and smiled. "We can't ride on it," he agreed. He lowered his voice as he added: "But we can ride in it."

They pushed and pushed, but the horse was too heavy.

The shadows all uttered an exclamation of surprise. By this time it had grown quite dark. Ulysses showed the shadow children that the inside of the wooden horse was hollow. It was large enough inside to hold a great many soldiers. A great many soldiers placed themselves inside the horse. Knarf cried: "I want to go along, too."

"You'd better-not," Ulysses warned. "There is going to be a lot of fighting."

"Inside the horse?" Knarf asked.

"Inside the city," Ulysses answered. Knarf didnt believe it. He didn't see how the huge wooden horse was going to be able to get over the high walls. Ulysses tried his best to keep Knarf from getting inside the wooden horse. Even Ulysses couldn't keep the shadow boy out. It is very hard to catch a shadow. Try to catch your shadow if you can. It was useless for the other shadows to beg Knarf not to go along. He refused to heed them.

At length, after a great many of the Greek soldiers had got inside the horse, the little wooden door was shut. Then the horse was wheeled up to the gates of the city of Troy and left standing there. The rest of the Greek army marched away. You would have thought that they were going away for good. By and by the Trojans (they were the people who lived in Troy) said to themselves: "The Greeks are gone and they left their beautiful wooden horse. We'll wheel it inside our city." They didn't know, you see, that the wooden horse was full of Greek soldiers—and Knarf.

(The wooden horse comes to life to-morrow.)

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 2

A RATHER MUDDLED and perplexing state of affairs is the augury based on the lunar transits. Employment is under a cloud, with danger of friction or complications. There may be delays, disappointments, and impediments. Litigation would prove unfortunate and writing or documents should be signed with precaution. However, benefits might be expected from corporations or secret organization, and emotional or sentimental matters might prove compensatory.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of difficulties and complications. Things may meet with obstructions or delays. Employment is under particular danger and litigation should be shunned. But there may be offsets from corporation. Be careful with all manner of writings. A child born on this day may be emotional, clever and studious but may find many difficult situations to surmount.

Hot Supper Served By C.G.I.T. Group

MILLBROOK, Jan. 31.— (Examiner Correspondence. — (The hot supper served by the Wide-Awakes C.G.I.T. Group on Saturday, proved a marked success, the attendance being quite as large as could reasonably be looked for considering the unusual amount of illness in the village at the present time.

Approximately twenty dollars was added to the group funds from the supper, ten dollars of which was given on Sunday as the annual contribution to the Missionary and Maintenace fund of the church, and the usual subscription of five dollars to the National Girls' Work Board, Toronto, will be remitted after the regular meeting on Tuesday evening of this week.

Among those helping were Mrs. J. McKnight, who had charge of the hot meat, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, who attended to the making of the tea, other mothers of the girls who assisted being Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, and Mrs. W. A. Brian; members of the group who served the guests included Madeline McDowell, Audrey Garside, Kathleen Davis, Margaret Smith, Mary Burnham, Jean Burnham, Bryar Edmunds, Anna Rowland, Helen Mitchell, Jean Stinson and Ida Lunn. Marian O'Brian acted as cashier.

DIES OF PNEUMONIA

CHICAGO.—Eugene Robert Viola, who at the age of five days, survived an operation to prevent him from starving to death, died of pneumonia.

Ten days ago doctors performed an operation to make an opening between the infant's stomach and intestine. He was born, doctors said, without the usual opening. The child apparently was recovering from the operation when pneumonia developed, causing his death.

Mrs. P. J. Chernoff, Shoreacres, B.C., writes:—"I had been so troubled with shortness of breath I could not lie down to sleep.

I couldn't do any hard work, or climb the stairs, and had nervous and smothering feelings, and became very weak.

I tried all kinds of medicine, but could get no relief until after I had taken three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and since then I have felt better in every way."

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION NEWS

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

King Edward Home and School Association held their annual meeting and election of officers, on Monday evening, in the Kindergarten Room of the school, with a splendid attendance of interested members and visitors.

The president, Mrs. H. Turner, was in the chair, and conducted the opening devotional and business sessions.

Very excellent were the reports of secretary and treasurer, and that of the relief committee, all showing that this Association has been doing much active service.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the address given by Mrs. E. Wand, president of the Home and School Council. Mrs. Wand emphasized the need of co-operation and concerted work in this very necessary relief undertaking.

She heartily congratulated the King Edward Association upon their work for 1932 and for all they had accomplished as the result of their labors.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was also very efficiently conducted by Mrs. Wand, and the following executive stands for 1933.

President—Mrs. Henry Turner; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Menzies; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. E. Grose; 3rd Vice-President, Mrs. J. O. Fife; Rec. Sec., Mrs. S. Gillespie; Treas., Mrs. J. Gerard; Program Committee, Mesdames Mackness and Hubel and Miss K. Benson.

Committees and Convenors.—Relief Convenor, Mrs. Snowden; Visiting Convenor, Mrs. Rooke; Social, Mesdames Beatty and Cooke; Telephone, Mesdames Fife and Warne; Press Correspondent, Mrs. Wagar; Representatives to Home and School Council, Mesdames Menzie and Gillespie; Representatives to Local Council, Mesdames Snowden and Rowe.

SECOND PLACE WON BY CITY

St. Thomas First in Fire Prevention Week Contest.

CONTEST WAS CLOSE.

A report of the winners in the Inter-City Fire Prevention Contest was issued to-day by the International Committee on Fire Prevention and Clean-up Weeks for the National Fire Protective Association, of which T. Alfred Fleming, director of conservation of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, is chairman.

Inter-city competition in Class C for cities under 25,000 population was exceptionally keen, and in Ontario, Peterborough takes second place to St. Thomas.

In this province, Kenora has held first place for five consecutive years, and Galt has been runner-up for four years. Recognizing this splendid achievement, it was decided to create a "star" honor roll, elevating Kenora to this exalted position with a crown of five stars, and Galt receives four stars. This change makes St. Thomas, Peterborough and Oshawa the winning cities in this year's competition.

Honorable mention was bestowed on Sudbury, Owen Sound and Guelph.

It will be recalled that during Fire Prevention Week in this city, Fire Marshal E. P. Heaton made a tour of inspection of the local schools, along with Fire Chief George Gimblett, and commented favorably on the efficient manner in which the school staffs had trained their pupils in fire drill. He was also pleased to note the efficiency of the City Fire Department, which he described during the course of a lecture before one of the service clubs as being "second to none for cities of the same population in the whole Dominion."

Slight Handicap

ALTON, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Don't talk diet to Robert Wadlow, for he'll hear none of it.

The youth, who is in his second year in high school, spends part of his time taking care of his five months old brother, but he doesn't wish the baby to be as large as he is when he grows up.

He finds his size a bit of a handicap in play with other boys.

EMPIRE CUBS BEAT WARNE'S

Smart Combination and Effective Defensive Hockey Accounts for 2-0 Win.

IN SOUTH-END LEAGUE.

Empire Cubs defeated Warne Bros., 2-0, in a bantam fixture in the Southend Hockey League last night at Sacred Heart rink. The Cubs looked good, playing smart combination and effective defensive hockey. Fine rushing was a feature of this contest. Mickey Williams, dimunitive centre for the winners showed up well at his position. Both Lucas and Johnston worked well on the front line with him. For the losers, Heal was most effective, both at puck-carrying and at checking back. Watson and the goalie also turned in good performances. Lucas and Webb were the only scorers. The teams:

Albion Knitting won the juvenile game from Black Hawks, 11 to 1, having a big edge from start to finish. The ice was fair and play fast, but the losers could never get going properly, rush after rush breaking upon the Knitters' defence, and the goalie smothering any shots that drifted through. he husky Albion outfit looked good on teamplay, had speed to burn and rifled hard shots at Driscoll from close range, piling up the count as the game progressed. Jobe and Vitarelli were the big threats on the attack for the victors, the latter chalking up four goals and Jobe hree. All played a good game, while all the losing pucksters tried hard. The teams:

Back Hawks: Goal, Driscoll; defence, Roach, Marrocco; centre, Vinette; wings, White, Houlihan; alternates, Gainey, O'Leary, Ellis, Flynn.

Two fast, clever intermediate games followed, some really good hockey being dished up to the railbirds in both fixtures. Play was fast from bell to bell, both times, combination good, hard checking and fine goal-tending. Canucks squeezed out a 3-2 win in a game as close as the score indicates; while the second intermediate one was every bit as good, Park Hill cashing in with one goal to defeat Pirates, 1-0. Wilshaw starred in this second game, but all the players in both fixtures turned in a great effort for the evening.

CONTINUE INQUEST THURSDAY NIGHT

Roy F. McLean, Only Survivor of Fatal Crash, Will Give Evidence.

Roy F. McLean, of Alliston, the one survivor of the motor crash in which three were fatally injured when a motor car collided head-on into the Globe newspaper truck in a dense fog early on the morning of November 7, last year, will testify to-morrow evening at the resumed inquest before a coroner's jury. The inquest was adjourned from November 10 to permit McLean and John Willis, passenger in the Globe truck, to recover sufficiently from the injuries to give testimony.

Willis did not recover. He died a few weeks later of pneumonia and his injuries, making the third victim of the accident, which will probably be remembered as the worst highway crash in the history of this district. Horace Walkey, former Peterborough boy, a passenger in McLean's car, and Herman Hagen, driver of the newspaper truck, had died previous to the holding of the inquest.

McLean's evidence only will be taken to-morrow evening, since all the other evidence, that the Crown could secure to throw light upon the accident, was given at the adjourned hearing on November 10. McLean suffered severe injuries, and his doctor has only now, nearly three months after the crash, adjudged it proper that he should appear before the coroner's jury.

DENTISTS TO HEAR PROF. EDGAR PAUL

Medical Men Are Also Invited to Hear Address on Thursday.

Dentists and medical men of the city will gather at Empress Hotel on Thursday evening to hear a paper to be delivered by Dr. Edgar Paul, professor of dental surgery University of Toronto, on "Problems of Interest to the Physician and Dentist," and also to hear an address by Dr. F. J. Conboy, director of Dental Health Services, Provincial Department of Health.

The meeting is to be held under the auspices of Peterborough and District Dental Society, under the presidency of Dr. J. E. Middleton, and will follow on a dental clinic that is to be held in the afternoon by the dentists of the society. Members of the Medical Association have been invited to attend the evening session, in view of Professor Paul's paper, which will hold interest for both dentists and medical men.

To The Water Consumers:

January 31st, 1933.

Herewith is submitted the operating statement and balance sheet for the Waterworks Department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission for the year ending December 31st, 1932.

It will be noted that for the year a profit of $3,174.69 is shown. A cheque for this amount is being sent to the City Council for reduction of the general tax rate.

The yearly charge to the city for fire protection was reduced by $2,200.00, and on July 1st, the collection of frontage rates on vacant property abutting on water mains was eliminated. A reduction in the rates by meter was put into effect at the same time.

The refinancing of the filter plant debentures at 4½% with sinking fund, and the retirement of $230,000 debentures issued to pay the original purchase price of the system have resulted in a lowering of fixed charges amounting to $6,500.00. This enabled the above reduction in rates.

As further amounts of debentures become due and are paid off, further reductions in rates will be possible, provided, of course, that no considerable capital expenditures are undertaken.

The department operated efficiently during the year and continued to deliver the usual high standard of water to its consumers.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM GRILLS OBSERVE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Banquet and Baptisms Mark Celebration of Pioneer Seymour Couple.

MANY GRANDCHILDREN.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1.—Hail and hearty with the fiftieth wedding milestone passed, Mr. and Mrs. William Grills of the English Line, Seymour Township, celebrated on Monday last their golden wedding, surrounded by all their family and receiving the well wishes of the community. One of the outstanding features of this pioneer couple, around whom in days gone by the life of the community centred, and who are now content to sit back and gaze on life with the knowledge of work well done, is the fact that despite the blessing of a family of ten, only one death has been recorded in the family in the past sixty years.

Although the actual anniversary was on Sunday the celebration was held on Monday. In the afternoon this happy bride and groom of fifty years ago were at home to their many friends, who took advantage of the occasion to shower upon them hearty congratulations. The evening celebration was confined to the family only, a magnificent banquet being staged in honor of the venerable heads of this family.

Married In 1883

Mr. and Mrs. Grills were married in Belleville by the Rev. Mr. Henson on January 29, 1883. Two months later they started housekeeping on the farm that is now their home and which was the old homestead of Mr Grills and upon which he was born. Mr. Grills will be eighty-three years old next April. A son the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grills, he was born in the township and is one of the fathers of the community. Hail and hearty and full of the good cheer of life, he carries his age very lightly and is still interested and active in community life.

Mrs. Grills, who was Sara Jane Petherick, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Petherick, was also born in the township and was in her younger days one of the communities popular young folks. In October next she will have reached the 80th year of her life, yet she is still young in spirit and full of kindliness and cheer.

Mr. Grills is the last of his generation but Mrs. Grills has two brothers, William and Thomas Petherick of Seymour; and three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Brunton and Mrs. Nora Grills of Seymour and Mrs. Annie Bartlett of Toronto, living.

Of their own family, out of ten children, nine are still living. These are Thomas Daniel of Castleton; Mrs. W. G. Craighead of Seymour East; William Henry of Warkworth, Mrs. Lewis Dunk of Seymour East; Lewis Grills of Strathclaire, Manitoba; Joseph Richard of Sidney; Garnet on the homestead; Mrs. Andrew Haig of Seymour East and James also of East Seymour.

Mr. and Mrs. Grills have a family tree of thirty-seven grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren. The youngest of these great grand children, the ten day old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Grills, was baptised at the evening function by the Rev. F. G. MacTavish. In the church following the banquet at which 84 people were seated, Mr. MacTavish also baptised other members of the family, including one great-grandchild of William Grills of Warkworth; two great-grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Grills of Warkworth and three great-grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. William Poole of Hastings.

TRENT RIVER.

Mr. Will McLaughlin arrived on Sunday from Toonto where he spent the past few weeks with his sisters.

Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson, Norwood Road, were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hubel and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoffman and family of Havelock.

Mr. Nicholas Collins of Peterborough, is a visitor with his sister, Mrs. N. W. Redden.

Mr. P. O. Davis has returned to Toronto after spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Isaac Lawson.

Mrs. Forsythe of Havelock, is a visitor with her brother, Mr. Thos. Sedgwick and is in attendance upon Mrs. Sedgwick in her illness.

PLEASING PROGRAM INSTITUTE CONCERT

Entertainment Held at Millbrook to Raise Money for Relief Purposes.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 1.—The initiative of the local branch of the Women's Institute in planning for so worthy an object as a community entertainment and dance for relief purposes was warmly commended by Reeve P. Stinson, in taking the chair on Monday evening, and making a brief opening address before the large audience which had gathered in the Town Hall for the occasion.

The program was provided entirely by local talent, among those assisting with readings being Miss Jean Burnham, who chose "A Big Mistake" for her selection; Miss Dorothy Hall, whose number, "Mary Agnes Studies Elocution", was warmly applauded as was also the recitation, "The Daffodils at the Circus", by Vanita Ingram. One little maiden who particularly pleased the audience was Leatha Rowland, a pupil of Miss Gwen Hutchison, who gave a pretty musical recitation, "The Tea Party", and was also heard in "My Sweet Little Alice Blue Gown". Two little girls that carried the listeners with them whole heartedly were Gloria and Jean Dawson, who sang very sweetly unaccompanied, "Sweet Nightingale", and "The Dandelion."

Soloists who were given an appreciative hearing included W. H. Coombe whose tenor selection was "The Veteran's Song", Joe Thorndyke, whose number was, "Just a Home for the Old Folks", three young men, Henry Gray, Tom Samuelson, and Ted La Silence, singing "There Is a Busy Cobbler", while the young men of the Tuxis Square, by request, repeated the selections given at a previous concert, "The More We're Together", and "Alouette", Kenneth Fallis acting as song leader.

An impersonation of Charlie Chaplin was given by J. Griffith, who also 'brought down the house' with clever stepdances, and a Mother Goose dialogue, also repeated by special request, was particularly pretty, the girls taking part including Beatrice McDowell as Mother Goose; Dorothy Smith, Old Mother Hubbeard; Lenore Davis, Queen of Hearts; Velma Thornton, Little Jack Horner; Phyllis Lunn, Little Bo-Peep; Betty Thornton, Little Miss Muffet; Marjorie Griffith, Simple Simon; and Elsie Theobald, Cross Patch.

Accompanists of the evening were Misses Estelle Hetherington, M. L. Collins, Ruth Thorndyke, Dorothy McDowell, and Gwen Hutchinson. Before the National Anthem, Reeve Stinson made an appeal for good used clothing, and especially boots, rubbers, or overshoes for the Institute, or the Council, to meet the actual need in connection with the transients housed practically every night, and in numbers varying from four or six to ten or twelve. The clothing, etc., may be left at the home of Mrs T. G. Harkness.

The dance which followed the entertainment was apparently a very popular end enjoyable feature, numbers being increased for this part of the evening until the floor space was taxed to supply accommodation, music being supplied by Messrs. Will Todd at the piano, Matthew Todd and John Patton with violins, and Walter Todd with mandolin. Messrs Eldridge Nelson, A. Lunn, and J. Patton took turns in calling off for the square dances, and the booth where hot dogs, sandwiches, and coffee were for sale was served by Mrs. J. L. Byam, president of the W. I., Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. Harkness, some of the men also giving assistance.

A substantial sum was realized from the evening and this will go entirely to charity, as need becomes evident, the hall, music, etc. being supplied free for the community occasion.

Watch for Bladder Weakness

After Colds, Grip and "Flu"

"Have you had a hard cold, grippe, or "flu" this winter? Then by all means watch and guard your kidneys and bladder for they are apt to be left weakened, clugged, and sluggish from your illness," says Dr. Southworth, prominent practising physician. Many chronic and serious kidney and bladder ailments start this way, and it is best to "nip" them at the start, before they get dangerous and hard to overcome. Watch for weakness or stiffness and pain in your side, back or loins, scanty or highly colored urine with sediment like brick dust, frequent desire, night rising, pain or pressure, inflammation or prickling, scalding sensation. If you have any of these symptoms, your Bladder needs help at once, and you should ask your druggist for Dr. Southworth's special Uratabs prescription which for many years has been giving quick, sure relief in just such conditions to thousands of people living in this section. One package—lasting ten days—can generally be depended on to get you functioning naturally again, and even the first day's use brings blessed relief in nearly every case. This has been so often and thoroughly proved that Dr. Southworth tells every druggist to refund the price of the first package to any purchaser who is not completely satisfied with results.

Heavy Hockey Card For Campbellford

Two Fixtures and Two Postponed Games Billed for Next 8 Days.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The hockey season has started in earnest in Campbellford and providing the weather man is good, fans will be in their element for the next two weeks. Giving Belleville a trouncing on Monday, the Maroons are booked to win the return game with that outfit to be staged in Campbellford on Friday. They have already tied with Belleville for first place in the O.H.A. grouping so the game should develop into a fine exhibition.

Next week three games are booked for Campbellford, all of which will be played in the Davidson Arena. On Monday Trenton play the last of the scheduled games with the Maroons. On Wednesday Belleville again clash with the homesters in a missed fixture, while on Friday Trenton appear again on local ice, also playing a postponed game. Attack on Bennett By Labour Leader Starts House Row

Labor Leader And President Of C.C.F. Indignantly Denies Any Connection Between Movement And Communism.

MAIN ESTIMATES SHOWING DECREASE OF $6,000,000 TABLED IN HOUSE.

Attack On Capitalistic System And Demand For Change Is Made By Members Of C.C.F. In House of Commons.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2. —(CP)— Indignantly denying any connection between the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and Moscow and sounding a warning that wealth must pay tribute to human needs, J. S. Woodsworth, Labor leader and President of the federation, began an attack on the capitalist system in the House of Commons giving the cue to a series of speakers from the Farmer and Labor group who will continue today to demand a change in the economic system.

Mr. Woodsworth's speech and the tabling of the main estimates for the fiscal year 1933-34 were the highlights of a short but lively session yesterday.

The estimates show evidence of much paring and total $358,656,488, a reduction of more than $6,000,000 from the amount voted last year. Supplementary estimates, however, have yet to be tabled. Actually the government succeeded in paring $12,000,000 from the estimates for controllable expenditures as compared with the total for both main and supplementary estimates last year.

But increases in uncontrollable outlays including some $4,000,000 additional interest on the public debt reduce the net saving.

Introduces Resolution.

The Labor Leader introduced a resolution calling upon the Government to take steps looking to the setting up of a co-operative commonwealth in which all natural resources and the socially necessary machinery of production would be used in "the interests of the people and not for the benefit of the few."

Substantially it was the same as resolutions introduced in previous years, but this year, he said, it had added significance because of the formation of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation last August. A large body of organized public opinion was now behind the idea.

Premier Bennett had the whole Secret Service to help him if he wished to prove the Federation had any connection with Moscow, Mr Woodsworth asserted. Unlike Communists the Federation believed the necessary changes in the social order could be brought about without violence.

He warned, however, that if certain persons persisted in their present attitude and the people continued to be denied free expression and a decent livelihood, violence might prove inevitable.

Japan Is Determined To Hold Pacific Isles

TOKYO, Feb. 2. (AP)—Confronted by the prospect of secession from the League of Nations, which would involve the question of Equatorial Pacific Islands held under League mandate, Japan's determination was becoming manifest to-day to retain the islands regardless of possible attempts in Geneva to reassume Suzerainty.

The islands, lying between the United States and the Philippines, figure prominently in the navy's plans for domination of the Western Pacific and although Admiral Osumi, Minister of the Navy, evaded direct questions as to whether the islands would be retained, the strongest insistence on their retention originated in naval circles.

Responsible officials avoided categorical public statements.

NEGRO TRAVELS FROM KENTUCKY TO GET ESTATE

JUST GOT CROPS IN.

Proud That His Grandfather Came From Canada and Never Was a Slave.

All the way from Kentucky has come Richard Barnes, quiet, thoughtful, little Negro, who claims to be the only living relative of Eugene Lee, colored veteran of the Spanish-American War, who was shot to death in Dummer Township on October 17, last, by Edward Jackson, also colored, ex-soldier of the American peace-time army.

"Yas, suh, Ise Eugene Lee's only livin' relative," said Barnes, who set out from Carrsville, Kentucky, on Sunday by bus for Peterborough and arrived here yesterday afternoon. "I travelled here to fix up Eugene's estate and hear Jackson's trial."

Resemblance Striking

Barnes has a striking resemblance to the man who fell beneath a fusilade of shots from Jackson's revolver. "My paw and his maw were brother and sister, so us was fust cousins," Barnes explained today when interviewed by The Examiner as he sat in the local Provincial Police office. He talks with the same soft drawling dialect made so well known to radio listeners by Amos 'n' Andy.

"Yas, suh, Lee's maw and paw's paw were slaves. They lived on a plantation nearby to where Ise farmin' now. They took their name from their mahster, whose name was Lee. I don't rightly know whether he was descendant of the great General Lee cause that's long afore any of my folks can remember.

"No, suh, my paw's paw never was no slave. He came from Canada and settled there, and married my maw."

He said Lee had had four half-sisters, but all were dead except one, "and we ain't heard from her nohow for more'n twelve years.

Wants to Visit Jail

Barnes several times expressed the desire to go to the county goal to visit Jackson. "Yas, suh," he said, "I'd just like to go up there

Scottish Salmon Eggs For British Columbia

GLASGOW, Feb. 2.—An unusual shipment is being handled by the Canadian Pacific Express Co. on the liner Montcalm, which sailed from the Clyde on Saturday. This consists of six cases containing trays of salmon ova representing 100,000 eggs.

The ova, which has been supplied by the Howietoun and Northern Fisheries Co., Ltd., Stirling, is on account of the Canadian Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa, will be carried in the Montcalm's refrigerator, and on arrival at St. John, N.B., will be rushed right across Canada to British Columbia, where the eggs will be hatched and the resultant Atlantic salmon released to find their way down British Columbia rivers to mingle with their cousins in the Pacific Ocean.

JACKSON TRIAL IS SET DOWN FOR NEXT WEEK

Franklin Jackson Faces Charge of Murder at Winter Assizes.

THREE CRIMINAL CASES.

Condie and Hendrichon Face Charges of Manslaughter.

With the opening of the assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario here before Mr. Justice Sedgewick on Monday afternoon, the curtain will rise on another act of the Eugene Lee shooting drama in Dummer Township last October, and in connection with which Edward Franklin Jackson was committed for trial on a charge of murder.

The alleged murder which occurred at the doorstep of Edward Salter's back kitchen on the ninth line of Dummer early on the evening of October 17 last, severed a strange partnership of two Negroes who had come to this district last June from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to build a home for themselves in the quiet of the country, far from the excitement of city life.

Two other cases go to complete the criminal docket which will be presented by His Lordship to the Grand Jury, they are charges of manslaughter against Robert S. Condie, of 306 Aylmer street this city, and Harry Hendrichon of Montreal in respect to the death of Fred Fletcher C.P.R. sectionhand.

The dead man Fletcher and the two accused participated in a New Year's party at Condie's home, and on the morning of January 1, Fletcher was discovered dead. He had an extensive fracture of the skull presumably caused in a fall downstairs, and also extensive bruising over the left eye caused, it is alleged by a blow he received while standing at the head of the stairway.

Thomas A. Battle, K.C., Toronto, special crown prosecutor will conduct the prosecution of the criminal cases, assisted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. The Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. is conducting the defense of each of the three accused men.

On the civil list there is one jury action listed for hearing and also six non-jury actions.

Civil Cases

The cases entered for trial on the civil list, are as follows:

Jury: J. Raymond Paquette, who sues as well on his own behalf, as on behalf of all others the creditors of James B. Brown vs. James B. Brown, Lillie A. Brown and Elizabeth Alice Brown. Gordon and Elliott for plaintiffs; Hall, Hall and Stevenson for defendants.

BUSHMAN CASE NEARING CLOSE

Ex-Movie Star Lays Full Blame for Crash on E. H. Hamilton.

SPEEDED ON CURVE.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 2.—(CP)—Full blame for the crash in which Francis X. Bushman, ex-movie star, was injured was laid today on the shoulders of A. E. Hamilton, Windsor, whom Bushman is suing for $10,000 damages. Hon. J. C. Elliott, K. C., counsel for Bushman, alleged Hamilton had made no effort to slow down in rounding a curve where the accident happened, and was going 25 miles an hour.

The case is expected to reach the jury today.

"Do any of you doubt the evidence of medical men who testified for Bushman?" Mr. Elliott asked the jury. "If any evidence is open to criticism it was the medical evidence for the defence."

He maintained even if, as suggested, the actor's injuries had existed before the accident, it was quite possible they were greatly exaggerated. He was convinced, said counsel, the injuries did not exist prior to the accident.

Saints or Kings $40—Angels $12

LONDON, Feb. 2. — (C. P. Cable)—The mother of parliaments has saints for sale.

Although the parliament building is not yet a century old, deteriorating stone has demanded extensive restorations. The kings and queens and saints cut in stone along the walls are under repair by the score and with an eye to revenue the office of works is offering some of them for sale.

Small angels are priced at $12; a king or a patron saint goes for $40 and a sturdy British lion is the most expensive of all. One which stood the climate well is worth three kings.

CLOTHING SLIPS HAD NO PRICES MERCHANT SAYS

Put Figures in After Vouchers Filled Witness Admits at Probe.

DENIES OVERCHARGING.

Refutes Claims Articles Put on List People Never Received.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Feb. 2 (C.P.)—No prices were marked on clothing vouchers brought to his store declared Morris Tattlebaum, general merchant, in testifying before the Royal Commission on relief expenditures to-day. Before opening, he presented his naturalization paper to the court, "so I'll be treated like a Canadian."

After the vouchers were filled, he said, he himself marked the prices in. He denied statements of a previous witness to the effect persons obtaining clothing were overcharged.

"Why pick on me?" he asked. "It's just because the others are jealous because I have the best business in town." In every case people getting clothing were told the price of the articles they were given, he said. "They didn't have to take it if they didn't want it."

Items Never Received

"Other people who come up here and say they were not told the prices and there are items in their bills they never received, what would you say they were?" asked W. H. Williams, K.C., commission counsel.

"I wouldn't say they were liars, but I'm telling you the truth," replied witness.

"I'm getting tired of people who say they are telling the truth, for they are usually the biggest liars of the bunch," said Mr. Williams.

New Empire Content No Aid To Westclox

Great Britain's new preferential tariff admitting free of duty certain articles containing at least 50 per cent. of Empire material and labor affords no advantage to the Western Clock Company, J. H. Vernor, general manager, told The Examiner to-day.

"Our Empire content is already between 80 and 90 per cent" Mr. Vernor said, "and naturally we would like to see the British requirement increased to a higher level than 50 per cent. The higher the Empire material and labor content regulation to secure free entry of clocks into Great Britain, the better it would be for our products."

THREE LEADERS OF DOUKHOBORS RUSH TO HALIFAX

Want to See Peter Verigin Before He Sails For Russia.

RACE AGAINST TIME.

Leader is Slated to Sail Late Friday — Using Airplanes.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2.—(CP)—Racing against time a trim monoplane took off from Stevenson airport here today in a desperate effort to overtake Peter Veregin, overlord of Canada's Doukhobors who is being taken to Halifax where he is to be deported to Russia. Veregin whose removal from Prince Albert jail was accomplished Monday with great secrecy, arrived at Montreal today enroute to the Atlantic seaboard.

Peter Veregin

Aboard the 'plane, which left here shortly before noon, were Peter G. Makaroff, chief counsel to the Doukhobor chieftain, and S. F. Reitin, Veregin's personal secretary. At Halifax they hope to complete final arrangements for the disposition of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood and also for Veregin's personal affairs.

Go To New York

The pursuit plane will connect at Pembina, N. D., with United States trans-continental air services and speed east to the Atlantic seaboard via Minneapolis, Chicago, New York and Boston and then on to Halifax. At Chicago the pair will be joined by J. P. Shukin, of Brilliant, B. C., vice-president of the Doukhobor communities and probable successor to Veregin as leader of Doukhobor settlements in Canada.

With 24 hours' start immigration officials plan to reach Halifax Friday evening. Makaroff and his companion, equipped with permission from Hon. W. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, expect to land their plane at the Atlantic seaport Friday.

Sails Late on Friday

Veregin is scheduled to sail from Halifax late Friday to an unknown European port. He is being deported to Russia, the country of his origin. He was given permission to leave the Soviet in 1927 on the understanding he would not return.

Doukhobor leaders were amazed at the speed and secrecy that have closed the drama of Peter Veregin's six years of Doukhobor leadership in Canada. No official information of the spiriting-away of their leader was given Doukhobor

Senate Committee Decides to Accept Duff Suggestions

Action In Effect Sanctions Principle Of Closer Co-operation Between Two Systems, Trustee Board To Manage C.N., And Arbitral Board To Settle Disputes.

MURDOCK CHARGES BANKS WITH FORCING TWO LINES TO MAKE SECOND 10 P.C. PAY CUT.

OTTAWA, February 2 (C.P.). — Amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways received a decided setback here to-day when a Senate Committee accepted the general recommendations of the Duff Royal Commission that reviewed the railway situation.

With only one dissenting vote, that of Senator J. S. McLennan, the committee endorsed the preamble of the Bill incorporating the report of the commission and in effect accepted the principle of closer co-operation between the two systems, a board of trustees to manage the Canadian National, and an arbitral board to settle points in dispute. The Bill has not been reviewed by the Senate as a whole or the House of Commons.

Murdock's Counter-Charge.

And Senator Murdock countered with the charge Senator Dandurand represented the bankers. The incident closed with Senator Murdock claiming the banks forced the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways to institute the second 10 per cent. wage cut announced in Montreal earlier this week.

Senator Gordon had moved for the adoption of the preamble, and it was seconded by Senator Lynch-Staunton.

CHAMBERLAIN UPHELD ON HIS STAND BY PRESS

LONDON, Feb. 2 (A.P.) — The Daily Mail said editorially to-day that Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, did well to set forth plainly for United States correspondents yesterday the British Government's policy in the coming debt negotiations at Washington.

"He stated emphatically," said The Mail, "that our representatives do not contemplate embarking on a swapping deal. He deprecated any idea of bargaining in the questions which will be discussed. Our case is, after all, simple. It is that any prolonged continuance of the huge one-way payments involved in these inter-governmental war debts is impossible."

REV. DR. CHOWN IS LAID TO REST

Note of Gladness Marks Service Because of Pastor's Life-long Optimism.

MODERATOR OFFICIATES.

TORONTO, Feb. 2. — (CP) — Thankfulness for such an example was the dominant note in the funeral service today of Dr. Samuel Dwight Chown, well-known divine who died Monday. The service was arranged with the note of gladness and rejoicing in mind because of the life-long optimism of Dr. Chown through his 80 years on earth.

The man who might have been first moderator of the United Church in Canada, but put aside the honor so a friend and comrade of another denomination might be chosen was honored in his passing by the man whom he preferred—Rev. Dr. C. C. Pidgeon, elected moderator in 1925, and by the present moderator, Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore, and also by the minister of the church where lately he had worshipped, Rev. Dr. Trevor Davies.

"Enthusiast and idealist from his youth up, man of faith who believed what ought to be done could be done by the help of God, a follower of Him who by vicarious living and dying saved the world, Dr. Chown lives on in the work he accomplished and in the inspiration he gave, and his example will be a beacon light to the sons of the church he loved in the years to be," said Dr. Pidgeon.

"He will go down to history as an outstanding example of self-forgetful devotion to a cause. He led the Methodist church into union with unbroken ranks, and then when he had every right to expect election to the highest office in the gift of the United Church he relinquished it in favor of another."

NATIONAL STEEL PROFIT.

£10 FINE ADDED.

MARGATE, England, Feb. 2 (AP) —When the Duke of Manchester failed to appear in court here today on a judgment summons issued by a hotel at Broadstairs, Judge Clements issued an order committing him to prison for 242 days, and imposed a fine of £10 for contempt of court. The Duke's present whereabouts are not known.

In December, 1931, the Duke of Manchester, ninth Duke of the line, was married at Greenwich, Conn., to Miss Kathleen Dawes, formerly an actress in England. The previous Duchess of Manchester obtained a divorce which had become final ten days before the second marriage.

The Duke had planned the ceremony would be performed by his friend, former Mayor Walker of New York, but certain legal technicalities made the wedding in New York State impossible.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 12.—Relations between Jews and Arabs have improved immensely since 1929. The tension which existed formerly has abated. Massacres of inoffensive Jewish men, women and children, such as occurred in August and September, 1929, in Hebron, Safed, Motza and Jerusalem are now positively unthinkable. In 1929 everybody knew that a bloody outbreak was in the air, everybody that is except the government whose officers pretended later, before the commission of inquiry, that the outbreak had caught them unaware.

A. G. THOMPSON IS APPOINTED TO HEAD BOARD

Campbellford Schools Caretaker's Salary Cut $200 Following Discussion.

OTHER OFFICES FILLED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — A. G. Thompson will preside over the 1933 deliberations of the Campbellford Board of Education, being elected as chairman of that body at the inaugural meeting held last evening. G. A. Kingston was appointed vice-chairman and Wesley Stephens re-appointed secretary-treasurer.

George O'Sullivan, retiring chairman, in a short address, thanked all members for the co-operation shown during the past year, and especially chairmen of committees, which he declared had worked splendidly. The year had been sound financially, he stated, the requisition from the town the lowest since the school advanced from a four-roomed institution, and an increased balance on hand was shown. The newly-elected member, Roy Loucks, was welcomed and took his seat on the board.

The policy of economy again came before the board when W. H. Stephens stated that in his opinion the caretaker, James Massie, was receiving too high a salary. Mr. Massie receives a salary of $3,000 a year for the two schools, and a cut was not given him last year when reduction of teachers' salaries was considered. Mr. Stephens was in favor of a cut of $50 monthly, but could get no seconder for this motion.

Speaking on the motion, Mr. Loucks stated that he thought the motion was a little drastic, but made it clear that he favored a reduction, pointing out that he was elected on an economy ticket. He knew the work Mr. Massie was doing, and with the whole board agreed that the work was done well and deservant of praise, but conditions were such to-day that many men who were doing more work well were not receiving what they earned. He sponsored a motion for a 15 per cent. cut., seconded by Mr. Stephens, this later being changed to ten per cent.

Salary Cut $300.

William Cook and Walter Henson sponsored an amendment that the caretaker's salary remain the same for the time being, but this they later withdrew when Roy Smith and A. J. Armour sponsored an amendment, which eventually carried, that a reduction of $300 be made.

Much discussion featured this business, it being generally felt that a cut was in order, but that the original percentages were too drastic. Speaking on the subject, Mr. Massie stated that he was of the opinion that few members of the board realized the work which had to be done at the schools, pointing out that all extra help needed was paid for by himself.

The appointment of committees will be left to the chairman, vice-chairman and secretary; these to be announced later.

The question of the date for the 1934 annual meeting of the board was brought up by Dr. O. C. Watson, which has to be after the Counties Council appoint their member to the board, and on motion, it was decided that January 26, 1934, the regular meeting night should also be the date of the annual meeting.

Attendance Officer

Chief G. C. Bromley was again appointed school attendance officer; and Richard Weston, retiring member from the Library Board, was again appointed to that office.

On a motion sponsored by Mr. O'Sullivan and Dr. Watson, the Peterborough and Hastings counties will be notified that Campbellford High School will be open to county pupils on the same basis as Campbellford pupils.

A general revision and reduction in the rentals of the High School assembly hall was made, following the decision that the scale of charges as they stood were too high. The scale adopted was: For public meeting with no admittance charge, $15 for one night; Public meeting of an educational nature with no charge, at the discretion of the board, $5 for one night; Assembly Hall and Cloak Rooms, one night, $20; two nights, $35; one night with dance afterward, $25.

LAD BARES PLOT TO USE RINGER IN EXAM TESTS

Asked to Write Matriculation for Student Who Had Previously Failed.

TWO ARE ARRESTED.

Both Plead Guilty—Used Advertisement in Effort to Get "Impersonator."

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—A scheme of Theodore Nazimov, law student of Crawford Street, to get his friend, Samuel Cossler, into the legal profession by having an advertised-for stranger impersonate Cossler and take the matriculation examination requirements which the latter to date has been unable to pass, ended abruptly in city police court yesterday afternoon when both pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to commit an indictable offence, and of attempting impersonation, and were remanded by Judge Coatsworth for sentence.

Arrests of the pair were made earlier in the day by Provincial Police Inspector A. R. Gurnett on warrants sworn out by Major-General Victor Williams, commissioner of the provincial force. Following their remand they were taken to the Don Jail. Up to a late hour last night no bail had been secured for them.

Information from officials of Ontario Securities Commission, which was in touch with the alleged impersonation scheme prior to the police investigation is to the effect that the downfall of the plot is directly due to a 17-year-old high school graduate, who answered an advertisement which Nazimov had inserted in the newspapers; who listened intently to the proposition made him, and who, as soon as he could manage it, communicated through friends with Premier Henry, as Minister of Education, and laid bare the details of the proposal. The Prime Minister notified the Securities Commission, and the Securities Commission notified the police, and Inspector Gurnett was directed to investigate.

Advertisement's Wording

"Help Wanted Male—Young man who has just passed senior matriculation, must be intelligent, hard worker, part time, good money. Apply Ted Nazimov, — Crawford Street, between 6.30 and 7.30 p.m.

Apparent attractiveness of the advertisement was evidenced, in the fact that when the 17-year-old applicant visited the address stipulated he found five or six other youths ahead of him. The story told to him, it is alleged, by the persons with whom he conferred, was to the effect that a friend of theirs could not pass his matriculation xams and consequently could not be admitted to law school. Would he (the applicant) consent to use the friend's name and write the required tests next Summer? The money promised him, it is reported, ranged from an advance of $100, once the first paper of the exams was written, to $500 when a pass mark was assured. The boy drank in every word of the proposal, it is said, and went home to inform his parents. Next morning the approach to the Prime Minister was made.

Officials declared last night that Coesler was the aspiring Osgoode Hall student who "missed" his exams, and that Nazimov was the one who concocted the plan by which the former's difficulties could, it was fancied, be eliminated.

Just what success they had with other youths who answered their advertisement cannot be determined, but according to the informant's story—and his story is said to have been given in its entirety to Provincial Police—at least one other boy walked out of Nazimov's Crowford Street home, in a huff, declaring he'd "have nothing to do with this sort of business."

Judgment Is Reserved In Belleville Case

A certified, gold medallist buttermaker, Edward William Lutz, of Havelock, was yesterday plaintiff in an action at a special sitting of County Court here, in which he sought to recover the sum of $350 damages and costs for alleged wrongful dismissal from the employ of the Citizens' Dairy Company of Belleville. An additional claim by the plaintiff was the sum of $44.79 as balance of wages owing, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. from September 21, 1932, until judgment. There was a counter claim by the defendant company.

The case has been transferred here from Belleville and was heard by His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke, who reserved judgment.

You'll do it better on DATED coffee

Coffee is an unfailing stimulant. Its effect on brain and body is to quicken your reactions, make you feel gay, happy, boldly confident. But remember to guard against stale coffee.

YOU'VE HEARD of famous writers, inventors and lawyers, who have toiled long into the night. And how they've drunk cup after cup of coffee... to drive away fatigue... to keep them going.

That's what coffee will do... stimulate. But why, when some folks drink it, does it seem to make them "jumpy," irritable, cause indigestion, even?

Now science has found out. There's a big difference between the effects of fresh coffee and stale coffee!

Stale coffee contains rancid oil. If you drink stale coffee regularly, it may easily give rise to indigestion, "nerves" and moody fits of "blues."

That's why Chase & Sanborn instituted Dated Coffee. If you're a normal, healthy grown-up, you can take as many as 5 cups a day of this fresh drink without the slightest bad effects.

In half-pound and one-pound tins—the date of delivery stamped on every tin. Not one is allowed to stay on your grocer's shelf more than 10 days.

Order Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee the next time. You'll work harder and play longer... on Dated Coffee.

ROSENEATH'S MOTHER CRAVES FOR A RIDE IN AN AIRPLANE AS NEW THRILL ALTHOUGH 87

OLDEST INHABITANT

Log House Baby Could Earn Living With a Hammer.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—To recall the events of 80 years ago when a seven-mile walk through the bush was the nearest approach to the grocery store is the pride of Mrs. Mary Brown, of Roseneath. In those days when matches were unknown and the failure of the family hearthfire meant a lengthy trek to a neighbor's for a burning branch, folk were busy, but with all she retains sufficient energy to entertain visitors all afternoon and to go to a movie at night. Her most cherished ambition is to go for an aeroplane ride, and 87 years rest lightly on this Roseneath mother who is visiting her daughter in Toronto.

With all the brightness of a woman half her age, with eyes undimmed and memory elert, Mrs. Brown yesterday described the one-roomed log shack where she was born, the 19-inch waist of which she was so proud as a bride 62 years ago, her first dazzling visit to "Toronto Fair" before street cars were known, and then climaxed this talk of old folks and old days with the announcement she still could dance a jig and "could make my own living now, if I wanted to."

Mrs. Brown thinks nothing of a gay visit to Atlantic City or New York, still takes great joy in a day's fishing in Rice Lake where she played as a child, thinks afternoon naps are something for old folks, not for 87-year-olds, likes automobiles to display their speed, and referred to a woman less than a year her senior as "a poor old body who is getting on."

Before her marriage Mrs. Brown was Mary Clark, the fourth of a family of 13 children, and she is the oldest living person born in Ainwick Township. Her parents were Irish, settling in Canada on a farm about three miles from Roseneath. One sister survives, Mrs. Robert Mouncey, also living in Roseneath.

"We moved out of the log shack into a bigger house, also log though, when I was about four and one-half years old," Mrs. Brown said. "There were no stores at Roseneath then, the nearest one was at Hastings, and we used to walk the seven miles to it through the bush. Money didn't matter then. We used to trade eggs and things for what we needed. Eggs would be worth about seven cents a dozen, and we would get a yard of factory cotton for five cents, or prints and muslin for five or ten. Father made our shoes.

"But we never went to bed hungry; we always had plenty to eat. They talk hard times to-day, but they've never seen hard times. It would do them a lot of good if they had!" she said with a great deal of Irish spirit. "If I had to do it, I could go out and earn my living now. Yes, even with a hammer," as a friend interrupted with a description of Mrs. Brown's prowess in mending her own back steps last year.

"There is no use being stuck," declared Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Brown raised a family of eight children, three of whom are still living, Mrs. A. J. Dorian, of Toronto; Mrs. Albert Halstead and Mrs. Leslie Pacey, of Alnwick. Since her family grew up she has travelled a great deal and has taken a great interest in activities of Roseneath. She is a leading figure in the Women's Institute, and to use her own words, "I go to everything that is going on."

"And now," she said, "if I only had a ride in an aeroplane!"

"What! Wouldn't you be frightened?" she was asked.

"Me! Certainly not!" in disgust. "And don't forget, there's one thing, if you are killed that way, you'll never be hanged."

And the young lady of 87 smiled triumphantly.

PALESTINE'S BLIND NOW SEEING DUE TO GREAT ZIONIST DISCOVERY

Arab masses have come to realize that the Zionists intend them no harm. They see before their own eyes that the peaceful invasion of Palestine by the Jews has gone hand in hand with an exceptional material prosperity, with cultural advance, with a rise in the standard of living and with an unhoped for improvement in the health situation.

Conquest of Disease

Alone of all near eastern countries, the Zionist doctors and clinics of Palestine have conquered the dread eye-disease, trachoma, with which twenty-five per cent of all the peopleof Egypt, Persia, Arabia, Mesopotamia, Syria, Arabia, Mesopotamia, Syria and the North African Arabic countries are afflicted. The percentageof total blindness in the near east surpasses that of all other parts of the world. Palestine alone is an exception. The eradication of this curse is due to the tireless and altruistic efforts of the Hadassah organization, which is really the organization of Zionist women.

Toronto has a strong branch of the Hadassah organization, which stands under the leadership of such fine idealists as Mrs. A. B. Bennett and Mrs. Rose Dunkelman. These women have established a link between the Queen City and the Holy Land, no doubt largely unknown to the public in general. This links is a blessing. For Hadassah seeks no profits nor does it exploit human beings. To the contrary, it seeks to heal their diseases. It combats Arabic infant mortality. It fights social diseases which are responsible for the heavy representation of half-wits, idiots and other mentally and bodily deformed individuals in the Arabic populations.

Arabs Treated Free.

All the hospitals, clinics and dispensaries maintained by Hadassah in the Holy Land are free to the Arabs. One famous Jewish eye specialist, Dr. Ticho in Jerusalem, is simply besieged by Arabs, who come with their little children from as far as the Nejd country, in King Ibn Saoud's domains, to seek the advice of the man who seems to them a miracle-worker. It may seem incredible, but statistics show that Dr. Ticho treated 60,000 patients last year. The last time I made my way through the crowd of patients encamped about his house, the doctor was engaged in a delicate operation on the eyes of an Arab muledriver from the Lebanon country. Another day it was a merchant-prince from Alexandria. Some of the other patients sitting, sleeping and eating under the palm trees, had come all the way from Mesopotamia and there was a half-blind family who had walked from distant Anatolia.

Christian charity is not the only impulse which drives men to deeds and to a life of self-sacrifice. Simple love of humanity without ulterior motives such as conversion of the patient is just as powerful a motif. Men like Dr. Ticho, and there are dozens like him, eminent surgeons, physicians, bio-chemists, men who had established fine reputations in Germany, Austria and America, and who are now working in the clinics and laboratories of Palestine do so for a mere pittance. And it is exactly through and by the quiet, persistent and unheroic efforts of Hadassah and its devoted workers that Zionism has achieved what seemed at one time an impossible objective, namely, the pacification of the Arab masses.

Peaceful Immigration.

Zionism could have appealed to Britain as the mandatory power to protect its workers with bayonets and machine guns. Such would have been the right of Zionism seeing that Britain accepted the charge of the League of Nations "to facilitate the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine." Zionism was reluctant to employ force or even a display of force on its behalf. Zionism refused to have its position in Palestine guaranteed by British rifles. The first thing the Zionists did in Palestine was to open a university and to dot the land with hospitals and schools. The Zionists did not come as conquerors, bent on ousting the existing population, they did not build redoubts and strong places and machine gun nests to control and subdue and hold in check.

At a moment when the other nations were still locked in a ghastly embrace of death on the fields of France and Flanders, the Zionists laid the foundation-stone of the Hebrew university in Jerusalem. This was a gesture of world-historical importance. It was also worthy of the people of the book and of the people whose daily greeting is: "Peace Be Unto You!"

The Zionists relied on a policy of doing good to the Arabs to win them over for a program of fraternal collaboration. Once or twice this Zionist plan seemed doomed to failure. The threat came from the side of the powerful Arabic landlord families who saw clearly that eventually their poor tenants and peasants, who are little better than slaves, would break the bond of centuries. They saw that the Arabic peasant would want to work for Jews, who paid a living wage rather than till the landlord's soil and be forced to pay fifty per cent. of the products of the land to the proprietor in the form of rent and thus remain in perpetual servitude.

To rouse the ignorant peasant masses again the Jews, the landlords invoked the religious issue. They furthermore told the peasants that the Jewish land policy was rendering the Arabs landless. Yet all the land the Jews have in Palestine has been bought at exorbitant prices from these very same Arabic landlords who raised the cry about rendering the Arabs landless. What is more there are thousands of instances where the Zionists have bought land elsewhere for Arab tenants when the purchase of a piece of land from a landlord deprived its tenants of a living.

Peaceful Penetration

Not a particle of injustice attaches to the Zionist undertatking in Palestine. This in fact is the reason that I have always felt a great attraction for this one of the most interesting large-scale enterprises of our epoch—the redemption of the land of Israel. The Jews who were so often themselves the victims of injustice and discrimination in the course of history, have scrupulously refrained from imposing but the slightest wrong upon their fellow Palestinians. Knowing better than any other people what injustice is and what it means, they also knew what to do in order to avoid it. At a tremendous cost, for the prices they paid for the land to the Arabic proprietors were out of all proportion to its actual value, the Zionists have built their colonies. Arab tenants are accommodated with land elsewhere—free of charge.

And yet the Arabic landlords are hostile to the Zionists? Quite naturally! The middle ages nowhere made room for modern progress without a struggle. Zionist settlement sounds the death-knell of the age-old exploitation by a few rich families of a mass of a million Arab peasants. Privilege does not surrender lightly. Before throwing up the sponge, it will try all the means at its disposal—foul and fair means. It will use force and has used force in Palestine until world public opinion put a stop to it. It will not hesitate to utilize the issue of religion to foment emnity and strife.

Yet in spite of it all feudalism, as represented by the Arabic landlord is in full retreat in Palestine. The Zionist policy of doing good to the unimaginable backward and poverty-sticken Arab peasants, is bearing fruit. Peace is on the way in the land of peace.

ATTACK IS MADE UPON BENNETT

South-East Grey), G. G. Coote (U. F.A., McLeod), and E. J. Garland (U.F.A., Bow River) supported Mr. Woodsworth in his demand for a new social order, but no Liberal or Conservative speakers joined in the debate.

Ordered to Withdraw.

In the midst of a detailed explanaton of the aims and policies of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, Mr. Woodsworth asked: "Does any one beleve the great fortunes of this country have been bult through honest toil? Has the whole of the Prime Minister's fortune been gained through honest toil?"

Speaker George Black, while Conservative members shouted derisve remarks at the slender, bearded leader, called for a retraction. Points of order were heard above the din. The Speaker insisted on the din. The Speaker insisted on the words being recalled, and at one time Mr. Woodsworth threatened to appeal from the ruling, dviding the House on the Speaker's judgment.

Confronted with his possible expulsion, Mr. Woodsworth withdrew "any implications the Prime Minister made his money dishonestly" and the temper of the House subsided.

Supported by Miss Agnes MacPhail, one of his chief lieutenants in the Commonwealth Federation; George Coote, United Farmer member for Macleon and A. A. Heaps, Labor, Winnipeg North, Mr. Woodsworth proposed a resolution to establish an economic system "in which all natural resources and the socially necessary machinery of production will be used in the interests of the people and not for the benefit of the few." During the short sitting of the House debate was not concluded.

Libel and Sedition.

Early in his speech, Mr. Woodsworth accused Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of libel and sedition when he advised a Toronto audience to put the "iron heel of ruthlessness" on the Federation's activity which the Prime Minister said was Communistic. It was "setting one class against another."

In effect, the main estimates indicate the government has cut controllable expendiutres by $11,862,162 over main and supplemetriary estimates for the year ending March 31. The supplementaries for 1933-34 remain to be brought down.

Main estimates for this year actually show a reduction of $6,227,735 as against both main and supplementaries for the year ending next month, because the Dominion has to pay this year for the first time more than $5,000,000 increased interest of debt and increased subsidies to seven provinces as a result of population shown in the recent census.

Mr Can-sleep . . .

As for our friend in the next room—he's fathoms deep in slumber. And will be, too—until he wakes, fresh as a lark, at seven o'clock! And why not? Hasn't he taken Eno every morning for years? Isn't he clean and healthy and comfortable inside? Of course he is. Sensible fellow!

Sleeplessness, headaches, indigestion and a score of other ills are the penalties you pay for omitting the vital inner cleansing which Eno gives you. Take Eno every morning and night. The roast you have for Sunday dinner will be tender, juicy and flavourful. And it can be equally appetizing when served cold, or in the form of stew or meat loaf on Monday—if you have a big red bottle of Heinz Tomato Ketchup on the table with it.

The matchless flavour of the finest ripe tomatoes, blended with pure, rich, oriental spices and simmered slowly to the very perfection of taste in the Heinz kitchens, makes every meat dish taste better. A little goes so far that it's a real economy.

A CHANGE NEEDED.

The fact that the joint committee appointed to investigate the administration of the Pensions Act has found it necessary to submit no fewer than four distinct reports shows how difficult the pension problem really is.

It is significant, however, that all four reports favor a revision of the existing regulations, which is proof that the present system is far from satisfactory.

In short, the committee finds that a change is necessary, but divides sharply as to the best means to bring it about.

The general verdict is that the regulations now in force are not working out well—and it would seem to be up to the Government to take the whole matter under revision and endeavor to draft new legislation that will prove more satisfactory.

That it will be a difficult task no one would attempt to deny, but in the interest of the country and of the ex-service men it must be tackled and carried through.

The committee's reports should be of material assistance in arriving at the desired end.

THE COST OF EDUCATION.

A resolution passed by the Essex County Council in regard to the "repeaters," who help to make secondary education unnecessarily costly, will cause a good deal of interest.

This motion, which will be supported by the Essex Council before the Ontario Education Association, urges that "no pupil who fails to meet the examiner's requirements satisfactorily in more than two subjects in the full year's curriculum shall be advanced to higher grade, and that no pupil so failing shall be entitled to repeat that year's schooling at public expense, unless such failure shall have been shown to the satisfaction of the local school board to be due to illness or other equivalent or adequate cause."

There is a general feeling that educational costs are too high, and that a good deal of money is being wasted on pupils who spend two or three years in high school without any particular objective in sight, and on others who are so indifferent in their studies that they come back time after time for the same examinations while the taxpayers have to bear the brunt of the expense.

The view of the Border Cities Star that this question of secondary education is a matter of public ability to stand the strain of present-day taxation is not far off the map.

No one wants to deprive any boy or girl of a fair opportunity to secure an adequate education, but in these times it is necessary to consider results, and undoubtedly the wastage represented by the cost of attempting to educate lazy or indifferent pupils is a factor that should not go unnoticed.

THE RUSSIAN DEAL.

Although members of the Winnipeg syndicate declare that they will provide the Federal Government with definite proof of Russia's willingness to enter into a barter arrangement with Canada, the fact remains that the proposition as outlined by them is one that was rightly described by Mr. Bennett as impossible of contemplation by any Government.

The Premier's statement to Parliament on Tuesday—and it is difficult to understand why it was not made a month ago—exposed the barter deal as a proposition into which the Canadian Government would not have the slightest justification for entering, seeing that the whole financial risk was to be borne by the Canadian treasury.

The syndicate, which in the event of putting the thing over would have pocketed a very fat profit without risking a dollar of their own in the transaction, calmly asked the Government to guarantee $4,000,000 of Russian bonds, and also guarantee that the Soviet Government would execute its agreement.

"I think this House will agree," said Mr. Bennett, "that no Canadian Government would seriously consider a proposal to provide credit facilities for a syndicate of vendors, and at the same time to guarantee that the alleged purchaser, the Soviet Government, would discharge its obligations to the vendors."

The deal cannot be defended as a proposition in which the Government has any right to act,

A barter transaction with Russia, provided it can be financed without Government aid, is something else again; the promoters should devote their energies toward that end, and not expect the Government to pull their chestnuts out of the fire for them.

THE FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION.

The fact that the annual meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association is to be held to-night should help to focus attention upon this organization and the splendid work it has been doing to preserve the supply of fish and game in this section of Ontario.

The association, recognizing the value of conserving the fishing and hunting facilities of the district, has during the past year accomplished a good deal toward re-stocking local waters, as well as to encourage respect for game and fishery regulations.

Uunder its auspices no fewer than a quarter of a million trout were placed in nearby streams during 1932, while the pickerel supply was increased by 200,000. A new departure was the depositing of 20,000 lunge, the first time muskies have been used to re-stock favorite fishing grounds. 10,000 of these fish were placed in Stoney Lake where the lunge fishing has fallen below its former standard. The association also deposited 2,000 bass in district waters and in its own trout pond raised 600 trout.

This re-stocking program was only one among a number of activities energetically carried on during the past year, and the record of the association was such as to have earned for it a much larger measure of general support than has hitherto been accorded.

There is no reason why the list of active members should not be materially increased, nor why the work of the association should not have the co-operation of business men who by reason of the tourist traffic should be vitally interested in any movement designed to bring more visitors to this district.

Unquestionably the improvement of fishing and hunting facilities plays a big part in attracting tourists, a fact that should entitle the Fish and Game Association to generous support from those whose business is helped by tourist traffic.

THE OUTLOOK FOR IRELAND.

(From the Ottawa Journal)

He (Mr. De Valera) will govern a divided Ireland. Time was, in the pre-war epoch, when Catholic Ireland cast a virtually unanimous vote for the old Nationalist party. She did it again when Sinn Fein rallied the whole nation at the end of the war. Those days are over, and will never come again. On the surface it may seem that temperament and memory are the agents that have dug a cleft across Ireland since the Treaty created the Free State. On the one side of it are the romantics who dream of an independent Republic; on the other the realists who are content with the substance of Dominion status. On the Left are the memories which include, if they advance at all beyond the broken Treaty of Limerick, nothing more recent than the exploits of the Black and Tans. For the other side the world began anew with the creation of the Free State; the present stretches comfortably and continuously into a tolerable and habitable future.

This division made the Civil War, the war that struck down Michael Collins. It persisted through the ten years of Mr. Cosgrave's government; it crystallized at the last general election, and since it seems to answer to some natural cleavage in Ireland, one can but believe that proportional representation will stabilize it for years or decades to come. Fianna Fail (Mr. De Valera's party) will go on preaching a Gaelic Ireland, will keep with it the I.R.A. (Irish Republican Army) and the Left of Labor. Cumannnan-Gaedheal (Mr. Cosgrave's party) will contrive to work with the Farmers, the Independents, the old Nationalists and Right Wing Labor. With the inevitable ups and downs of politics the cleavage will be about half against half.

One discerns traces of a class line. The Opposition includes the upper strata of the middle class, the majority in the professions, the little world of the universities, the intellectuals of Dublin, the bigger farmers and the merchants of the country towns. Mr. De Valera, on the other hand, can count on the I.R.A., which uses Socialist jargon in its proclamations, and on the Labor party. The main body of his support seems to come from the smaller farmers, and the younger sons of the larger farmers. This younger generation, girls as well as boys, swells year by year in numbers since the traditional outlet of emigration was denied to it. It looks around it, hopeless and resourceless, but begins to listen attentively when there is talk of creating new industries on Irish soil.

Mr. De Valera talked that way. Shying away from absolute advocacy of an out-and-out republic, he preached an Ireland of economic self-sufficiency. So long as Ireland depended exclusively on the British market she was only nominally free. If she chose to be subservient she might hope for the rewards of Ottawa. But if she stood up for her bare lawful rights (which is how Mr. De Valera envisages his own conduct) then she must expect the economic bludgeon to descend upon her head. In other words, according to Mr. De Valera, it was a dangerous thing for Ireland to specialize in the rearing of bacon and beef for an Imperial ogre. It was safer to keep out of reach. The penalty might be relative poverty, but Ireland's soul would be her own.

Thus preached Mr. De Valera; and while the larger farmers didn't listen, their sons did; and so also did the town and "corner boys," the peasantry, the white-collared workers in the towns and villages. Taught to believe that all Ireland's misfortunes come from England, these voters didn't worry much over land annuities. And, after all, hadn't five distinguished lawyers argued that on a strict construction of the letter of the law Ireland was under no obligation to pay them?

* * * *

What now? Nothing much. England will never again send Black and Tans to Ireland, and there never will be effort to collect annuities with bayonets. The boycott of Irish goods will continue, Irish agriculture will languish, there will be suffering, and Mr. De Valera will go on preaching Irish self-sufficiency, with various efforts to achieve it. He will go on with his work of keeping Kathleen in Houlihan separated from John Bull, talking English in the Dail but putting Irish on postage stamps and mail boxes, starting and closing official statements in Gaelic, but leaving their main contents in the language that the people understand. Kingstown will be Dun Laoghaire, Dublin will be Baile Atha Cliath; the Irish Free State will call its Parliament the Oireachtas, its chamber of deputies the Dail Eireann, and itself the Saorstat Eireann—this the homage to the cult of national self-consciousness, and, incidentally, the despair of Gaelic scholars.

It is a new Ireland, as different from the Old Ireland that many knew as day is from night; an Ireland that those who left it in the long past and who return to it these years can hardly understand. What the future holds in store for it, only the years can tell.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

That Russian barter proposition looks like great business—for the promoters.

The Liberal federal members have decided to oppose amalgamation of Canada's two railway systems. The decision is well in line with public opinion throughout the country.

If those who have the means do not assume part of the relief burden, the whole load will have to be assumed by the taxpayers, many of whom are having a hard job keeping their heads above water. The relief campaign is therefore a challenge to the generosity of the public.

Sir Malcolm Campbell will shortly make another attack upon the motor speed record held by himself. The modest British driver will probably accomplish the task to which he has set himself.

Parliament heard a proposal the other day that Canada's currency should be bilingual. Our money would probaby say good-bye just as quickly in French as it does now.

What a hit Judge Stubbs of Winnipeg would make in the United States Senate as the leader of a "filibuster"!

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 32

Kane shot a look of askance at Dorotha. He could hardly control his eagerness. He felt now, that he was on the right trail. Dorotha knew Buddy. Then she knew who killed Richard Bailey.

Then, under his gentle questioning, the whole story came out. He heard of the little sister's disappearance, of the whole tragic life of Dorotha Deane and her little sister in this Garden of Eden.

"Garden of Eden," he muttered to himself. "It's perdition."

When she had finished:

"When was the last time you saw her?" he asked gently.

"Yesterday," she almost whispered.

"Why didn't you bring her here?" Nanette demanded. "You know you could have, Dorotha."

"Wait, Nanette," Kane commanded. "Tell me all about it," he said to the other woman.

"I left Nanette at the beach and came back into Hollywood. I had broken an engagement with Larry Weldon—"

"Larry Weldon!" Nanette cried.

"Yes. Oh, there was nothing between us," quickly. "I met him when I was trying to break into the movies. I was his secretary for a whil after I gave up that struggle and contented myself at the typewriter. But he was a good friend—I felt I could talk to him."

"I understand," Kane said. "Go on."

"Larry was trying to help me find my sister. When I drove Nanette to the beach she told me that there was no need for me remaining there, so I came back in the hope that I might catch him. Larry had called m earlier in the day and said that Pete Russell wanted Nanette to come to his party but was afraid to ask her. He asked me how badly she was wounded. He said he would call Pete and tell him.

"When Pete called Nanette asked him to drive her to the beach." That wasn't the exact truth, but Nanette allowed it to pass. "I called Larry and broke my engagement with him, but when we got to the beach Nanette let me go, so I rushed back into the city in an effor to catch him before he eft home, but I was too late."

Her story was almost incoherent, but how she took hold of herself and talked more quietly.

"After I found that Larry was gone I drove down on the boulevard. I saw Buddy standing on the corner at Vine street. She was talking to a man. She didn't see me, and I drove up close to the curb, right beside them. She looked at me and I started to speak, but she seemed not to recognize me. So I decided to eavesdrop on them. She was trying to get him to—"

She buried her face in her hands and sobs shook her body. Kane and Nanette exchanged compassionate glances and waited. Presently she went on.

"When I saw wha she had sunk to I leaped from the machine and grabbed her by the arm and pushed her into the car. We rode around for a while. She told me al about it. I went to a roadside cafe and bought her something to eat. I tried to get her to come home with me but she wouldn't do it. I begged her, I pleaded with her, but she had always been a proud girl and she would have none of it.

"So, after we rode around for a while I asked her where she was living. She took me to a cheap hotel down on Western avenue. Again, when I saw in what squalid surroundings she was living, I tried to get her to come home with me. But I might as well have been talking to a stone wall.

"I left her after I mad her promise me that she wouldn't do any more of what I had caught her doing, and I promis d to buy her some new clothes and get her straightened out. She didn't want me to leave her,so I took her and we rode around for a while longer. I tried to make her tell me who the man was, but she would not.

"It was late and I knew I had to be getting back to the beach after Nanette. I left her and came back here and found the note—"

"The note?" Kane interrupted.

Nanette told him of the fake message.

"—So I went to bed. I didn't know what time Nanette would be home and I was tired. Finding sis like that was too much."

Kane sat silent for a moment then: "May I use your telephone?"

Nanette assented and directed him to the extension in her boudoir, after asking if he wished to talk privately and receiving a negative answer. He looked up a number in the directory and then dialed. Presently, he said:

"This is Jere Kane speaking, superintendent." There was a paus , then: "That girl—the carbon monoxide victim—is she still there?" Another brief pause and then he hung up.

He turned to Dorotha:

"Will you go to the morgue with me?"

A shudder shook her. She recoiled from him. Then, defiantly:

"Yes, I will."

He asked Nanette if she cared to accompany them but:

"I would rather not," weakly. She added: "Why no use my car?"

A few minutes later, with Dorotha at his side, he was speeding in to Los Angeles. Dorotha sat silent, staring fixedly ahead. Kane, pitying her, made no attempt to draw her into conversation.

A half hour later, with the aid of directions given by a police officer and Dorotha's knowledge of the city, they drove up in front of the little red brick building which housed the morgue and the coroner's office. Once he arrived there Kane knew his way about.

He led Dorotha into the dingy little office. The coroner looked up from a large record book over which he was working and his face was lighted with a brief smile when he recognized the other.

Kane explained his mission. The coroner turned frank eyes upon Dorotha, then:

"Come thi way."

He led them into a large room which smelled of drugs and death. The girl sickened at the odor but resolutely followed. They went into another and smaller room where a woman was working over a girl's body.

Kane tried to hide the sight from her; he stepped in front of her and told her to get hold of herself. But she would not be denied. She stepped around him and looked upon the still, cold form.

Dorotha swayed ever so slightly. He slipped his arm about her to steady her.

"That's sis," she murmured. "That's Buddy."

YOUNG PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: In your issue of the 28th ult., it was pointed out by Agnes McPhail, M.P., of South-East Grey (who we hope some day will be Premier of Canada) that it is only those who think for themselves that count. I wish to say to the young people in all the problems of life to play your own hand, just as you do at the progressive euchre table (which is doing so much for relief and the building of a community spirit these days) well thought out and honestly played. Do not let the Mayor in the chair, or the preacher in the pulpit, think for you. Have a mind of your own, and backbone enough to put it into force. The man who makes a success of his business, the young farmer who makes a success of his farm, is he who studies the conditions of his own farm and applies himself to them.

Pardon me for making a personal reference, but a few weeks ago I made a visit to my old home of a half a century ago, and was forced to the front of over three hundred young people, and I was glad that I could point to the young people of this city as examples in every phase of life. The premier of the Boys' Parliament has been among our boys, outstanding softballpitchers have been among our girls, a missionary has been solely supported by one of our young ladies, out of her weekly wage, pulpits have been taken masterly, by our young people.

Now, as one who has crossed over the line, and the allotted time of life, and has crossed many hard bridges, I wish to say that I want no higher honor than to be carried to my last resting place, may it be to the lonely grave by the roadside elsewhere, by six young men. I appreciate the "Hello," from every young person. Some days I will give you a few thoughts on building.

Thanking the press for the space I remain, yours,

W. H. MERRILL.

OVER-PRODUCTION OR UNDER-CONSUMPTION—WHICH?

To The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—How much longer must we listen to the exploded theory of over-production? This misleading philosophy reappears with such frequency, it is nauseating to the person with an ounce of common sense.

Surely these hairbrained economists are afflicted with mental aberration attempting to deliberately mislead public opinion. The reliable citizen wants to know the truth. He knows there is something seriously out of alignment, not only in Canada, but all over the civilized world, and is anxious to see it adjusted, whatever it is.

The apologists must think the general public simple, attempting to make them believe there is an over-production of wheat when there are thousands of families in need of food; when children are suffering from malnutrition unable to get enough to eat.

Can there be an over-production of clothes while there is one person left that is shabby?

Can there be an over-production of shoes while there are thousands in need of shoes?

There cannot be an over-production so long as there is a single person left in need, until everybody's needs are satisfied. The real truth is—under-consumption. The mass of the people are enveloped in a vicious selfish system that denies them access to what they have produced; give them access to what is rightfully their's, the granaries and store houses would soon be depleted.

God in His infinite wisdom did not ordain that a handful of persons should possess 85 per cent. of the wealth of Canada, nor that the products of this bounteous country should be hoarded into storehouses awaiting the potential purchaser while three millions of our citizens are in need. These are man-made conditions imposed by unrestricted selfishness through the acquisition of political power. There are no limitations to the amount of profit the employer should exact. It is legal to make 1 or 1000 per cent.,—the cheaper the cost of production, the greater the amount of profit derived. If the profits appear too glaring they are covered up by an issue of bonus stock to the shareholders to evade payment of taxes to the government and the possible eye-opening of the people.

If the average worker creates as much value in one day that will maintain himself and his family for three days and only receives wages for one day, there is two days' supply or surplus that he cannot buy, hence is not consumed. Whereas if he received the real value of his labor power he could buy back all he had produced consequently there would be no surplus, no tariffs, and no economic conferences needed to find ways and means to dispose of it.

One can readily see what this will amount to when a country is experiencing a period of so-called good times. No attempt has been made to reduce the hours of labor proportionate to the increased productivity of the machine, relentless greed offers no solution, it is either intensive production or stagnation; the mass of the people are not consulted, no real increase in remuneration has been given; we are creating more value now with the aid of machinery than at any time in the world's history, and receiving comparatively less for our efforts.

The cause of this world's present chaotic condition is here despite the frantic efforts to sidetrack it. Here is where the adjustment must be made if we intend to solve the problem at all. The balance of our social problems are only incidental. Have we got a statesman fearless enough to undertake this supreme task? So far they have not dared, despite the urgent need. Millions are being sacrificed to maintain greed, selfishness and the rights of property. Canada some years ago was a signatory at Geneva with the World Powers to a universal eight-hour day. The Canadian Government has never enforced it.

Why not enact a law now for a compulsory six-hour day and five day week, with an increase of 50 per cent. in wages, that would materialy increase the consuming power at home besides removing a number of tariff problems?

Compel the banks, financial and industrial corporations to cancel their common and watered stocks. Why should the wage workers have to produce dividends on these fictitious values?

All above 3 per cent. on actual investment should be returned to the creators of values. What is the sense in making millionaires, and multi-millionaires; they cannot spend their wealth, and what is worse, we are passing a huge mortgage on to posterity.

A few nights ago $70,000 was spent for one night's entertainment in New York to introduce a daughter into society. What extravagance!

For the size of our population we have the most expensive government on earth. Is it any wonder everything and everybody is overburdened with taxation? Why not a general house-cleaning, removing the frills and deadwood?

This is the signature of a man with more ardor in his makeup than he can easily govern. He is decidedly a man of unusual ability but he is eager, restless, impatient and adventurous too, and therefore finds it extremely difficult to stay put. That he has a record of achievement in spite of his less stable qualities is explained by the tremendous determination of this man, amounting on occasion to obstinacy, and to his very pronounced ambitious streak. Emotionally he is stormy and of strong passions. At the same time he is capable of cold logic. He is therefore distrustful and inclined to hold a cynical view of life. His success is bought at the price of constant combat against discouragement arising from the complications inherent in his makeup.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE ROUTINE OF LIFE

IT'S THE routine of life that eats into men's spirits and makes them wonder if life is really worth living and why they were ever born.

And it's also the routine of life that mends hearts when they are twisted and torn by grief and suffering and leads them to see that life has a gentler and a sweeter and a calmer side.

To get out of bed in the morning and put the shoes on the same old feet. To go into the bathroom and shave the same old bristles from the same old toughening face. To eat the same old food, suffer the same old irritations, quarrel for the same old causes, go to work in the same old way, do the same old work, or face the same old unemployment, come home through the same old streets, spend the evening in the same old way, and sleep in the same old bed....How tired a man or a woman gets of all these repetitions!

Humble or exalted, poor or rich, men and women weary of such routine. The elasticity goes out of their lives. Boredom comes in. If a man is in the rut of poverty, he travels in one routine. If he is rich or prominent, he travels in another, less arduous, but in other respects as dull. In the rut he ceases to think, to feel deeply, either for enjoyment or grief...Again and again he wonders why he was born, to live like a chipmunk in a cage, and he agrees with the poet who sighed because there was "Nothing to breathe but air,

Nothing to eat but food,
Nothing to wear but clothes to keep from going nude."

But there are times when routine is not monotony but a blessed thanksgiving. It may be routine alone that keeps men sane, that keeps their spirits calm and sweet, that makes their lives worth living. When the hearts breaks and the spirit sags, routine may be an anodyne. And a routine of the emotions and the personality—broad and enriching—and allowing a man or a woman to live a full life that exercises every part of the body and the spirit—is wealth incalculable.

That is the true, the refreshing thing, the sort of routine that should be the goal of all men, of every civilization.

If every human being could live fully, then the routine of the day, of nations of civilization, of the seasons, of the stars, of all the heavens, would never seem a depressing and enslaving monotony. It would shine and sing, swinging strongly through the years, and be worth any man's efforts and faith.

A THOUGHT

DAWN

By Hal Cochran

The sunrise announces another night gone and all of the world comes to life. There's much to be done with the coming of dawn that brings with it good things and strife.

Just how does the average day look to you, friend, when you've hopped out of bed and are dressing? Your mind starts to work and, just what is its trend, a gloomy outlook, or a blessing?

A great deal depends on the day just before. Did you finish the work that you started? Whatever's left over means just that much more for a new day, ere that day's departed.

That game you should play isn't just to get by, but do every bit that you can. A lot is accomplished by people who try. It's true of a woman or man.

To-morrow's the day you can test the thoughts out by getting to-day's work all through. And then, when you rise in the morning, no doubt, the dawn will look brighter to you.

HOG SHOOTS OWNER

OSAGE CITY, Kas.—A hog with a desire to scratch its back—chose a loaded rifle which leaned against a fence post. The porker rubbed against the trigger and the bullet went through the thigh of Will Regeneld, who owned both the rifle and the hog.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

GOLD AND DROSS.

ON THIS DATE, in 1882, two important and significant events took place in British Columbia, one of permanent value, the other but transient, yet both providing rich opportunities for the financial hawks who prey upon the small investor. One of these events was the discovery of rich gold deposits in the Kootenay country; the other was a sale of town lots at Port Moody, then the announced terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the construction of which had but gotten under way

Let us take the latter first. Full page, and other, advertisements had appeared in the eastern newspapers; the "opportunity of a lifetime" had come again as it had so many times before and as it has so many times since; agents were sent out from old Canada with instructions to invest in the town lots of the future great city; thousands of dollars were remitted to brokers "on the spot and, therefore qualified to advise"; and the sale took place. The result was surprising. The Canadian Pacific was satisfied; the auctioneer was content; and the brokers concluded that they had done a good day's work, which was followed by other good days as orders tumbled in from the east and south for unallotted lots. For three years and a half all concerned prospered but one day Van Horne announced that Port Moody was to be abandoned as the terminus in favor of Granville, nearer the mouth of Burrard Inlet, where the same thing was repeated more than once; and investors back east had little deeds and receipts worth less than cost of printing them

The Kootenay event had happier results True there was wild speculation there also; thousands of dollars of "sucker's money" went into holes in the ground, but there were some paying mines; indeed the Kootenay country added millions to Canada's wealth through its mines For perhaps 15 years the Kootenay craze continued; some people back east made money (chiefly the brokers); some on the spot made fortunes; others formed companies when they saw that individual mining was passing, and took care of the profits; but the majority of investors lost, as they generally do Yet the boom had its compensation Those who went in search of quick wealth soon learned that there was more money in fruit than in mining, and the goldfields of Kootenay gave way to the orchards of Kootenay with now a world-wide reputation for quality.

SUGGEST TORONTO USE VOUCHER RELIEF SYSTEM

TORONTO, Feb. 2. (CP)—Adoption of the voucher system of relief distribution was recommended to Board of Control and City Council to-day at a special meeting by a committee representing all types of retail food distribution throughout the city.

"We would respectfully recommend the city's legal department and Public Welfare Department would co-operate in producing a voucher which would provide for signatures both by the recipient and a declaration by the retailer the articles called for in the specifications had actually been delivered and received; and we respectfully suggest it should be possible to provide adequate penalties for any infraction of these regulations which would be a sufficient deterrent to the unscrupulous and a guarantee to the city the relief supplies were actually being received and consumed" the committee said.

Opening unchanged to ¼ off, wheat later made some advance. Corn started at a shade lower to a shade higher and subsequently held near the initial range.

THREE LEADERS

aides, Makaroff said before boarding the plane.

While pursuit of their leader to seaboard proceeded, Doukhobors of Saskatchewan today gathered in annual convention at Blaine Lake, 35 miles northeast of Prince Albert. Police reinforcements grouped on the sidelines to watch proceedings

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 (C.P.).—On his way to Halifax, whence he will be deported to Russia, Peter Veregin, Jr., leader of Canada's Doukhobor sect, passed through Montreal to-day by train.

Veregin has been jailed at Prince Albert since May last year on a perjury conviction. He appeared broken by the months of jail he has endured.

Guarded as he was by officers who tried to block reporters from seeing him, newspapermen overcame the difficulty.

No questions in English would be answered by him. The guards at his side prevented this, as they hustled him along in the Windsor station, doubling across railway tracks and through rains in an effort to shake off the reporters.

One of those following him knew some Russian, however, and it was through the use of this that Veregin gave vent to his feelings.

"Do you want to go to Russia?" the reporter called.

"Hell, no." The Doukhobor shouted in his own language.

Veregin is under sentence of death there, according to his own testimony, when he was being tried for perjury.

HON. N. W. ROWELL, K.C., LL.D.

MR. W. G. WATSON

Hon. N. W. Rowell, President, in his address at the fifty-first annual meeting of the Toronto General Trusts, stated his feeling that the sheer pressure of world events must compel statesmen to reach agreements that will alleviate the present situation. The League of Nations was the one thing worth-while saved from the wreckage of the War and should be strengthened, he declared. Russia was absorbed in her national problems and desired peace and an opportunity to trade with other nations. He thought the present attitude of the United States hopeful. Mr. W. G. Watson, General Manager, reported a satisfactory year. Total assets of the Corporation now stand at $224,047,000.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (C.P.).—Selling again dried up in the stock market on a resumption of the decline in the late trading to-day. Morning losses of fractions to two points were extended in some issues. Shares off about 2 included Case, Dupont, Lambert, United Aircraft, Santa Fe and Eastman Kodak. Losses of a point or two occurred in New York Central, Westinghouse, Union Pacific, Consolidated Gas, Sears Roebuck, Chrysler and Western Union. American Telephone broke par for a loss of 2 points, but recovered partially. Homestake was up more than 5 points. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—(CP)—Selling was in evidence in the Toronto stock market today and the price level was carried down a little while the trading range broadened out. With the New York market sluggish most of the day the interlisted shares were under restraint.

British American oil absorbed considerable selling at 7½. Imperial weakened a fraction and Pete at 10½ was off 3-8 to 10½.

Among the interlisted shares recessions were the order. Nickel Ford, C.P.R. and Brazilian weakened 1-8 each and Smelters lost ½ to 58. In the utilities Montreal Power recovered a little of yesterday's loss and Bell Telephone lost a fraction to 88½.

In the heavy industries the trends were downward, small losses cropping up in National Steel Car, Steel of Canada, Dominion Bridge and English Electric "B", Page Hersey dropped 3 points.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (C.P.)—Noranda stepped into the race to-day and out-distanced the big gold shares in the run for higher levels. All the gold leaders touched new highs to-day, being wafted up, partly the increasing premium on U.S. funds in which the companies are paid for their production, and partly by the heavy buying into the companies by New York investors. Noranda, with its heavy gold output along with copper is now sharing in the popularity of the group.

Lake Shore closed around $38, up 75. Dome sold about $17, Hollinger $7.50; McIntyre around $25.50; Teck around $4.38, and Wright Hargreaves close to $4.70. Noranda advanced to 23.75.

Buying was heavier in Nickel this afternoon and the quotation was up a few cents at the close. Eldorado weakened to $1.42.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2 (C.P.)—Influenced by a fair export business worked overnight, together with strength in overseas markets, local wheat prices registered fractional gains in the early trading to-day. Pit trade at the start was quite active, but turned draggy toward the end of the initial half hour with traders generally awaiting new developments.

Quotations at mid-session were ¼ to ⅜ higher. May was quoted at 47; July at 47⅞, and October at 48⅝.

Buying against export sales again accounted for most of the support, while offerings were credited to Chicago houses who were selling Winnipeg futures against purchases in the southern market.

Liverpool wheat scored gains due to the easier Canadian exchange rate. Together with less pressure from Australia to sell, and quotations near the close were ¼d to ⅝d higher. Buenos Aires wheat at noon was ⅝c to ⅞c higher.

Argentine wheat shipments for the week are stimated at 3,750,000 bushels, or slightly more than was shipped last week. Clearances from Black Sea ports for the past week totalled only 72,000 bushels, all of which was of Russian origin.

MONTREAL NOTABLES WED.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 (C.P.).—The marriage of Shiela Mathewson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mathewson of Montreal, to Captain Sir John Child, Bart., A.D.C. to the Governor-General, was to take place to-day at St. George's Church at four o'clock.

Yesterday Barnes stopped off in Toronto in order to see the Public Trustee, who has taken charge of Lee's estate until it is settled, at Osgoode Hall. He asked to see the Public Trustee, and was told to wait a moment in the hall, he said. "I waited half a day, but no one never did come back, so I left there."

Grasshoppers a'Hoppin'

He said he would have come to Peterborough sooner, but he wanted to get in his crops. "Yes, suh, I just done finished gettin' in my crops. It's lovely weather down there; the grasshoppers are hoppin' all around."

He was wearing a fur cap. "Yas, suh. I made it myself from gray squirrels and moleskin. I have enough skins to make a vest, too, but Ise nevah just got around to it. I put underwear on for the fust time when I come up here."

"They tells me you hangs peoples up here," he commented. "Us nevah does that officially in Kentucky. They just puts 'em in jail for ten, twenty, thirty years, and the jails are just a-brimmin' full.

Kentucky Shootings

"Yes, suh, us had had shootin's down there too. Not so long ago a fellow shot the sheriff. He got twenty year. I nevah did think they oughta put dat fella in jail. That sheriff come to search his house and he nevah had no search warrant. They stahts to argument. The fella goes back in his house and comes out toutin 'a shot gun. The sheriff shot once and then the fella shoots. That sheriff nevah did say anything more. He was plump full of lead."

Lawyers in Peterborough are not going to get any business from Barnes in the matter of fixing up Lee's estate. "Naw, suh," he explained. "There's a lawyer not twenty miles from my home that is a proper lawyer. Money nevah does cause him no excitement."

Besides the 100 acres in Dummer Township, which Lee had purchased in order to start a fruit farm and poultry raising, Lee left property in Texas, which was sold to him as possible oil well fields; the car, which brought the partners, Lee and Jackson, into this district; a whole outfit of barber supplies, and little else.

"But Ise hopeful that somethin' can be realized out of it all," said Barnes.

ORION THE HUNTER

This Resplendent Constellation Like Silver Lamps In a Distant Shrine—The Stars Are Sparkling Bright.

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

FROM LAST WEEK: Draw good sized circle. Then another circle, quarter-inch outside other circle. At top write "Northern Horizon." Bottom write "Southern Horizon." At left "Eastern Horizon." At right "Western Horizon." Draw line from north to south. This is the meridian. Now a segment of circle from east to west. Finally an inch above east draw segment of circle to cut first circle about an inch below and proceed to west. The first circle you drew is the Celestial Equator. The second is the apparent path of the sun. This drawing will help to locate the various Winter Constellations. If any one has difficulty come and see me at 601 Water street between 6.30 and 8 o'clock.

ORION THE HUNTER.

Orion is situated in the most brilliant realm of the sky. This constellation is full of interest and beauty. Fortunate is the person susceptible to the wonders and the inherent glories of the lesser things in our earth-world. On these winter nights Orion is to be seen high up in south-southeast. Three stars like jewels in a man's belt locate for you the constellation. The three stars lie close to the Celestial Equator. Early in the evening these three stars are in a horizontal position. As the night grows apace they assume an upright position. This is because the hunter bends over to deliver a blow on the head of Taurus the Bull. The constellation of Taurus is situated just a little to the north and west of Orion. The night movement of the constellations is from the east to the west and northward. The Bull therefore seems to be backing away from the club in the hand of the hunter. To find the two constellations of Orion and Taurus the Bull, and watch the movement of the Bull backing away, and of Orion the Hunter bending and delivering the blow, will, if you have any knowledge-sensitiveness within, grip you tight with wonder. Thousands of years have passed since Job graced the world with his life. In his ninth chapter and ninth verse, he wrote, "God, which maketh Acturus, Orion, the Pleiades, and the chambers of the south, doeth great things past finding out." Again in the 38th chapter and 31st verse he sings as he gazes at this company of brilliant stars. His was a tried and lonely life. Dark would have been his nights and days without the companionship of the stars. The stars brought him where the Almighty could be found. Job was not alone of the Biblical writers and singers to find his way paved with stars to the very throne of God. Amos in his 5th chapter and 8th verse called to his people and sang, "Seek Him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning."

Homer adorned his immortal lines with the glory of Orion and the Pleiades. Hesiod in verse grew reverent as he wove the seven stars of Orion into both verse and prose. Then on a later day Virgil was moved to sing of the constellation that had moved great souls of other days.

Manilius, another writer of the long ago centuries, wrote in lines that keep singing still:

"Near the Twins behold Orion rise,
His arms extended measure half the skies;
His stride no less. Onward with steady pace,
He treads the boundless realms of starry space;
On each broad shoulder a bright gem displayed,
While three obliquely grace his mighty blade.

FAMED ACTRESSES DETEST SHOPPING

Leave Off Buying the Much Needed or Frock Until Last Minute

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 2. —(C.P.)—Most movie stars detest shopping, even as you and I. They put off buying that much-needed hat or frock until the last moment and then rush about in hurried haste.

Claudette Colbert is one who never goes shopping unless there is an occasion looming that demands such a tour. However, Claudette is a very systematic shopper. She has two pet, exclusive shops and two big department stores, and if she cannot discover the required garment in her four choices, she gives up her search or changes her mind. She never is tempted by fussy frocks and the saleswomen, knowing her taste, bring out the most simple but darlingly chic of their wares.

At the moment Miss Colbert has a decided leaning toward grey. For evening she prefers white or black, with a red frock now and then to relieve the monotone.

When a street costume is selected, the winsome Claudette always requests a sample of the material and, fortified with this wisp of yardage she goes searching for hat, shoes, gloves and handbag to make up a symphony of tone.

Sylvia Sydney shops in huge lumps. She will wait until new outfits are a dire necessity and then leap in with both feet. Before reaching the first shop Sylvia has made a concise list of the needed clothes, such as: "tailored suit, hat, shoes and blouse to match, velvet afternoon frock, black preferably; black crepe dinner gown, coat to match; green sports suit, angora if possible." One star with an especial passion for shopping is Carole Lombard. She never buys more than one outfit at a time, believing each ensemble requires undivided attention for complete chic.

BAND CONCERTS TO HELP RELIEF FUND

Campbellford Band Will Stage Series of Sunday Evening Events.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2.— The band of the Northumberland Regiment under the baton of Bandmaster W. Pearson has decided to hold a series of Sunday evening concerts in Campbellford which will commence as soon as suitable arrangements can be made. These functions are being staged to raise money to be given to the town relief fund and commend the patronage of the citizens of both town and township. Arrangements as to where the concerts will be held are as yet uncertain but efforts are being made to secure the Regent Theatre. It is expected that the band selections, which have been greatly added to during the past few months, will be augmented with vocal numbers by local artists.

UNITED KINGDOM FACES YEAR WITH REASONABLE CONFIDENCE

Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner, Speaks at London.

TO EMPIRE CLUB.

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (C.P.)—The United Kingdom, Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner in Canada, told the Empire Club here to-day, faces the New Year with "reasonable confidence."

Sir William, recently returned from a four months' vacation in England, sketched some of the economic and psychological changes he had observed since his last trip home in 1930.

"The financial crisis," he said, "can safely be said to have passed. Cheap money has returned ready for our industries to draw upon when the moment for expansion comes. . . . The natural self-reliance of the British character is beginning to assert itself."

The historian, looking back over the ten years between the boom of 1920 and the onset of the "great slump," would be intrigued, said Sir William, by the phenomenon, unparalled in the past, "that while other countries, including the defeated Germany, enjoyed varying measures of prosperity, Great Britain alone, one of the principal victors, was plunged in a continuous depression whose intensity varied only in degree from time to time."

The explanation, he continued, was this: "The industries which suffered the greatest derangement as the result of the war, not only in Britain but in all the major industrial countries, were iron and steel, shipping and shipbuilding, textiles and coal." The industries in question played an exceptionally predominant part in her economic system and especially in her export trade.

Necessary Adjustments

During the ten years of depression, some at least of the necessary adjustments had been made in Great Britain, he said, and thus the shock of the recent slump had fallen with a less severe impact than some of her industrial rivals." There had been a considerable shifting of labor into the newer expanding industries, "and it is noticeable as a result of this the intensification of the slump has not swollen the numbers of unemployed as seriously as in other countries."

Sir William noted improvement in exportation of cotton, yarn, piece goods, coal, motor cars, while the steel industry would revive when shipbuilding started up again. In reference to coal, he acknowledged "gratefully" the part Canada played in boosting British exports 15 per cent in the last year.

Of the Ottawa Economic Conference agreements he said: "In conference at Ottawa with other governments of the Empire we have taken our part in establishing a yet more fruitful economic relationship between the Mother Country and the Dominions, India and the Colonies, and we shall hope for even better results next year.

NAZI CONFIDENT OF ELECTION WIN

Whole of Germany Astir With Political Animosity—Demonstrations Banned.

VOTING SET MARCH 5.

(By W. E. Brockman)

BERLIN, Feb. 2 (A.P.)—Chancellor Hitler's first appeal for a Parliamentary majority in elections set for March 5 found Germany astir to-day with political animosity. All outdoor Communists demonstrations were reported banned in the greater part of Germany.

The situation reached a climax with Hitler's announcement of two four-year plans of national regeneration—for the "salvation" of the farmer and the worker.

The Telegraphen-Union Press Association heard that orders issued to Prussian police to prevent Communist demonstrations during the election campaign.

The National Communist newspaper Rote Fahne said the ban was invoked to curb election campaigning. The Communists held one-sixth of the seats in the Reichstag, which was dissolved yesterday.

Trolley Kills Woman Injures Aged Brother

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (C.P.).—Investigation to-day opened into the death of Miss Margaret McAdams, 73, and the serious injury of her brother, John, 70, as the result of being struck by a street car last night. The two, both old age pensioners, were unidentified for many hours after the accident.

The two were crossing Sherbourne Street here when a one-man car driven by Gordon L. Spicer struck them and hurled them toward the curb. The woman was killed instantly, while the man was terribly injured.

A blanket search of the vicinity by the police led to the eventual identification of the couple.

Gas in the Stomach Is Dangerous

Daily Use of Bisurated Magnesia Overcomes Troubles C used by Acid Indigestion.

Gas in the stomach accompanied by a full, bloated feeling after eating is almost certain evidence of too much hydrochloric acid in the stomach, causing so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous. Too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leads to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to try to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a little Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in water right after eating. This will drive out the gas, wind, and sweet, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and stop sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder form—never in liquid or milk) is harmless, inexpensive, and a fine remedy for acid stomach. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no fear of indigestion.

Prosperity's Round The Corner

Depression's clouds were gathering fast,
When through the busy street there passed
A youth, who gazed with wistful eye,
And murmured to each passer-by:
Prosperity's 'round the corner.

His face was lean, his garments thin,
A scraggy beard upon his chin;
He dodged about amid the throng—
And aye was heard his doleful song:
Prosperity's 'round the corner.

Heed not such talk, said dismal Mutt;
Prosperity's dead as good King Tut;
Not so, said he of furtive gaze—
It must be true, for Hoover says:
Prosperity's 'round the corner.

He paused where ends each block, to stare
Now up, now down, now here, now there;
A vag said, Boy I like your stuff—
'Twill come if you wait long enough:
Prosperity's 'round the corner.

He tried his luck across the line,
Where racketeers and "sportsmen" shine;
But as he saw each city through,
His plaintive slogan fainter grew:
Prosperity's 'round the corner.

He lived until fourscore and ten—
He saw the rise and fall of men;
And, even in his latter day,
He'd shake his hoary head and say:
Prosperity's 'round the corner.

At length along came old man Death,
And stopped our hero's latest breath;
But ere his earthly course was past,
He faintly smiled and said at last:
Prosperity's 'round the corner.

FORESEE STAY IN DEBT TO U.S.

Times Hints No British Payment Likely to be Asked Till Parley Held.

PROTRACTED DISCUSSIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 2. — Possibility that the United States will grant a moratorium on further war debt payments from Great Britain until a new settlement is completed, was reported to-day in London newspapers. The next debt payment is due June 15.

Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail said this possibility "is suggested in well-informed quarters." It added that such a step would be necessary if deliberations of the Anglo-American debt conference at Washington were protracted. The conference is planned as soon as possible after Franklin Roosevelt's inauguration as the United States president.

Reports that the ground was cleared for a moratorium proposal in March were published prominently in other morning papers but obviously were necessarily speculative.

The Times, without alluding to the moratorium report, dwelt editorially on some of the difficulties of the conference time table. It pointed out that Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who, of all the ministers, was bound to submit the government budget to Parliament around Easter and could hardly leave England before the budget resolutions were through the House of Commons.

Thus, even at the best, he would be unable to visit Washington during the greater part of the first two months of the Roosevelt administration. The Times, however, contended such difficulties will be surmounted, but did not suggest how.

COMES AS SURPRISE.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 1.—(C. P. Cable.)—The non-confidence motion of General Jan Christiaan Smuts against the government of J. B. M. Hertzog was decisively defeated in the House of Assembly to-day. The vote was 83 to 63, and followed five days of heated debate during which one government member joined the opposition forces.

While it was not anticipated the Nationalist Government would be defeated on the motion, the size of the majority, 20 votes, was surprising.

A strong anti-government campaign headed by two prominent statesmen, Gen. Smuts and Tielman Ross, formerly Supreme Court Judge, has been waged across the country for more than six weeks and was productive of conflicting rumors concerning the dissatisfaction of certain members of the government at the cabinet's abandonment of the gold standard.

To-day's division set at rest, however, the more radical reports that the government might resign.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, Feb. 2. — Ontario grain, approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 40c to 42c; oats, 20c to 22c; barley, 30c to 32c; corn, 32c to 34c; rye, 29c to 30c; buckwheat, 28c to 30c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—Prices held unchanged on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday. Carlots or less of fresh graded eggs were quoted at 21 cents for extras, 19 cents for firsts, and 18 cents a dozen for pullets. Receipts were 1,050 cases.

The Board of Trade announced that cheese stocks held here on Janu. 31 were 67,210 boxes of 85 pounds each, and not 70,810 boxes as previously announced. Current Ontario white sold at 9 cents, current Ontario colored at 10 cents, and early Ontario make at 10½ to 11¼ cents a pound. Receipts were 24 boxes.

Carlots or less of No. 1 grass butter were 20½ to 20¾ cents a pound. Recipts were 30 boxes.

Potatoes remained firm, New Brunswick Green Mountains per 80-pound bag selling at 80 cents, Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 80-pound bag at 85 cents, and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 90-pound bag at 95 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Instability of the New York stock market and also of Canadian currency went hand-in-hand yesterday with an irregular downward trend of prices for grain.

Big export buying of Canadian wheat failed to act as more than a temporary counterbalance. In the general overturn of grain values, the oats market outdid the season's bottom price record.

Wheat closed nervous, ¼ to ⅝ under Tuesday's finish, corn ⅛ to ⅜ down; oats ⅛ to ¼ off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Fluctuations of wheat values were the widest and most rapid witnessed for some time. The volume of trading too, was much larger than has been the rule of late. Export purchases of Canadian wheat aggregated more than 2,000,000 bushels, but the stimulus from this was quickly lost because of widespread recognition that the overseas buying had been a consequence of a break in Canadian exchange.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 2.—A good export business combined with lower Canadian exchange rates carried wheat prices ⅞c to 1c higher in the early trading, but selling from Chicago interests sent values back to previous closing levels about mid-session yesterday.

May closed at 47⅛c to 47⅝c, July at 47⅞c to 48⅜c, and October finished at 49⅝c.

At prices a little under the market level export sales of close to 1,750,000 bushels were worked out of Vancouver to France, the United Kingdom, Rotterdam, and Antwerp.

Export interests were credited with practically all the support here, most of the offerings coming from Chicago with the Liverpool market displaying weakness from the start due to the advance in the sterling and pressure of Canadian and Argentine parcels. Buenos Aires was fractionally lower on a report that 100,000 farmers had gone on strike in the grain belt of the Argentine.

Demand for the various grades of cash wheat was entirely lacking.

WIDE AWAKES

Millbrook Group Treasurer Reports $20 Receipts From Hot Supper.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 2 (Examiner Correspondence) — The regular meeting of the Wide Awakes group Canadian Girls in Training was held on Tuesday evening, the president, Marian O'Brian, in the chair, and the items of importance in the business period including a report from the treasurer showing total receipts of over twenty dollars from Saturday's hot supper, with some small sums yet to come in; expenses were under two dollars, and ten dollars was, as usual, voted to the M. and M. fund of the church.

It was decided to have a member who took part in the girls' judging competition last June repeat the demonstration in table setting and service in which she had participated as the department study for the evening. Also to prepare a dramatization of the Bible story of Abraham and the Three Guests to take the place of the talk by the leader, who will, however, outline the story before the girls act out the scene. The matter of a public meeting in observance of the Dominion-wide C.G.I.T. week was left over until the next meeting, material to be secured in the meantime. The contribution of five dollars to the National Girls' Work Board, under which all C.G.I.T. work is carried on, will be made as soon as due the money being now on hand for the purpose.

The girls will look after two members laid aside through illness in some manner each week, and as an extended project, it was decided to make a special study of bird life particular attention being paid to those feathered friends as they return north for the summer. Audrey Garside and Kathleen Davis were appointed to keep a record of the names of such birds as reported to them by the other members, and the date when seen, the summary to be read each month.

The devotional study was concerned with the call of Abraham, and the usual social hour enjoyed at the close.

UNEMPLOYMENT RALLIES SUNDAY

20 GATHERINGS PLANNED.

(By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb 2 (C.P. Cable).—Communists are causing considerable stir with threats to interfere in a giant "national demonstration against unemployment,' which is to be staged in HydePark next Sunday.

The gathering on Sunday is expected to be even larger than the demonstration in 1927 protesting against the trades disputes bill following the general strike. It is to be held jointly by the Trades Union Congress and both branches of the Labor party and the Cooperative Union.

Speeches will be delivered from eight raised platforms, and since the meeting is quite constitutional it will be given police protection. Communists have stated they intend massing and breaking up the processions en route to the park, however, and the police officials are taking precautionary measures.

More than 20 similar demonstrations are being staged in other towns next week, and numerous speakers of prominence will be heard.

Winter is Over, Says Prof Monax
Failing to See Shadow Outside Den

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—(CP)—"Winter is all over. We are going to have good spring-like weather for the next six weeks. And now—if you'll excuse me—" said Prof. Arctomys Monax, weather-prophet extraordinary, as he re urned to his subterranean home early today following his annual interview with newspapermen.

Prof. Monax, alias groundhog, alias goodchuck, had been tracked to his lair in the Don valley. It had proved rather a difficult task to awaken him, but he seemed spry as ever as he emerged from his den and, leaning comfortably on his haunches, submitted to the usual questioning.

"What," he was asked, "do you think of the wea her?"

"Well, it has been fairly mild for the past month, according to reports. And I really think the winter is finished.—" He turned around several times at this stage—"You don't see any signs of my shadow around, do you?" he said somewhat anxiously.

"Not a sign," the repor ers assured him.

"In that case, I feel quite safe in predicting winter is over. You know, had my shadow been seen, there would have been six weeks of hard winter weather to face."

Believe Chamberlain's Views Not Those of Gov't

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (C.P.). — The disposition in many Washington quarters to-day was to regard Neville Chamberlain's 'no swapping' war debts statements as the views of one Cabinet member and not definitely indicative of the final position the British Government will assume in the forthcoming discussions.

This opinion was backed by a general calling of attention to the stand taken by President-elect Franklin Roosevelt in expressing a willingness to hear the pleas of debtor nations and the recent conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Indifferent

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 2. (CP) "Any old port in a storm" appeared to be the slogan of an offender who appeared in court here. A few minutes after he had been brought into the room, he carefully removed his rubbers, slid from his chair and went to sleep. Then Magistrate T. W. Scandrett ascended the bench.

"Order," shouted Chief Harry Down. Everyone stood up except the sleeper.

They awakened the man finally, but in a m'nute or so he again slumped over and went to sleep.

Finally his case was called. There was no reply. An officer shook the man and he finally stood up.

"You are charged with being intoxicated. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty."

"That will be $10 and costs or 10 days in jail."

Accused replaced his rubbers, yawned, and was exorted to the cells.

PLANS ARE LAID FOR BOND SELLING
Boys' Work Campaign Opens February 6 and Continues to 18th.

At a meeting of the Boys' Work Board in the Y.M.C.A. last evening, plans were made for the annual bond selling campaign, which starts on February 6 and continues to February 18. Carlyle Ferguson, the local member of the Older Boys' Parliament, and Herb. Tranter, chairman of the Finance Committee, heads the campaign committee, which includes a representative from each church. This campaign is part of a province-wide effort to raise $11,000 to finance the work carried on under the auspices of the Ontario Boys' Work Board. The proceeds will be used in giving leadership to character-building programs, the purpose of which is to help boys to seek truth, cherish health, love God, and help others.

The money, in addition to providing the leadership of two secretaries who travel thirty thousand miles annually in the interests of the work, makes possible thirty-five summer camps, several training camps for older boys and leaders, twelve older boys' conferences, and program materials and leadership help for boys' organizations throughout Ontario.

A remarkable aspect of the work is the fact that the boys themselves raise the money to carry on the work. In fact during the past 11 years they have raised no less than one hundred thousand dollars for this purpose. M. J. Hutchinson, president of the Rotary Club of Toronto, in speaking of the boys, says: "During the past ten years or more, the Rotary Club of Toronto has on numerous occasions entertained the members of the Older Boys' Parliament, and our men have been much impressed with the splendid type of young manhood they represent."

During the evening Carlyle Ferguson gave an interesting account of the caucus of the Older Boys' Parliament held this year at McMaster University, Hamilton.

Tough Meat

STANDFORD, Ont., Feb. 2.—(A.P.) — Forest Ranger De Grost's pack mule fought with a cougar and lives to bray about it.

De Grost said he left the mule at the Ranger station for a few days. When he returned he found the mule badly bitten and clawed. Nearby he found tracks in the snow which told of a terrific battle with a cougar. Tracks leading away indicated the cougar was badly injured.

Must Be Registered To Get City Relief

By way of spiking a street gossip rumor that "any one can get a half cord of wood from the city for the asking," Relief Officer Metheral stated this morning that no person can obtain relief of any kind unless he has registered as an applicant.

And registration requires investigation of the applicant's circumstances. Ordinarily this sort of potentially harmful talk is ignored, but the possibility of many persons believing such reports is the reason for quoting the Relief Officer.

"When this man took his order for groceries to a certain grocer he objected to taking the dairy butter which was the only kind then in stock. He said he never used dairy butter, and wouldn't have it in his home. What happened was that the grocer had to go out and get creamery butter, but so far as I know there was nothing wrong with the dairy butter the grocer had in stock."

Mr. Metheral said that he was personally satisfied with the dairy butter which his wife bought at the market. This case is exceptional, and is mentioned as an example of how little needless obstructions can interfere with the daily work of the Relief Department.

Some Suggestions on Barter

HAMILTON, Feb. 2. (CP) — A panacea for the ills of the civic world is suggesed by Controller J. Treleaven here.

"With all this talk about cutting this official and that, and puzzlement as to where the money is coming from, why not start the barter system?" he asks.

"For instance, we could have an arrangement with the market committee and give goods to our employees instead of money.

"We could provide hams for the hams on the city council and celery in place of salary. Plums for those who are continually seeking them and peaches for the unmarried gentleman. For those who lie splittking the odd melon we could hand out a few of them. Why the thing has all kinds of possibilities."

Not So Old

CHAMBERS, Neb., Feb. 2 (C.P.)—Old age may be creeping up on 70-year-old Edward Adams, President of the Chambers State Bank, but he doesn't act that way.

A young man, armed with a pistol, entered the bank and announced robbery was about to be committed.

"I hate," he said, "to shoot an old man, but I guess I'll have to," when Adams was slow in raising his hands.

Instead of getting shot the aged man let one fist fly. It connected with such force that the intruder was stunned. Two of Adams' sons then overpowered him. Arrested, he gave the name of J. L. Boyle of Columbus, Neb.

Saskatchewan House Gets In Action To-Day

REGINA, Feb. 2 (C.P.)—First of the Prairie Legislatures to open, the Saskatchewan House swings into action to-day. The opening date in Alberta is Feb. 9, and Manitoba Feb. 14.

Legislation, based on the various Inter-Provincial Conferences and the Dominion meeting held at Ottawa recently will be introduced. This probably will include the making of debt adjustment acts in the Prairie Provinces uniform, as well as other matters of common concern in seeking a way to aid Western agriculturists. Problems of debt adjustment, grain marketing suggestions and unemployment relief matters will receive the attention of all three assemblies.

If you want silence and solitude—don't advertise.

The second annual meeting of the Pentecostal Assembly recently was held in the Assembly Hall—when receipts for the year were reported to have been $4,223.25.

About two hundred new members were stated to have joined the Assembly during the year 1932. During the summer months the meetings were held in the Gospel Tent on George Street South, being transferred in the fall and winter to the Legion Hall on Sundays, with the Bible study classes being held in the Assembly Hall in the Bradburn Building.

During the summer months the young people held street meetings in some of the nearby towns, and great interest was manifested in the work. The young people are being asked to renew their activity in the coming summer.

On Sunday evenings the pastor, A. A. Chambers, is taking up a study of the Book of Revelation, using a chart which deals with the dispensational truths. On Sunday next the subject of the lesson will be "The Great Tribulation."

L. Parks was re-elected as treasurer and Miss L. Huston as secretary. Under Miss Eva Wall, deaconess, it was stated the Assembly has done much towards the relief of distress.

Your Health

By D8 LOGAN CLENDENING

THE WISE MOTHER will establish a regular daily routine for her baby as soon as possible. The more carefully she sticks to the schedule, the better it will be for the baby—and herself. She will get the habit of doing certain things at specified times, and soon will be doing them without any conscious effort.

It is most important, from the standpoint of the baby's welfare, that a fixed routine be followed. Babies soon become accustomed to being fed at a certain time, and will remind their mothers by their yelling that it is meal time. However, babies that are fed at irregular intervals are usually crying for food all the time, which does not make for the peace and comfort of the parents or neighbors.

A suggested schedule for the young infant is as follows: 6 a.m., feeding; 8.30 a.m., orange juice; 9 a.m., training for bowel regulation; 9.15 a.m., bath; 10 a.m., feeding and cod liver oil; 10.30 a.m. to 1.45 p.m., outdoors in carriage, presumably asleep; 2 p.m., feeding, 2.30 p.m. to sundown, outdoors in carriage; 5.30 p.m., undress, sponge and get ready for bed; 6 p.m., feeding and cod liver oil; 6.15 p.m., bed; mother's bed time, feeding.

This routine should be followed until the baby is somewhere between six and ten months old and is satisfied with four meals a day, after which the meal at mother's bedtime can be discontinued, and the baby should sleep from six to six.

When the baby reaches the age of 12 months, the schedule established which may be followed until the child reaches school age. Now, the first meal is at 8 o'clock, at 10 o'clock the same food the child has been getting; then the bowel movement, sponge bath and clothing; outdoors from 9.30 to 11.30; luncheon at 11.45 or 12, which should be the same as the meal the child has formerly been having at 2; then from 12.30 to 2.30, a nap. At 2.30 the child wakes, or is wakened, and given a cup of milk and possibly a little sandwich, and then put outdoors until sundown. A bath, night clothes and supper at 5.30, and the child's day is over, and he goes to bed at 6 o'clock—a happy, comfortable baby.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

M. W. F.: "What is the cause of undulant fever, and its prevention?

Answer: Undalent fever is caused by a germ which is transmitted in milk. The milk from a cow which has what is known among dairymen as "aborting fever" is responsible. It also seems to be more frequent among packing house employees and, therefore, may be spread by the handling of the meat of infected cows. Prevention is accomplished by proper dairy inspection, the elimination of diseased cows, and by the use of pasteurized milk.

VISUALIZING PARTNER'S HAND

ONLY WHEN certain of partner's reliability does it pay to waste much gray matter over attempting to visualize his hand precisely, or even closely.

The other evening a player held this hand, when his partner made an opening bid of 2-Hearts.

Spades— A 7 5 3	Clubs— A Q 10
Hearts— K 5	Diamonds— A K 7 2

After your own hand is fixed, your partner may hold any one of precisely 8,122,425,444 different hands possible to deal out o fthe remaining 39 cards. It is useless to attempt guessing the precise cards held by partner, but it may pay well to think over the few general types of hands justifying any unusual bid made by him, provided he is dependable.

As the opening bidder was thoroughly dependable the holder of the above hand gave considerable thought to his best response. Evidently the opening bidder wanted an opportunity to show a second powerful suit, or he sought a slam on his single biddable suit. Hands like either of the two following hands, where only a small slam could be made at hearts or no trumps call for opening game bids.

♠ None	♥ A J 10 x x x x x
♣ None	♦ Q J 10 9 8
♠ K Q	♥ A 10 x x x x x x x
♣ x	♦ x

The opening bidder might hold a two-suiter, consisting either of hearts and spades, hearts and clubs, or even hearts and diamonds. To expect to win eight tricks in his own hand the opening bidder must have something like one of the three following types of holdings:

♠ K Q J 10 x ♣ x	♥ A Q 10 x x x ♦ x
♠ None ♣ K J x x x x	♥ A Q J x x x ♦ x
♠ x ♣ x	♥ A Q J x x x ♦ Q J 10 x x

There might be six-card suit held, or even a seven-card suit. On the other hand, the opening bidder might not hold two biddable suits. He might have a single biddable suit, like one of those next shown.

♠ K Q J ♣ None	♥ A Q J x x x ♦ Q J 10 9
♠ K Q J ♣ K J x	♥ A Q J x x x x ♦ None

Probably a grand slam could be made either at hearts or at no trumps. The chief question that interested the partner of the opening bidder was whether a grand slam at no trumps, without honors, should be bid, or a grand slam at hearts, taking the chance that the opening bidder held four honors. To test whether or not the opening bidder held two biddable suits, his partner's first bid was 3-No Trumps. Back came 4-Spades. The assisting hand went 5-Spades. The original bidder shifted into 6-Hearts, showing his preference. With that made plain the assisting hand bid 7-Hearts, at least certain that he was doing the right thing. The hand held by the opening bidder was as shown below. All he had to do was to spread it.

Spades— K Q J 10	Clubs— 3
Hearts— A Q J 10 7 3 2	Diamonds— 5

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

Turkish baths, as we take them in this country, are practically identical with the one indulged in in Turkey, the land of their origin. These baths, historians tell us, developed from the famous luxury baths of Roman days. And the women of Turkey are staunch advocates of them.

It's odd that Turkish women, who indulge very frequently in Turkish baths, are practically all inclined to plumpness. According to American standards of figure beauty, they'd be considered rather fat and dowdy. And yet many women here have the idea that Turkish baths are ideal reducing mediums.

In my opinion, Turkish baths are simply splendid as complexion beautifiers. But their merits as dispellers of adipose tissue are not half what some women seem to believe. These baths do reduce weight, I'll grant you. For they sweat a lot of water out of the tissues. But this loss of weight is usually not permanent. For if a girl partakes of any quantity of liquids after such baths, her thirsting tissues will avidly absorb the moisture, and she will almost immediately regain the weight she has lost.

There's another thing, too. If Turkish baths are taken for the purpose of reducing weight, they must be indulged in very frequently. This, in my opinion, is not advisable, for unless a girl is very strong and in expellent health, the rigorousness of frequent Turkish baths may prove harmful to her well-being. They may prove too weakening and debilitating, and consequently may affect her health detrimentally.

Turkish baths really are excellent as complexion beautifiers. Such a bath taken once a month, or at most, once a fortnight, is most effective in cleansing and toning up the body. But if a girl is overweight, I'd advise her to choose a safer route to slenderness, such as the excellent reducing routine outlined in my "New Figure" booklet. For I think that the safest, healthiest and mose effective way to reduce is by daily vigorous exercising and sane dieting.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can get rid of common constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

IMAGINATION WRITERS MOST VALUABLE GIFT

TORONTO, Feb. 2. (CP)—Imagination; first and second; knowledge and observation, third and fourth, are the gifts of most value to a writer, in the opinion of Victoria Sackville-West, F.R.L.S., poet, historian, novelist and critic, who addresses the Pleiades Club here to-night.

The observation which she prizes is not conscious observation.

"To see from the inside, absorb and forget until you need it, "that" she says, "is best of all."

Knole, the historic house at Sevenoaks, in Kent, where she was born and the friendships of the Kentish farm children she counts the two strongest influences in shaping her as a writer.

The Feminine Ear Due For Liberation

BOSTON, Feb. 2. (CP) — The feminine ear, long incarcerated in hair is due for liberation, the dictators of fashion say.

Louis Clement, just back from Paris, visited the annual show of the Ladies' Hairdressers' Association of New England and said the profile was the thing and that hair arrangement with the ears either partially or fully exposed was a new note. This spring the lobs will show beneath shallow crowned, tiny hats tilted on any angle or straight.

Clement advised that women who have pretty ears bring them out of retirement. For those whose ears are not so pretty, he advised covering them up a little.

AUTO BODY DELIVERY BEGINS TO FORD PLANT

DETROIT, Feb. 2 (C.P.).—Delivery of automobile bodies to the Ford Motor Company's Dearborn plant was resumed to-day by the Briggs Manufacturing Company, but Ford officials said they had set no date for reopening their plants.

Men said by police to have been strikers waylaid two Briggs Company trucks yesterday, dumping the cargo of floor panels from one into the street and pulling the ignition key from the other when it stopped at an intersection.

MOTHERS WHO HOPE their children will like the foods which are supposed to be good for their health, should be careful to make the viands seem desirable.

* * * * * *

There is a sort of aristocracy in edibles, some of which rightfully belong in the category of epicureau dishes and others which, for reason of disparagement, chiefly because of low cost or plentiful quantity, are debarred.

* * * * * *

Among the latter there are many which could be slipped from one classification to another to advantage.

* * * * * *

As a matter of fact, it is localities and seasons which are great determinators of luxuries. For example, there are parts of the globe where carrots, spinach, green corn, etc., are luxuries, and others where ripe olives, avacado pears, etc., are no luxuries at all.

* * * * * *

It is well, then, to give the wholesome foods which are abundant some appearance of desired luxuries, in order to give them the appeal of the exclusive articles.

* * * * * *

This plan of instilling the usual with elements of the desired, but not easily attainable articles, is not so difficult as might at first appear.

* * * * * *

This was attained by one mother who wished to make fish seem vedy desirable to children who were not inclined to relish it as much as meat.

* * * * * *

She kept it as an especial dish to serve one day only. Then she surrounded the idea of fish dishes with a sort of glamor by mentioning just often enough that she was having a particularly delicious dish on that day.

* * * * * *

And she was careful to procure dainty fish and to prepare it in a most attractive way.

* * * * * *

After a few weeks of creating this atmosphere and bringing the edible to a high degree of excellence through such careful preparation, the children began to clamor for certain fish dishes and to look forward to the one day in the week when they could have it.

* * * * * *

Making foods appeal to the eye is a well-recognized method of creating a desire for it. Instilling an unusual flavor through mixing with other ingredients is another method.

* * * * * *

Salads afford a good opportunity for this way. Altering looks is sometimes successful. One mother colored rennet and topped it with whipped cream, and once despised, it became a favorite dish.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. Bessey

BULGARIA AUSTRIA

CENTRAL LITHUANIA

This week's column will be devoted entirely to answering some of the many questions I have received from readers in different parts of Canada.

If you have any question at all about stamps or stamp collecting that you would like to ask, simply send me a letter in care of this paper. All questions of general interest to collectors will be answered in this column as soon as possible. Questions requiring a personal reply must be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope for your reply.

Mrs. Martha Capatos, Calgary, Alta.

Ques. (A) How to remove the stamps from the paper on which they were used.

Ques. (B) How to remove the cancellations.

Ans. (A) Never try to peel or skin stamps from the envelope or paper to which they are stuck. In most cases you will ruin the stamp, if you don't tear off a corner or some of the perforations, you will probably find that part of the thickness of the paper of the stamp remains stuck to the envelope or wrapper, thus leaving a thin spot in the stamp. If you are not a really died-in-the-wool- collector, you have probably never worried about any of the things mentioned above, all of which practically ruin the value of the stamp to an experienced collector.

To remove the paper from the backs of the stamps simply soak them for five or ten minutes in a dish of water. Cold or just luke warm water is best. This is an absolutely safe methood for about 95 per cent. of all the postage stamps ever issued. Some of the stamps of several British colonies have what is known as "chalk surfaced" paper. It is best to "float" these stamps face up on the water. By that I mean keep the printed side dry, as sometimes the color will run a little and so ruin the stamp.

After you have removed all the paper from the stamps, simply lay them out on some clean newspaper to dry, which takes only a few minutes. Be sure that you lay the stamps FACE DOWN to dry. They will probably all curl up when dry, and care should be taken when flattening them out that you do not crack them. If they are too dry, blow on them gently, the moisture from this will soften them enabling you to lay them out flat, without doing any damage.

Ans. (B) Never try to remove the cancellation from a used postage stamp. The cancellation is an important part of the stamp. Quite often stamps used on parcels and sent by parcel post are cancelled by smearing them with a brush covered with a black ink. This type of cancellation is often so heavy as to completely cover the design of the stamp. In such cases you are just out of luck, and must wait until you can secure a lightly cancelled copy. Rubbed stamps may always be detected, and it ruins their value.

Mr. J. S. Penn, Hillcrest, Alta.

The set of Imperial Conference stamps, consists of the three, five and thirteen cent postage stamps, and the five cent air-mail stamp surcharged to six cents, also bearing a special overprint.

Harold Boyd, Peterborough, Ont.

Ques.: Are unusued stamps of any value?

Ans.: A very common and mistaken impression exists among many beginners that they should not collect unused stamps. Roughly I would say that in over 80 per cent. of all of the stamps issued, unused copies are worth more than used ones. So by all means you should not turn them down. There are many stamps that one hardly ever sees in used condition, such cases you will find among many French and Portuguese Colony stamps. In some of these colonies they use only a few hundred stamps each year, and yet to supply the demand of collectors thousands of unused stamps are necessary. Our own stamps provide a very simple explanation, we must pay three cents for a three cent stamp; therefore, it must be worth at least three cents. It is therefore only logical that all unused stamps must be worth something; that something depending entirely upon what stamp you may have in mind.

Why not send in your questions? They are always welcome.

Groundhog Steps Outside, Sees Shadow, Predicts Plenty Of Winter Yet For U.S.

GOBBLER'S KNOB, Pa., February 2 (C.P.). — The groundhog came out of his hole on Candle Ridge to-day, saw his shadow at exactly 9.31 a.m., and, with a couple of sniffs, predicted skating in March.

The old fellow, whose predictions are anxiously awaited by a breathless world from one February 2 to the next, seemed a bit thin and emaciated, but he denied that the depression has anything to do with his appearance.

After squaring himself around so as to cast a good clear shadow, the weather sage said:

"You see that cast? I haven't made a clearer one in many years, and it means you'll have plenty of skating in March.

"We have had a lot of unseasonable weather this winter. There will be snow, mixed with rain and a lot of ice. Blizzards are due, and winter will not only linger in the lap of spring, but it will chill the summer's knees, too..."

BAILEY - CLANCY GIVEN OVATION BY LOCAL FANS

Star Players of Toronto Leafs Act as Referees in George Merrett Benefit Game.

ICE HANDICAPS PLAY.

Game Develops Into Ragged Hocky After First Period Due to Heavy Going.

The Merrett benefit game at the Brock last night went off with a splash—the word "splash" covering it literally and figuratively. A crowd of about seventeen hundred, the biggest in years, jammed the place early in the evening and stayed through till the finish. The game itself was little better than shinny, soft ice with small ponds of water, the result of the weather and the huge crowd, making the going unusually hard for the players. The Petes got the decision, 4 to 2, over the E.P.L. All Stars.

"Ace" Bailey and "King" Clancy, the chief attractions, both took a turn at refereeing, the former Peterborough star handling the bell two periods, and Clancy officiating the third frame. Lorne Chabot failed to stop here, going right through to Montreal, having been notified yesterday afternoon of his brother's death in that town.

Given Great Ovation

Immediately after the City League game, Percy Bond, president of the O.H.A. introduced the two Maple Leaf stars to the crowded stands, both receiving a big hand. He thanked them for coming and announced the receipt of a cheque for ten dollars sent by the Lakefield Hockey Club for the benefit fund. On behalf of the local Hockey Club and the East Peterborough League, Mr. Bond then presented Irvin Bailey with a bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Bailey. Lorne Chabot's absence was explained, and the game officially started by Alderman Bob Cotton.

The contest was of a poor variety, due to the condition of the ice, though the players all tried hard. They rushed fast the first while, shooting hard and checking stiffly. But play slowed up after a time and developed into ragged hockey as combination and puck-carrying became increasingly difficult, and the players tired in the heavy going.

Players Work Hard

Several of the pucksters on either side worked quite hard, but no outstanding player could be named in such a game. The goalies, defencemen and forwards kept battling away, with the Petes having an edge on play all the way through, though the losers fought back hard in the last period. The count was 1-0 for the Petes to end the first, and 4-1 for them going into the final stanza. The game was clean.

They opened fairly fast but had trouble getting going right. Howe went to the cooler early for charging, and Epps put one in but the bell had rung. Foley pulled a neat save on Creighton's hard shot, and then "Red" came back fast to score on Hatton's pass. Dundas drew the gate for boarding, and play was up and down, hard and evenly at the end, little real hockey being shown in the slush.

Early in the middle canto, Ira Dundas made it two for the Blue Shirts on a passout from the corner by Wilshaw. Within a minute, Dundas got another on Ellis' hard rebound off the boards—a smart bit of hockey. Half a minute later, Howe twisted his way right through alone to shove in the Petes' fourth counter, and they had a big edge on play at this time. Foley had to step lively to keep them out. Webb and Dundas were chased for roughing it, and Creighton threatened on two hard tries, Foley just blocking them in time. Late in the chapter, Dinesen's rifle shot from defence got away from Miller to give the All-Stars' their first marker, and play was slower and more even at the gong.

Score Final Goal

The E.P.L. outfit turned on the juice to open the third and they made it hot for Miller for a while. White warmed the bench for charging, and effective checking by the Petes held the others out of danger. Neither goalie had much to do till late, when Miller cleared half a dozen wicked ones at close range. Pat Calladine was playing now for the Petes instead of Jarvis who left the game sick. Miller drew a penalty for tripping and Creighton went in goal. He stopped several hard ones, till Webb's quick rap beat him. The Stars had four men up and forcing the pace at the last, but neither side was showing its best after the hard travelling.

The Teams

All-Stars—Goal, Foley; defence, Lackey and Whatley; centre, Maudsley; wings, Williams and Magee; alternates, Webb, Scriver, Epps, Milliken, Dinesen, Northey, F. Cripps and P. Calladine.

NATIONAL SENIORS LOSE TO CATARACTS

Falls Secures Three-goal Lead in Opening Period of O.H.A. Battle.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 2.—Niagara Falls defeated Nationals in a regular O.H.A. Senior fixture at the arena last evening in a game featured by clean play all the way. The final count was 6-2, and the score is a fair indication of the play.

The smallest crowd of the season attended, and despite the absence of body checking and other rough work there was plenty of good hockey by both teams.

Collins, MacIntyre and Huggins were the pick of the Toronto squad, while Shannon stood out for the home team with Kaminsky and Hastie also featuring.

LIONS ELIMINATED BY OSHAWA OUTFIT

Blue Imps Come From Behind to Score 4 to 3 Victory.

OSHAWA, Feb. 2.—A pass from Graboski to Maundrell at the defence allowed the rangy wing to go in on the net and score the winning goal against Toronto Lions here last night with but seventeen seconds left to play in the third period. The final score was 4 to 3 and the win eased Oshawa Blue Imps into the "Big Four" group play-off with Native Sons.

Imps deserved their win as they played the more aggressive brand of hockey in the last period, and came from behind to pull out the win. Graboski, Maundrell and Shelenkoff were best for Oshawa, with Durno, Nicholson, Dickinson and Fraser starring for Lions.

GEORGIA MINSTRELS AT THE GRAND TO-NIGHT

Perhaps the busiest troupe that Fanchon and Marco has ever presented is the Georgia Minstrels, who appear at the Grand Theatre to-night.

With most of the Fanchon and Marco Ideas, only key cities are played. During the period between engagements, the actors make railroad jumps of between 400 and 1,500 miles. These sometimes necessitate "lay-offs" between arrival of the troupe and actual opening day.

Not so with the minstrels. Their type of show is more than welcome in the smallest of towns, and they have been able to work out a schedule of "one-night stands" between their longer engagements in the larger cities. Many of the jumps they will make on this tour involve closing their last show at 11, and taking a special train to a nearby town where they will rehearse in the morning for another show that night. They have practically no "lay-offs" on their entire tour.

Prices 25c to $1.

GNATS DEFEAT MARLBOROS IN INITIAL GAME

National Juniors Score Impressive 5-2 Victory in First of "Big Six" Finals.

DUKE PENALTIES COSTLY.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—Turning in their most impressive display of the season, the juniors representing National Yacht Club gained the jump on Marlboros in the first game of the "Big Six" group play-off at Maple Leaf Gardens last night by turning back the "Iron Dukes" by a 5-to-2 margain.

On their showing last night, Nationals will be strong favorites to win the second game, which will be played at the Gardens Saturday afternoon. The series, which will be decided on a best two out of three game basis, will decide the representative of the local group in the O.H.A. playdowns.

Outskating the crown-coated crew from the first bell the fast-stepping Sea Fleas, conquerors of St. Michael's College, held the upper hand throughout. Only at one stage of the game were they ever in danger of losing their precious one-goal margin, that at the start of the last period when Jackson counted his second goal to put his team one counter behind the ultimate winners, but the Dukes could not secure the equalizer.

Marlboro Defense Good

Nationals showed better condition than the "Dukes," and the persistent back-checking of their forwards had Marlboros pretty well bottled up. The Duke's husky defense pair, Reggie Hamilton and Bobby Porter, played well, as did Phil Stein in goal, and were not to blame for their team's loss. As a matter of fact, it was only their clever playing that kept Nationals margin at three goals. On the other hand, the Marlboro forwards failed to match strides with the fast-breaking Fleas and left their defense in a weakened condition. Art Jackson, smart pivotman of the losers, was the best man the Dukes had to offer. Besides notching their two markers, the younger brother of Harvey of the Maple Leafs did some effective poke-checking in the centre-ice area.

STUDENTS LOSE TO ROTARY 3-2

Elmslie Scores on Snowden's Pass for Winning Goal in Exhibition Game.

LARGE CROWD SEES GAME.

Scoring the winning goal late in the third period, Rotary grabbed off a fine win over P.C.I. at the Brock last night. It was an exhibition City Hockey League contest staged before the Merrett benefit one, and the biggest crowd by far to ever see a City Loop tussle here was treated to a very fair exhibition as played by the young fellows. Poor ice hampered teamplay, but the pace was hot enough in every stanza.

Rotary had it 2-0 at the finish of the first frame, but P.C.I. got one in the second and tied it up early in the third, only to lose out near the close. There was little to choose between the well-matched outfits, though P.C.I. had more hard shots on goal. Both goalies went good, while Hickey, Elmslie and the first forward wall went best for the Clubmen; and Parnell, Archibald and Lipsett seemed the most effective on the offensive for the Collegians.

Padgett took a pass from Mowry to tally the first one, and LeBarr batted in the second in this stanza from a mixup at the goalmouth. Archibald sauntered in alone to get the P.C.I. initial counter in the middle paragraph, as the latter outfit threatened almost continuously. Parnell tied it up early in the third and they continued to pepper Pearson, but late in the session, Elmslie took Snowden's pass and blazed it into the Collegiate citadel for the victory. The teams:

Rotary—Goal, Pearson; defence, Mowry and Hickey; centre, Tranter; wings, Post and Padgett; alternates, Elmslie, Maudsley, Hunter, Snowden, Sullivan and LeBarr.

P.C.I.—Goal, Sloane; defence, Richardson and Jopling; centre, Lipsett; wings, Howland and Archibald; alternates, Kingdon, Kirkwood, Stabler and Parnell.

Referee—Jack Sabatino.

Minor Loop Games On Tapis To-Night

Several Southend and Church Hockey League games will be played to-night, provided there is ice. These Southend League games are scheduled at the Sacred Heart rink: Empire Cubs vs. Canuck Bantams at six, Rangers' Juveniles vs. Black Hawks at seven, Park Hill Intermediates vs. Northenders at eight, and Canuck Intermediates vs. Pirates at nine. Church League games at All Saints' rink are: St. James' Juveniles vs. St. John's at six, Knox Juniors vs. George Street at seven, Trinity Juniors vs. Mark Street at eight, Murray Street Juniors vs. All Saints' at nine.

SENATORS SECURE HARVEY ROCKBURN

New Defenseman on Roster When Ottawa Entertains Hawks To-night.

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (C.P.).—Chicago Black Hawks, scooting around the circuit on a jaunt not altogether unsuccessful so far, ran into Ottawa to-day to see if the Senators are as easy to push over as they have been led to believe. Just a couple of weeks ago the Hawks had to work hard to get a 2-1 decision over the Senators at Chicago.

But since then Cy Denneny's team has been roughly treated, both at home and abroad, and the last time they performed before the home fans New York Rangers trounced them 9-2. Since they started their latest tour of the National League camps the Hawks have picked two wins while absorbing the same number of defeats—not such a bad record in this loop.

Harvey Rockburn, formerly a "bad man" with Detroit and later of Windsor Bulldogs of the International League, will get a trial with Senators to-night, and Denneny hopes the bruising body-checker will fix up some of his defence worries.

Canadiens, tied at the bottom of the Canadian division with Ottawa, also draw a difficult assignment, playing Americans at New York. Rangers play Maroons at Montreal, and the Red Wings, tied for the American section leadership with the Blueshirts, face the Bruins at

LOCAL CLUB AT FULL STRENGTH FOR FRIDAY NIGHT'S TITLE GAME

Bowmanville Will Give Petes Plenty of Fight Although Two Goals Down.

WEIR MAY BE BACK.

The Petes and Bowmanville Intermediates tangle at the Brock tomorrow night, provided there is ice, in the second and final game of their group titular series. It will start at 8.30 o'clock, and the Petes will be nursing a two-goal lead in this championship game, as a result of the locals' 2-0 win in Bowmanville on Monday. The winner of this home-and-home series, goals to count, will advance in the O.H.A. playdowns.

Bowmanville cannot be counted out by a long way, as they have several times come to Peterborough and upset the dope bucket completely by playing their best game of the year on local ice. They put the Petes out of the race last year, and may do it again to-morrow (Friday). They are two goals down but may tie that up by a hard opening offensive and win out before the contest is over. At any rate, it will be a memorable battle between the two strongest teams in this Lakeshore grouping.

The Petes will likely be at full strength by to-morrow, with Dallin and Jarvis back again, and perhaps Archie Weir. They will have to be strong to hold that slim lead.

200 Reserve Seat Block For Friday

Hockey Fans: Friday night, the Peterborough Intermediates meet Bowmanville in the final game for group honors. Reasonably assured of hard, fast ice, and with the strongest team on the ice, we can promise the best game of the season, in which the Peterborough team should show its real strength.

The club is reserving 200 seats at 50 cents are the request of local and out-of-town fans who wish to have seats held for them, otherwise the admission prices will remain the same as in other games played, thus allowing a large number of seats on the west side at 35 cents. A big crowd will encourage the players and executive alike.

ED. WRIGHT.

Colder weather to-night is expected, which should make for a fine sheet of ice at the Brock—as no game is being played on it to-night. This will assure fans of a speedy game on fast ice, between the boring-in batting Bowmanville veterans, who know plenty of inside hockey, and a powerful and tricky bunch of Peterborough players who may go a long way this season in the O.H.A. hunt. Jack Sabatino of Lakefield will be the referee.

BILLY OLDFIELD, YORKSHIRE

Everybody is hoping that W. A. Oldfield, the Australian wicket-keeper, who sustained a slight skull fracture when injured while batting in the third cricket test at Adelaide, will enjoy a speedy recovery. He is considered the best man at his job playing to-day and has been Australia's recognized first string wicket-keeper since 1921.

Prior to the third test match, Oldfield had claimed 62 test victims, 41 caught and 21 stumped. He has obtained eight in a match and five in an innings. Oldfield is also a batsman of some distinction and has scored 831 runs in the test matches for an average of just under 26, his highest score being 65 not out.

Lionel Paget Hedges, the former Kent and Gloucestershire cricketer, whose death is announced at the early age of 32, a victim of 'flu, was a very fine batsman and a fine cover point fieldsman. He won his blue as a freshman at Oxford in 1920 and played against Cambridge in the following two seasons also. He played his last game in 1929.

INTERESTING RELICS

In Wisden's bat museum off Leicester Square in London, is much to interest the enthusiastic cricketer—splintered, battered, dusty relics of a thousand exciting battles.

The father of bats, dated 1750, is to be found there, and lookin as if it had been inspired by a boomerang.

The signatures of W. G. Grace, Gilbert Jessop, Victor Trumper, Joe Darling, C. B. Fry, and a host of other celebrities are there, fading upon embrowned willow.

Record-breaking bats rank with bats of lesser fame, one indeed, has achieved honor in having been "15 years up a chimney in Australia."

A relic of considerable interest is a bat inscribed with 22 names, the names of the Australian army team and of the English army team which defeated it at Lord's on July 14th, 1917. Warrant Officer C. G. Macartney and Lieut. C. Kelleway were among the Australian side.

Capt. P. F. Warner captained the English side, and his team included Corporal E. Tyldesley, Private E. Hendren, Lieut. P. G. H. Fender and Lieut. N. A. Knox, of Surrey fame.

It will bring back memories of a hot day and a neglected wartime wicket, the fastness of which caused Lieut. Knox to exclaim, "with it I could have an over with the Kaiser!"

TAKES ON TOUGH JOB

Despite the difficulties of such a task, the football correspondent of a Budapest newspaper has compiled a list, ranking the various players, referees, clubs, and countries of Europe according to their football ability.

The national teams receive first consideration. They are divided into three classes: Super-class, class two, and class three. Of the four in super-class, Austria comes first, followed in order by Scotland, England and Italy.

The other classes contain 20 other continental teams, but one misses both Ireland and Wales, despite thef act that the latter are potential champions of the British Isles.

NO ENGLISH REFEREES

Continuing with the clubs, the super-class contains 12 clubs. Admira Vienna ranking first, with Arsenal second. Glasgow Celtic and Rangers are the only other British clubs included in this class. There are four Vienna clubs, however.

In class two we have Aston Villa, Chelsea, Everton, Newcastle United and Sheffield Wednesday along with other continental clubs.

A ranking of players has Hiden, the Austrian goalkeeper whom Arsenal in vain endeavored to secure, first, Hulme (Arsenal) at No. 6 is Britain's first representative, followed by James (Arsenal), No. 9; Jack (Arsenal), No. 18; Hibbs (Birmingham, (No. 22; and Blenkinsop (Wednesday) No. 23.

Concluding with a list of 12 referees. Barlassina (Austria) comes first, with Bauwers (Germany) who officiated at the England-Spain match last season, second. The most interesting point, however, is that there is not an English referee included.

JAMES' CUP RECORD

Since he entered English football Alec James has scored only two goals in F.A. Cup ties for Preston North End and the Arsenal.

His only goal for the Deepdale club in six ties was at Lincoln in a third round engagement in season 1926-27, when the Lancashire team was successful by 4-2.

Then his only bull's eye for his present side was at Wembley in the 1929-30 final, when he scored the first of the two goals which defeated Huddersfield Town.

Altogether James has participated in 15 cup ties for the Arsenal.

NEW YORK CLUB MANAGER HAS 21 PLAYERS SIGNED

Dale Alexander and Bob Seeds Affix Signatures to Boston Contracts.

SUKEFORTH RE-SIGNS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (A.P.)—With 21 players under contract and Manager Bill Terry due to reach town to-day, the New York Giants are expecting to hear of something happening soon.

Terry, who first set the pace in trading during the major league meetings in December and then led the way in getting players' names on contracts, has the annual baseball writers' dinner as the principal purpose of his visit with some discussion of the situation with club officials on the side, but Giants fans will be rather disappointed if he returns to Memphis without doing any dickering for new players. It is known that he is looking for another good outfielder and a starting pitcher, perhaps Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn.

The one-a-day sytsem of the Brooklyn Dodgers was continued to-day with word that Clyde Sukeforth, reserve catcher who did comparatively little work for the Dodgers last season, had sent in his contract with signature affixed.

The Boston Red Sox reported the signing of two important members of their prospective 133 cast. They were Dale Alexander, slugging first baseman who led the American League batters after coming from Detroit last year, and Bob Seeds, outfielder, obtained in a trade with the Chicago White Sox.

(By C. J. P.)

Well, they put that benefit game over last night, and no fooling. The biggest crowd since we were copping a senior O.H.A. belt sardined into the rink last night, filling both sides, balcony, band room, aisles and everything—about seventeen hundred, they figure. We won't know the gate receipts till all ticket returns are in, but no doubt a nice tidy sum was cleaned up. That mob of fans went up there because it was a benefit game, because Bailey and Clancy were billed to referee, and thirdly because it was a hockey contest. All three were good reasons, though they were somewhat disappointed on the last count.

* * * * * *

Soft, watery ice—with young lakes scattered around in spots—spoiled hockey, though the players tried hard to make it a game. The Petes romped through to a comfortable 4-2 win over the All Stars, in a tussle that showed very little of the hockey these players are capable of on fast ice. The first goal was scored by Creighton, and his shovel-shot put not only the puck but half a bucketful of water into the goal, and Foley probably never even saw the rubber. That's the sort of game it had to be.

* * * * * *

The City League jamboree that preceded it was a pretty fair battle between well-matched junior squads. Rotary got the nod this time, 3-2, grabbing the right side of the count a few minutes before the end after their early two-goal lead was overhauled. Those kids never had such a gallery before and will hardly see such a bunch out their again for a few years. The crowd was good-natured in both contests and did little booing at anything.

* * * * * *

Bailey and Clancy of course stole the show, though they had little to do. They were introduced by Percy Bond, and a bouquet of flowers given the former for his wife. And then the "Ace" couldn't find her in the crowd, though she was sitting right in front of him. He refereed two frames and Clancy the third. The latter turned on some of his speed a few times in avoiding rushes to give the fans a laugh. Cabot had to cancel the trip the last hour or so when notified his brother, Louis, had died in Montreal.

* * * * * *

About thirty friends and admirers of the Leaf stars threw them a feed at the Elite Court later, with Percy Bond chairman and Mayor Denne attending. It was a pleasant little gathering and both players gave a little talk, after first refusing cheques to cover their expenses. The "King" said Bailey was his best friend on the Leaf team and he was always glad to go anywhere with him, and was surprised to see so many good sports in Peterborough. He hoped he would never have the misfortune to lose an eye, and he added that he was always pleased to help out in any way he could here. Clancy remarked he would likely be down this way in the summer, and would be glad to umpire a ball game or do anything he could to help sports here. The "King" got a big hand.

* * * * * *

"Ace" Bailey cracked wise about how he and Clancy, when the latter was with Ottawa, used to take a little jab at each other every chance they got on the ice, but now on the same team they were the best of friends. Irvin also said that it was not a duty to come down here but a pleasure as he had a great many friends around town. He was glad to see such a crowd at the benefit game, and he went on with an informal little talk that drew heavy applause at the close. The irrepressible Irvins sense of humour is still strong.

* * * * * *

Mayor Denne thanked the fans for responding so well and also thanked the Leaf players for their goodwill. He explained how the permission of Conny Smythe had been obtained by an old Peterborough boy, Frank O'Connor in Toronto, and pointed out that Frank never forgot this town, using a number of local men on his farm last summer, and sending here for lumber, locks and plumbing. The Mayor gave a five-dollar cheque toward the benefit fund, the Lakefield Hockey Club having sent one for ten earlier in the evening. Mr. Bond thanked Clancy and Bailey, and short talks were given by Max Swanston, Charlie Curtis, Eddie Wright, Fred Craig, Frank Jobbitt and Nagle Phelan.

* * * * * *

There's a strong bond between athletes and sportsmen, and this even spreads to sports followers on such occasions as benefit performances. That accounts for these popular Toronto pucksters taking time off to come down here at trouble and expense to themselves. And it accounts for the work done by these local men who engineered the whole thing. It is also partly accountable for the huge crowd that made the Brock look like old times last night. Sports and sportsmen—that's the kind of people we want to work with and be around with all the time.

* * * * * *

Sports shorts: Rink manager Harold LaPlante made a good job of decorating with flags and streamers the Brock last night, having a big sign "Welcome" lit with electric lights out front . . . . Dunc Munro was in town yesterday also, on business for awhile in the afternoon; he still practises with the Maroons . . . . Don't forget that intermediate playoff game with Bowmanville at the Brock tomorrow, if there's ice; the Petes have a two-goal lead on the round . . . . Fenelon Falls beat Lindsay juniors, 3-2, last night . . . . To-night's E.P.L. game at the Brock is called off . . . . Lakefield goes to Norwood Friday p.m. . . . . We didn't wait around for the late game last night, but called up McLeod's this a.m. to find out the result of their affair, and were informed no game had been played as Cowan's Newsboys were a bit bashful about tangling with such a fast team—that's what we we told, anyway.

AT THE REGENT

"SECOND HAND WIFE."

This is a very modern picture that tells the story of the bitter rivalry between two women. One is his former wife and the other his second wife. It is filmed from one of Kathleen Norris' famous tales.

Sally Eilers is the heroine, the blonde stenographer, Alexandra Trumbull, who first attracts the notice of Carter Cavendish when she gains the award in his establishment for the most popular member of the office staff. She gives a sparkling presentation of the role of the girl who marries a man with a divorced wife and then battles with his former wife to gain possession of the child.

BAMBINO BROKE MANY RECORDS DURING CAREER

Ruth Shows His Versatility in Naming His Most Thrilling Diamond Experiences.

WAS GREAT SOUTHPAW.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP)—It isn't because he has read much of Rudyard Kipling's poems that Babe Ruth has seldom stopped to consider the work he has done.

The slugger whose exploits take up page after page of baseball's record books does not go in much for self-analysis or retrospection. Things happen to or for or against the Babe. He doesn't fuss about the reasons or live on reminiscences, consequently it was something like prying candy away from a small boy to get him to concentrate on an examination of his big league record and list as his most thrilling diamond experiences:

1.—The 2-1 victory he pitched for the Red Sox over Brooklyn in the 1916 World Series, holding the Dodgers scoreless after the first inning and beating Sherrod Smith in a 14-inning battle, longest game ever played in the championship round.

2.—The one-handed running catch he made off Frankie Frisch for the last out in the fourth and last game of the 1928 World Series, abruptly ending a desperate rally by the St. Louis Cardinals in their home park.

3.—The dramatic home run he hit off Charley Root in the third game of the 1932 World Series at Chicago, a tremendous clout over the centrefield barrier, his second of the game and a blow that knocked Root out of the box besides knocking the last, lingering resistance out of the Cubs.

Amazing Versatility

At the time it did not occur to Ruth that had, offhand, named three events that promptly emphasized his amazing versality, first as a great southpaw pitcher, later as a brilliant defensive outfielder and, lastly, as the most destructive batsman in the history of the game.

Most of his pitching equipment, the Babe recalls, consisted of a fast ball, a faster one and pretty good control. But for that matter, he asks, what else did Walter Johnston have in his prime? Or Lefty Grove?

"They don't try to do much with a curve until they feel themselves slipping" comments the Babe.

ENGLISH TEST TEAM PROTESTS

REQUESTS REMOVAL.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 2 (C.P. Cable).—The English cricket test team to-day appealed to representatives of the British Government in Australia to ask that the Australian Cricket Board of Control withdraw the word "unsportsmanlike" contained in its complaint regarding the "body-line" bowling controversy.

The appeal of the English team asked removal of the offensive word from the cabled protest which the Australian despatched to the Maryiebone Cricket Club, governing body of the game, in England.

Its members felt, the request said, implied a personal stigma and that they would be distressed if they had to enter the fourth match on Feb. 14 with the stigma unremoved.

Cricket Results

TOOWOOMBA, Australia, Feb. 2. (C.P. Cable).—The exhibition cricket match between a Queensland country team and the visiting English test team ended to-day in a draw. The scores were: M.C.Q. 376 and 167 for three, (Wally Hammond 101, L.E.G., Ames, 121, Redley Verity 77 not out) Queensland Country 210, (Brittle 65, Raymond 53, Harold Larwood eight for 28).

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

If I were a horse
I'd stay in my stable
And eat as much oats
As a horse is able.
—Shadow Song.

KNARF WAS inside the wooden horse!

It wasn't an ordinary wooden horse. It was huge and it was full of soldiers. Knarf and the other four shadow children had found the wooden horse in the book called Ancient History. The shadows had crawled inside the book. The wooden horse had been built by Ulysses (he was a famous Greek soldier), and left in front of the walls of the old city of Troy. The Greek soldiers, you see, had wanted to capture, the city of Troy but as they couldn't get inside the walls, they hid in the wooden horse—Knarf among them.

In a little while the Trojans (those were the people who lived in Troy) thought that all the Greek soldiers had gone away and they opened the gates of the city. Then they wheeled in the huge wooden horse, for they liked the looks of it. It seemed to them that as long as the Greeks had run away, the horse now belonged to them.

So the Trojans wheeled the wooden horse inside their city, and then they shut the gates. Knarf, who was inside the horse, wondered what was going to happen next. He started to whisper to one of the Greek soldiers right next to him, but the soldier made him stop talking at once. It was so dark inside the wooden horse that Knarf couldn't see a thing. Luckily there was nothing to see. Knarf could hear that the wooden horse was being wheeled about. At last it stopped.

Inside the City

For a long time nothing happened. Knarf thought it must be late at night. All the Trojans must be fast asleep. Knarf wished that he, too, were home and fast asleep. Then, little by little the soldiers inside the wooden horse began moving about, making as little noise as possible. They opened the little door by which they had first got inside the wooden horse, and let themselves out, one by one.

When Knarf got out he found himself in a big square. The Greek soldiers began running about in every direction. Soon they were fighting with the Trojan soldiers (who had never expected anybody to come out of the wooden horse, and for that reason they were too surprised to do much fighting). It didn't take long for the Greek soldiers to capture the whole city.

And that is the story of the wooden horse, which happened in history many hundreds of years ago. Knarf and the shadows learned about it inside the book called Ancient History and if you peek inside the same book I'm sure you'll learn all about it too.

A debate entitled, "Resolved that women have more influence than money," was taken by the Misses Tanner and Jackson for the affirmative and Bert Monk and Bruce Beer for the negative, the latter winning the decision.

DINES WITH FISHERMEN.

HELFORD, Cornwall—The Prince of Wales dined of oysters and husky chunks of brown bread and butter with the oyster fishermen of this small town to-day, after going out in a dredger to watch the hauling in of the oysters from the beds. The informal function took place in a shed at the docks.

The Prince is spending three days on a round of his estates in the Duchy of Cornwall. Halford's oyster product is sent daily to the Royal palaces and general market.

The luck of the draw provided the winner meet the victor of the first round matches between Mexico and the United States for the right to meet the winner of the South American zone.

ANTI-WAR PACT FOR 3 STATES

CHANCELLORS MEET.

MENDOZA, Argentina, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Plans were made to-day for Argentina, Brazil and Chile to join in the initiation of a South American Anti-War Pact in a ceremony at Buenos Aires.

Argentina, which proposed the pact, already had Brazil's agreement to the plan when the widely heralded conference opened here yesterday between Chancellors Saavedra Lamas and Miguel Chuchaga, of Argentina and Chile respectively.

The next business of this unusual personal meeting of foreign ministers, a departure from Latin-American diplomatic customs, is the drafting of a plan to bring the undeclared war between Paraguay and Bolivia to an end.

Chancellor Cruchago agreed to a plan to send a Chilean representative to Buenos Aires to sign the peace pact, intended as a supplementary document to the Kellogg-Briand Pact, at the same time that Brazil sends an envoy.

CLEAR THINKING NEEDED

Editor, Examiner:

Sir.—In these days when clear thinking and a level head are needed as perhaps never before, the following extracts from a letter which has been sent to all local representatives of the Rosicrucian Order throughout the world may prove of interest to those who are vainly looking for some sort of miraculous panacea for the ills that afflict us.

"We still find conditions very greatly upset, and, if any of the great changes are going to be made that were promised in 1932 by the various political leaders and their parties, we may as well expect upset conditions for the next six months. You can neither tear down, build up, nor clean house without having upset conditions. We all know that more than half the things that were promised are beyond any group of men or any political party to bring about either instantly or gradually. Therefore we are going to have a great many disappointed people in the world during the next six or twelve months.

These persons are the foolish ones who believed that a new president could step into authority in the United States or a new leader into authority into Canada or any other country and change conditions overnight.

Undoubtedly many improvements will be made, and many conditions are already improving, but we will still have the discontented to deal with.

"Many are not finding in religion the comfort and courage they should find. They are leaving the churches, forsaking their religious affiliations, and seeking something else.

"It is not our intention to foster or encourage persons to leave their churches, for we believe it is a mistake. If there is anything wrong with the church system in any part of the world; the best way to correct it is for every member of any church to be loyal and stand by the clergyman, minister or priest in his extreme difficulties, and co-operate with him in bringing about such changes as are needed. Abandoning the fort when the strife begins is no way to help anybody or anything.

These restless minds must be guided; you have no idea how rapidly such persons become radical in tendency and often fall a prey to the Bolshevik arguments, and so become destroyers instead of builders.

Whenever you meet such a person encourage him to give his support to whatever church or society he has been connected with and show him that the best way to rebuild our present upset conditions throughout the world is for every one to think and act constructively and in hearty co-operation with like-minded persons."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

R. Farthing,
Peterborough Representative
Rosicrucian Order, San Jose.

Individual Citizens Attempt Pay Debt

MONTREAL, February 2 (C.P.).—When the French Government defaulted war debt payments to the United States due on December 15, a steady stream of postal money orders poured into the offices of Walter Edge, United States Ambassador to France, said Victor Revellion, Paris furrier, in an interview here.

Accompanying each remittance to Mr. Edge was a note explaining that the sender, after computing the per capita indebtedness of France to the United States, felt it his duty as a French citizen to discharge the obligation. The United States minister immediately returned the money orders, Mr. Revellion said.

IRISH UNION MEN DENY WRECK RESPONSIBILITY

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 2. (AP) — Officials of railway unions whose men are on strike in protest against a wage cut, to-day disclaimed responsibility for a wreck near Dundalk yesterday in which two persons were killed. Railway officials asserted, however, they were convinced the wreck was caused by Sabotage.

The strike situation had not changed materially to-day. Bus drivers employed by the railway companies were called upon to join the strike but little curtailment in bus service was noted.

EXPERTS SEEKING CLUE IN RACKETEER'S DEATH

BOSTON, Feb. 2. (CP)—Fingerprint experts worked to-day on an automobile found last night on a deserted road in Foxboro in an effort to determine who rode in it on the morning last week that charles "King" Solomon, racketeer, was slain in the Cotton Club.

Police said the automobile was registered to Mrs. Janet Lacey, Newton nursemaid, who had been taken into custody in connection with the investigation of the slaying. The car was sought since two policemen told of having stopped it as it was being driven in the wrong direction on a one-way street about 20 minutes after the shooting. Six men were in the car at the time, the policemen said, and they allowed them to go after questioning them and taking the registration number.

BRIGGS PLANTS IN PRODUCTION

21 ARRESTS MADE.

DETROIT, Feb. 2 (C.P.).—Briggs Manufacturing Company plants were in production to-day, but there was no indication when the Ford Motor Company would consider the supply of automobile bodies sufficient to re-open its plants.

All Ford plants in the United States were shut down last Thursday, four days after Briggs Company workers walked out, and Ford officials explained production could not be resumed until bodies again were supplied by the Briggs Company.

A flurry of disorders broke out last night in the Briggs strike, a few hours after officials announced that assembly lines again were moving with newly hired workmen. Mounted and foot police charged a crowd of strikers who attempted to board a street car to which 25 Briggs workmen had been escorted by policemen. Five men were arrested, making 21 in all who had been taken into custody.

Hazen McCuly, 40, reported that four men beat him with a rubber hose after a day's work at the Briggs plant. Salvadore Succi, 40, was treated for head injuries he said were inflicted by strikers.

WARSAW RINK IS LIGHTED BY POWER HOUSE IN VILLAGE

Hilliard Clements, Native Born, Has Built Up Fine Plant in Recent Years.

DAMS RIVER BEND

WARSAW, Feb. 2. — (Examiner Corespondence.)—River bend power house was the scene of special interest to the village last week. Dr. Munro officially closed the switch to send the first current of electricity that passed over the lines in Warsaw, to light the skating rink. There are fourteen lights on the rink, and in rink-house, and the ten poles were put up and the wiring done in two and one-half days. Dr. Munro made a short speech on Hilliard's energy and pluck and wished him success in his enterprise.

Hilliard Clements, a young man born and brought up in Wasaw, had made the lighting of the rink by electricity possible, when the Delco plant broke down. His parents' home, where he lived until he built one for himself, and lives with his wife and two children, was called River Bend, hence the name. The power house is on the edge of the Indian river on his father's (Henry Clement's) property, where the river bends a little, and a pretty gurgling waterfall interested Hilliard with its possibilities. For five years he watched and measured the water, and fall, and finally last summer started building piers for the dam. There are four well-built piers of cement, three sluices and a flume. The power house rests partly on one and partly on the north bank of the river quite close to the garage. Any one of the three sluices can if need be, and the time may come for it, be changed into a flume. For about seventy-five feet the south bank is dyked. There is no drowned land. There is a depth of seven feet of water held by twelve stop logs in each sluice. A thirteenth log will be aded, and at that the water will not be above high water mark. Standing on the bridge leading out of Warsaw one gets a good view of the power house and upper part of the dam, as well as a glimpse of the river below. From the power house is a beautiful view of the river.

Two Dynamos.

Mr. Clements, Jr., was only too pleased to show and explain his power house. There are two dynamoes, one an eight kilowatts and the other five hundred watts. He has used the smaler dynamo to charge batteries. The water wheel is a little giant double turbine supposed to deliver about twenty-five or thirty horse power. There is space in the flume for another turbine of the same size.

When the lighting plant at the rink gave out, the larger dynamo was procured. A gang of men put in poles and wiring and electric lights by electricity generated in the power house became a fact in the village. They are a great addition to the village.

Mr. Clements hopes to do some more lighting as he still has about seventy-five hundred watts. The rink draws only about eight hundred watts.

For the past five years Hilliard [illegible] bent his energies on studying electricity. His education was attained in Warsaw Public School. He was always interested in machinery and electricity. His father had a blacksmith shop, which Hilliard now uses as a garage and the young man worked with his father. When cars became common he turned to garage work, his father's health was failing, and blacksmoth's work was not so much need d. He it was who brought out the motor sleigh. He has worked and studied and those who know him are glad indeed he has this coming.

Fourteen months ago he lighted his shop with a thirty-two volt Fairbank's motor driven with a Gibson gasoline engine. After a time he changed to a Model T Ford engine for his lights and recharging batteries.

In October last he did his first piece of actual work by electrical power, which was on some of the machinery he now uses in the plant. All that one man could do of the work he has done himself, and all has been under his supervision. When he started on his venture he had little encouragement, but with a goal ahead he is winning.

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

A number of standard radios, built to operate on the broadcast band, will tune slightly lower than the last regular broadcasting station, WKBW Buffalo. Sometimes this enables you to tune in the first band of Police short-wave stations. The broadcasts over these stations are very interesting, and sometimes quite thrilling. Try your dial at this point—you may be able to enjoy something different.

Mrs. E. A. R., Omemee—You ask what could be wrong with your electric radio, as you have noise on it all the time, regardless of weather conditions. The noise could be caused by electrical equipment of some kind being operated in your locality, and causing interference, or it may be a defect in some part of the radio. To decide this, the best way you can test is as follows: tune in a station and the noise at the same time, at ordinary volume. Disconnect the aerial and ground wires where they attach to the radio set, and, without changing any of the dials or controls, notice whether or not the noise disappears or diminishes—the radio station will not be heard now of course. If the noise disappears, or becomes weaker, you can be sure it is coming in from an outside source, but ifit continues just as loudly as before, it shows the trouble to be in the radio. Re-connect the aerial and ground wires to the set.

Defective tubes, loose connections in the aerial or radio, and various parts in the set can cause noise.

Ed.—Mr. Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans. If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr. Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

If C.C.F. Is Not Communism What Is It Tories Demand

Conservatives Declare Movement Is Communism; Federationists Deny It And Liberals Say Nothing In The House Of Commons.

ULTIMATE OBJECT IS TO SET UP IN CANADA COMPLETE STATE CONTROL SAYS LAWSON.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3. —(CP)— If the Co-operative Commonwealth is not communism what is it? That is what Conservative speakers in the House of Commons want to know.

The debate begun Wednesday when J. S. Woodsworth, President of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and Labor member for Winnipeg North Centre, has turned into an argument as to whether the principles of the Federation are identical with communism. Conservatives say they are. Federationists indignantly deny it. Liberals say nothing.

Both sides will have a chance to think up further arguments over the week-end for today the House turns to government business and may make a start on the estimates.

Replace Capitalism

The Co-operative Commonwealth would replace capitalism with state control, argued J. Earl Lawson (Cons. West York), yesterday. The only country in the world which has complete state control is Russia and Russia has communism. Hence the two were the same.

"Absolute rubbish," said E. J. Garland (U.F.A. Bow River).

It was foolish to try to connect the C.C.F. with Moscow, claimed Angus MacInnis (Labor, Vancouver South). If the two were the same why did the Communists oppose Mr. Woodsworth in his elections? asked H. E. Spencer, (U.F.A. Battle River.)

Liberals Keep Quiet

While so far the Liberals have taken no part in the debate the two Independents in the House, Henri Bourassa of Labelle and A. W. Neill of Comox-Alberni, came out flatfooted against the Co-operative Commonwealth yesterday.

Mr. Bourassa was unsparing in his criticism of the present economic conditions but saw no hope in a system which would destroy individual liberty. It was the "exploiters of capitalism" that were at fault.

Mr. Neil took the ground some of the principles involved in the resolution were pure Communism and he was not ready for such a jump in the dark.

William Irvine (U.F.A., Wetaskawin) said the purpose of the C.C.F. divided the movement from

RAILWAY STRIKE IN FOURTH DAY

Irish Union Completly Ties Up Belfast-Londonderry Line.

ONLY BUSES RUNNING.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 3. (AP)—The rail strike in Northern Ireland to-day entered its fourth day with the results a draw as far as transport services were concerned, but the effects of the stoppage on business were far-reaching.

The strikers have almost completely crippled travel by rail as the skeleton services which have been kept in operation have been poorly patronized. The strikers, however, have failed to halt the company's bus services, in Ulster, the bus staffs holding on stubbornly and this service has enabled the companies to accommodate the travelling public.

Sympathetic action by dock workers who have refused to handle goods has imperilled a large number of provincial linen mills. Six of the plants are expected to close to-morrow because they are unable to get their goods shipped and are losing a large amount of business.

Union leaders have been issuing statements hourly that all is going well. The statements have met no response from railway officials, who seem equally determined to fight to the finish.

Railway service was further curtailed to-day when it was discovered that 20 yards of the track between Belfast and Londonderry near St. Johnstown, Donegal, had been torn up during the night. The location of the damage was about eight miles from Londonderry.

As a result, a skeleton train service which had been operating was suspended.

Reports that attempts at mediation to settle the strike had been begun were widely current. It was understood businessmen were actively urging steps for a speedy settlement.

CENTRISTS TAKE RAP AT HITLER

Charge He Broke With Them Deliberately so Hindenburg Would Sanction Dissolution.

(By W. E. Brockmann).

BERLIN, Feb. 3 (C.P.). — The powerful Catholic parties took their first thrust to-day at Chancellor Adolf Hitler with the allegation that President Paul von Hindenburg was led into dissolving the Reichstag on the basis of false information that they refused to tolerate the Hitler Cabinet.

Monsignor Ludwig Kaas, leader of the Catholic Centrists, in letters of protest to the Chancellor and the President, said Hitler's Junker-Nazi Coalition Cabinet deliberately broke with the Centrists at the height of negotiations, before the dissolution decree was granted by the President.

This charge was echoed in an indignant speech by Dr. Heinrich Held, Premier of Bavaria and leader of the Bavarian Populists, the Centrists' Allies, at Eichstatt, Bavaria.

It was said in political circles that the two Catholic parties planned to give Hitler one year of grace—he asked for four in launching his campaign for the new Reichstag elections March 5.

BARKING OF DOG SAVES 30 LIVES IN TORONTO FIRE

THRILLING RESCUES.

Brigades Battle for Hours — Blaze One of Worst in Years.

TORONTO, Feb. 3, (CP)—Thirty scantily-clad persons were rescued by firemen or escaped from the blazing and smoke-filled Berridge aparements in downtown Toronto early to-day while firemen with axe or hose for more than two hours fought one of the worst apartent fires encountered in years.

No sooner had the firefighters quenched the flames that shot high from the roof than fire broke out in a different part of the buildinp and spread to the residence of Sam Eagles, driving eight people from their beds into the street.

Fireman E. Hichens was injured when he stepped on a nail. Long after the fire had started, flames burst forth anew in the roof and people in a second house adjoining were ordered to vacate.

With families separated in the mad flight for safety others trapped by flames and choking volumes of smoke on upper balconies, the scene was bedlam for a while. It was fortunate, firemen said, a dog barked in one suite or there might have been several fatalities.

Rouses Occupants

Most of the occupants of the first two floors owe their escape to Henry Foran, who was reading in his room when the fire broke out.

Nine Women Perish As Flames Sweep Through Building

Heroic Work Of Cleveland Nurses Saves Lives Of Eight Others Who Were Led Out From Third Floor— Bodies Of All Victims Recovered.

STAFF DOCTOR BRANDS FIRE INCENDIARY; FARMER, AT ODDS WITH OFFICIALS, HELD.

CLEVELAND, February 3 (C.P.). — Nine women psychopathic patients who fled in panic before flames that destroyed a dormitory at Ridgecliff Sanitarium in suburban Wickliffe early to-day were burned to death despite heroic efforts of nurses to rescue them.

All of the bodies had been recovered eight hours after the fire broke out, but most were charred beyond recognition.

The ruins were still smouldering when Dr. William Glendenning, husband of the sanitarium's superintendent and a staff physician, branded the fire as of incendiary origin. At his request, police and fire marshals took into custody for questioning a Chardon farmer, with whom hospital officials had been in dispute.

Dr. Glendenning asserted the farmer had threatened his wife with death and yesterday telephoned the institution's office and said: "I'll get even if it kills me."

Eight of the nine bodies which had been recovered by fire-fighting crews were tentatively identified:

Mrs. Lottie Roback, 32, Cleveland.
Miss Helen Kovack, 49, Cleveland.
Mrs. Agnes Dorrington, 78, Cleveland.
Mrs. Fannie Laundon, 54, Cleveland.
Miss Ethel R. Zipp, 24, Cleveland.
Mrs. Mary Bennett, 73, Cleveland.
Mrs. Isabel McBride, Newcastle, Pa.

Miss Gladys Fraser, 30, of Cleveland, was missing, and efforts were being made to identify the ninth body.

Charges of incendiarism were immediately made by the management. Dr. William Glendenning, staff physician and husband of the superintendent of the Sanatarium asked the Geauga County Sheriff to arrest a man he suspected of revengeful activity.

Nervous Cases.

The shrieks of the terorr-stricken women, all suffering from nervous or mental disorders, rent the chill night air as the flames ate rapidly through the frame dwelling. The smoke and heat soon became so intense that entrance to the cottage in which 24 women patients and three sanitarium employes slept became impossible.

The fire was discovered by M. L. Smith, a male nurse, who spread the alarm. Two nurses, Mrs. Ethel Craig and Miss Florence Farrell, quickly led 17 women sleeping in the three upstairs rooms down the stairs.

They had succeeded in reaching the hallway when lashing tongues of fire ate up through the floor. Several patients, panic-stricken, broke away from the nurses and fled back up the stairs.

Rescuers, working frantically, succeeded in removing them down ladders quickly hoisted to second floor windows.

Mrs. Virginia Glendenning, superintendent of the institution, said the fire caused damage of about $10,000. She said all of the 23 women patients would have been saved had they comprehended the danger and walked out quietly.

A Mother's Plea

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 3. — (AP)—"I'm not afraid to burn," boasted William Turner, called "Three Gun" Turner. But yesterday, a few hours before he was to die for doing murder in a New York speakeasy, his mother talked to him. When he persisted in his declaration of atheism she turned away, saying:

At 11:04 p.m. he entered the execution chamber of Sing Sing prison. At 11.06 p.m. he was dead.

an international standing as Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York has gone so far as to accuse Great Britain of betraying the Jewish people in his book, "The Great Betrayal." There have also been acrimonious debates in Geneva when the permanent mandates commission of the league called the British Palestine government to render an account of its action in the holy land. The criticism levelled at Britain in Geneva by the members of the mandates commission, coming from perfectly disinterested quarters, the representatives of Holland, Spain and Sweden, made such a profound impression in London that part of the personnel of the Palestine administration was recalled and replaced by a few men who are at least in sympathy with the terms of the mandate, which stipulates that his majesty's government shall "facilitate the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine without, however, causing prejudice to the other racial and religious groups and communities in the country."

Strange Tragedy

MONTREAL, Feb. 3 (C.P.)— Police investigation to-day revealed what is believed to be one of the strangest domestic accidents on record. Mrs. Lea Nicholl, 53, slashed her throat with a can-opener while trying to open a can of soup, investigators believe. When her blood-drenched lifeless body was found by her husband late last night a can-opener was clenched in her right hand. On the kitchen table was a can of soup, with a dent in the top of the container.

GIRL IS FOUND SADIST VICTIM

Body Discovered After Father Receives Note Asking $1,000 Ransom.

MISSING WEEK.

MINEOLA, N.Y., February 3 (C.P.). — "You don't want me to go do you, mother?" said Mary Helen O'Connor, 15 years old, last Friday as she was about to leave for an overnight visit with a friend.

Her mother replied: "Don't pay any attention to my foolish worries, dear."

But last night James O'Connor stood looking to a pile of underbrush near Massapequa, looking down upon a body, and brokenly he said:

"It is my child—Mary Helen."

She had died after a struggle. That much was clear, for her clothing was torn and there were bruises on her body. Stains found on her clothing are being analyzed. Police thought they might be iodine, or some dark liquid hurled at the girl by a Sadist slayer.

One police theory is that the girl was taken from an automobile near where her body later was found, and that she fought for a distance of 50 feet or more before being clubbed to death. There is no trace of the weapon with which she was slain.

A ransom note demanding $1,000 for the girl's safe return was received by O'Connor last night.

EWART WARREN DIES IN NOOSE FOR HIS CRIME

SHOOTING LAST OCTOBER.

Leaves Message Asking For Forgiveness From Wife of Victim.

TORONTO, Feb. 3—(CP) — Facing death with iron nerve, Ewart G. Warren today was hanged for the murder of Dr. W. G. More, Parkdale dentist, last October. The trap was sprung at 7.58 a.m. by Hangman Arthur Ellis and five minutes later Warren was pronounced dead by the jail physician.

Warren spent his last few hours of life singing hymns and repeating prayers. He left with Captain Wallace Brunton of the Salvation Army a final message for the wife of his victim, in which he asked for forgiveness and expressed his hope God would guide her through life.

He repeated the Lord's prayer just before the trap was sprung, and showed not a quiver of emotion.

Warren shot Dr. More during an attempted holdup in the dentist's office. More fatally wounded, died six days later, just two hours after Warren and Harold Hicks, now serving a life term in Portsmouth penitentiary for armed robbery and his part in the More shooting, were captured here.

Both Admit Part

Both Warren and Hicks admitted participation in five armed robberies in and near Toronto prior to the More shooting, and Warren, insisting he had not intended to fire the fatal shot, was sentenced to death. He completely exonerated Hicks from the murder, but admitted the two had robbed five people. Hicks was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment for manslaughter, and later was sentenced to life and 20 lashes for the armed robberies.

He appealed, and the lashes were deducted from his sentence, the appeal court ruling however, he must complete his sentence in the penitentiary.

Warren was born in Marmora twenty-six years ago. He married Mildred Brown, a Marmora girl, and had one child, Mary Josephine.

Around his home village Warren had a reputation for wildness. He was one of the chief figures in the desecration of the grave of Mrs. B. C. Hubbell, an incident that stirred the village and surrounding district at the time of its occurrence some few years ago.

DID NOT KNOW RELIEF TERMS

Sturgeon Falls' Mayor Claims He Thought Things Were Running Smoothly.

MADE NO CHECK-UP.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Feb. 3. —(CP)—Declaring he did not know what arrangements had been made between the town and government regarding relief disbursements when he took office, Mayor J. P. Marchildon of Sturgeon Falls today testified before the Royal Commission investigating relief here.

At the opening of 1933, he said, he had appointed a relief committee consisting of Councillors Joe Sevigny as chairman, J. F. Demers and Oscar Galipeau. At the beginning of 1932, relief orders were issued by the clerk-treasurer and Joseph Cote, now relief officer, was investigator. About Jan. 18, Mr. Cote was appointed to issue the orders, while the members of the relief committee and Mayor were also autorized to issue them.

"What was the arrangement between the town and the government when you took office?" asked Judge J. M. Hall, commissioner.

"I don't know. I never saw the agreement but I understood the government was paying two-thirds. Everything was running smoothly and I did not change it."

He admitted accounts were not always paid before returns were made to the government. Accounts from merchants were never checked by the relief committee but only by the clerk-treasurer, he thought, and the treasurer presented them to the finance committee for ratification.

U. S. Speaker Claims Time Too Limited to Deal Properly With Subject.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (A.P.)— Speaker Garner to-day disposed of Republican attempts to force through tariff raising legislation with the declaration that "There will be no foreign depreciated currency legislation enacted at this session of Congress."

Garner made his statement to newspapermen.

Companion Flees In Waiting Taxicab With $3,000 Cash

F. J. Blanchfield, Manager, Formerly Of Peterborough, And Ledger Keeper, Chase Pair In Running Gun Duel Through Apartment To Cab Held Ready At Back.

GUNMAN DROPS FROM CAR, FIRING ON OFFICER WHO WOUNDS HIM—BANK'S THIRD ALARM.

TORONTO, February 3 (C.P.). — One man was shot and another escaped when two bandits to-day staged one of the most daring daylight robberies this city has seen. The two entered the Royal Bank branch at Church and Wellesley Streets, held up the employees and two customers, and left after scooping up approximately $3,000 in cash.

Almost immediately, employees of the bank went after the robbers. Bullets flew freely as F. J. Blanchfield, manager (formerly of the Peterborough Royal Bank staff), and J. J. Murphy, the ledgerkeeper, opened fire on the bandits. They cut into an apartment house with the bank men in close pursuit, and ran out of another door to climb into a taxi. At this stage Blanchfield's gun jammed and the bandits returned the fire. The roaring taxi soon outdistanced the pursuers, however.

One of the men, who gave his name as Joseph Theodore Girouard, Detroit, got out of the car at the corner of St. George street some blocks away from the bank and promptly became engaged in a running revolver duel with Constable Oswald Brown. The policeman finally wounded the alleged bandit who threw down his gun and then surrendered. Meanwhile the other man disappeared in the automobile. No money was found on Girouard.

Five Minute Job.

The robebrs were not in the bank more than five minutes, the manager declared. "When they lined us up, one of them said, 'Now don't raise your hands or we migbt be seen from the street.' When one of the staff failed to obey this order and started to lift his arm, the same robber snarled, 'Any more of that Buddy, and out you'll go."

"The two men then started backing out, guns still levelled, towards the front door. Just before they reacheod the street, one of them, in a voice loud enough for all to hear, said, 'Now, you plant that nitro-glycerine at the front door so it will fix these fellows if they try to follow us."

Bank's Third Mx-up

TORONTO, Feb. 3. (CP)—Today's hold-up of the Royal Bank at Church and Wellesley streets makes the third alarm from that corner. On May 2, 1918 a young bandit entered the building, threw pepper in the teller's eyes and escaped with $1200. He was capturand later sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Later, the bank figured in another sensational case when two men suspected of planning to rob the bank were arrested after they had

SOLE SURVIVOR OF FATAL CRASH GIVES EVIDENCE

Inquest is Held Into the Deaths of Walkey and Hagen.

TRUCK ON WRONG SIDE.

Jury Finds That Both Drivers Were Going Too Fast.

Sole survivor of one of the worst motor crashes in the history of this district in which a motor car collided head-on with a truck, resulting in the death of three persons, Roy F. McLean, of Alliston, driver of the car, in which the late Horace Walkey, formerly of Peterborough, was a passenger, testified last evening at the resumed hearing of the inquest before a coroner's jury.

Since the accident, Mr. McLean, who received a bad wound on the right leg above the knee and a fractured left arm among other injuries, has been confined to Nichols Hospital. Supported on two crutches, he entered the police court room to testify last evening. He told the court it was his first time out of the hospital and that it was probable he would be confined there some time longer.

Fog Very Heavy.

He described the heaviness of the fog that covered the countryside on the morning. The truck came suddenly into view out of the fog, about 50 feet in front of him, and coming directly at him, he testified. He was travelling at about 25 miles an hour, he said, and could do nothing to avert the collision except apply his brakes. Although he could not estimate the speed of the truck, he declared it was moving at a fast speed.

Having heard Mr. McLean's evidence and recalling to mind that given before them at the adjourned hearing on November 10, the jury returned with the following verdict:

"From the evidence given we find that Horace Walkey and Herman Hagen came to their death from a head-on collision between an auto and a truck whilst both were travelling at reckless speeds on account of darkness, fog and wet slippery pavement on highway No. 28, near Centreville, on November 7, 1932, at 6.50 a.m."

Besides Walkey and Hagen, John Willis, passenger in the Globe truck, died as the result of injuries received in the crash.

Increased Speed.

Testifying, Mr. McLean told Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., who conducted the hearing before Dr. T. W. H. Young, that he and Mr. Walkey had set out from Oakwood for Belleville at 5.10. "It was a very, very foggy morning, and until we struck Omemee I drove at between 15 and 20 miles an hour," he said. "After we passed

BLAME UNKNOWN EX-ALDERMAN'S DEATH INQUIRY

Oshawa Veteran Knocked Out and Died of Exposure is Testimony Given.

WOUND PIERCED SKULL.

Blood Found on Hopkins and on Hammer Detective Says.

OSHAWA, Feb. 3.—The death of ex-alderman Thomas Sheridan was blamed by a coroner's jury here last night on persons unknown who had beaten him over the head and presumably left him to die of exposure.

The body of Sheridan was found last Sunday morning in a field within 150 feet of the rear of Archie Hopkins' home. Within 24 hours the police arrested Archie Hopkins, Mrs. Bella Davidson and her husband, William Davidson, all on vagrancy charges.

The jury under Coroner Dr. F. J. Rundle found that "Thomas Sheridan came to his death as a result of exposure, with contributing factors of alcoholism and concussion of the brain sustained as a result of injuries by blows on the head caused by a person or persons unknown."

Blood on Hammer

That a hammer, alleged to have been stained with blood, had been discovered in the home of Archie Hopkins on Sunday morning by the police was disclosed by Detective Sergeant Norman McGee, giving evidence last night. The hammer, Detective Sergeant McGee stated, appeared to have been shoved in ashes, but blood stains also appeared on a piece of wood lying beside the stove, and on the lock leading into the house.

"The man who locked the door must have had blood on his hands," McGee told the jury. "Later we found Hopkins. He was very much intoxicated, and had blood on his left hand."

Death was caused by exposure, but an alcoholic condition and concussion caused by a blow on the back of the dead sufficient to cause unconsciousness were strong contributing factors, Dr. Fred Glen, who performed the autopsy, stated. Dr. Glen said the wound penetrated the skull, causing small hemorrhages of the brain.

Not Caused by Fall

The injury to the head could not possibly have been caused by a fall, but had been inflicted with considerable force from above, and Dr. Glen suggested the wound could have been made by a scantling, a bottle, a hammer or a sharp cudgel.

Abrasions on the temples were probably made by glancing blows, he said, while abrasions over the nose and forehead could have been made by falling on frozen ground.

Swollen backs of the hands indicated, the doctor proceeded, that the deceased had defended himself from some blunt instrument, while bruises on the shins probably were made by kicking, Dr. Glen suggested.

Mrs. Belle Davidson swore she left Sheridan and Hopkins drinking together in the latter's home about eight p.m. Saturday, but Hopkins strongly denied the statement, claiming he had not seen Sheridan after 5 p.m. that night.

PAINTS GANDHI GOOD POLITICIAN

Interested Mainly in Personal Power Says American Woman Sudent.

VILLAGES NEGLECTED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (C.P.)—Mrs. Patricia Kendall, winsome young American student of India during more than a decade of residence there and now a lecturer on that country, believe Mahatma Gandhi "a darn good politician interested, mainly, in personal power.

Just arrived from England where she became the first woman to lecture at Oxford, and threw another lecture at the Shorncliffe Army School in for a good measure of "trail-blazing," Mrs. Kendall was in New York to-day preparing a lecture tour of Canada. She recently completed an educational book on India, and it was naturally the affairs of that country that drew the questions of interviewers who descended on her hotel room.

Affairs in India are solving themselves, in Mrs. Kendall's opinion. "Too many people forget the villages, where 90 per cent of the people live," she said. "The villagers lead simple lives and are concerned with their little daily problems, whereas the politicians whom we hear about are few in number and rarely represent any one."

F. G. BONFILS DIES—BARED TEAPOT DOME OIL SCANDAL

DENVER, Col., Feb. 3. — Frederick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post, whose picturesque career has been linked with many of the spectacular events of the Rocky Mountain region for more than a quarter of a century, died at his home here yesterday.

Bonfils came into the national spotlight 10 years ago when the activities of the Denver Post resulted in uncovering the Teapot Dome Oil scandal. The Post's investigators uncovered leads which led to congressional investigations, and court action.

Party Problems

ELKHORN, Wis., Feb. 3 (A.P.) — Democrats of three Walworth County communities are trying to figure out how to compete with "job seekers." In Delavan there are seven "Democrats" seeking the postmastership, while only six Democratic votes were cast in the 1930 State election. In East Troy only two Democrats voted, and three have applied for the job. The situation at Williams Bay also is embarrassing insofar as no Democratic vote was cast there in 1930, and one man has applied for the postmastership.

BEACH FIREBUG STRIKES AGAIN

Fear Spreads in Hamilton Suburb as 2 More Houses Burn.

SUSPECT SEEN.

HAMILTON, February 3. — Terror gripped Beach residents again last night when two more summer homes were destroyed by fire of unknwn origin, and it is believed that a firebug is at work on the sand strip.

Fifteen houses have been razed by fire on the Beach since last October. Three homes were burned last Sunday night, not far from where last night's blaze occurred.

The homes destroyed last night were located on North Park Avenue ta Station 9, and were owned by W H. Gayfer of this city and Dr G C. Leach, 409 King Street East.

Firemen from Hamilton responded to the blaze. The damage was estimated to have been close to $7,000, as both houses were filled with furniture.

There were reports that an unknown man was seen running from one of the houses before the fire was first seen, shortly after 9 o'clock. With a sharp wind blowing in from the bay, the flames spread quickly, and the houses being of frame construction burned furiously. In no time the flames spread from the first home to the second, but the firemen prevented the flames setting fire to other nearby dwellings.

Beach residents state that many jobless men have been trekking across the Beach and numbers of these, it is said, have broken into unoccupied houses to get shelter for the night. Residents, however, believe that a deliberate incendiary is at large, and permanent residents there were terrified last night.

BUSHMAN GIVEN $3,000 DAMAGES

Former Film Star Expresses Disapopintment at London Verdict.

JURY OUT 9 HOURS.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 3.—Having disagreed on the question of whether Francis X. Bushman's chauffeur was in part responsible, a jury at the Middlesex Assizes took nine hours and a half yesterday afternoon and last night to reach a verdict awarding $3,000 and costs to the former movie actor.

He sued Albert E. Hamilton of Windsor for $10,000, claiming permanent injuries from a crash between his car and Hamilton's on a curve four miles west of Wardsville in December, 1931.

The jury inserted the comment, "In our opinion the driver of the Bushman car might have exercised more care in speed, owing to foggy weather conditions." On Hamilton's counter claim for damage to his own car they awarded "nil."

Bushman was disappointed in the finding, saying that in the United States such injuries would have been assessed at many times the verdict.

He left for New York this morning.

Swedish Prince Is Fine Talker

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 3 (C.P.)—Prince William of Sweden, and lecturer, now appears in the Swedish picture houses in short "movie talks," and has gained considerable popularity.

The Prince, who is a great lover of the wild and virgin parts of Sweden, made his first appearance on the screen in a film sketch from one of the beautiful and lonely Lappland lakes entitled "While the boat glides." His next talkie was called "From the farthest skerries" and was inspired by a stay at a distant pilot station in the Baltic. He has now completed another sketch which he calls "An Old Homestead." During his long rambles in the picturesque Kolmaarden district in Central Sweden he discovered a country seat several centuries old. It was beautifully situated, surrounded by towering forest-clad hills and deep woods encircling a glittering lake and ancient legends and tales about its former occupants are still told amongst the people of the district.

The Prince eloquently describes what he has seen and heard and displays a singular knack of catching and rendering his inmost spirit of the Swedish nature and of the provincial people.

In Norse mythology, Gladheim was the dwelling place of Odin, the largest and noblest of edifices.

City Solicitor Estimates Cost of Private Bill as $250.

That the government pass legislation enabling the owner of a house to pay arrears of taxes in work for the municipality was the substance of a resolution from the city council of Ottawa which was endorsed by the Finance Committee last nigh on Alderman Tuggey's motion, seconded by Alderman Holland.

The position of the unemployed home owner whose thrift and industry in other years are now penalizing him by excluding him from direct relief was regarded as precarious by the Ottawa proposal. He cannot get work, and his property is more or less a barrier to his receiving relief.

"Something should be done for the home owner," Ald. Tuggey said. "The council should back up this resolution."

Mayor Denne—If the worst came to the worst he couldn't pay his taxes.

Ald. Holland—I think it is wise to encourage the man who owns his own home.

Ald. Cotton—We have always prided ourselves that Peterborough was a city of home owners.

Ald. Fitzpatrick—If there are two houses side by side, and one man owns his while the other is a tenant, you notice that the first one is helping to pay for the other.

Ald. Stocker—If we approve it we would strengthen the Government's hand.

Ald. Tuggey—Where could any employment be found?

Ald. Holland—We are fortunate that not much property has had to be taken over by the city. The more the city acquires the worse it would be for us.

Mayor Denne said he didn't know where extra work could be found if the proposed legislation were passed. He suggested that it might be left with the Government as there had been reports that this problem was to be discussed.

As an indication of the seriousness of the situation Ald. Stocker pointed out that $4,000 had been distributed here in direct relief last week. The motion was adopted.

Ald. Tuggey was informed that the Utilities Commission was required to transfer to the city treasury the surplus of $3,174.69 "which had been collected from consumers."

Cost of Legislation

The cost of the city's private bill which asks that an alderman with still a year ahead of him in the council be required to resign in order that he may become a mayoralty candidate was estimated at $350 by City Solicitor Corkery in reply to Ald. Tuggey's question.

Ald. Tuggey—I think it is a waste of money in times like these.

Ald. McIntyre—I supported the by-law in council, but didn't think it would cost that much. I can't see anything to it.

Ald. McNabb—Two citizens have spoken to me about the bill. They thought the idea was right, but they questioned the advisability of spending the money now.

Ald. Fitzpatrick—The legislation wouldn't cost any less no matter when it was brought up.

Ald. Tuggey—I'd drop it under present conditions, and I think the taxpayers would appreciate it very much.

Mayor Denne—I think differently, but you can bring it up in Council Monday night.

The by-law which was passed at the January meeting of the council proposed that the resignation of an alderman intending to enter a mayoralty contest at the end of the first of his two years should submit his resignation not later than December 23.

Ald. Corkery asked the committee for their opinion as to whether any provision should be made for a mayoralty election at any time during the year.

"Supposing there was an election next month," Mr. Corkery explained, "according to this proposed amendment an alderman who had served one year would have to resign from the council if he wanted to be a candidate for the mayoralty, but one of the new members would not have to resign."

Ald. Macdonald, chairman of the Finance Committee, remarked that this question was outside the field of the committee, and should be dealt with by the Legal Committee.

"I thought I would just mention the point now when the subject was under discussion," Mr. Corkery said.

The draft of the city's bill must be forwarded to the committee of the Legislature not later than Monday. The suggested change will be submitted to the council at the regular meeting Monday night.

Representative Fish Criticizes Methods of U. S. Reconstruction Finance Corp.

BORROWERS BANKRUPT.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A demand that Rudolph S. Hecht resign as chairman of an advisory committee of the Reconstruction Corporation was coupled yesterday by Representative Fish, New York Republican, with an urgent appeal for a general investigation of businesses which have gone into receiverships after obtaining financial aid from the United States Government agency.

Fish said the facts "disclose a rotten mess that should and must have the searchlight of full publicity cast into every official transaction."

The New Yorker said the Union Indemnity Company of New Orleans and the Union Guarantee Title Company, its affiliate, received loans "amounting approximately to $4,000,000."

"The last loan, amounting to $970,000, was made on Dec. 28, 1932, and the Union Indemnity Company failed on Jan. 6, 1933, and the Union Guarantee Title Company on Jan. 7, 1933," Fish's statement said, adding:

"The records disolose the fact that Mr. Rudolph S. Hecht was chairman on the Advisory Committee for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at New Orleans, to pass on the loans and collateral for the loans.

"It appears that the same Mr. Hecht is a director of the Union Indemnity Company, which failed shortly after receiving a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

GREAT PROGRESS MADE IN CHEESE FACTORIES IN PAST SEVEN YEARS

Geo. H. Barr Urges Need of Cheese Patrons' Association at Massed Gathering.

AT WOODLANDS FACTORY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — "The cheese factories of Ontario were never in such a fine condition as they were in 1932. At present they are a credit to the makers and the community and shows what has been done during the past six years" declared George H. Barr, director of dairying in the Ontario government, speaking yesterday at Woodlands cheese factory patrons of that section and from the Trent Bridge, Seymour West and I.X.L. factories. The meeting was called and presided over by George Van-Volkenburg, first president of the Northumberland County Cheese Factory Patrons' Association, to put before the patrons of the four factories the principle of the association in an endeavour to link all factories in the Campbelford group up with this body.

The speaker, stressing the wonderful progress that had been made in the past few years in the cheese industry, especially in regard to the cleanliness and beautification of factories, pointed out that Ontario never made such good cheese as it did in 1932, the average of first grades being 96.38 per cent. This is a record that is hard to excell and he attributed it to two factors; the wonderful co-operation given the makers by patrons in delivering good sweet clean milk to the factories, and in the high standard of cheesemakers now operating in the province.

"Seven years ago Mr. Barr said, he was told that it was impossible to get special grades east of Kingston and yet in 1932 the champion group for the whole province was in Grenville County." Not one of the four factories represented at the meeting he declared were under 96 per cent., while Woodlands itself only had four pick-outs for the whole season. Moreover Northumberland County had the highest scoring factory in the province, four shipments from which stood at 95 per cent.

Of the amalgamation of the cheesemakers into associations and the co-operation and mutual assistance they render each other and the profession by this means, he stated that they had done more than any other organization during the past fifteen years to improve the quality of cheese in the province. "I wonder, Mr. Barr stated, if we cannot get a great improvement in the milk by the patrons getting together in this fashion and discussing their problems."

Field for Improvement

There was a great field for the improvement of milk by the patrons getting together he pointed out, for many problems were facing them to-day. It was a big job of course, with 20,000 of them in Ontario, but the start had already been made with the formation of two county organizations, in Glengary and Prescott and the commencement of one in Northumberland. These were wise moves for each had its own problems and would have to deal with them separately. The cost of running such an organization was also very small, in the case of Northumberland County only one half a cent per thousand pounds of milk per patron.

Ad there were many conditions that could be looked into and altered after organization, the speaker pointed out; among which was the selling of cheese. In the Campbellford district this was not so serious for the price of cheese was governed by the Belleville Board, but if this was not the case, other systems would have to be employed. Under the present manufacturing conditions, milk not only belonged to the producer up to the door of the factory, but also until the cheese was sold. This was one end of the busines sthe farmer had neglected.

Then there were the questions of the best time to sell cheese; the proper finish for cheese; the branding of cheese; the wholesale purchasing of salt and cans, and elimination of freight routes; all of which were the patrons' problems and should be looked into and handled by him. "If you were as busy trying to stop these little leaks as some men are trying to raise the price of cheese you would be doing more effective work," he declared. It was also a serious matter, the hiring of a maker who was not a good one, he said, and sometimes more was lost in undergrade cheese than saved on the marker's salary.

Mr. Barr also stressed the necessity of increased milk production, pointing out that the government now had a plan on foot to assist farmers in her improvement by the purchase of better cows or the buying of good bulls or bull calves.

John A. Murray, Campbellford group cheese instructor, opened the meeting with a short address, stressing the need of a patrons' association and urging that all patrons give the matter serious though and attention.

Much discussion followed the address of Mr. Barr, many questions being put to him relative to the milk situation, and the need and probable success of an organization. All factories will call meetings of their own and put the matter before the patrons for their action.

IF MOVEMENT IS NOT COMMUNISM

the Government and Liberal opposition. "It is an issue even throughout the world and will be an issue in the next general election in Canada." Mr. Irvine stated. Why were Liberals so quiet in the debate? he asked.

Some of the purposes of the Co-operative Comonwealth Federation were public ownership in place of private ownership, co-operation in place of competition, recognition of the priority of human beings over property rights, and international peace.

First Principle "Planning"

The first principle of the Co-operative Commonwealth would be "planning." Mr. Irvine said. Then would follow "nationalization or socialization of natural resources." Mr. Irvine instanced the water-powers of the St. Lawrence River. No person, he believed, would favor handing over such potential power to a private corporation to which the people would be called to pay tribute for generations to come.

"We propose to take such resources over for the use of the people" declared Mr. Irvine.

Launched Strong Attack

Finding some of the metaphors employed by Mr. Garland (Bow River) to illustrate the present condition of the Capitalist system somewhat confused, J. Earl Lawson (Cons., West York) launched a strong attack on the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Supporters of the Co-operative Commonwealth had reiterated that capitalism was on trial. What was capitalism, asked Mr. Lawson, but an economic system permitted in a democratic country by the will of a substantial number of its people. Not capitalism but democracy was on trial. And the issue was: Should democracy in the future be permitted to express the will of the people through constitutional methods, or should the people of Canada be controlled by state operation?

"Shall we lose our individualism, and be controlled in our every action?" asked Mr. Lawson.

The ultimate object of the C.C.F. was to set up in this country complete state control.

Is Communism.

Analyzing the principles of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, Mr. Lawson said, he was justified in coming to the conclusion that "Co-operative Commonwealth is Communism—without bloody revolution, if you will, but Communism just the same."

"Absolute rubbish," ejacu'ated Mr. Garland.

If anyone in the House or in his constituency wanted to know where he stood, Mr. Lawson continued, he would enlighten them to this point, that he is for capitalism as an economic system as against Communism of the Co-operative Commonwealth.

All the discussion by U.F.A. members of the new movement in the course of the debate had consisted of a diatribe against capitalism, G. R. Geary (Cons., Toronto South) declared.

For the intent of the Co-operative Commonwealth movement, he had to look elsewhere. "And," Col Geary continued, "everything I find shows it is part of the program of Communism which was brought into being in Russia."

Creamery butter production in Nova Scotia during 1932 totalled 5,968,600 pounds, the highest in the history of the province.

MACDONALD WILL HEAD WORLD ECONOMIC PARLEY

LONDON, Feb. 3. — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has accepted an invitation extended by the League of Nations to preside over the projected world economic conference on the understanding that it will be held in London.

This decision would seem to block a proposal to shift the conference to Washington and retain Mr. MacDonald as chairman.

Who's Who in Ottawa

By CHARLES ROSS, Jr.

RIGHT HON. ARTHUR MEIGHAN
Conservative Leader in the Senate.

There's many a man behind the plow up in Blanchard township, Perth County, Ont., who will stop his work at almost any hour of the day and tell you about "Art." They went to school with him, "way back when," and not so far back either, and you'll get a good many stories of boyhood pranks and early friendships. Their former school fellow has gone far, farther than any of them. The bare recital of his achievements in 59 short years is as impressive as most full-length biographies of the Great. Elected from Portage le Prairie (where he prospered as favorite son after his trek west in 1898), re-elected 1911, 1913, 1917, 1922, 1925, defeated only twice, solicitor-general 1913, secretary of state and minister of mines, 1917, imperial war cabinet 1918, prime minister and secretary for internal affairs 1920-21, member privy council 1920, prime minister again in 1926, elected to senate of Canada 1932. He is the same age as Mr. Mackenzie King, but it isn't on record that this is a matter of personal pride. As a Conservative with a life long record on this side of politics he is often surprisingly liberal in his beliefs. This has helped him not infrequently in his duties as first Conservative in the senate. In introducing the measure calculated to help the country out of the railway impasse he remarked with open candidness that almost all clauses were open to criticism and invited as many amendments as the hon. members thought advisable. In this he seems to make an almost perfect foil for his leader in politics. He has lived long enough and seen life in all its manifestations to such a degree he will tell you that he no longer believes any human product can possibly be perfect. He has always wanted to be successful, but yearly finds success more difficult to define.

EBENEZER COUPLE ARE 25 YEARS WED

200 Friends and Relatives Gather at Home of Mr. and Mrs. William Finnie.

CAVAN, Feb. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—A very interesting event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Finnie of Ebenezer recently, when about two hundred friends and relatives gathered to celebrate with them the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

A. Veals of Franklin was chairman for a delightful program, consisting of an address by the Rev. J. E. Whithame, selections by Bethany Male Quartet, songs by Messrs. Tom McCamus and Clare Winslow, solos by Mrs. A. B. Kennedy and Miss Gracie Gillis, recitation by Miss Gledda Veals and speeches by Messrs. Robert McCamus, Donald Lowes, L. H. Winslow, A. B. Kennedy, William White, John Clarke, and Nelson Hall of Lindsay.

At the conclusion of the program Mr. Bruce Sharpe read an address of congratulation and best wishes and on behalf of those present, presented them with a cabinet of Community Plate silverware in the Danville pattern, a silver casseroie and other articles, also a silver vase from the W.A. of Ebenezer Church.

Mr. Finnie responded in fitting manner, thanking their friends on behalf of his wife and himself.

A sumptuous lunch was served. The bridal table was decorated in green and white, with two silver vases of carnations and centred by a beautiful three-story wedding cake. Seated at the table were the bride and groom of twenty-five years, Mr. and Mrs. William Finnie, Mr. and Mrs. Finnie of Fleetwood, Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam White and the Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Whithame. Mrs. Finnie was becomingly gowned in black silk canton crepe and wore carnations.

200,000 JOBS BEING LINED UP BY ROOSEVELT

President-elect Plans Gigantic Experiment in Tennessee Valley.

START FOR BIGGER THINGS.

Includes Reforestation, Reclamation Water Power and Agricultural Rehabilitation.

WARM SPRINGS, Ra., Feb. 3. — A gigantic experiment designed to provide 200,000 jobs and herald the birth of a new America from which the curse of unemployment would be lifted, was proposed to-day by President-elect Franklin Roosevelt.

The rugged highlands and the fertile industrial valley of the Tennessee watershed, were chosen by the next president for this "most interesting experiment a government has ever undertaken."

He told newspapermen to-day of his dream for a vast internal development encompassing reforestation, reclamation, water power and agricultural rehabilitation. The aim is to balance the population anew between cities and the country.

Mr. Roosevelt expects this huge laboratory experiment to provide employment for 200,000 men in the Tennessee valley alone.

More than this, he hopes to carry the scheme into other sections of the nation and through it to re-establish American life on a new basis—a people protected by the watchful eye of a government.

Roosevelt's Scheme

1—Reforestation.

2—Creation of flood control basins in the upper valleys..

3—Water power development to be available for cities, states, and farm homes.

7—Eventual improvement of navigation.

Norwood Church Y.W.A. Meeting

NORWOOD, Feb. 3. (Examiner Correspondence).—Miss Mary Roxburgh was the hostess to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Y.W.A. on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. J. Rogers occupied the chair. The Scripture lesson was read by Laura Cuthbertson. A reading from the Glad Tidings on Japan was read by Margaret Burgess. Ruth Wildman gave a very interesting topic on the "Ukrainian People" from the study book "The Seven Seas of Service." Mrs. Rogers then favoured the society with a very delightful solo.

A lovely lunch was served and a social half hour was spent at the close of the meeting.

LICENSE MARKERS.

The Ontario Department of Highways has extended the time limit for the purchase of new automobile licenses to February 15th, a concession that may be justified in view of the economic conditions, although it is probable that the new date will find nearly as many people using old markers and a rush to secure licenses when the police begin to put on the pressure.

There is no reason why this condition should prevail at the beginning of each year; nor why any motorist should be allowed to drive his car with old markers after the end of the calendar year.

The markers are manufactured early each year; they could be put on sale well in advance of the time for procuring new licenses, and if the people were given to understand that they must have the new markets by January 1st, it is safe to say that the majority of them would comply with the law.

As it is now they are satisfied to drift along well into the new year, and they never really get interested in the license question until they notice the man in blue on the beat casting a critical eye at the old plates; then there is a scramble on the part of all concerned to obtain licenses that should have been bought a month before.

CUTTING DOWN THE CABINET.

From the Montreal Gazette comes a vigorous demand that the Federal Government should do something effective in the direction of cutting governmental overhead by reducing the size of the Cabinet.

The Montreal paper selects the Departments of Railways, Labor, and the Interior as three that have outgrown their usefulness and might well be dispensed with, and there are a good many people who will agree with that opinion as well as with the further contention that there is a very considerable number of branches and bureaus that could be suspended for the time being at least.

There is a great deal of truth in the arguments used by the Gazette.

In regard to the railways there seems little necessity for a Department of Railways, inasmuch as the chief relationship between the Government and the Canadian National Railways' management is in the field of finances, and therefore could be carried on by the Minister of Finance, while the Canal end of the department's work might well be taken over by the Public Works Department.

Organized labor might find fault with doing away with the Labor Department, but, as the Gazette puts it, "the Department of Labor never did justify its existence, and its abolition now as a means of saving some money to the taxpayers would be justified by the saving alone."

As for the Department of the Interior, its chief usefulness departed with the handing over of their natural resources to the Prairie Provinces.

It will be necessary for the Federal Government to vigorously cut down expenditures, ahd a lopping off of some of the Cabinet members is one way of accomplishing that result.

THE COST OF GOVERNMENT.

While the per capita cost of federal government for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1932, increased as compared with the previous year, the rate of increase was much less than recorded in 1930, according to the Citizens Research Institute, which has just published a bulletin on the subject.

The figures given by the institute show that the per capita cost for 1932-32 was $41.74, as compared with $40.14 in 1930-31 and $37.21 in 1929-30.

The rate of increase, howeve r, was 3.98 per cent., as against a 7.9 per cent. increase in 1930-31 over 1929-30.

When the deficits on the publicly-owned trading operations, that is the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and the Canadian National Steamships, are added, and after making allowance for interest on Government advances to these trading operations, which interest has already been included in governmental expenditures, the per capita cost of federal government for 1931-32 was $47.11, compared with $43.40 in 1930-31, $38.44 in 1929-30 and $46.87 in 1921-22.

In view of the attention now being given to the railway problem, it is interesting to note that the institute reports that $91,013,494 had to be supplied by the Canadian people to meet 1931 deficits on nationally-owned trading operations, or about $1,750,000 per week throughout the year.

"While the current year gives indication of a slight lessening of the burden through reduction of expenditures," says the institute, "it is clear that in the solution of the Canadian railway problem lies the greatest possible single avenue of relief from taxation in the Dominion field."

JUST WASTING TIME.

It is difficult to conceive of a greater waste of time in the transaction of public business than was witnessed on the re-opening of Parliament when the Commons heard a proposal to establish a system of bilingual currency in Canada debated, upon the initiative of a Quebec Liberal member.

Ever since Confederation this country has got along without stamping its coins and printing its notes in French as well as in English, and there is nothing in record to show that anybody suffered because the two languages were not used.

Through prosperous periods and lean years as well the Dominion's currency appeared only in English, and nobody seemed to find anything out of order in that condition.

Now, however, with Canada facing the most serious economic emergency in her history, with a most critical railway problem to be solved, with new pension machinery needed, with an unheard of amount of unemployment to be dealt with and a dozen other major problems demanding attention, along comes a member with the suggestion that the Dominion should go to the trouble and heavy expense of issuing its money in French as well as in English.

There have been sessions when conditions in the country were prosperous when some time might have been spared for the discussion of such a subject, but in this most momentuous meeting of Parliament there is not the slightest justification for pressing for a change of that nature.

ONE THING ACHIEVED AT OTTAWA.

While the Ottawa conference last week concluded its sittings, leaving many matters just as they had been before, it is evident that some real progress was made in the direction of unifying companies law. One of the greatest troubles in the way of the prevention of fraud in this country has been the differences that exist in the company laws of the various provinces and the Dominion. While greater uniformity or for that matter, complete uniformity will not make fraud in the sale of securities impossible, any more than any other legislation can, it will make the road of the crooked promoter more difficult.

It was unfortunate that the conference did not manage to make more important progress on other matters such as relief unemployment insurance or whatever the new procedure is to be called. It was not to be expected that final results on such a subject as this could have been attained on such short notice. As far as unemployment insurance is concerned it has been pointed out previously in these columns that the present was possibly the worst time to begin such a scheme, but as has also been indicated, that does not mean that the whole field should not be explored in a most exhaustive manner.

Then there is the whole subject of jurisdiction and a possible reduction in the number of legislatures in the Dominion. The present situation is not one which encourages governments to stand upon their dignity at the expense of the taxpayer.

However, the fact that the conference will meet again gives ground for hope that eventually some of the matters which at present are the cause of much difficulty will be ironed out.—Monetary Times.

MONEY? BUT IT IS NO GOOD.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., made an address in Kitchener on Sunday afternoon in which she said she was not in favor of a revolution of any kind. A revolution was so apt to get out of hand and leave conditions worse than before the revolt took place. We are pleased to hear that Miss Agnes is dead set against bloodshed.

Miss MacPhail is certain there is a solution for the present trouble. All we have to do is issue more paper money through a central bank. This would be very easily done. Plates are already in existence, possibly there is a good supply of bill paper on hand, so actually a few pressmen working full time could settle the whole business in a hurry.

If that is the cure for the depression in Canada, then it must be the cure for the depression elsewhere. If other nations did the same thing there would be good times inside a week or ten days. It strikes us that the people of the world must be rather stupid to have wandered around in the fog so long when the cure rested all the time in the hands of a few engravers and pressmen.

Then it was that we thought of some paper money which came into our possession in Berlin three years or so ago. One of the bills was marked this way across the side in nice big letters "20 Milliarden Mark." Just what that meant we did not know exactly, and so we called our fellow-citizen, Alfred Hahn. He said he would come into the office. He did, and with him he had a great assortment of German paper money which he secured while visiting in Germany in 1929.

Well, to get started on our big bill, Mr. Hahn said that a milliarden meant a thousand million. From that we went ahead and figured this one bill was worth in our money something close to five billion dollars. If it were worth face value we could pay off the national debt of Canada. Mr. Hahn also had millions of dollars in his pocket book. Our resources, if pooled, would have made a formidable heap of money—IF—it had been any good.

That is where the trouble came in. We secured this large bill from a gentleman in the foreign department of the German Government. He said it was worth taking away as a curio, but that it was really worth nothing at all. Before this great bill had been utterly discredited we were told by this gentleman that the 20 milliarden mark piece of paper might have been good enough at one time to purchase a pound of butter. It had finally lost what standing it had.

It may be that if we went in for printing more money we would be a great deal more sensible than were the Germans. We could make just enough so that every sugar bowl receptacle in the country could be nicely filled. It would also make work for some people going around and giving the money out in little bundles. We are certain the individual who attended to the work of distribution could make himself so popular that he could run for any office within the gift of the municipality and be elected.

It is a nice idea—get out of hard times by the simple expedient of printing more money. Its very simplicity is its chief objection.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The C.C.F. campaign in the House is already well under way. It will prove one of the features of the balance of the session.

Mr. Woodsworth declares that the C.C.F. has no connection with Moscow, and everybody will accept that statement. But is it not a fact that every Communist in Canada is giving the movement support?

The Relief Fund campaign has not yet attained 50 per cent. of its objective. However, many citizens who are fortunate enough to be able to help will undoubtedly come to the aid of the fund in the near future.

The bear certainly did not see his shadow yesterday, so that those who believe in the old legend are doubtless happy in the thought that there will be little more winter. At that, the snow-shovel should be kept in a convenient place.

Efforts are being made to keep Peter Veregin, the Doukhobor leader, in Canada. Most Canadians will hope that the attempt proves unsuccessful.

Either farm prices will have to be raised or burdens on farmers will have to be reduced. There are no other alternatives.—Toronto Globe.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 33

After attending to the identification, Kane took the girl back to Nanette. The actress met them at the door and read in his expression the truth. Dorotha said nothing, but went straight to her room and locked the door.

It was then that Kane, for the first time, saw Rodolf Holmes. They shook hands and Kane started to leave when Nanette stopped him.

"Please don't go," she said. "We want to talk to you."

He sat down. Holmes sat opposite him on the divan; Nanette took a place beside him. Kane was thankful for this arrangement; he could see both of them, could study them as they talked without obviously doing so.

Holmes said, "Nanette told me about your talk to her this morning."

Kane said nothing, just waited for them to continue the conversation.

Nanette smiled. "We are going to be married," she said, "at once."

The amateur detective sprang to his feet, voicing congratulations. He started once more to leave, declaring that they probably wanted to make plans for the wedding, but they detained him. Reluctantly, he resumed his seat.

There was much he wanted to do. He wanted to get away from here. He wanted to wind up this case. He wanted to accomplish what he set out to do.

There were others he wanted to talk to. There was much he had to learn. On that long ride back from the morgue he had been forced to discard his theory about the murder of Richard Bailey. Under quiet questioning Dorotha had explained that her sister, Evelyn, had been known as Buddy.

Was she the "Buddy," then, to whom the director had referred to in his diary? If she was had she killed Bailey and then in turn been snared into a death trap herself? If that was the truth he had two killers to hunt. If it wasn't the truth, and there was another "Buddy," he must go on with the hunt.

Too, he was still troubled over where he had seen Dorotha Deane before. He knew that he had seen her somewhere, but where? He wracked his brain trying to solve that problem, but to no avail.

Holmes said, "We want your advice, Kane."

"If it would be of any value to you," he assented with humility.

Nanette explained that she wanted to go to the police and explain her part in Richard Bailey's life. She wanted to tell, she said, of her last meeting with him.

Kane thought over that for a moment, then:

"Sit tight and don't do anything until you hear from me," he said quickly. "It might not be necessary."

And with that he managed to break away from them. It was as he strolled leisurely down toward the business section of Beverly Hills that he remembered that Richard Bailey's funeral was to be held this afternoon. Hastily, he consulted his watch. It was well after twelve and the services were set for two.

He had planned to take the traction line into Los Angeles but he changed his mind. Instead, he found a taxicab and motored back to the hotel. As he passed through the lobby he glanced into the dining room. It made him hungry and he decided to lunch.

It was one-thirty when he left the dining room. He had planned to change clothes, but there was no time for that now. The services were scheduled for the Little Church of the Flower in Glendale and it was a good fifteen miles out there. Outside, he leaped into a taxicab and directed the driver to his destination.

The services were already in progress when he arrived at the church. He slipped into a rear seat and, curiously, glanced about. There were few to pay their last respects to the dead. Rodolf Holmes and Nanette LeRoi were in the second pew. Across the aisle were Larry Weldon and Lucy Wilbur. Dorotha Deane sat immediately behind them.

The funeral was a simple one. The minister spoke a few brief words, uttered a prayer and then led the cortege from the church to the grave. Kane slipped outside when the service was over and fell in at the rear of the procession. He had remained out of sight and the five in whom he was interested passed without noticing him.

At the grave not far away the little crowd gathered about the grave where he could look over the heads of those in front of him and see what was going on. Nanette and Rodolf were standing on the opposite side of the grave from Lucy, Weldon and Dorotha.

Nanette stared coldly, impassionately, as Bailey's body was lowered into the grave. Holmes seemed uneasy. His eyes shifted nervously. Kane saw his hands clenching and unclenching.

Lucy Wilbur watched with fixed gaze the last rites over all that remained mortal of Richard Bailey. She seemed fascinated by the huge bronze casket. She could not take her eyes from it.

The minister intoned:

"To thy Maker I thee now consign. Dust thou art and to dust thou shalt return—"

Lucy started and shot a quick glance about. She turned ashen. Her lips twitched nervously and her body trembled. Kane saw Dorotha watching her with accusing eyes.

When the services were ended and the mourners were ready to leave the grave Kane slipped away before he had been seen; or at least, before he thought he was seen. Lucy had caught a glimpse of him but gave no sign of recognition.

Down in a hollow before the necrological park he saw a trolley line and made for the tiny station. A few minutes later he was riding back into the city on one of the big red traction cars. The click of the wheels on the rails beat a steady tattoo that set him into deep concentration.

He wondered if the murderer of Richard Bailey had been in that little group which gathered about the grave to bid him farewell to this earth. If she was what torture it must have been to have been forced to listen to the words of the minister, as, in his kindly voice, he condemned those who took life with the ominous pronouncement:

"For it is written that he who takes the life of one of God's creatures shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven but shall be damned to an everlasting life of punishment."

If Jere Kane could have seen the little drama enacted at the little mound of freshly turned earth after he had left he might have had cause to ponder more deeply; he would have been more confused than ever.

But, fortunately, he did not see it.

The grave was filled; Richard Bailey was gone forever from this life. Lucy Wilbur stood staring at the mound. Larry Weldon was at her side, his arm about her protectingly.

Opposite them stood Nanette and Rodolf Holmes, silently contemplative. Dorotha walked around the grave to their side. She murmured, "Nanette, you're standing in the presence of death. How can you go on hating as you do?"

Nanette looked at her, a cloud of puzzlement on her countenance. Dorotha nodded toward the other couple.

The enigmatic LeRoi dropped her eyes. She grew tense, cold. There was no color in her face; her lips were white and drawn. She was battling with herself; turmoil wracked her very soul.

Then, impetuously, she went to Lucy. They gazed at each other for a moment with moistened eyes. The men—and Dorotha—watched them, hoping, praying.

Lucy opened her arms and clasped Nanette to her bosom. "We both need each other," she whispered, "so much —now."

NOBLE DEEDS

Some of you have seen those famous gates in Florence which Michael Angelo declared fit for the gate in Paradise. They are covered with exquisite pictures and noble imagery in bronze. Now those gates were once gilded and Dante speaks of them as "golden gates"; but the centuries have worn away the gold—you can hardly discern a gleaming particle. Still, the splendid work of the great artist abides in the solid bronze, looking, perhaps, all the more impressive in its own severe, undecorated simplicity. So years rub away the gilt from us all; but inwrought graces, faithful work and noble deeds abide untouched by time and change; these the years cannot mar, they shine forth the more effectually as the fugitive superficial adorning ceases. —Ex.

THE ORANGE DRAW

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: On behalf of a committee which had arranged for a car to be drawn for at an Orange Benefit Dance last fall, and which had to be postponed indefinitely for reasons for which the committee themselves were not entirely to blame, may I be permitted to say to all those who purchased tickets for the above dance and draw, that every subscription is properly safeguarded, and it is hoped to have arrangements made whereby the draw will be held not later than Feb. 15th next. We are very sorry to have had to make the postponements, but we had no other alternative, and we wish to apologize to all our friends, and ask their indulgence for about two weeks. Yours truly,

Jno. R. Childerhose, Secretary Committee; S. B. Cummings, Chairman of Committee.

OF INTEREST TO TAXPAYERS

To The Editor Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I wish to draw attention to some matters in which all taxpayers of the City are interested regarding the City spending nearly $23,000.00 of relief money, which had not been reported by the City's auditor, and the City has now been compelled to return over $14,000.00 to the Government, because of spending this money not in accordance with Government regulations.

Members of the City Council knew last summer, that the paying of money to permanent employees of the City and charging it to relief was wrong and unlawful, and there is no need of some members of the City Council saying, that they did not know.

Some of the difficulties of the Council's work have been, that a number of them are so busy that they are not able to give all the time that they should to the City's affairs. Generally speaking they are men of good judgment, and have the City's interests at heart, but wastefulness of past Councils was such, that an inquiry should be instituted, to find out why this $22,000.00 was not reported by the auditor of the Council. There are a number of first-class accountants in this City, who could be put on the books to ascertain where money could be saved, in the City's expenditures.

I understand that last year the useless fight that was fought by the Mayor and some of the members of the Council against the Ackerman Company cost the City over $20,000.00, when the case could have been settled for approximately $5,000.00 at the beginning; and the City Trust out of its profits paid $20,000.00 over to the City and this was quietly used to satisfy the judgment and to re-construct the bridge, which should have been kept clean and open years before, particularly when an old institution like the Ackerman Company had been taxpayers for a great many years.

In addition to that it was necessary to employ two lawyers out of the City, so it was thought and these men were paid several hundred dollars a day, when there were half a dozen lawyers in town, who were equally capable of assisting the City solicitor and who were taxpayers.

Another matter that should be investigated is the William Hall Protestant Poor Trust and the Elmira Grover Foley Estate to see if the moneys could be more advantageously invested.

In addition to that there should be a full discussion of how the monies of the Peterborough Exhibition Board have been spent, as the City has paid thousands of dollars to the Exhibition Board, which has constructed buildings upon lands, which they do not own, but which have been generously given them to use by a public-spirited gentleman.

The City is interested in this institution vitally because of the large City grants that have been made to the Exhibition Board year after year and we are entitled to know what capital expenditures are made.

The Utilities Commission should have a review of its affairs openly to show why there was a $30,000.00 deficit in 1932 and what the travelling expenses have been of the officials of the Utilities Commission.

A short time ago a half dozen members of the City Council and two members of Parliament went to see the Honorable William Finlayson to ascertain if he could send some of our unemployed on relief work in the Northern camps. There was absolutely no need for this delegation, at the cost of the City, because Mr. Strickland, M.P.P. could have telephoned the Honorable Mr. Finlayson and obtained the same results for 75c which probably cost the City $75 and the men taken from the City would have been better employed repairing roads around the County and building culverts on public relief than being sent to a remote district, where the road will be seldom used except for wild animals to run up and down.

Toronto, London and Hamilton and other cities are having a strict financial review of their affairs, with the object of cutting down useless and wasteful expenditures and this is due Peterborough, at the present time, when we have found that no auditor's report has been made of the expenditures of over $22,000.00, which were improperly made by the City.

The suggestion in last night's notice to the Public, requesting contributions to the relief fund, was hardly correct, because Mr. Malcolm did not whitewash the City Council. He said that the relief work was well carried on and most people think it is, except that there should be a proper representation of women, who understand this business, on the committee, which would strengthen it very much.

Mr. Malcolm took the very lenient and kindly view that the unlawful payments of these monies, received from the Ontario Government, was done in ignorance. It is rather fortunate that he thought so.

The need of review at the present time of the City's finances, with a view of consolidating some of its services is necessary, because people are losing their homes day after day, by reason of their inability to pay their taxes and the result is that mortgages are being foreclosed and this is adding to the people, who will be on relief and the remedy is to see where money can be saved, not only by cutting off delegations to see the Imperial Conference delegates at Ottawa, but by consolidating services as far as possible in the City.

THAT STARTED THE ARGUMENT

"So, you didn't sell those people a vacum cleaner after all?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ask to see the head of the house?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well?"

"That simply started an argument."

"No; just the wife's mother."

"Did you get my check?"

"Yes, twice. Once from you and once from the bank."

Virile honesty is the outstanding characteristic in this signature. Its maker is not so much ambitious as naturally progressive—he takes the next apparent step because it is not in him to stand still, and because others in whom he inspires confidence thrust responsibility upon him. He has a minimum of self conceit and considers it simply in the scheme of things that the authority vest itself in him. Whatever turns up to be done he does well and carefully. He has an apperceptive type of mind, not so quick as it is sure and tenacious in its grasp. His judgment is wel balanced and practical. WHAT'S OUR JOB?

I LEAVE THE officce in which this is written and walk the city streets until I come to an old square where there are fine old trees, and where there is a little memorial in the name of man who came our way in sickness and in poverty—but left us a heritage of courage and wisdom and kindly living. On my way to that square I would pass many of my fellows. I'd see ragged fellows and I'd see proud folk stepping out of limousines. I'd pass a woman with joy on her face. I'd meet many a sorrowful mortal. I'd pass two nuns walking gently with eyes on the ground. I'd note a haggard woman, pretty once, bedraggled now. I'd meet broken men and stalwart men who have never known defeat.

I'd see Fear and I'd see Courage. I'd see Petulance and I'd see Patience. I'd see corpulent Greed and joyous Humility. I'd be bumped by Arrogance, and sneaking Fear might pick my lean pocket.

A child would leave its mother and run dangerously across the street. A policeman would stop the traffic to help an old lady along her way....There'd be little of life I'd miss in the few short blocks that separate me from the green square where Robert Louis Stevenson is remembering in bronze and stone in our San Francisco.

And when I come to that green spot I shall stand and stare at a little bronze ship sailing valiantly with its sails spread wide on a small bronze sea, and it will remind me of that slender figure of a man who battled through such stormy seas of sickness and came at last to a quiet haven where Life was almost a friend of Death....And, standing there, I shall read a thought of his that is cut in stone:

"To be honest—to be kind—to earn a little—to spend a little less. To make upon the whole a family happier for his presence—to have a few friends and these without capitulation—above all, on the same grim conditions to remain friends with himself. Here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy."

And were all of us who pass and repass upon the city streets, thrusting and hurrying, joyous and grieving, to meet before this monument and read its message, there's not one of us that would not say, "That's true. That surely is our job."

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

WHEN PARLIAMENT WAS SHOCKED

ON THIS DATE, in 1916, a "back bencher" was addressing the House of Commons when a messenger rushed into the chamber shouting "Fire! Mr. Speaker, the building is on fire!" The orator ceased; there was a wild rush to the doors; the narrow corridors filled with a milling crowd; the newspaper reporters slid down their little stairway from their gallery above the Speaker's chair and joined the others. Some of the members made a rush to their rooms; some of the reporters dashed off to their room at the east block (which was not so very badly damaged in the end); but there was no time to save anything.

Outside was the only safe place; and what a spectacle those outside, soon increased by practically the whole population of Ottawa as the word "The Buildings are on fire!" swept through the city, saw. The great pile, Canada's pride since it was opened the year before Confederation, was a flaming furnace. The fire fighters did their best; but their best was not good enough. The great block was doomed and within a few hours was nothing but a complete wreck. Only the wonderful library and part of the press room escaped. Everything else, Senate, House of Commons, offices, committee rooms, were all gone with their contents. It was a staggering blow.

No one knows to this day how the fire started. It began in the reading room of the Commons; there were excited stories of an enemy plot, which were discredited by the investigators. Among old timers the theory is that some careless one threw a half burned cigarette into a corner and that it started a blaze soon fed by the inflammable newspapers all round. Two lives were lost, those of B. B. Law, M.P., for Yarmouth, N.S., who was in his room upstairs and was suffocated; the other F. B. R. Laplante, the veteran clerk assistant, who rushed to his room to save something precious, only to fall, how no one knows.

Ottawa of to-day regards the fire as a blessing in disguise since a better and more beautiful building as replaced the first. It may be; but it will never have the same fascination for me as the old building in which I worked for so many years, the building through which marched the ghosts of the Fathers, the building which had seen the funeral of John A., the building with all its associations. It could never be replaced!

CASE OVER DOG HEARD IN COURT

Dog Refused to Hunt Raccoons New Owner Declares.

PLAINTIFF WINS CASE.

A most unusual case occupied the major portion of the morning session of the Division Court Sittings before His Honor Judge Huycke today. An action was brought by Daniel Muskratte of Hiawatha against H. Sarginson of Peterborough, for $20.00, representing the price of a hound purchased by Sarginson from Muskratte.

The dog was sold for the purposes of hunting racoons, and Sarginson, after trying the dog out, stopped payment of the cheque given to the plaintiff, and as a result this action was brought.

Dog fanciers in the city, including Herbert Routley, gave evidence as to the disposition of dogs trained for hunting purposes. A test of a few days was not sufficient, according to some of the witnesses. A trained dog may hunt satisfactorily for its owner, and when turned over to a stranger it may not work satisfactorily, because different methods are employed by different hunters. According to Vernal Ferguson, who is an experienced hunter of racoons, it is difficult to guarantee dogs for hunting purposes. "A white man expects a dog to supply all the brains," stated Mr. Ferguson, "while an Indian helps the dog in working."

At the conclusion of the evidence, His Honor Judge Huycke delivered judgment in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $20.00 and costs.

A. L. Elliott appeared for the plaintiff, and J. A. O'Brien for the defendant, Sarginson.

STUBBS' TRIAL HALTS 2 WEEKS

Sticks to His Right to Charge Court Fees Through Hour's Questioning.

PREPARES FINAL PLEA.

By ERNEST BURRITT
(C. P. Staff Writer).

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3. (CP)—His voice shaken with emotion but severe with determination, Judge Lewis St. George Stubbs today told Mr. Justice Ford he would rather have done what he had and be reoved from the bench of the county court which he has occupied for the last 10 years than not to have done what he did and be allowed to remain.

Released from cross-examination before a commission investigating his judicial conduct, the wrinkled little judge said what he had done on the bench was only what he felt conscientiously impelled to do.

The judge's few brief remarks brought a temporary end to the inquiry into 14 charges of judicial misconduct brought against him by the Attorney-General of Manitoba, and a two week's adjournemnt was granted to enable him to prepare his final argument.

Throughout an hour's rapid questioning by commission counsel, Arthur Sullivan, K.C., on the accused judge's right to charge certain court fees, witness said he had based his right to collect the ones "on the custom and practice of the court."

He said he undoubtedly felt entitled to them or he would not have charged them.

STATION ROBBERS GET AWAY.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Feb. 3.—(C. P.)—No trace has been found of robbers who for the second time within a year robbed the safe of the British American Oil Company and obtained $50 in cash. The safe was "blown."

DUCHESS DIES

DAMPIERRE, France—The Dowager Duchess D'uzes, advocate of women's rights, died today.

O.A.C. Places Ban On Title Matches

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—(CP)—As far as the Ontario Athletic Commission is concerned there are no "champion" professional wrestlers and no wrestling bout in the province can be advertised as for a championship without special permission of the commission.

The commission also has decided, it was announced today, not to appoint judges for wrestling matches which does away with rendering of decisions in time-limit matches. If no falls are taken the match will be a draw.

The Commission stated it regarded all professional wrestling matches as exhibitions and entertainment rather than contests.

GOLD OUTPUT SET AT 50 MILLIONS

McCrea Prophesies Another Production Record for Ontario This Year.

NO COMPETITION.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—Hon. Chas. McCrea, Provincial Minister of Mines, in an address yesterday afternoon to members of the Hamilton Women's Conservative Association, emphasized the tremendous asset that Ontario's gold industry was to the national stability of Canada.

Gold production in Ontario's Northland, the Minister said, had made it possible for Canada to maintain its credit, its world prestige, and to meet its obligations. Without that huge production of the precious metal, he feared that the Canadian dollar would have fallen to the low value of 50 cents.

Last year Ontario produced gold worth $47,000,000, which was a record. This year, he predicted, the output would be $50,000,000, which would provide work, create purchasing power and give traffic to the railways. Gold, Mr. McCrea declared, was a remarkable safety-valve and was buttressing Canada as no other agency was able to do in this period of crisis.

Gold always was in demand, he said, and suffered from no competition.

Mr. McCrea said the basic industries of a country were the fundamentals of its prosperity, and he was confident that Canada's basic industries, such as mining, agriculture, lumbering, steel and iron, fisheries, etc., would respond to the first trend toward improved conditions.

He concluded by touching upon the railway problem, and said there was no doubt that some solution must be found, as the country could not bear the burden of such deficits. The business men of the country, he believed, desired that a reorganization be effected that would provide satisfactory service and economical management. Mr. McCrea was introduced by William Morrison, K.C., M.P.P. for Hamilton East.

SANDINO AGREES TO PEACE PACT

Hunted General of Nicaraguan Wars Enjoys Luxury of Sleep in Palace.

RETURNS TO MOUNTAINS.

By RICHARD E. FRIZZELL
(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 3. (AP)—A promise of peace after six years of revolt against the American-advised governments of Niacaragua was left behind to-day by the colorful general Augusto Sandino as he headed back to the mountain headquarters of his army.

The importance of his message was almost forgotten in the excitement caused by the sensational manner in which he delivered it. His visit was a complete surprise.

A plane from his northern jungle retreat arrived here yesterday with the commander, his father, and three political allies. With an automatic pistol swinging on his hip, he walked into the Presidential palace, sat down with President Juan Bautista Sacasa and made his pledge of peace.

Then the man who had hunted and been hunted by Nicaraguan native soldiers and United States marines since 1926 enjoyed the luxury particularly for him, of a night's sleep in the palace.

"Peace is now a fact. Nicaragua entered a new era when the last United States marines departed from our soil" he told this correspondent after his conference with the president and other government leaders.

Will Not Increase Street Lighting Rate

Street lighting rates will not be increased this year, Ald. McNabb told the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night, quoting G. S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, as his authority.

"We need not consider this item in the estimates is what Mr. Matthews informed me, because nothing is going to be done about it for this year," Ald. McNabb said.

The chairman proposed the annual inspection of the Fire Department in the near future and prior to the budget discussion, which will be started soon after next Monday's Council meeting.

BUYER PROVES BURGLAR.

SUDBURY.— Simon Leve, 20, was held up and robbed in his office, he told police to-day, by a stranger, who offered to sell some furs Leve declared the man asked if he would like to buy four weasels. Leve gave him a price and sent a companion. Harry Katchky, out to change some money. As soon as Katchky left, the bandit pulled a gun and relieved Leve of $32.

crashed their car into a police machine. Revolver fire played a major part in this encounter. The bandit car on this occasion was driven by Albert E. Dorland, and struck Detective Sergeant James Thomas, injuring his legs. William Toohey was arrested with Dorland. Later Ernest Bird, Hamilton, was taken into custody.

Companion North Bay Man

Girouard this afternoon told police his companion was James Clayton, of North Bay. He told police he had started for Vancouver and got as far as Edmonton, where he had remained for some time after which he came back to North Bay where he met Clayton. They came down to Toronto from North Bay last night, he declared.

F. J. Blanchfield was accountant of the Peterborough Branch of the Royal Bank when he was transferred just a year ago. He had been on the local staff for five years, and during his residence here married a Peterborough girl, Marie McCarthy, daughter of Mrs. M. A. McCarthy, Hunter street.

The Peterborough police department was notified by Chief Draper of Toronto late this afternoon to be on the lookout for the second robber, whose description was promptly broadcast.

BARKING OF DOG SAVES 30 LIVES

Smelling smoke, he ran into the hallway and was nearly overcome by fumes. He ran from suite to suite pounding on doors and then roused his wife and assisted her out into the street.

Numerous thrilling rescues were made as the firemen raised lofty ladders and carried people down from the third-storey balconies.

George Starley, his wife and two children, 18-months old Leo Alberts, whom they were minding, and George Galloway and their dog, were almost overlooked as they stood on their third-floor balcony at the rear of the building. Firemen, dragging ladders, rashed around to the pitch-black lane, put up their ladders, and finally carried the entire group to safety.

So far as could be ascertained, everyone in the building got out safely.

INSURANCE COMPANY PRESIDENTS FAVOR LENIENCY ON MORTGAGES

Willing to Cooperate to Fullest Extent to Enable Home Owner Retain Possession.

AVOID FORECLOSURES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. — (AP) — Presidents of six large United States insurance companies today defined their policies on mortgage foreclosuresof homes as involving as much leniency as possible.

L. E. Zacher, president of the Traveler's Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. said: "Our policy as to all mortgage loans is to cooperate to the fullest extent possible in aiding the homeowner to retain possession."

"The New York Life Insurance company," said Thomas A. Buckner, its president, "plans no change in its policy respecting mortgage loans whether on residences or other properties. Our policy is to deal with each case individually on its merit.

Action regarding Iowa farm loans was merely to suspend temporarily foreclosures in accordance with the request of the governor in his proclamation, pending consideration of the subject by the legislature."

$29,000,000,000 Involved

Total farm mortgages in America are estimated at about $9,000,000,000. Total mortgages on homes approximate $20,000,000,000, although no authoritative estimates are available.

Frederick H. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, said: "We announce no new policy regarding farm and city mortgages but continue our long established policy of extending utmost consideration and sympathetic co-operation to our borrowers."

"It is clear" said Edward D Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Company, "that the primary obligation of the Prudential is the protection of the funds entrusted to it by its policyholders

"Within the limits of this obligation, we will continue to exercize all possible leniency in the endeavor to provide for a continued home and farm ownership."

Use Every Consideration

John R. Hardin, president of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, said: "It has been and is the policy of this company to extend to mortgagors every possible consideration and to resort to foreclosure only when every other recourse is exhausted".

Walton L. Crocker, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, stated: "Our traditionally lenient policy and practice have been continued and even greatly liberalized during the existing crisis."

Curling Notes

Walter J. Oke who curled a brilliant shot that meant victory for Peterborough in the Ontario Tankard group play-offs here the other day will skip a rink tonight against one of the Lakefield club's district cup group winners.

H. F. Foote who was vice skip on Dr. N. H. Sutton's rink that also qualified to go to Toronto in the Tankard play-offs on Tuesday next, is to skip a rink against the second of the district cup group winners.

The two games are in the nature of a practice to get the four rinks into shape for the task that faces them in Toronto next week, in competition with other group winners from all-Ontario.

As if the curtailment of play caused by the mild weather, had not imposed enough hardship upon members of the curling fraternity here, it is learned that Herb. Martin the very efficient ice-maker has been summoned for jury service at the forthcoming sittings of the Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Mr. Justice Sedgewick who is to preside at the sittings of the Court, is himself a curler and a brother of J. H. Sedgewick, one of the most enthusiastic members of Peterborough Curling Club!

The draw for tonight's schedule games is as follows: Kay vs. Hall; Morrow vs. N. Hamley; Shirley vs. Westbrooke; Moore vs. Seymour; Davidson vs. L. I. Hamley.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3. — (C.P.) — Wheat prices held at levels practically unchanged from the previous close during early trading to-day. Apart from a little scattered buying by seaboard houses and some selling by Chicago interests, pit trade was entirely local and very mixed in character.

Values eased fractionally near mid-session, however, and each future stood ¼ cent lower with May at 46¾, July at 47 5-8 and Oct. at 48¾.

Early reports indicate only a small export business was worked in Canadian wheat overnight.

Liverpool wheat displayed an indifferent tone from the start and quotations shortly after mid-session were 1/8d to 1/4d lower per 100 pounds, while Buenos Aires wheat at noon was unchanged.

Wheat shipments from Australia for the week totalled slightly more than 5,000,000 bushels, while clearances from Argentina for the same period amounted to nearly 3,500,000 bushels.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, February 3 (C.P.). —Stocks were generally irregular in the late trading to-day, after having backed and filled during most of the earlier dealings. Heaviness in utilities persisted, and gold mining issues were firm. Delaware and Hudson rose a point and a half. Gains of major fractions were made by Borden. Eastman Kodak, Case, United States Steel Preferred, Interboro Rapid Transit, and Woolworth. American Telephone and General Motors were off fractionally. The turnover approximated 900,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (C.P.)—Trading continued this afternoon in heavy volume on the Standard Mining Exchange, but the price level was less buoyant and gains were on a moderate scale. The big goal shares closed with substantial gains.

A feature of the trading to-day was the manner in which Eldorado came to life, jumping about 15 points. It closed at 1.59, up 17. The action was said to have some connection with the progress of the radium extraction going on at the company's plant at Port Hope.

Among the gold leaders Lake Shore, McIntyre, Dome and Hollinger closed with gains ranging between 25 and 75, while Teck Hughes was up about 30 and Wright Hargreaves up about 10. Pioneer gained about 15 to 4.95. Among the cheaper shares Sylvanite made the best showing with a pick-up of 5 to 1.03, and Siscoe, Howey, and San Antonio followed with gains of a point or two.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (C.P.). — "Stronger and more active" described the Toronto Stock Exchange trading in the late afternoon. A feature was the strength of B.A. Oil, which was traded in large volume and scored a fractional advance to 7⅜.

The steadiness of the New York market infused a little confidence locally, and traders indulged in some light buying. C.P.R. recovered its morning loss, closing unchanged while Nickel finished down a fraction. Ford did a little better and Brazilian closed at 8 3-8, off ⅛.

International Pete was up to 11 and Imperial closed unchanged. In the utilities Montreal Power put on the best performance, recovering to 30, while Bell Telephone recovered its loss to close unchanged. Shawinigan also took a small loss.

They had emergency food supplies and snowshoes aboard.

The Hay family, old residents of Nome, were returning from Seattle and had taken the plane at Seward last Sunday.

DUE CONSIDERATION NOT GIVEN HUMAN ELEMENT BY TECHNOCRATS

Frank Kunst Addresses Members of the Local Kiwanis Club.

OUTLINES HISTORY.

While technocracy provided a possible solution to some of the present economic and social problems, by offering to stabilize and fix the unit of value, conclusions arrived at by Frank Kunst during the course of an address to members af the Kiwanis Club to-day noon, led him to believe that practical application of the theory was not probable in the immediate future. One of the chief failures of technocracy, as the speaker saw it, was the inability of the technocrats to give due consideration to the human element.

Mr. Kunst, an assistant engineer in the switchboard section of the engineering department of the Canadian General Electric Company, was introduced to the club by A. B. Gates. His address was closely followed throughout and at the conclusion, the speaker was tendered a vote of thanks on motion of J. R. Marshall.

The program was enlivened by the appearance of Charles Shaw, general manager of A. Wander Limited who has now established quite a reputation among his fellow club members as an entertainer of no mean ability. Carl S. Browne led the singing, the accompaniments being played by Martin B. Chenhall.

In the absence of President J. B. Nelson, who has been called out of town owing to the illness of his father, I. P. McNabb presided in his usual able manner.

Dealing with the beginning of technocracy, the speaker stated that a small group of engineers, scientists and economists were so impressed by the wholesale installation and application of labor-saving machinery during the World War that they had decided after the Armistice to study the effect of mechanization of industry upon the present economic system.

Proceeding with their study in a scientific manner, they began an "energy survey" of North America, under the direction of Howard Scott.

Energy was defined by the speaker as the capability of doing work. This survey, therefore, constituted an immense fact finding enterprise and involved the listing or setting down of all available energy units contained in the raw materials, equipment, transportation, industrial establishments, mines, forests, electric plants and oil wells, etc., concerned with the facts of production and distribution of wealth.

"Technocracy embodied a new approach to social phenomena and proceeded from a methodology of determination, and operated under a balanced load control of all functional sequences," said the speaker. These and other definitions were adequately dealt with by him in an analysis of the underlying thoughts and principles.

Primarily, he said, the theory of energy determinants concerned a method of reducing to a common denominator all types of energy, namely, mechanical, electrical, agricultural, human, etc. By this means it was intended to measure and socially produced commodity in terms of a certain number of energy units.

Technocracy implied the changing of the present terms of value measurement to a set of terms embodying energy measurement.

In order to give his audience a better understanding of what he meant, Mr. Kunst reviewed briefly and ably, the present social structure.

One of the conclusions he arrived at, was that gold was not a stable unit of value, although it was perhaps the least unstable of those tried to date.

It was intended that technocracy would do away with a fluctuating price level by stabilizing the purchasing power of the units of value; and that it would act as a stabilizer of values and perform that function better than unstable gold.

Technocracy among other claims also intended to overcome unemployment by the scientific co-ordination of the productive capacity with the effective demands for each locality as shown in the energy survey.

"The association of the estimated total productive capacity of this continent with the estimated total effective consumer demand and the estimated total population has led to statements in effect as follows", said Mr. Kunst

"Under a complete Technocratic regime, every man will receive the equivalent of a $20,000 a year income for life, in return for working 4 hours per day, 4 days per week, ten months per year between the ages of 25 and 45.

"Opposed to the realization of this very attractive offer is the surrender of personal liberty and an ignoranceof human nature.

"In conclusion, it should be known that although differences of opinions have caused a disruption of the original group, each body intends proceeding with the investigation and it is not improbable that some modified form of Technocracy will help to regulate our economic welfare at some future time.

Skating At Brock To-Morrow Night

Ice is in Fine Shape — Not Much Skating This Season.

There is every prospect of a fine sheet of ice for skating at Brock Street Rink to-morrow night. There have been few occasions for indoor skating this season and when there is good ice skaters should take advantage of it. There will be good music and the largest crowd of the season is expected.

LOCAL ANGLERS STUDY RESULTS OF ASSOCIATION

Fish and Game Protective Association Holds Annual Meeting.

RE-STOCK STREAMS.

All Business Men and Sportsmen Should Support Association, President States.

A. Weddell was elected president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, to succeed S. J. Black, at the association's annual meeting held last evening in the Empress Hotel. Besides the election of officers, the extensive activities of the association were reviewed, especially in the work of re-stocking local waters with game fish fry. A fair representation of the membership was present.

Officers elected were:
Hon. President—J. W. Gravestock.
President—A. Weddell.
First Vice-Pres.—H. Steggles.
Second Vice-Pres.—F. Barrett.
Sec.-Treas.—C. G. Graham.
Executive Committee—C. Lech, F. Roy, S. J. Black, L. Turner, W. Harvey, H. Lacheur, C. Kingan, George Green, George Solmes, C. Kidd, F. Rapp, and C. E. Smith.

Reviews Work

The retiring president, S. J. Black, presided. He said that the association had put out 250,000 trout fry, 200,000 pickerel, and 20,000 muskelunge fry during the past year. This work was accomplished with the assistance of the Provincial Government's hatcheries. "The association has been doing everything in its power to protect the fish and game in this district," commented Mr. Black, "and it is up to the sportsmen and businessmen of this district to support the association."

Secretary Graham's report showed a balance of $8.34 in the treasury. The expenses incurred by the association, he said, were largely due to the expenditures in connection with the rearing pond, and charges for trucks in placing the fry in the various streams. The association also expended $35 for convictions during the year, but expect this year that an increased membership will assist in financing its extensive activities.

Mr. Gravestock Speaks

J. W. Gravestock, addressed the meeting on the activities of the re-stocking committee, stressing the splendid work that had been accomplished in this direction. He recommended that a larger committee be appointed this year so as not to make the work too heavy for a few members.

A vote of thanks was expressed to Mr. Carver for his assistance at the rearing pond, where a fine batch of fish was raised and placed in the Cavan streams. A similar vote was expressed to The Examiner for its assistance to the association in protecting fish and game in the district.

The president expressed the opinion that some further action should be taken by the Government in the Kizzell case. Kizzell was found in possession of 500 partridge.

A delegate will be sent to the meeting of the Federation of Anglers in Toronto on February 8. An effort will be made by a membership committee to increase the association's membership.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 3 (C.P.). — Gran prices tended upward early to-day, influenced by cable suggestions of a decided change toward closer adjustment of world supply and demand. Unfavorable crop reports from domestic winter wheat territory were given increased notice. Opening ¼c to ⅝c higher wheat afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started ¼c off to ⅛c up, and subsequently altered little.

FRANKFORD MA NDIES AT 103.

BELLEVILLE.—John Bruyea, 103, Frankford, is dead at the home of his son in Trenton after a brief illness. He was born in October, 1829, in Murray township and had resided in this district all his life. His faculties were unimpaired to the end and only Sunday he enjoyed his usual walk. Last year he made a trp to Rochester, N. Y., alone. Three sons and two daughters survive.

C.N.R. EARNINGS.

The Scarcity of Money As it Affects Farmers

Prices Of Farm Produce Forced Down — Payment Of Debts Becomes Difficult—More Light On Our Monetary System—Reasons Why Money Changes In Value —How Inflation Would Help The Situation.

By H. B. COWAN, Editor-in-Chief of Farm and Dairy.

As farmers and business men begin to see more clearly how their prosperity is being undermined by our faulty monetary system the demand that steps shall be taken to ncrease the amount of money in circulation nears the point where governmental action soon appears to be inevitable. The article on this subject, entitled, "Inflation—How Would It Help Farmers?", that appeared in the November issue of Farm and Dairy, attracted such wide comment it had become advisable to deal with the subject in further detail.

In this article we will endeavor, therefore, to show:

1. The reasons why the prices of farm products and other commodities have been falling so rapidly.

2. The influence of money on this condition and why money changes in value.

3. The reasons for establishing the gold standard and why the gold standard is not functioning successfully.

4. How the prices of farm commodities can be increased, assisting farmers to pay off their debts and increase their buying power; thus paving the way for general business improvement.

5. That our Canadian banks have inflated our Canadian money for years without creating any undue alarm or injurious results.

6. That it is possible for the Canadian Government to increase the amount of money in circulation without further inflating our media of exchange and with great benefit to agriculture and business.

That is a big bill of fare for one short article, isn't it?

Cause of Depression.

There are many causes of the world-wide business depression. A faulty monetary system is only one of these, but it is one of the most important. By improving it we will take the first long step towards general business recovery, in our own country at least. Fortunately, it is a step which the Dominion Government can take without undue delay. If wisely handled, it also can be accomplished without undue danger. It offers us, therefore, the most hopeful opportunity for a comparatively quick improvement in business condi ions

One of the chief causes of the depression in agriculture and business is that there is not enough money in circulation to enable business to be transacted easily and efficiently. Placing more money in circulation—this will have to be done with care—will release the pressure which is blocking the way towards reform and should start us back on the road towards recovery. Most p ople find it hard to realize—as was explained in the November issue of Farm and Dairy—that money is not wealth and that money increases and decreases in value just as does the price of commodities. Of course, money is not supposed to do this, but it does. It is because it has increased so greatly in value of late that many of us are finding it so difficult to secure a sufficient supply of it for our needs. It explains, also, why farm and other products are be ng sold at unprofitable levels.

A Simple Example.

For purposes of illustration, let us imagine a small island in the ocean, occupied by 100 people. Suppose these people had $100,000.00 worth of wealth in the form of clothes, furniture, agricultural implements, houses, fishing tackle, boats and other things they need. Suppose, also, tha they had $10,000.00 worth of money. On this basis a pair of boots might be worth $3.00 and a suit of clothes $20.00. Because they cannot eat or wear money it has no value to them, except as it helps them to exchange the other forms of wealth, one for the other. That is the purpose of money. It is a medium of exchange.

Let us now suppose that the people, by working hard, greatly increased the wealth of the island. Possibly they derived new methods of cultivation and invented improved machinery for mining and manufacturing purposes. Thus, within a few years, the wealth of the island might increase until it equalled $300,000.00. If the amount of money remained at only $10,000.00 it is manifest that there would be a comparative shortage of money. This would greatly increase the buying power of that money, and it also would decrease the value of commodities. Thus, $1.50 in money might then be sufficient to buy a pair of boots and $10.00 to buy a suit of clothes. This would be a condition of deflation. In effect—but there are also other reasons which will be explained later in this article—it is what has happened in Canada. Wealth is abundant and money is scarce. Therefore, articles are low in value and money is hard to get. This, in part at least, explains Point 1.

Now, let us reverse the example, by assuming that the amoun of wealth did not increase but that the people for some reason increased the amount of money to $20,000.00. This would make money more plentiful and cheaper. Moremoney, be required to buy a pair of shoes and a suit of clothes. In such a case, shoes might cost $6.00 and a suit of clothes $40.00. This would be a condition of inflation. There would be more money in circulation, in proportion to the wealth of the island.

The foregoing simple illustrations are intended to show how money increases and decreases in value according to its supply and according also to the supply of wealth. These illustrations explain Point 2.

The Gold Standard.

Money is supposed to be a measure of value. A bushel of wheat is always the same. It does not weigh 30 lbs. to-day and 75 lbs. next year. A yard of cloth is always a yard of cloth. It is not sometimes 30 inches and sometimes 40 inches.

It was in order to prevent money changing in value, in the ways just described, that the nations of the world decided, years ago, to try and standardize the value of money and thus prevent sudden and undue fluctuations in its value. It was realized that when men entered into business arrangements with one another, involving the use of money, that it was important that the value of that money should remain as close to a definite standard as possible. When we borrow money we expect to pay it back, but we do not expect to pay back $1.50 for each $1.00 we borrow. In the same way, when we agree to sell something for $1.00, we do not expect that the buying power of the dollar we get will be only 45 cents.

It was in order to protect both parties to such bargains that the gold standard wa adopted. As explained in the November issue of Farm and Dairy, it was realized that if countries printed a lot of money, this money would become cheap and it would be difficult to conduct trade satisfactorily both between individuals in that country as well as between that country and other countries. This would be because the value of money in different countries would not be the same.

The gold standard, therefore, was adopted. It was agreed that countries should arrange to maintain a certain percentage of gold on hand to keep the value of their money as uniform as possible. In other words, if a country decided to print more paper money, it must at the same time put more gold away in its vaults to assure that money having real value. It was understood that if people became afraid that money was not worth what it should be, they should have the right to ask banks to give them gold instead of money. In other words, the gold standard was intended to give people confidence in the value of money.

Had some method been devised, when the gold standard was adapted, to increase and decrease the supply of money according to the wealth of the country and demand for its use, the value of money would have been much better protected. This was not done. As a result, the value of money fluctuates greatly. Thus the gold standard has not proved eff ctive. This is the answer to Point 3.

The Gold Standard a Menace.

From one standpoint, the gold standard is a menace. When a farmer borrowed $3,000 three years ago he thought that he would have to pay back only $3,000 plus the interest. Instead, money has become so scarce he now has to pay back much more than that in wealth, although not in money. In other words, as explained in our last issue, with wheat at 35 cents a bushel he now has to sell 8,571 bushels of wheat to pay his debt, whereas if wheat had remained at $1.50 a bushel he would have had to sell only 2,000 bushels to pay the same debt. He, and tens of thousands like him, never would have borrowed the money if he had known such a condition would develop. The gold standard—whether he realized it or not—instead of protecting him, as it was supposed to do, deceived him.

Why Gold Standard Has Failed.

The gold standard has failed to function properly because conditions have changed radically since the gold standard was established. Some new and better basis of regulating the value of money must be established. This is what has happened. Since the gold standard was established, another form of money has come into such widespread use that it now dominates the whole money situation. It is sometimes called "Bank Money." We refer to money in the form of cheques covered by notes, drafts, bonds and other similar securities. Sir Edmund Walker has been quoted as stating that the amount of real money in circulation was only about 4 per cent. of the value of this other form of money that was in use at the same time. The gold standard does not protect the value of this other form of money. It never has pretended to. This is one of the main reasons why it no longer functions efficiently.

When a banker makes a loan he very seldom gives actual money to the borrower. Instead he places a credit for the amount of the loan in the borrower's bank account. The borrower then issues a cheque or cheques on the account and makes his purchases or pays his accounts in this way. This has the same effect as though more money was put into circulation. This is a form of inflation. As already intimated, in the case of 96 per cent. of the business of the country, no money actually circulates. Cheques, notes and drafts take its place. Our supply of money—or rather, what passed for money—in 1929 had been inflated in that way to the extent of billions of dollars. Yet, not even the banks seemed to be unduly excited over that form of inflation.

Striking Comparisons.

In order that we may see the relation of the gold reserve to the actual money in circulation, as well as to the other forms of money, let us examine the diagram. It show four black figures. The small line represents the gold reserves in Canada, set aside by the banks and the government to protect the value of the paper money in circulation. It will be noted that it amounts to a total o only $151,000,600.00

The next larger figure represents the real money issued by the banks and the Dominion Government, in the form of bank notes, that is in circulat on. This totals only $333,667,382.00. It is but a small fraction of the real wealth of Canada. The large figure represents the other forms of money that have been mentio ed and amounts to $17,500,000,000.00. This enormous sum represents not only dominion, provincial, municipal and railway debts, but the debts due between individuals throughout the country. The Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa last year placed the dominion, provincial, municipal, railway and bank debts alone at $9,250,000,000.00. Mortgages on urban or farm property were not included nor the very large debts that are registered between individuals.

Just look at the figures once more and notice how small is the proportion of the actual money in circulation to the deposits in the banks as well as to the debits of all kinds shown in the larger square. Also, what a mere fraction of the total is the supply of gold.

Good Times.

As long as times are good and people, including the banks, are optimistic regarding the future, everything works nicely. Banks inflate the currency by loaning money freely. No one grows excited, although this "bank money" is not protected by a gold reserve, even though hundreds of millions of this form of money passes into use. Thus there is plenty of money, prices are maintained, and business thrives. That was the condition three years ago. This explains Point 5.

Effect of Hard Times.

When hard times set in everything changes. Creditors become anxious to get their accounts paid. Banks begin to refuse to make loans and they demand that their customers shall pay off, or greatly reduce, the loans they have. The banks become afraid, also, that should conditions become serious their customers might start a run on them for their money and so they try to build up their cash reserves in order to be prepared for such a possibility. Money thus becomes sparce and hard to get, prices fall, people stop buying, firms begin to fail, and we realize that we are in the midst of a depression. That is the condition which prevails to-day.

It will be readily seen, as you again look at Figure 1, how difficult it is, when their is only $333,000,000.00 of actual money available, to pay off any large part of debts amounting to $17,500,000,000.00. This difficulty, as already intimated, is increased by the fact that as soon as money is paid into the banks the banks are inclined, for a while at least, to keep more of this money than usual on hand, in order to strengthen their own financial positions. Many individuals and business firms do the same. In this way this money is taken out of circulation and people find it harder and harder to get money. Thus the—what is called—"velocity of turnover" of money is reduced and money becomes harder and harder to get.

This condition has existed in Canada during the past three years and still prevails. A glance at the financial statements of any of the large banks shows, in part, at least, what has been taking place. Before us lies the statements of one of Canada's larger banks as of November 30, 1929, and November 30, 1932. During this period this one bank reduced its loans from $501,995,921 to $300,786,002 or by $201,209,819. In other words, all this "bank" money which was in circulation in 1929 by this one bank, has been taken out of circulation. Of course, if Tom owes Bill $10.00 and Bill owes Jack $10.00 and Jack owes Mary $10.00 and Mary owes Tom $10.00, a ten dollar bill circulated among the four would pay the $40.00 in debts and all would feel better. If, however, Tom pays Bill $10.00 and Bill holds on to it, then the other two can not pay their bills. The tendency of banks, therefore, to hold on to money in hard times is quite natural, but it makes it more difficult for people to get the use of money with which to pay their debts or for other purposes. By the financial statements of the bank mentioned, we notice that in 1929 this bank had $35,626,038 of its own bank notes, real money, in circulation. But last November it had only $22,507,358.00. In other words, it had in effect taken out of circulation $12,518,680.00 in order to reduce its own liabilities to the public and strengthen its position. This was good management on its part, but by so doing, it made it more difficult for the public to secure the use of money with which to pay their own obligations.

The Natural Effect.

The natural effect, therefore, when banks and other creditors begin to demand the payment of their loans, and when there is not enough money available, is to make money scarce and hard to get. The result is that farmers are forced to sell their products for lower and lower prices. Merchants, when they can no pay the wholesalers, are forced into liquidation and when enough merchants fail, the wholesalers get in difficulties. In this way, hard times spread even when there is enough wealth in the country to much more than pr tect th value of all the money that is in circulation. That is the condition which exists to-day. There is a surplus of production, representing wealth, but a shortage of money, and as the banks hesitate, under these conditions, to increase their loans, we find it increasingly difficult to secure the use of the real money we require to meet our needs. This is a further answer to Point 1.

There is one factor of this situation which deserves comment. When banks lend money, it is mostly in the form of credits. This form of money is not protected by the gold standard, although it is protected by the other assets of the banks and of the goverument, in the case of government bank notes. When, however, the banks ask for the payment of these loans they require that it shall be paid in real money that is supported by the gold standard. This form of money is so scarce, during periods of depression, it is hard to get. That is the situation to-day. Of course, the banks are not responsible for this situation. It is a weakness of our monetary system.

The Remedy.

The obvious remedy is that more money should be placed in circulation. Of course, as explained at length in the November issue of Farm and Dairy this will have to be done with care. To simply print more paper money without regard to the actual wealth available, to protect its value, would be to make money so cheap that it would lose its value and we would soon have all the disastrous results which attended undue inflation by a number of countries, such as Germany, Russia, and France, during and following the war.

Just here, however, is one important point which should not be overlooked. That is that the printing of a reasonable amount of new money will not necessarily increase the amount of money in circulation. If the new money is used to pay off loans it means that the amount of bank money (see fig. 1) will be reduced, although the amount of actual money (see fig. 1) will be increased. The total amount of money of both kinds may be considerably reduced. In other words, the amount of real money might be increased by $100,000,000.00, while the so-called "bank money" might be reduced $1,000,000,000.00. Thus, there would be less of both kinds of money in circulation than before the new money was issued. We could stand a lot of this kind of inflation. This explains Point 6.

One benefit of such a change would be that there would not be so much interest to pay. The interest charges on the debts of individuals and governments to-day have become an enormous burden on industry. Of course, there is a limit as to how much money should be issued and great care would have to be exercised in estimating that limit and in seeing that it was not exceeded.

An Authoritative Opinion.

That the foregoing suggestions are not necessarily dangerous—as some try to tell us—is indicated by the fact that the Macmillan Committee, appointed by the British Government to investigate the monetary question, reported in 1931 in part as follows:

First: "The best hope of remedy (for the existing depression) lies in a monetary policy designed to increase the volume of purchasing power, to decrease interest rates, and to stimulate a spirit of enterprise and the volume of investment.

Second: "It is not necessary that the volume of note issue (that is real money) should continue to be regulated, as it is now, by reference to the amount of gold held in reserve. Gold should be held primarily to settle international balances and not to support domestic note issues. There need be no obstacle to the creation of a much increased volume of purchasing power, without any increase in the supply of gold."

How It Would Work.

What would the effect be were the Dominion Government to put more real money into circulation

Assuming that our Dominion Government did stabilize our Canadian currency at the level of the Bri ish pound, it would immediately result in a great increase in agricultural and other exports.

Prof. R. D. Colquette, a former editor of Farm and Dairy, now connected with The Country Guide of Winnipeg, interviewed a number of exporters in Winnipeg recently and learned from them that the increase in the value of farm products would be approximately as follows:

A 1,200-lb. steer	$21.09
100 lbs. live pork	1.40
Wheat	12c a bus.
Dressed turkeys	7c a lb

When eggs sell in London at 30c a doz., the net returns to Canadian producers are only 11c. Inflating our Canadian currency would increase the returns to our Canadian producers by 7½c or to 18½c a dozen. The increase in the price of butter would be approximately 4c a lb. Such increases would start farm products pouring from Canada to Great Britain, and would set hundreds of millions of dollars into circulation on the f rms of the country, especially as prices on our own markets would increase in most cases in approximately the same proportion. All other exporters of natural products, such as those engaged in lumbering, fishing and newsprint, would gain in much the same proportion. These classes would be the first to feel the benefit of the change.

The order in which improvements might be expected to start would be approximately as follows:

1. Farmers would get higher prices for their goods.

2. They would pay off a lot of their indebtedness.

3. They would commence to buy manufactured products.

4. The sales of manufacturers would increase and they would commence to employ more labor.

5. Ultimately, but it would take a good while to get there, the surplus labor would be employed.

6. Labor would begin to agitate for higher wages.

7. Manufacturers, as they found their costs increasing, would commence to increase prices.

Ultimate Effects.

Whether or not inflation ultimately would prove disastrous would depend upon the extent to which it was carried in this country, as well as in other countries. As has been stated already, undue inflation would undermine confidence in our monetary system and so greatly decrease the value of money the final results might be disastrous. A moderate amount of inflation, however, in view of the amount of wealth there is in the country, would, we believe, prove beneficial. It would immediately release the strain on business and improve the financial position of all our primary producers.

Hon. R. B. Bennett has shown that he is alive to the dangers that lurk in inflation. We have confidence, therefore, that should our Dominion Government decide that Canada should follow the example of the other 38 countries which have abandoned the gold standard and place more actual money in circulation, it would do so with good judgment and with due regard to the probable consequences. Were such action taken soon and on an adequate scale, the beneficial effect to agriculture and industry would be immediate and should be permanent.

PILES GO QUICK

No Salves—No Cutting.

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee

HEM-ROID Tablets have such a wonderful record of success that McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and all good druggists invite you to try HEM-ROID, and guarantee money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.

LIGHT ON OUR MONETARY SITUATION

1. [redacted]—Gold Reserves—$151,000,000.00
2. [redacted]—Actual money in Dominion and Bank Notes—$336,600,000.00
3. [redacted]—Bank Deposits—$2,516,711,587.00
4. [redacted]—"Bank Money" Cheques, notes, drafts, bonds — $17,500,000,000.00

The comparisons given above explain much about the monetary system in Canada. They show, for instance, that the gold reserve is such a mere fraction of the actual and "bank money" in circulation as to be almost negligible in its effect were it not for the confidence people have in it. The large square, representing "Bank Money," shows how our supply of money has been inflated without being backed by gold. It is because actual money, represented by line 2, is so small the public finds it hard to reduce the huge indebtedness represented by line 4. The totals, as given above, were prepared some months ago. They change from time to time, and in relation to each other, but proportionately are sufficiently accurate to represent existing conditions.

HOLLYWOOD

GEORGE ARLISS FRIEND OF ALL ANIMALS

HOLLYWOOD'S SO-CALLED jungle epics disturb George Arliss very much. The English actor is a great lover of animals. During the filming of "The King's Vacation," they had to put up a long argument to get him to okay a shot of two dogs hitched to a milk cart. In the script of his new picture, "The Adopted Father," he came upon a fishing scene. The returned script bore these words in Arliss' handwriting: "It is understood that no fish will be used in this shot, and no anmials, whatsoever, in the picture."

FOX AFTER CLARA BOW

THEY'LL PROBABLY have to do some tall talking, but Fox wants Clara Bow to make a second picture, "Marie Gallant," as soon as she returns from Europe.

Just what the red-head's reaction will be is difficult to say. She reiterated to London newspapermen that she had rather live on the ranch than make pictures and that she was going to demand plenty of action and a negligible amount of dialogue in her next film.

"Marie Gallant" can very well supply that. Taken from the novel of Jacques Deval, it is the story of a turbulent French girl living in Panama.

That only favorites have any chance to make good in the movies is vigorously denied by Joan Blondell, starring with Ann Dvorak, Bette Davis and Warren Williams in "Three on a Match," Wednesday at the Capitol. Joan declares any girl with passably good features, and talent, can rise to success if she is persistent and works hard....Boots Mallory, a newcomer from Broadway and James Dunn feature on the same program in a romantic comedy "Handle with Care."

HARLOW TO STAR IN "BOMBSHELL"

LIFE IN HOLLYWOOD, the loves of a flashy, temperamental movie star, will be the subject of Jean Harlow's next picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The screen's platinum blonde draws the feminine lead in "Bombshell," a play which Caroline Franeke and Mack Crane are said to have modeled from the experiences of a certain famous Hollywood personality.

TANGLED LOVES OF A ROBBER CHIEF

ONE OF THE GREATEST musical romances of all time "The Maid of the Mountains"—product of a British studio comes to the Regent screen next Wednesday. Full of comedy and haunting melodies sung the world over, the plot featuring Harry Felcchman and Nancy Brown, centres around the rollicking Brigand Chief who swoops from his mountain camp to rob the rich for the poor, raids the State Ball, and risks his life juggling his affections between the Governor's daughter and the primitive gypsy maid.

Many of the principal scenes branch was well organized and had famed beauty spots—Cheddar Gorge.

LEADING MEN IN GREAT DEMAND

GIVE US MORE leading men, cry the producers of Hollywood.

The shortage is so acute at RKO that Joel McCrea probably will be drafted to play opposite Ann Harding as well as Constance Bennett.

This was admitted by Radio officials who have scanned Hollywood for a suitable masculine lead in "Declassee."

Joel fills the bill, of course, but there was the question of conflicting schedules between the pictures of RKO's two leading feminine stars. With Connie Bennett still working on "Our Betters," however, the studio heads figure they can finish with Joel in "Declassee" before he is needed for "Bed of Roses."

EXPERT AIRS VIEWS ON TROUSERS FOR WOMEN

NO MATTER IF Marlene Dietrich wears 'em, women in general will never take to pants.

So spoke Adrian the other day from his modernistic studio, with its chartreuse-colored walls, its white woodwork, its large central mirror and its ostrich plumes rising out of glass bowls.

Who is Adrian? As most of you know, he is M-G-M's fashion expert, the young man who designed those trick hats and tailored costumes for Garbo and who started an international style craze with Joan Crawford's gowns in "Letty Linton."

He says: "Trousers will persist for beach, for sport wear, but women will not adopt them generally because, in most cases, they are unbecoming and because they allow small chance for individuality. Miss Dietrich happens to look chic in them. She has gone to extremes. But even she will tire of them after a while.

"The appeal of tailored things is that they are trim and gallant. They express the young woman of the day.

Groucho Marx says of the trous ers for women peril: "It's all right for women to wear pants if you can't see them."

FAIRBANKS OFF FOR EUROPEAN HOLIDAY

IT'S NO USE—Hollywood can't hold Douglas Fairbanks.

With the weather too rainy to play golf and with visions of St. Moritz before him, Douglas is getting out of here on the first lap of a European vacation.

As several weeks' work remain on her picture, Mary stays here, but will follow later—to St. Moritz if the skiing isn't over—or to Rome.

MORE REAL MUSIC LOVERS IN AMERICA THAN EUROPE

Not Bound by Tradition on This Side is Reason Given by English Pianist

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 3 (A.P.)—Myra Hess, noted English pianist, thinks there are more real music lovers in North America than in Europe, because Americans don't care "a whoop" for musical tradition.

Here to play as a guest with the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, she told interviewers to-day there is an appreciable difference between the audiences on this side and abroad.

"In Europe," she said, "those who attend musical affairs are tradition-bound. For centuries music, abroad, has been a part of one's schooling and enyironment; hence concert-goers are able to discriminate between what is according to tradition and what is not.

"On this continent, however, most of the music lovers know nothing about tradition, because tradition is a matter of long periods of time. I have been amazed at the comprehensive powers of American audiences, no matter where I find them."

WHY DOCTORS AND DENTISTS CO-OPERATE

Dr. F. G. Conboy Addresses Medical Men and Dentists of City.

CLINIC IS HELD.

Field of Treatment and Prevention Has Suffered Greatly.

"Most mouth diseases have a systematic as well as a local cause. Dentists cannot protect the mouth health of the public without the assistance of the physician," stated Dr. F. J. Conboy, director of Dental Health Services, Provincial Department of Health, during the course of an interesting address, "Why Doctors and Dentists Co-operate," and which he delivered at a meeting at Empress Hotel last evening.

The meeting, under the chairmanship of Dr. J. E. Middleton, president of Peterborough and District Dental Society was well attended and constituted the concluding session of a successful dental clinic that had been held in the afternoon. There were a number of medical men present to hear Dr. Conboy's interesting address, at the invitation of the Dental Society.

Dr. Edgar Paul, professor of Dental Surgery, University of Toronto, was the clinician at the afternoon session.

It was true that in the field of treatment and prevention patients had suffered greatly because dentists and physicians had failed to co-operate, Dr. Conboy believed.

Common Objective

"Physicians and dentists have a common objective, the health of the patient—and this atruistic purpose can best be served by co-operating," he stated.

Health is so necessary, Dr. Conboy stressed, that it was the task of all health workers not only to prevent diseases, but to encourage the development of endurance. Such an undertaking, he said, would bring into close co-operation all those who could contribute through education, training and health care. In such a program every part of the human body and the complete function of every organ would receive consideration.

It would be realized that sickness seldom came from a single cause, that there were usually a number of contributing factors, such as infection, under-nourishment, over ingestion of food, over stress, fatigue, lack of function, immunity, vital resistance, influence of environment, and many others to determine the state of health.

Principal Diseases

The principal diseases, he said, which claimed the attention of dentists were pyorrhea and dental caries. Mouth conditions might be the cause of systematic disorders, or may be caused by disease in other parts of the body. It was, therefore apparent, that the dentist must accept responsibility for the health of the mouth, for the general health of the patient in so far as it may be influenced by mouth conditions, and for recognition of the mouth symptoms of systematic diseases, and the referring of the patient to the physician or surgeon.

"He cannot perform his task successfully, without the aid of the physician," Dr. Conboy contended. "On the other hand," he said, "the physician requires for the safeguarding of his patient information and treatment which can only be supplied by dentists."

Dr. Middleton, at the close of the meeting expressed appreciation to the A. Wander Limited, manufacturers of Ovaltine, for their thoughtfulness in providing samples of the product for the use of the clinic.

POLICE ESCORT BRIGGS' TRUCKS

Nearly 4,000 Men Back at Work—Scattered Disorders Continue.

FORD TO RE-OPEN SOON.

DETROIT, Feb. 3 C.P.)—Automobile bodies in increasing numbers are being trucked from the Briggs Manufacturing Company plants to the Ford Motor Company's Dearborn plant, and indications to-day were that assembly lines in the Ford plants would be moving again early next week, probably Monday.

Briggs officials said that approximately 4,000 men were working in their plants. Some 6,000 were at work when the strike began the first of last week, forcing a shutdown of Ford plants four days later because of a shortage of bodies.

Motorcycle policemen were escorting trucks operating between the Ford and Briggs plants against molestation by strikers.

There were only scattering disorders yesterday. Half a dozen men invaded a confectionery and hurled bricks, bottles and stones. One man was treated for head injuries. A truck, apparently mistaken for one hauling automobile bodies, was stopped and its cargo of plumbing supplies scattered.

Several hundred employees of the Murray Corporation of America voted last night to return to work. The Murray plant, which utilizes parts made by the Briggs Company, was closed soon after the strike began, but officials said most of the employees went back to work yesterday.

Germany's Fate In Their Hands

RELIEF WORK IS SUGGESTED

Alderman McNabb Suggests Raising of Sunken Sidewalks.

CONSIDER PLAN.

The first suggestion that recipients of relief might be asked to do some city work was made by Alderman McNabb last night.

He mentioned of sidewalks that have sunk below the normal level, causing little shallows of water that are a nuisance to pedestrians. One of these pool sites is at the Public Library corner, another at Dublin and George, and so on up in Ald. McNabb's home district.

"I could easily pick out a hundred of them in the south ward," Ald. Sloan remarked.

"In view of the fact that men are receiving weekly grocery orders and other forms of relief, would it be feasible when the weather gets warmer to break up the surface of those parts of the sidewalk and fix them up to their proper level. One group of men could be sent out to do the preliminary work on one day, and you could rotate them according as they were given relief orders. It would be something for them to do, and I believe most people prefer to work for the money they get."

Ald. Hamilton—We do a lot of that work every year. But we could spend $10,000 on repairs of that kind if we started out to do all we could find.

The idea will be "left in abeyance" until the winter breaks up, and may be revived then.

The manufacture of glass was known to the Egyptians at a very early date.

Go-Getters

When five gunmen hijacked a truck loaded with butter near here last night they were quite philosophical about their error.

"We expected a load of alcohol," said one of them to Homer Shaffer, driver of the truck," but I guess well have to take the butter and sell it.'

The truck was found later in Cicero. There was not a pound left of the original load of eight tons of butter.

Suicide Is Verdict In Prisoner's Death

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.)CP)—A verdict of suicide was returned by Coroner Lorenzo Prince at inquest yesterday into the death of Joseph Killeen, also known as Joe Clean of Ottawa, who hanged himself in his cell at the Provincial police headquarters here yesterday. Killeen had been held as a material witness for two months in connection with the death of Alex. Mondou, lumberjack of Hull, Quebec.

Sergt.-Detective Guyon said he had arrested Killeen at the request of the coroner at Hull as a result of evidence submitted at the inquest on Mondou's body. The inquest was still open, he said, pending recovery in the Brockville hospital of a man who allegedly gave the police a statement implicating Killeen in Mondou's murder.

2 YEARS FOR SHOP BREAKING

WINDSOR. — Pleading guilty to a shop-breaking charge, Roy Wilson to-day was sentenced to two years in Portsmouth penitentiary. He must then return to the Ontario reformatory at Guelph to finish a sentence on which he was paroled. A similar charge against his brother Raymond Wilson, was withdrawn.

Mussolini's Friend Bombed

Here is shown the wrecked home of John M. Di Silvestro, Philadelphia, Pa., president of the Order of the Sons of Italy. It was destroyed by a bomb on January 28, which also took the life of Mrs. Di Silvestro and injured four of the Di Silvestro children. The bombing is believed to have been the result of an anti-Fascist plot, as Di Silvesro is a friend of Mussolini. He is also prominent in Philadelphia banking circles.

HENRY FORD'S CHARGES STIR MOTOR CAPITAL

Detroit Sees Keen Competition as Bringing on Present Condition.

NOT WALL STREET

By BONITA WITT,
Central Press Canadian Writer.

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—"What's the trouble in Detroit?"

I came to find out. I have had a long talk with Mayor Frank Murphy. And I have talked with workers at the body plant where a strike was called, forcing Henry Ford to close all his plants. It was then that Ford made his sensational charges, by transatlantic phone to a London newspaper, that the strike was a weapon in the hands of Wall Street to gain control of his vast concern.

What IS the trouble in Detroit?

Perhaps the same as in the farm region—falling prices. The evolution toward an inexpensive car has brought many hardships.

As Many See It.

Thus, man yDetroiters picture the strike as a consequence of allegedly forcing workers to labor at wages that do not permit adequate living standards—in order to meet competition.

"It is a case of dog eat dog among the manufacturers," as one person puts it. "The struggle is becoming keener and keener to supply the most popular and least expensive automobile.

"Men are toiling twice as hard as they formerly did, for steadily dwindling wages, under far from ideal conditions. At best, now, men work steadily only from three to four months, then either two or three days a week.

"The same holds true for concerns from which auto manufacturers buy, not only in Detroit but in other cities. Purchase prices have been forced down so greatly that labor is forced to take the brunt."

When Trouble Began.

Troubles began at the Briggs' Manufacturing Co. plant in Detroit when it received a contract for 1933 Ford bodies. The company abolished payment for "dead time" (time when a man is waiting for material or going from department to department).

Discontent spread. (Unionism never has been allowed to enter the automotive industry.) When a committee of workers and the company failed to reach a settlement of grievances, the men walked out.

Strikers and men employed in other Detroit plants tell an appalling story of low wages and poor working conditions.

They cite such incidents as men working for 15 cents an hour, or $6 a week; a woman who worked 47 hours for $1.67; women working 14 hours daily when the state maximum is 10 hours.

Other Examples.

They tell also of production speeded up to a point where it is impossible for men and women to keep abreast of it without breaking physically; time studies set so high that a worker seldom or never reaches the mark set and consequently fails to make the wage rate set; no definite assurance of a certain wage because deductions and frequent changes in time studies make it almost impossible for a man to know just how much he can make in a day.

They tell, too, of women operating drill presses and pushing heavy trucks because they will work for less than men. Women also "spit tacks upon a magnetized hammer for less than a quarter an hour, although men say the job is one of the most unpleasant in the whole industry.

Perhaps the main grievance of Detroit workers is their failure to have any voice whatsoever concerning conditions or wages.

Striker's Statement.

"We dare not return to work unless our shop committees are recognized," said one striker. "Unless they are recognized the same intolerable conditions will return. We want an end of 25-cent hourly rates and we want at least a guarantee of a living wage."

Detroit's liberal young mayor, Frank Murphy, sees the body strike as a sample of what will occur continually throughout the country "unless some wisdom is displayed in dealing with human beings under the present economic conditions."

"It is unwise," he told Central Press, "to reconstruct our economic system under conditions that exact too great a human toll. Some men are trying to do that. It must be conceded that the motor companies have a difficult problem on their hands. Every day they are operating at a loss. That, however, doesn't justify employing men on any kind of a standard of wages, no matter how low.

"We have got to keep watch in the next 10 years, otherwise there will be endless strikes and dissensions. Economic breakdown does not necessarily mean we have to overthrow all of the social progress of the last quarter century.

"Common Interest First."

"In a controversy of this kind the common interest comes first before either side of the controversy. This requires a vigilance and helpful policy on the part of the government. This strike must be settled correctly or other strikes will occur. Accordingly, I have designated a fact-finding committee composed of Dr. H. Ralph Higgins, Episcopalian rector; the Rev. Fr. Hickey, Catholic, and Rabbi Framm and we will augment this nucleus. These three are unbiased, intelligent and possess good, sturdy social viewpoints.

"We aren't waiting for something tragic to happen. The committee is to report both sides to the public. And, should an outburst come we will fix responsibility.

"In trouble of this sort the police department of Detroit, while I am mayor, will not be used by any one side. (But state troopers are on duty at a plant branch outside the city limits.)

"I intend to have this committee, or a similar one, bring to the attention of Detroit some of the true facts on employment, wages paid in factories, piece work, the salaries of store clerks who work on a percentage basis. Every city should have such a committee to bring to light the manner in which our standards are being destroyed."

Omemee it didn't seem so bad because it was getting daylight and I increased the speed to about 25 miles an hour. At this time the fog was just as heavy. It was rolling in gusts. Sometimes it was thick and sometimes it was thin.

"I came out of heavy fog just before the accident. It was clear, just sort of misty where the accident happened. The truck came out of the fog all at once. It was about 50 feet away from me when I first saw it."

Mr. McElderry—"How was it that you didn't see it sooner?"

"I just saw it as it came out of a bank of fog."

Asked about the position of his car, he said: "We were on our right side about three feet from the right side of the road. The truck was on the same side of the road that my car was on."

Mr. McElderry—"Then it was on its wrong side?"

"Yes."

Mr. McElderry—"What did you do?"

"It was all done so sudden I don't know what happened. I put on my brakes hard."

Mr. McElderry—"Did you turn to the right or left?"

"No, I just applied my brakes."

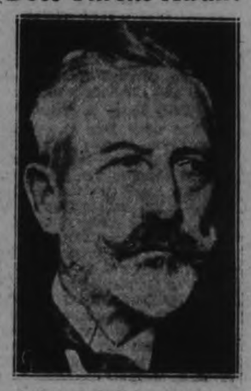
He said that either his headlights or cowl lights were on, but the lights on the truck were not illuminated. He had driven all the 35 miles from Oakwood. He and Mr. Walkey were supposed to be in Belleville at 9 o'clock, he said. Both windows at the front seat of the car were down because he and Mr. Walkey had taken turns in keeping their head out to watch the road. "It was quite cold and wet to keep one's head out too long," he commented.

Brakes Were Good.

His brakes were in good condition and had been tested two weeks previous to the accident. A few minutes after the crash he regained consciousness, he said, and got from the car himself. He was standing on the highway when Mr. Poole approached. "As soon as he touched me I fell down," he said. It was 20 minutes to nine, he said, when the ambulance came for him, and meanwhile he had lain on the side of the road.

He could not estimate the speed of the truck, but adjudged that it was moving fast. He has been driving a car for 15 years.

Does Throne Await?



Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany is reported from Doorn, Holland, as preparing for a return to the fatherland, eventually to resume the throne. The recent turn of events politically, in which Adolph Hitler, Fascist leader ,became chancellor, is seen as smoothing the way for the monarchist regime to return to full power.

Proceeds Of Merchants' Prosperity Week Are Turned Over To The City Treasurer

Assurances of several substantial contributions, one for $2,000, and two others for $500 each, were high lights of the reports from the Relief Committee this morning.

Details are withheld for the present, but the committee is "well satisfied" with the progress of the Fund.

The public has almost forgotten the "Prosperity Week" which the merchants of Peterborough put on as a business feature last October, but this morning their Finance Committee handed City Treasurer Adams a cheque for $169.35, the surplus after all accounts were paid.

John A. Hall, manager of the Canadian Department Stores, Limited; Ken Sloan of Tip Top Tailors; S. E. Dewey, manager of the Kresge Store, and Alderman McNabb, chairman, were the members of this committee of the merchants. Their balance of $169.35 represented the surplus of expenditures over the receipts that had come in from merchants, manufacturers and other sources. Looking around for some cause to assist, they decided that the most deserving was the Relief Fund, and with the Government's "two for one" assistance, their grant is equivalent to $508.05.

Personal contributions are steadily building up the Fund, and the general response is encouraging the committee's belief that the objective of $20,000 will be reached.

DIES OF INJURIES

A Thousand Yous

WHEN you pick up your newspaper and glance over the advertising you quite unconsciously multiply yourself a thousand times.

In half or three-quarters of an hour you can, figuratively speaking, visit every progressive store in town. You virtually poke your head into every department of every department store. You run into the florist's, the confectioner's, the oculist's, the leading groceries, banks, theatres, all the various places that supply the things that make this the twentieth century and life worth the living. Here is a greater choice in clothing, food, furniture, books, pictures, musical instruments, travel, entertainment, opportunities for investment, the service of public utility corporations than any monarch of old could command.

It would easily take a thousand yous, travelling hard all day, to find out for yourself what the advertisements tell you in a few minutes morning or evening.

Advertisements deserve your attention. They deserve your confidence. Without advertising, the prices you would have to pay for many of the necessities you now buy for small change would make a dollar look like a snowball on the kitchen range.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 40c to 42c; oats, 20c to 22c; barley, 30c to 32c; corn, 32c to 34c; rye, 29c to 30c; buckwheat, 28c to 30c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—Despite a slightly easier tone in eggs, prices remained firm on the Montreal Produce and Dairy market yesterday.

Fresh graded eggs in cartots or less sold at 21 cents for extras, 19 cents for firsts and 18 cents a dozen for pullets. Unconfirmed sales were reported half a cent under these levels. Receipts were 999 cases.

No. 1 grass butter in cartots or less was quoted at 20½c to 20¾c cents a pound. Receipts were only 2 boxes.

Current receipts of Ontario cheese sold at 9 cents for white, 10 cents for colored and 10½ to 11¼ cents a pound for early make. Receipts were 312 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes per 80-pound bag, 85 cents, and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 90-pound bag, 95 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.— Indications that overseas buying of Canadian wheat the last 48 hours had totalled more than 3,000,000 bushels gave unusual steadiness to grain values yesterday.

Wheat, however, eased off a little at the last owing to declines shown by various stocks in New York. Friends of higher prices for wheat paid attention to remarkable barometric conditions in Alaska pointing to likelihood of a serve cold wave overspreading the United States by Sunday.

Wheat closed easy, unchanged to ¼ off, compared with yesterday's finish; corn unchanged to ¼-¼ down, oats showing ¼-¼ decline, and provisions unchanged.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 3. — Despite a lull in export trade, wheat prices maintained a firm tone on the Grain Exchange here yesterday and the close was ¼c to ⅝c higher.

May closed at 47c, July at 47¼c, and October at 49c.

A strong market at Liverpool induced by heavy purchases of Canadian wheat on Wednesday resulted in fractional gains at the opening here, and foreign business estimated at 500,000 bushels served to maintain the advance until the close.

Trade in cash wheat and coarse grains was dull and sales were restricted.

Russia exported 72,000 bushels of wheat this week, while the Argentine estimates are expected to total 3,500,000 bushels, about the same as last week.

JEWISH PEOPLE NOT SATISFIED WITH BRITAIN

mandate at all. Being personally acquainted with nearly all the men who have had a hand in the running of the various government departments from the time that Palestine was liberated from the Turk, I do not hesitate to say that many if not the majority of the British officials in Palestine were hostile to the idea of turning the holy land into a national home for the Jewish people. And this in spite of the fact that the mandate is an international instrument, guaranteed and ratified by 32 different nations, including the U.S.A.

Palestine is no mere British colony or protectorate. It is a free and independent country—in theory — over which Britain exercises temporary control on behalf of the league. Britain is therefore answerable to the permanent mandates commission for everything she does or omits to do in the holy land.

For that reason the criticism by the mandates commission is not to be taken as illegitimate interference or attempts to twist the lion's tail. That criticism is quite legitimate. The league is the supreme arbiter of the destiny of Palestine until it judges that Palestine may stand on its own feet.

The Lawrence Plan.

Now the British officials who came to Palestine after its liberation had entirely different ideas about the country's future. They were nearly all men of army mentality and of army extraction who had entered Palestine with or in the wake of the Allenby forces and who remained as chiefs of the new civil administration. These men wanted to see Palestine included in a huge federated Arabic empire under protection of Britain. This was in fact the plan of Col. T. E. Lawrence, Col. Storrs, now governor of Cyprus, who was after the war Jerusalem's first governor, and Mr. St. John Philiby, Britain's diplomatic agent in the near east, and who recently became Mohammedan. These men did not look with favor on the Zionist experiment in Palestine.

They, acting on behalf of the war office, had gotten the Arabs to revolt against the Turks on the strength of definite promises. These promises, the Arabs say, included the establishment of an Arabic king in Jerusalem, and, furthermore, Arabic kings on the thrones of Bagdad and Damascus. The three sons of old King Hussein of the Hedjahs, Britain's ally in consideration of a million pound sterling a year, had been selected for the posts of Arabic kings. They were Feisal, new king of Irak, who also commanded the Arabs in the war; Abdullah, now king of Transjordan, and Ali.

This is the promise which the Arabs claim to have received from General MacDonald, the war-time British near eastern agent. Nobody has been able to verify the authenticity of these promises, however, since Britain has systematically refused to make public the correspondence between General MacDonald and King Hussein.

Rally Jewry to Cause.

At the same time that British military men were promising the Arabic peoples one thing in order to rouse them to war against the Turk, the home government issued the so-called Balfour declaration, which virtually gave Palestine to the Jews. Why was this done? It was done to gain influential Jews all over the world, in America as well as in Germany, for the allied cause. Mr. Justice L. D. Brandeis, member of the supreme court of the United States, and Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York, two personal friends and advisers of the late President Wilson, prevailed upon the American President to urge Britain to make a pronouncement on its war aims in Palestine which would rally world Jewry to the British side. Lord Balfour thereupon wrote his famous letter to Baron Rothschild in Paris stating that his majesty's government looked with favor on the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine. This was the Balfour declaration on which the terms of the mandate were later formulated.

This promise to the Jews naturally put a crimp in the plans of the military men, like Lawrence, Storrs, Bols, who were campaigning in the near east. They had, it seems, promised the throne of Jerusalem to the Emir Abdullah. Undoubtedly the military men protested at London, pointing out that the Jewish national home meant a breach of faith with the Arabs. And as a matter of fact it was. But the home government attached more importance in war-time to the co-operation of American Jewry, with its powerful banking interests, than to the interests of the family of King Hussein. Colonel Lawrence was so indignant over the final arrangement in the near east that he refused a decoration at the end of the war. In his book, "Revolt in the Desert," he writes that the lack of co-ordination between the colonial office and its representatives in the field damaged British prestige irreparably among the Arabs.

And so the military men did not have their way. Syria was given to France after Feisal had already been king at Damascus for a short time. The Jews saw Palestine cut into two parts, which was also a distinct breach of faith. Transjordania was made a separate kingdom and Abdullah placed on a throne in Amman. Old King Hussein was chased away by Ibon Saoud and died last year in exile in Cyprus. The British did not lift a finger to save him and his throne at Mecca.

Army Remembers Their Plan.

The civil administrators of Palestine, that is, the ex-army men, have never ceased to regret the passing of their dream of an Arabic empire. That scheme, which originated in the versatile brain of Lawrence, intrigued them for many years. Consequently when troubles broke out between Jews and Arabs in Palestine they were in a position to say and they said: "We told you so. The idea of a Jewish homeland in Palestine is an impossibility.. Our scheme would have been better." Judeo-Arabic differences seemed to substantiate their pet theories. When troubles broke out, the army men were naturally not ill-pleased. In 1929, when the Jewish massacres took place, the tragic events came as a welcome substantiation of the theories of the leading men of the administration. I know the gravity of this charge. Yet, knowing every detail of the circumstances that led to that outbreak, I am bound to say in conscience that the Palestine administration was largely responsible for that outbreak. I do not merely say this now at a safe distance of years. I said so publicly in the Palestinian and Egyptian newspapers at the height of the troubles in September, 1929. The next day after this publication an attempt was made to ambush me at Bethlehem. The automobile in which I travelled was riddled with bullets.

Although the friction between Jew and Arab is fast disappearing, the whole political arrangement of the near east remains a system of dangerous compromises which satisfies nobody. The Zionists still claim Transjordan, the Arabs still agitate for a united Arabia, including all of Palestine and Syria. Everybody knows that important changes are coming in the future.

The total investment in the mineral-producing industries of Canada at the close of 1931 was $842,060,020 and these industries employed 72,809 persons.

Girl to Woman

EVERY mother knows those anxious years when her daughter is becoming a woman. The wise mother gives her daughter Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Read what Mrs. M. D. Watson of 109 Vine St., St. Catharines, Ont., says: "For young girls who are developing into womanhood I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When my daughters were developing and appeared to be rundown, nervous and depressed, I gave them the 'Favorite Prescription' and they had no more trouble. I have also used it myself on several occasions and it certainly proved to be just as beneficial in my case."

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

The ground connection from your radio is equally as important as the aerial. Either a water pipe or a long rod or pipe driven into the ground makes the best ground. Radiators are usually satisfactory, but never connect to gas pipes. Regardless of what you are grounding to, use a metal ground clamp or solder, to connect the wire to it. No matter how well you clean the pipe, or how tightly you wrap or twist the wire on it, it will be a good connection for a very short time only. Corrosion soon forms between them, and the ground will then impair, instead of improve, reception.

Ed.—Mr. Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans. If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr. Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile —No Calomel needed

When you feel blue, depressed, sour on the world, that's your liver which isn't pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels.

Digestion and elimination are being slowed up, food is accumulating and decaying inside you and making you feel wretched.

Mere bowel-movers like salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage, don't go far enough.

You need a liver stimulant. Carter's Little Liver Pills is the best one. Safe. Purely vegetable. Sure. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists. 52

PAINFUL CONSIDERATION

TORONTO—Harold Newberry, 27, was removed to hospital early this morning suffering head injuries and broken ribs as a result of a 16-foot fall. Newberry was talking to a friend outside his house when the door blew shut. Wishing to avoid disturbing the family, he decided to climb in an upstairs window. But the guard railing of the balcony gave way and he fell to the ground.

WANT PROPERTY QUALIFICATION.

A proposed legislative amendment from Wakerville requiring candidates for municipal office to possess in their own right property of at least $1,000 value was endorsed by the Legal Committee of the Council last night.

A Kitchener resolution to the effect that Mothers' Allowance payments be not discontinued after children reach the age of sixteen years was not approved.

LOWER GARBAGE RATE.

A reducton of one-tenth of a mill in this year's garbage collection tax was recommended by the Property Committee of the City Council last night. This slight advantage to the ratepayer, a drop from .6 to .5 of a mill results from a decline in the cost of collection, and also a surplus of about $1,000 from the committee of last year.

Weddings

BROWN—SHEARER.

The wedding was solemnized quietly at half-past three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, at the manse of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, of John Nugent Brown, of Lakefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, and Stella Mildred Shearer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Shearer, of Lakehurst.

Attendants were Miss Viva Shearer of Hall's Bridge and Mr. S. A. Darling, of Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will live in Lakefield.

BELCH—HAYWARD.

A very pretty wedding took place at one o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Gospel Hall, when Kathleen Winnifred Hayward, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hayward of Anson Street, became the bride of Mr. William Belch of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Evangelist A. G. Bentley of Toronto.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the hall to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Ada Lloyd.

She wore a very becoming gown of eggshell panne satin, ankle length with a deep lace-edged veil in cap style, caught with seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her shoes were of white moire, with matching hose and gloves, and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marjorie Bentley, of Toronto, was in frock of green velvet with matching turban and golden-brown satin slippers and hose. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Little Gloria Wells, niece of the bride, was a charming flower girl, dressed in pink silk, with white hose and gloves and patent leather slippers. She wore a dainty wreath of orange blossoms and carried a basket of pink and white narcissi.

Mr. George Reader acted as best man.

Messrs. Leslie Hayward and Horace Wells were ushers.

During the signing of the register, Miss Helen Mulligan sang very sweetly.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the table, with a three-tiered cake as a centerpiece, was attractively decorated in pink and white streamers. About ninety guests were present. The cake was cut by Mr. A. Hartshorn.

After a short honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Belch will leave on an extended visit to the Gaspe Coast, Quebec. The bride travelled in a blue silk dress with metallic trimming, a navy coat with grey fur and matching accessories.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a platinum pendant with diamond setting, to the bridesmaid a crystal necklace, to the flower girl a gold bracelet and to the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

BRITAIN WANTS NO FRESH TIES

Announces at Geneva She Wants No Part in Buttressing Security on Continent.

BLOW TO FRANCE.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 3. — (A.P.)—The British Government is not disposed to undertake any new engagements to buttress security on the continent, Captain Anthony Eden, British Under-Secretary of State, declared to-day at a meeting of the world disarmament conference, thus disclosing the existence of another tremendous obstacle to realization of the French disarmament plan.

This British declaration followed pronouncements yesterday by the German and Italian representatives rejecting or fundamentally criticizing the French thesis that arms reduction must want upon the conclusion of additional pacts guaranteeing security.

"In the search for new safeguards of peace," said Captain Eden, "we must not overlook those which already exist.

"There is first, for those of us who are members of the League of Nations, its covenant which is extremely binding upon us all. There is next the pact of Paris to which almost every government in the world has subscribed. There is finally for certain countries of Western Europe the Treaty of Locarno.

"The importance of the guarantees given by that treaty may seem by comparison slight in some countries. They do not seem so in mine. It would be a mistake to under-rate the significance of the Locarno Treaty."

Who's Who

Veneration for the art of one of the City's own artists, the late Buttle Hudson, is beginning to take form. The three oil paintings from the collection of Mrs. Annie Hudson, his widow, on exhibit in the window of The Examiner, have drawn curiosity and interest.

The portrait of His Worship Mayor Hudson, the City's First Chief Magistrate, is said to be an excellent likeness of that gentleman. Report is current that it will be ceremoniously hung in the stately Council Chamber, a contribution by the Aldermen.

Interest in the history of the two other paintings has grown amazingly among the curiously inclined as well as art connoisseurs. The identity of "A Gentleman of Earlier Peterborough" is being confirmed by old friends who knew him in the prime of manhood when he entered upon his official career, in which he served the public with high honor.

The very interesting pictaire "A Merry Tune and a Sad Heart" has attracted much attention as a skilful work of art, but the questions "Who was the Violinist?" and "Who, the son who recognized him?" have not yet been answered, though the answer may come unexpectedly.

The venerable violinist and his son lived in the south end of the city in the nineties. The opportunity of recognition is still open to the folk of those early days.

"CUTTING" EXPENSES

READING, Pa. — Berks county's model prison goes in for too much hair-cutting to suit the country's hoboes. Officials disclosed that a recent requirement that prisoners have their hair clipped has cut the number of voluntary prisoners in half and saved the county a tidy sum.

IN MEMORIAM.

FIELD. — In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. W. R. Field, who passed away February 3, 1931.

Two years ago you left us, mother,
How we miss your loving face;
But you left us, to remember
None on earth could fill your place
You did not fail to do your best,
Your heart was true and tender;
You worked so hard for those you loved—
That's something to remember.

—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

FIELD. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. W. R Field, who passed away two years ago to-day, February 3, 1931.

Sweetest memories are all that are left
Of a dear, loving mother, one of the best;
A mother whose heart was as pure as gold—
Our dear mother's worth can never be told.

She ofttimes said we'd miss her
The words have proved too true;
We lost the best and dearest friend,
Dear mother, when we lost you —Ever remembmered by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Field and Son, Miami, Fla.

FIELD. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. W. R. Field, who entered into rest on February 3, 1931.

To-day, I am thinking of someone
Who was loving, kind, and true,
Whose smile was as dear as the sunshine—
That someone, dear mother, was you.

—Sadly missed by her Daughter, Florrie and Family.

Police Court

"Any swap is fair exchange," appears to be the philosophy of Angelo Chevier alias Joseph Kelly of Montreal. Chevier, who was charged with stealing an overcoat from the police cells, told Magistrate Langley today that he didn't steal the coat but that he took it and left his old one, which was badly torn, in its place.

For the next ten days he won't need to worry about a coat By the magistrate's ruling he will spend that time in goal.

Bids Law Goodbye For Film Career

GAIL PATRICK

Entering a screen contest at her home in Birmingham, Ala., "just for a lark," brought a long-term contract in Hollywood for pretty Gail Patrick. After she was graduated with honors from Howard College, Gail aspired to be a lawyer. With her first film role in "The Mysterious Rider" her plans have changed.

A Beauty From The Maritimes

Another beauty invades the wilds of the United States. This time a Canadian girl does the invading. Miss Margaret Shaffner, of Lawrencetown, Nova Scotia, who won the Land of Evangeline Beauty contest recently, is shown here waving "hello" to Boston.

Crabbe And Jungle Mousser

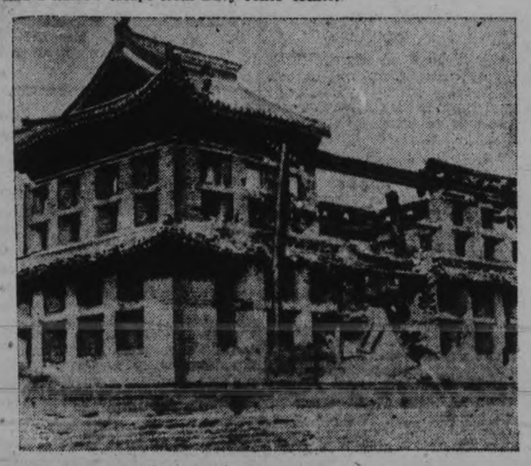
Reminiscent of the ancient picture Androcles and the lion is this photo of Buster Crabbe, Olympic swimming champion, who is shown in an affectionate pose with one of his leonin fellow-actors during the making of a film in which Crabbe is enacting the leading role. Leo looks docile enough, but he can have his playmate for all of us. Lions get hungry sometimes.

When British Crew Were Saved From Watery Grave

Made during the actual rescue, the large picture shows a lifeboat of the liner American Merchant taking off twenty-two survivors of the crew of the British freighter Exeter City which foundered in mid-Atlantic. Inset at top shows the sinking vessel as it appeared when the American Merchant arrived on the scene three hours after receiving the distress call. The captain and three members of the crew of the Exeter City were drowned when a gigantic wave carried away part of the bridge of the disabled vessel. Lower inset shows some of the twenty-two survivors who had a narrow escape from Davy Jones' locker.

Where Japs Rule In China

A scene from the Chinese city of Shanhaikwan, key city of the Great Wall of China, which is now in Japanese hands, showing two of the invading horde searching the ruins of the city for Chinese snipers. More than 500 Chinese were slain before the city, shattered by artillery and aerial bombardments, was captured by the Japanese invaders.



This is a view of the southern gate of Shanaikwan, that has stood in north China for centuries, after a detachment of Japanese attacked the town from the south and drove out the Chinese.

Mrs. Judd Fights On

Fighting for her life, Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned to die on the gallows this month for the "trunk murder" slayings of her two girl companions, is shown on the witness stand at Phoenix, Ariz., as the state's principal witness against her former friend, John (Happy Jack) Halloran, wealthy Phoenix lumberman, accused as an accessory in the murders. Mrs. Judd became almost hysterical as she was cross-examined by Hollaron's attorney.

MARQUIS OF READING

Reports from London state that Lord Reading may head, or be a part of Britain's war debt mission to Washington. Lord Reading was high commissioner and special ambassador to the United States in 1918, and was Governor-General and Viceroy of India from 1921 to 1926. He was the first attorney-general to become a cabinet minister, (1912). Lord Reading was president of the Anglo-French loan mission to the United States during the war, (1915) and seems qualified because of this to have a place on Britain's delegation.

Invades Screenland

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who holds something of a record in finding wealthy husbands, arrives in Hollywood to launch a film career. She told police she had received several death threats en route.

GENERAL MUTO

General Nobuyoshi Muto, Japan's supreme commander in Manchukuo (Manchuria), was reported seriously injured in a bombing raid at Changchun station, Chank Hsai-Hsu, premier of Manchukuo, was reported killed in the same raid.

Going to the movies for a history lesson, Miss Heather Angel (LEFT) and Miss Diana Wynward (RIGHT), British film actresses, are shown as they arrived for the premiere of "Cavalcade", which recently made its western debut at Hollywood. Miss Wynward plays the leading role in the film, which depicts a section of British history as seen through the eyes of one family. The film was hailed by New York critics on its eastern showing as being likely the outstanding picture of 1933.

PROF. WALTER RAUTENSTRAUCH

Until recently an ardent defender of Howard Scott and Technocracy, Professor Rautenstrauch of Columbia University announces that he and the university disavow technocracy as brought forward by Scott. They will continue, however, along with other former "key" men of Scott's, with a new organization and a new name. It is presumed that the research wil follow along similar to technocracy, though branching out into different fields. Columbia has definitely denounced technocracy.

Weighs Over 15 Pounds At Birth

"The biggest I have ever seen," declared Dr. William Kunsman, attending physician, when he viewed the new-born son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chewning of Morrisville, Pa., shown here in the arms of his mother. The infant, a seventh child, weighed 15¾ pounds at birth. The father is unemployed.

A meeting between two of the most prominent figures in Germany is shown here as Field-Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg, aged president of the Republic, greets former Crown Prince Wilhelm, son of the ex-Kaiser, on the occasion of the 62nd anniversary of the founding of the German Empire, which was celebrated in Berlin recently. The ceremonies featured the greatest demonstration of loyalty to the defunct Hohenzollern regime seen in the country since the abdication of the kaiser.

As a miner wended his weary way through the dark passages of a British Columbia mine he stumbled across a big piece of "rock." On examination the "rock", which is shown above, proved to be almost virgin gold, worth about $5,000. It was taken from a new vein in the mine in the Bridge River district which was recently opened from which a half ton of ore yielded $50,000 in gold. The "nugget" shown here is said to be the richest ever found in the province. It weighs 25 pounds and was found 800 feet below the surface.

This is one of the first photographs from the Bolivia-Paraguay fighting zone in South America, showing Bolivian trenches near Fort Yucra which have been captured by the Paraguayans. The battle of Nanawa, near here, is regarded as the most important in the six months of undeclared war.

Friends in the city of Rev. Dr. Orchard and the Boys' Preparatory School at Port Hope will be interested in the following item:

"Old Boys of Trinity College School, at their annual reunion dinner in the Royal York Hotel on Tuesday night, paid a moving tribute to Dr. Graham Orchard, who has been Head Master of the institution since 1913 and who is retiring next June.

"About 100 Old Boys of the school rose and cheered when the veteran Head Master made his farewell address. Dr. Orchard was visibly affected by this demonstration on the part of his old pupils. He congratulated the Old Boys on the contributions they had made to the school and thanked them for the support which they had extended to him.

"The time has come," he said, for me to lay down the responsibilities of what I have considered one of the greatest position in Canada." He referred with feeling to the fact that the toast to the school had been proposed by Rev. C. H. Boulden, Head Master of Lake Lodge Preparatory Schools, who had received the first appointment made by Dr. Orchard. It was a tribute to this appointment, he said, that Mr. Boulden had been selected last August as Head Master of the preparatory school of T.C.S.

"He intimated that after his retirement next June he would return to England and probably spend the rest of his days in a vicarage. Dr. Orchard has been twenty-seven years in Canada.

"The retiring President, Lieut.-Col. John Langmuir, occupied the chair at the dinner. Rev. Cecil Stewart proposed the toast to Dr. Orchard. SIMPLE DRESSES MOST NEEDED

Neat Cotton and Wool Frocks May Be Worn by Home and Business Women All Day Long Every Day.

SIMPLE frocks are what the woman most needs in her wardrobe. She may queen it in a stately robe at certain glorious times; but home and street frocks simply styled are what she needs most.

Every one of this group is wearable and becoming. At the left is a tailored frock in two-piece effect of rabbits' hair jersey. It may be worn every day and all day, until late in the spring. Even in the cooler days of summer you would have use for such a dress, especially if you live in the country or at the seashore. It has a detachable white pique collar and has pleats in front. Would be pretty in green, gray, black or copenhagen blue.

Next is a house frock in a pretty printed, linenized cotton. It is trimmed with hand fagoting at the neck in front, has short sleeves with ruffled edge and box plaits in the front of the skirt.

Another washable frock is shown, third. This one is made of pique with short sleeves plaited at the top, revers edged with contrasting embroidery, and an appliqued bow. Pockets are set in the yoke of the skirt, and there are two box plaits in the front of the skirt and an inverted plait in the back. White embroidered with blue, green with white or porcelain blue with white are pretty combinations.

The handkerchief linen dress shown on the last standing figure is suitable to wear while working around the house or for the game of bridge in your own home in the afternoon. Its white linen cross-over collar is edged with wide Irish crochet and has an inset motif of fagoting. There are two pockets in the skirt yoke in this dress, also, box plaits in front and a plaited panel in the back.

The last dress, on the seated figure, is a wool crepe jumper with a white flock-dot voile blouse. The skirt is slightly flared and the blouse has glass buttons.

BRITISH RAILWAYS SEEK OTHER MEANS

Companies Threatened With Walk-out if They Enact Wage Reduction.

LONDON, Feb. 3 (C.P. Cable).—The British railway companies do not intend at present to post notices of wage reductions for their employees, but are endeavoring to find other remedies for the situation which finds them threatened with a walk-out if they enact wage reduction.

Replying to-day to the rejection by the employees on Jan. 25 of the wage cuts proposed by the chairman of the National Wages Board, the companies declared they regretted the apparent inability of the employees to appreciate the tremendous losses sustained by the companies during the last year, but added: "We must now proceed to consider afresh the situation thus created."

It is believed certain Parliament will be urged to accelerate action on the report presented last year containing recommendations that would place road and rail competition on an equal basis.

FENELLA W.M.S. MEETS AT MRS. MACKEN'S HOME

FENELLA, Feb. 3 (Examiner Correspondence)—Despite the heavy rainfall members and visitors were present at the home of Mrs. C. W. Macklin on Wednesday afternoon, when the regular meeting of the Fenella Women's Missionary Society was held.

The next meeting will be held in the Community Hall on the "World Day of Prayer," March 3.

Mrs. F. Talling then took charge of a most interesting program.

Mrs. W. Sandercock tendered a vote of thanks to the hostess and the usual social half hour was enjoyed.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A TACTLESS HOSTESS who stresses the loss of some article during the stay of a friend in her home, may occasion the latter much discomfort.

* * * * * * *

Not that it is suggested that the guest is in any way responsible through intention or carelessness. But it mars the smoothness of the household, and if kept up for a long time the guest may read into such insistence, a false interpretation.

* * * * * * *

There are many visitors sensitive enough to be made to feel ill at ease by the lack of harmony in such circumstances. They may also begin to wonder why it is being continually mentioned before them, if the hostess believes there is some point in her so doing, and eventually to become definitely upset by it.

* * * * * * *

Here is a little incident. A silver vase was the lost article.

* * * * * * *

So frequently was its loss spoken of in the presence of a guest that it became the chief recurrent topic of conversation for some days. The subject was not an inspiring one, and soon became very tiresome.

* * * * * * *

Talking of it did no good, and made a guest in the house feel uncomfortable. A member of the family who had been away knew exactly where the vase was. He had taken it for flowers and it was in use at the very time in the hallway.

* * * * * * *

Being an accomplished host, he made every effort to make up for the social breach in entertaining which his wife had committed. He was filled with embarrassment that such a subject should have been dwelt upon at all.

* * * * * * *

A certain amount of imagination is a good quality in any hostess who cares for the comfort of her guests. It is surprising how many of the virtues of good entertaining are negative.

* * * * * * *

The "do no's" are almost as numerous as the "dos." The rule "do not make your guest uncomfortable" includes many details. Do not let the running of the household be felt any more than absolutely necessary; do not spread word of any friction.

* * * * * * *

If a wrong order be sent from the store, let it only be very lightly mentioned, if at all.

* * * * * * *

A guest would rather eat a less imposingn meal in comfort than to know of elaborate plans gone wrong. Sometimes, to very intimate friends, it may be mentioned with humor and enjoyed as a joke at all, but even this may not prove as merry as not mentioning it.

* * * * * * *

Give the burden of your displeasure, not to the guest in your home, but to the one responsible for the mistake, if such it was.

Ready to Take Over Presidency After Solid Month of Study and Review.

DEBTS FIRST PROBLEM.

(By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Feb. 3. (AP) President-elect Roosevelt has fixed his policies and found his men to execute them and to-night he heads for the open seas to enjoy a last vacation before assuming the office of President of the United States.

A solid month of study and review of men since giving up the duties of Governor of New York has brought Mr. Roosevelt well up to the threshold of his administration and the "new deal" he promised.

A smashing attack on the tangled international situation will be the first move of the new Democratic President. He will hear separately then leas of the European debtors for relief and demand in return for aid a definite assurance by them of efforts for tariff reform and currency stabilization. He is prepared to call an extra session of the new Congress if the present "lame duck" meeting fails to finish its job.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

OPENING LEADS

THE STRONGEST weapon of the defenders is their right to make the opening lead. What "senior" leads often determines the fate of the contract.

If "junior" has not bid, the player at declarer's left makes a blind lead. If "junior" has bid his partner makes a directed lead. Even if partner has bid, an opening lead against a trump make should be made from winning cards in sequence, when possible. To convey the greatest possible information to partner opening leads must be made conventionally. If only the A-K of a suit are held you state that you hold no third card of the suit, by leading the Ace and then the K. If more than two cards of the suit are held, lead the K first. If the Q also is held, lead that next. The K followed by the Ace announces lack of the Q. An opening lead of a K always announces possession of the Ace, the Q, or both. Do not lead a singleton K. That card may win a latter trick on a finesse, if held.

As the top of a sequence always is led (except from the A-K and others), an opening lead of an honor lower than the K always denies holding a higher honor of that suit. Cards lower than the J often are non-committal. Sometimes the 10 or a lower card may be from three headed by Q or J, provided a better lead cannot be made. Also such a card may be a singleton, or the top of a low sequence, a doubleton or trebleton. Such leads merely show inability to lead from a sequence of ossible trick takers.

Both against trump and no trump makes, inability to lead one of several honors is disclosed by an opening lead of a fourth-best card. It seldom can do harm to lead from a long suit. Sometimes such a lead conveys valuable information to partner. Sometimes it helps partner win one or more tricks that he cannot win in case he has to open that suit.

At trump makes either declarer or dummy must be expected to trump the third lead of a suit. Ordinarily the defenders cannot hope to win defensive tricks in suits incapable of taking either the first or second round tricks, which are termed "quick tricks," as they must be won so quickly that neither member of the declaring side can trump.

Unless both Ace and K of a suit are held it seldom is right to make an opening lead of the Ace, or to lead low from such a suit against a trump make. Do not blindly open tenace suits (A-K, K-J, A-J, K-10). Wait for another player to lead towards your tenaces and single honors.

In case you blindly lay down an Ace you will pick up only low cards. If you reserve your Ace you may kill a high adverse honor, possibly enabling your partner to win a later trick in that suit with some low honor.

Ability to choose the proper opening lead is one of the surest signs of a trained player.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

AS I TOLD you in my column yesterday, I can't work up any enthusiasm over Turkish baths being employed as a medium of weight reduction. But I certainly am keen about them when they are taken for the purpose of skin beautification. For I have found that these baths, when taken monthly or, at most, fortnightly, do simply wonders for the skin of the entire body.

As you know, a large amount of the poisons of the body are eliminated through the pores. And unless the pores are able to breathe freely, their normal activities become limited, and the skin grows sallow and blotchy. A Turkish bath, however, opens the pores and cleanses all accumulated impurities from them most effectively. It stirs the circulation and refreshes and tones the body. And it removes all hardened skin from the feet, elbows and hands.

Of course, some of you may feel that this method of skin beautifying is something of which you cannot take advantage, because you have not the means to pay a monthly visit to a Turkish bath salon. But there's a modified Turkish bath routine that may be followed at home. And it is as beneficial in its effects as it is simple to follow.

In this "home-made" Turkish bath, close yourself in your bathroom and turn on the hot water. Allow the warm steam to completely fill the room. Then fill the tub, and take a long, soothing warm bath. Keep a glass nearby and sip hot water at intervals while you are soaking and scrubbing yourself. Continue sipping the hot water throughout the entire procedure, taking about three or four glasses in all.

After the bath, roll yourself up in warm blankets and rest for about half an hour. You'll be hot, of course, but you want to perspire, in order to eliminate the poisons from your body through your sweat glands and pores. After you have perspired for a while, return to the bathroom and take a warm shower. Follow this with a cool shower to whip up the nerves and exhilarate your body. Finally, rub your body surface of your skin, and will make briskly with a Turkish towel. This will bring the blood back to the your body glow with health and vitality.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Coffee

Mrs. K. J.: Coffee contains the drug caffeine and should not be consumed too liberally. A cup with each meal should be sufficient.

Eye Shadow

Blondie: You may use the blue, blue-gray or gray eye shadow cream. The blue is best for evening wear only, but the other two shades may be worn both in the daytime and in the evening.

Freckles

Peggy: Both lemon juice and peroxide form effective freckle bleaches. Permit either bleach to dry on your skin, and then supply a bit of cold cream to counteract any drying effects.

Your Health

THE MOTHER will, no doubt, have some obstacles to overcome in order to stick to the schedule which she has planned for her baby. Doting relatives will want to play with the baby just when baby's undivided attention should be on his food; daddy will want to play with the baby "just a minute longer," when it is baby's bedtime; and then the infant himself will try his powers at bossing the household. But the mother who can resist giving in, and who insists on following a regular routine, will be well repaid for it in the long run.

The baby may rebel at going to bed at 6 o'clock, and voice this by crying. If the baby is well, crying will do him no harm, so let him cry until he is convinced it will do him no good, and drops off to sleep. Be sure, of course, that he has no real reason for crying—that he is comfortable, warm and dry. After a few nights the baby will learn that his crying is futile and will go to sleep when put to bed.

A similar procedure should be followed with regard to food. Cooked cereal is an essential part of the infant's diet, and it is important that he be taught to eat what is offered him. Gently urge the baby to eat the cereal, but if after 10 or 15 minutes he refuses, take the dish away and give him nothing, except water, until lunch time. Then begin that meal with the same cereal. If it is eaten follow it with the regular luncheon; if not, after a few minutes of gentle urging, take it away and let the baby go hungry until supper time. By that time he will be hungry enough to eat anything that comes his way.

Follow this procedure each day until the infant realizes that he has to begin every day with cereal, and does so without fussing.

A few days of partial starvation, except for water, will do the baby no real harm. And a great amount of good will be derived from his eating cooked cereal daily and establishing proper food habits.

If someone is continually doing something to the baby, he is likely to be accused of being "nervous" when he is merely tired. A rested, healthy baby is calm and serene.

Rheumatic Cripples

New Medicine Eases Pain First Day and Ends Torture of Rheumatism In Less Than a Week.

No matter how crippled and helpless you are with rheumatism; no matter how great your suffering; you can now ease that pain in a day and break rheumatism's terrible grip on your system in less than a week.

One bottle of Ru-Ma, to be had at any drug store, is all you should need to free your muscles and joints from crippling stiffness and swelling, lameness and rheumatic aches and pains.

RU-MA acts on the blood, kidneys and liver, and drives the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of rheumatism. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, get a bottle of RU-MA to-day — it must stop your rheumatic agony or you get your money back.

SPYING ON SPORTS

International Canadian

"Gossip ana Such"

THE MILD JANUARY WEA-ther enjoyed throughout North America was not due to some phenomenon of nature, but to the heat generated by the flaming ears and burning cheeks of American sports writers and that august body, the New York boxing commission.

* * *

EXACTLY ONE WEEK AGO, this evening, Seaman Watson, British featherweight champion, almost the unanimous choice of native New Yorkers as a first-class palooka (before they saw him in real combat) has turned Broadway into Boob Boulevard.

* * *

WATSON WAS FORCED TO show his wares in a gymnasium before being granted the right to meet leading American featherweights. The Sailor could have refused on the grounds, that he, a champion needed no test, but he was good enough sport to go through with it. The gym test of course proved nothing.

* * *

WHEN KID CHOCOLATE was barred from United States by the immigration authorities, Fidel La Barbá was substituted for the match. Few New York boxing writers figured Watson with a chance to survive on his feet. However, what he did to La Barba and the experts is sure to be one of 1932's greatest laughs.

* * *

ALL OF WHICH IS TO point out that if Watson's ability was pooh-poohed just because he was a Britisher, which seems likely, the experts failed to remember their ring history.

* * *

ENGLAND HAS SENT MORE good little ringsters to American shores than it has exported flops. What about Jimmy Wilde, Freddie Welsh, Ted (Kid) Lewis or Owen Moran.

* * *

AND IF YOU WANT TO DIG a bit deeper into ring history, such small British fighting men as Ike O'Neil, Weir, Jem Driscoll, Digger Stanley and Ediar Palmer were as good as anything the Yanks ever had to match them.

* * *

WHAT THE EXPERTS FORgot was that Watson, a featherweight, is carrying on the traditions for this group and such fighters as Nunc Wallace, Spike Robson and Matt Weller are not the horizontal dynasty of heavyweights such as Joe Beckett and Phil Scott.

* * *

ACCORDING TO THE NEW York press, the Keed Chocolate will never defend his title in the U.S. having raised the wrath of the immigration authorities for having (according to them) once entered the country without the proper visa. This is believed to be just one of the charges for this action but the one nevertheless with which the Cuban Bon Ton stays off U.S. shores.

* * *

PLAYFAIR BROWN, TOronto promoter saw an opening for the Ontario Queen City to have a title match and telegraphed Matchmaker Johnston of the Madison Square Garden Corporation an offer to promote the "Kid" Chocolate—"Seaman" Watson bout in Toronto under joint auspices but word from Gotham last night stated that the Garden would not consider Browns proposal.

Gallant Sir Ranks Caliente Favorite

AUGA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 3. (AP)—Gallant Sir, four-year-old bay colt of the Norman W. Church stable, had been made a top heavy favorite to-day in the future book for the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap March 26 as compiled by ringmaster William Koch. He was quoted at two and one-half to one and even money in the place and show positions.

The crack thoroughbred, sired by Sir Gallant III, also has been assigned top weight of 124. Plucky play, from the Esme Stable, originally was assigned 126, but Church decided to withdraw its name.

Artificial production of "raya" hitherto secured only from radium were obtained by workers of the Carnegie institute, employing a specially constructed 2,000,000-volt vacuum tube.

BILLY BRYDGE BIG FACTOR IN NEW YORK WIN

Amerks Give Brilliant Display of Ice Game in Defeating Canadiens 5-0.

RANGERS TIE MAROONS.

Chihawks Share Points With Ottawa Team by Battling to 1-1 Count.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—(CP)—"Forget the past, or win success by wearing blinkers," that old golfing masterpiece of Walter Hagen or maybe it was Bobby Jones adorned the library shelves of New York Americans today. It stood squarely between an uncut "History of the Stanley Cup" and the National league handbook "Arnica and its Uses", much -thumbed.

Joe Simpson

All the unpleasing features of an early-week visit to Toronto, during which the Maple Leafs meted out unmerciful punishment to the most amazing outfit in hockey, were forgotten, fortunately, when Americans got back home. They had two days to forget about that 7-1 thumping.

Last night, wearing the unpatented "new outlook" of all the unrufiled Hagens, Americans turned on Montreal Canadiens and shot a sub-par 5-0 triumph into the records. It lifted New York's Spangled men into second place in the Canadian division of the circuit and lifted the spirits of Amerk adherents to a new high.

There is nothing uncommon in felling the dispirited Canadiens but the manner in which "Bullet Joe" Simpson's outfit wielded the big club was worthy of even such surprising entertainers as Americans. The blow drove the Flying Frenchmen down to last place in the section.

As three other tussles ended in deadlocks, Americans gained on the entire league. Bill Brydge, the old Port Arthur Sailorman, lent a generous hand in the triumph. He provided Ronny Martin an opening for the first two goals in the first period and got the second himself. Wilf Starr scored the third, on Brydge's pass, and Nick Wasnie and Johnny Sheppard the last two on passes from Normie Himes.

Montreal Maroons, needing a win over Rangers to keep abreast of Americans, only managed a 2-2 tie at home. Butch Keeling batted a shot past Goalie Dave Kerr late in the third period to clinch the knot. Baldy Northcott had scored for Maroons in the first period and assisted Hooley Smith in the second Maroon score. Babe Seibert scored the first Ranger goal.

Doug Brennan

Doug Brennan, bumping Ranger defenceman from the Pacific Coast, set up a new penalty record in the second period, spending just about all this spasm on the sidelines. He drew two minors, a major for slashing Earl Robinson, Montreal winger, and a 10-minute misconduct penalty for protesting against the major. Strangely, Marcons didn't score while he was absent.

The singe point Rangers carried out of the conflict matched the one Detroit Red Wings earned at Boston and kept the two teams tied for first place in the American group. Without Ebbie Goodfellow and Frank Carson, out of action with injuries, the Wings set up a stern defence to hold Bruins to a 1-1 score.

Both goals were scored in the first period, Marty Barry netting on a solo rush for Boston and Carl Voss from a pass by Stew Evans.

Tie Hawks 1-1

Ottawa Senators, bolstered at defence by Harvey Rockburn, held Chicago Black Hawks to a 1-1 tie at Ottawa. Rockburn, obtained from Windsor of the International League teamed up with Harold Starr on defence to give Goalie Bill Beveridge better protection than a Senator netman has enjoyed in many weeks.

Frank Finnigan rammed in Hec Kilrea's pass for the Ottawa goal in the third period and Art Coulter, defenceman, matched it nine minutes later on a double pass from Tommy Cook and Paul Thompson.

Old Hockey Veteran Returns To The Game

OTTAWA, Feb. 3. (CP)—Once a hockey player always a hockey player is Major H. S. Harrison's slogan. The Major was a member of the old Ottawa Senators team in 1908 and laid aside his hockey stick in 1909.

Last night he stepped on the ice for the first time in 24 years and scored all three goals to gain a victory for the officers team in a match against the non-commission officers of the Ottawa Highlanders.

ROSE ISLE, Man., Feb. 3 (C.P.)—Struck over the heart by a flying puck, George Green, young hockey player, skated a few feet and crashed to the ice, dead. According to medical belief, the player who skated those last few strides was dead practically from the time the puck struck him.

LONDON TIES BUFFALO FOR LEAGUE LEAD

Indians Tick Off Third Straight Victory by Downing Detroit 3-2.

STARS RANK THIRD.

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (C.P.).—There is a commotion at both ends of the International Hockey League these days, Buffalo, London and Syracuse scrapping among themselves for the leadership, while in the cellar, Cleveland Indians are causing major upheavals with their rejuvenated team.

After dropping two straight games by one goal, London Tecumsehs reversed the procedure and eked out a 1-0 win over Buffalo Bisons at London last night. Cleveland ticked off their third straight win when they downed Detroit 3-2, at the Motor City.

London's win advanced them into a deadlock with the Bisons at the top, leaving Syracuse one point behind in third place. The trio of victories, earned within a week, was as many as the Indians had been able to garner in the previous 10 weeks of campaigning.

Three thousand fans watched Tecs halt the rampaging rush of the Bisons, who had gone nine games without a defeat. Chunky Mike Neville flipped in the solitary goal of the game shortly after the final frame started. Gene Garrigan and Leo Quenneville drew assists on the play.

Started At London.

Incidentally Buffalo's winning streak started at the expense of Tecs in London on Jan. 13. Heavy, but legitimate body-checking marked the play, and only five penalties were imposed, Gordon Fraser, defencemen for the winners, drawing two of them.

The shut-out enabled Goalie Herbie Stuart to pull further away from Bus Taugher in their race for shut-out honors.

The return of Alfie Moore to Cleveland nets, after a two-year absence, has been an important factor in their recent successes. Since he joined them six games back, the Indians have defeated both London and Syracuse, in addition to playing a scoreless tie with Buffalo.

Bert Halliday scored a goal for Cleveland in the first 24 seconds, while Davis got one in for Detroit in the last 10 seconds.

Sandwiched in between were markers by Emil Hanson of Detroit and Bernard Brophy and Freddy Ingram of the Indians.

BUCKHORN BRUINS WIN OVERTIME TILT

Bears Meet Plenty Opposition in Curve Lake Falcons —Win Out 3-2.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3 (Examiner Correspondence).—The second game in the District League was between the Buckhorn Bruins and the Curve Lake Falcons and while the Bruins won, it took ten minutes overtime. The score was 3-2.

What a game; both teams well matched in speed and weight and supported by crowds of fans who cheered them on in one of the spectacular games of the league.

Picking stars was hard, as every man played to win and played his best; there was no lagging, no quarreling, but lots of action, which kept the big crowd interested to the very last. Clayton McCue, the Falcon's goalie, probably played the stelar part of both teams; he was bombarded, but only three passed him. Braden Blewett handler the bell.

Max Wilson scored the first goal two minutes after the game was called, and ten minutes after Graham made it two. Nicholls and G. McCue were the offenders who got rest periods in the cooler in the first.

The second period provided neither score nor penalty.

George McCue scored the first goal in the third period after three minutes hard going and ten minutes later Rome tied the score and the utmost endeavor on the part of both teams could not break the tie.

Nicholls, W. Trude and Whetung drew the penalties.

The first overtime stanza brought no score, but a penalty for Ross Montgomery, and in the second overtime period Max Wilson scored after three minutes of play, what proved to be the winning goal. The line-up was:—

Curve Lake Red Wings.—C. McCue, goal; A. Johnson, F. Whetung, defence; M. Montgomery, centre; V. Graham, G. Nicholls, wings; M. Wilson, C. Wilson, W. Blewett, R. Montgomery, subs.

SMELTERS WIN 1ST PLAY-OFF BATTLE 3 TO 2

Havelock and Madoc Tangle in Final Series for Central League Honors.

GOALS TO COUNT.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Feb. 3.—In the Central League play-off between Havelock and Madoc played on Madoc Arena last evening, the teams were to play home and home games with goals to count. The winners to be entitled to enter the O.H.A. playdowns.

A splendid crowd greeted the players and with good ice the game was fast, right from the first face off. Referee was Ingram of Campbellford who was kept busy but managed to keep the game clean with few penalties. Havelock drawing the major share. The final score was 3-2 for Madoc.

In the first period Havelock secured one goal from a long shot and shortly after another from good combination. Madoc secured one counter (Henderson) just before the end of the period. Havelock drew two penalties and Madoc one in this period. Havelock drew two penalties and Madoc one in this period. Score 2-1 for Havelock.

Brilliant Goal Tending

Second period opened with each team out for business. Havelock's goalies was called on to make several splendid saves in this period, Havelock's play being largely defensive but breaking away where possible for a try on Wallbridge's goal. No score in this period. Havelock 2 penalties, Madoc 1.

Third period fast and rough, Madoc (Henderson) scored almost at once, evening the count. Havelock offered serious menace on Madoc's goal and Wallbridge was hurt in the scuffle, but after a short time out, was able to continue. Blue obtained the third goal and though many tries were made Havelock was unable to count again. Havelock four penalties, Madoc two.

An argument with the referee in this period marred an almost perfect game. Havelock's defense and manager disagreeing with loud threats with the decision given and penalty handed out.

Havelock: Goal, Kennedy; defense, McLaughlin, Brennan; centre, Jack; wings, Voyer, Watson; subs., Voyer, Chiles, Sexsmith, Hagerman.

High School Girls Tie Public Pupils

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3 (Examiner Correspondence).—A much-abbreviated game of hockey, limited to one period only opened the girls' hockey season, when Miss Dunn's High School team met Mr. Chaplin's Public School team on Tuesday afternoon. The weather being mild made the ice soft, which made the going heavy, but it was a try-out which was worth while, as there is good material and a strong junior girls' team will likely be made up. The services of the sterner sex were used as goalies and umpires, while Bob Stenner refereed the game. The score 4-3 for the High School probably is the best indication of the relative strength. Marny Fletcher has had experience and showed form and Kay Wannamaker, Patricia Wannamaker, Jean Blewett, Madeline Abrams, Ethel Brooks and Jean Kingdom are promising material. The line-up is as follows:

Goals.—High School: M. Fletcher 2, Kay Wannamaker 2. Public School: Madeline Abrams 1, J. Blewett 2.

Penalties. — Kay Wannamaker, Jean Blewett.

Word Is Withdrawn From Aussie Protest

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 3. (C. P. Cable)—The Brisbane Telegraph said to-day the word "unsportsmanlike "had been withdrawn by the Australian cricket board of control in its protest over body-line bowling. Managers of the Marylebone Cricket Club would neither confirm nor deny this.

A cabled protest despatched by the Australian board to the M.C.C., governing body of the game in England, held that the body-line bowling practised by the English cricket test team was "unsportsmanlike."

RANGERS DEFEAT RED WINGS 4-1

Superior Combination Accounts for Warsaw's Win in District League.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3 (Examiner Correspondence).—Warsaw Rangers defeated The Grove Red Wings in a hard fought hockey match in the District League on Tuesday night, with a large crowd present. While the score of 4-1 was a decisive victory, The Grove played a good game, with better combination play, but the Rangers had the edge all the way. The heavy ice made hard going, which apparently handicapped the locals more than the Rangers.

Dench, the plucky little centre of the "Kid line," played a good game as usual and Burgess in goal was strong, as he stopped dozens of hot shots. Hepburn and Fletcher also did well, and Gunn played his usual steady strong game.

Harold ("Grandpa") Darling was back on the team for the first time this season, and certainly is a keen player. Bell, Morgan and the Bowen boys were strong, and for the younger players Ivan Payne shows real promise.

Allan Darling in goal was the star of the two teams as he stopped all but one shot with a coolness and steadiness, which was a big factor in the Warsaw victory. Warsaw, in their new uniforms, were natty, their black sweaters contrasted well on the ice with The Grove red. Braden Blewett was referee.

Bell scored after ten minutes of hard play in the first period and that was the only count. Alex. Bowen and Fletcher got the penalties.

The second period was a repetition of the first, as hard checking and swift attack were features, but Payne scored the only goal twelve minutes after the bell rang; Morgan, Bell and Dawe were the penalty box occupants in this period, each getting a short term.

Gunn at last got past the vigilant Darling after five minutes of whirlwind play in the third, scoring the only one for the Students. Morgan scored one minute later and three minutes afterwards put in the last counter of the game. H. Darling got a penalty and MacPherson got two. Penalties were for tripping, mostly accidental, but Braden Blewett nipped any attempt at rough play.

The line-up was:

The Grove Red Wings.—Burgess, goal; Wood, Attwood, defence; MacPherson, centre; Gunn, Strickland, wings; Dench, Hepburn, Fletcher, Dawe, subs.

Warsaw Rangers.—A. Darling, goal; Morgan and H. Darling, defence; Payne, centre; P. Bowen, A. Bowen, wings; Watts, Bell, R. Darling, Clements, subs.

CANZONERI RULED AS 8-5 FAVORITE

"Wise Money" Looks on Lightweight Ruler to Outpoint Billy Townsend.

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (CP) — Blonde Bill Townsend stood ready to-day to see if he couldn't thwart right at its inception, the attempt of Tony Canzoneri to blossom forth as a full-fledged welterweight contender.

The Canadian looked for the power in his right arm to match the speed and undeniable skill of the little New York Italian who has all but cleaned the lightweight boxing ranks of challengers through the proficiency of his own fists.

One of the hardiest and hardest working champions of present day fistiana, the ruler of the lightweights was an 8-to-5 up to 2-to-1 choice to out-punch the young veteran and perhaps gain a match with Billy's renowned fellow-townsman, Jimmy McLarnin. But predictions were that despite the seeming edge in craft and speed accompanying Canzoneri into the Madison quare Garden ring, the former coal miner from Vancouver Island would let him know he'd been in anything but a waltzing contest.

Third Period Rally Wins For Flyers 4-3

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3 (A.P.)—St. Louis Flyers scored two goals in the final period to defeat Kansas City 4-3 in an American Association hockey game last night. After the teams were tied, 3-3, only a few seconds before close of the game. Palangio took a pass from Huard to sink the winning goal.

Badminton Title Holders In Running

OTTAWA, Feb. 3. (CP) — The cream of Ontario badminton players go into action to-night in the semi-final rounds of the Ontario badminton championships. All events except the mixed doubles are now reduced to the semi-final stage. The mixed doubles will be advanced to semi-final stage during the day and the semi-finals in all events will be played off to-night.

Title holders in all events except the men's doubles are still in the running. C. K. F. Andrews and H. A. Henderson of Toronto, the champions in this event, were beaten yesterday when they met another Toronto pair, G. B. and T. H. Smith.

The brilliant Robertson sisters of Ottawa starred in the ladies' events yesterday and the family combination is almost certain to pull one or more titles out of the bag again this year. Margaret is the present singles champion, the two hold the women's doubles title and Margaret shares the mixed doubles. Both are in the semi-finals of the singles event and together they passed through two doubles matches yesterday with only 15 points scored against them.

RUTH WILL REMAIN BIGGEST GATE ATTRACTION IN GAME

Bambino Picks Harry Hooper for Right Field Position on His All-time, All-star Team—Wagner and Ray Schalk Also on Roster.

(By Alan Gould, A.P. Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (A.P.)—Babe Ruth bore up exceedingly well under the strain of being left off the 1932 all-star major league team, picked by a consensus of baseball writrers. He will remain the highest salaried performer and biggest gate attraction in the game this year, anyway, no matter whether he finally comes to terms in Col. Jacob Ruppert's East side brewery or under the soft Florida skies of St. Petersburg.

"Why should I squawk?" he demanded, when the subject of all-star selections was delicately mentioned. "That's the same team I picked myself after last season, so why shouldn't it be okay with me? I put Chuck Klein in right field because he belongs there. I don't see much of him, but the averages show he keeps pretty busy with the Phillies."

Meanwhile Ruth sees no occasion or development calculated to make him change his nominations for an all-star line-up, based upon performances over the past 30 years, two-thirds of which has been under the Babe's earnest scrutiny.

Here are the selections, on which he stands pat:

First Base.—Hal Chase.
Second Base.—Larry Lajoie.
Shortstop.—Hans Wagner.
Third Base.—Jimmy Collins.
Left Field.—John Jackson.
Centre Field.—Ty Cobb.
Right Field.—Harry Hooper.
Catcher.—Ray Schalk.
Pitchers. — Christy Mathewson, Eddie Plank, Herb. Pennock.

The Babe was heckling truck drivers in Baltimore, as a street urchin, when Jimmy Collins was the king of the third basemen, but evidently he heard quite a bit about Collins after landing with the Red Sox. Mathewson, Lajoie and Wagner were others, Ruth admits, he names on the basis of information received and contents noted. He doesn't feel he is running any risks in naming them.

The Babe considers Jackson the greatest "natural" hitter of all time. If there was any exponent of the slugging art Ruth used as pattern at the plate, it was "Shoeless Joe." He thinks of other ill-fated members of the "Black Sox," Hap Welsch, as well as Tris Speaker, outshone Cobb as defensive outfielders but concedes the centre field spot to the Georgian on the strength of Ty's all around prowess.

Bowling Gossip

As predicted last week, the race in the Auburn Mixed League tightened up, and now the difference between top and bottom teams is only five points. Tom Montgomery's Owls took all four points from F. Montgomery's Herons, and went into a tie with them for leadership. Seagulls and Blackbirds, tied for cellar position last week, fought it out, and Seagulls went on ahead by three points, largely due to Captain Ed. Ottney, 290-640. Individual scores:—

Gent's High Single.—E. Ottney, 290; C. Barson, 246; R. McCleevey, 245.

Ladies' High Single.—B. Goldie, 208; L. Page, 203; A. Gore, 193.

Gent's High Three Games.—C. Barson, 641; E. Ottney, 640; R. McCleevey, 611.

Ladies' High Three Games. — B. Goldie, 578; E. Gates, 497; L. Delahaye, A. Simmons, 487.

League Standing

Herons, 10; Owls, 10; Storks, 9; Hawks, 9; Eagles, 8; Seagulls, 7; Vultures, 6; Blackbirds, 5.

A dandy new winter game has been invented. Give Andy Brown and a bunch of his bowling pals the credit. In this way it was discovered: Some twenty bowlers met at the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club House one evening last week to try out carpet bowling. An enjoyable time was spent for an hour. Then Andy suggested the fellows try out the regular lawn bowls on the carpet greens. This game soon took all the joy out of carpet bowling. The greens are thirty-two feet in length, and seventy-two inches in width. Rules are in preparation to govern the game. As far as we know this kind of game has never been played before. The rules must be adjusted to the length and width of the playing area. In a few days they will be ready. The game will be very difficult. The player must cultivate perfect control, and perfect direction. All inexperienced players will be coached in smoothness of delivery. A very nominal fee will be charged to cover the small expense. February, March and April practise will get the players in trim for the opening of the lawn bowling season in May. The game will get the fellows together and foster the right kind of club spirit. The carpet lanes will be in readiness Friday evening of this week.

EMPIRE CUBS BLANK CANUCKS FOR 9-0 COUNT

Ranger Juveniles Wallop Black Hawks 11-0 in the Second Game.

PIRATES WIN OUT 4-2.

One-sided games were run off in the Southend Hockey League at the Sacred Heart last night, with Empire Cubs trouncing Canuck Bantams, 9-0; and Ranger Juveniles walloping Black Hawks, 11 to 1. The ice was fair, and play fast, but in both cases the winners showed too much for their opponents and piled up a big score before the finish. The Intermediate game was closer, Pirates getting a 4-2 decision over Canucks.

The first game saw the Cubs putting on a lot of speed and combination to start countering early and often. Vitarelli was the main scorer with three, while McIlmoyle got two. Webb, Lucas, Johnson and Charlton were the other marksmen. The losers tried hard all the way and threatened on a number of occasions, but could not quite avoid the whitewash. The teams:

Empire Cubs.—Goal, Depellaro; defence, Webb, McIlmoyle; centre, Williams; wings, Johnson, Lucas; subs, Charlton, Vitarelli, Masters, Gardino.

Referee.—D. Mowry.

Decisive Defeat

Black Hawks put up a stiff argument to start their Juvenile game, but were soon swept back before a clicking Ranger outfit that would not be denied. The latter squad was travelling fast and in good order, while their defence turned back the Hawks on every thrust. Burton, Loescher and Gardner each rattled the twine twice, with Starr, Clark, O'Leary, Coughlin and Fields getting one apiece. O'Leary scored the lone Hawk goal. The teams:

Black Hawks. — Goal, Driscoll; defence, Wright, Downer; centre, Guiry; wings, Flynn, Driscoll; subs., Payne, O'Leary.

Rangers.—Goal, Grainger; defence, Field, Loescher; centre, Starr; wings, Clark, Gardner; subs., Burton, O'Leary, Coughlin, G. Clark.

Northenders Default

Northenders defaulted their Intermediate game to Park Hill, but Pirates pulled out a 4-2 win over Canucks in the other one. This was a good fast contest with little difference being shown. The winners had to put up a real fight as they had but one alternate against four for the other side. Both goalies and defence pairs were strong, while the opposing forwards rushed in combination repeatedly, shooting hard and back-checking fast. "Moose" Bailey tallied two of the Pirates goals on smart lone rushes, with McIlwaine and Whatman getting the other pair. Collins and Ashmore scored for the Canucks. The teams:

Pirates.—Goal, Babbs; defence, Bailey, Price; centre, Whatman; wings, McIlwaine, McIlmoyle; alternates, Depellaro.

Lu Blue Released By Chicago Club

CHICAGO, February 3 (C.P.). — Characterized sa the "best fielding first baseman in baseball," by Chicago White Sox heads before the 1932 season, Lu Blue to-day was at liberty to sell his talents elsewhere.

In 1931, after the Sox had obtained Blue from the St. Louis Browns on waivers, he came back to turn in a great season afield and as a lead-off man at bat. Last year, however, he slumped, failed to finish the season as a regular, and yesterday was given his unconditional release as a ten-year man. It was reported that Cleveland and Philadelphia were interested in him.

JUST A VAGRANT.

MIAMI, Fla. — Edwin Taylor, 63, was turned over to county authorities on a vagrancy charge, and his bond set at $500. Taylor calmly reached into his pocket and pulled out a $500 bill. He will be given a hearing a little later.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

Just in case you hockey fans have forgotten, the Petes have a group championship game on at the Brock to-night. Bowmanville supplies the opposition in big slabs—not slobs, Mr. Printer. They tangle at 8.30 and the Petes have a two-goal lead which they had better take a strangle-hold upon if they'd win the lakeshore title. Folks who know their hockey don't need to be told that to-night's tussle will be a dandy with the brainy Bowmanville boys burning up a fast sheet of ice in what should be a thrilling attempt to wrest the game and series from the Petes. The latter outfit ought to be at full strength again.

* * * * * * *

We'd like to see the arena pretty well filled, and it may be at that, for this play-off game. But we don't expect to see such a mob jammed in there as was the case the other night at that benefit game. No, sir, it takes something extry special to get 'em piling in there long before game time, and late-comers being turned away. Where we were crushed together up on the shelf at the north end of the rink, a regular system of breathing had to be followed—just so many taking a deep one at a time, or something would certainly have given till it hurt.

* * * * * * *

Are those days gone forever? As many remarked, it seemed like old times to see the sides a solid mass of hockey humanity. St. Mike's juniors drew a real crowd last winter, and the Haldimand Indians' lacrosse team packed 'em in, but Wednesday's crowd was the biggest one seen in the Brock since the days of O.H.A. senior hockey around these parts. Why we saw faces at this game that hadn't been around since Bailey, Collins and Ranger were burning up the ice here and in Toronto. We haven't senior hockey now, but we've got a good winning intermediate team, and besides times have changed since '26. There's been a world depression, in case you didn't know it, and hockey like everything else has suffered. Let's hope those days aren't gone forever.

* * * * * * *

Our juniors are slated to go to Port Hope to-night to wind up their schedule. It seems there is plenty of dissatisfaction among the other teams over the fact that first team in this section is declared winner, without playing off with the second-place one. It's not entirely settled yet, we understand, as both Port Hope and Bowmanville are kicking to the O.H.A. about it. Strictly speaking, our team shouldn't have to play-off as this wasn't stipulated at the schedule-drawing, but the O.H.A. may ask the Petes to do it for the good of this section along the lakeshore, and the local squad may be willing. We should hear about it anytime now. Meantime, Fenelon Falls plays Lindsay the return game to-night, having a one-goal lead on their play-off round.

The girl cagers resume their schedule at the Y.W. this evening, in this order: Blue Petes vs. St. Paul's at seven, Westclox vs. "Y" Intermediates at 7.45, C.G.E. vs. "Y" Seniors at 8.30, St. Andrew's vs. Senior School at 9.15; while Monday's game at 8.30 is between Westclox Juniors and Wohelos. The fair hoopsters are approaching the halfway mark in their schedule and are showing some smart basketball down there these nights. I'll be quite a scramble down the stretch.

* * * * * * *

And here's the finals of the Church Basketball League. The following games will be played at the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow eve: Trinity Juveniles vs. George Street B at six, Mark Street Juniors vs. St. John's at seven. If the Ashburnham outfit wins, it will be tied with Knox Juniors and Murray Street for the lead in the second half, and a further playoff will be necessary. We should have some dope shortly on the City Basketball League and the local O.A.B.A. team.

Agent No. 11 comes in with the following report: Auto-towing-on-the-canal is the new sport recently, that is fellows and sometimes gals, too, don skiis and hook onto a rope behind a car and go for spins on the icy canal's upper reaches from the low bridge clean back to Nassau. We imagine it would be just as thrilling as skating on a lake with an arm sail on a windy day, or surf-board riding back of a speedboat in the summer. The ice is pretty thick back there on the canal this winter.

* * * * * * *

As Ed Allan points out in the Mail today, Doug Brennan, the big Ranger defenceman who is no stranger to Peterborough and district hockey fans, established something of a record last night playing in Montreal. In the third period, Doug had two minor penalties (four minutes), one major (five minutes) and a 10-minutes penalty for misconduct. This totals nineteen minutes in the penalty box. He probably played hockey the remaining minute of this frame.

* * * * * * *

Just about another week will finish the Church League and the Southend League hockey schedules, and the playoffs will begin. It won't be long either until the City League is completed, but the E. P. L. will likely run another three weeks or so, and we hope our O.H.A. teams are still in there around the end of this month. Nevertheless, February, which has less than four weeks to go now, will see a big hole gaping in the local hockey picture. This is just a reminder so that the players can go out and dash off something worthy of themselves before it's all washed up; and fans can go get themselves a couple or three looks at the "fastest game" before it's wrapped up in moth balls in this town for another year.

* * * * * * *

Grab-bag: The P.C.I.-Grove game here had to be called off yesterday . . . . We see where the oldest member of the Marlboro Seniors is 24, most of them being around 20 . . . . Frank Collins and Ken Kane left with the Sea Fleas on their trip to play hockey around Europe . . . . Lakefield plays an E.P.L. game to-night in Norwood . . . . Cantonwine, chased out of a Toronto ring by an angry mob two weeks ago, was greeted with cheers on his appearance back there last night—fickle fandom! . . . . These C.G.E. games will be played at the Brock tomorrow: Armature vs. Fractional Motors at one, Drafting vs. Switchgear at two, Office vs. Toolroom at three, and Machine Shop vs. Structural Steel at four . . . . And just as we close, we are officially informed that first and second teams in our junior O.H.A. section are ordered to playoff, first game probably being here next Tuesday.

Prairie Provinces Want Ladies' Series

EDMONTON, Feb. 3 (C.P.)—Western Canadian women's hockey officials are anxious to arrange a Canadian women's hockey championship series. Already J. A. McNeill, secretary of the Alberta Women's Hockey Association, has received assurance that Lady Bessborough, wife of the Governor-General, will present a trophy to be completed for in a Dominion-wide championship series.

It was proposed by Mr. McNeill that Ontario and Quebec declare a winner this year and that team travel west to Banff, Alta., where the final series to determine a Dominion champion could be held at the Winter Carnival, Feb. 8-11.

At the present time Edmonton Rustlers are the champion women's hockey team of the West.

Cricket Results

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 3 (C.P. Cable).—New South Wales and South Australia wickets fell cheaply in the first inning of their cricket match played here to-day. The scores were: New South Wales, 113 (Fingleton 43, Bradman 36. Wall 10 for 36. South Australia, 114, (Howell five for 31).

THE GEORGIA MINSTRELS

Old-time minstrelsy at its best, with a dash here and there of modern burned cork entertainment and some of the best dancing of its type ever seen here, comprised the fare with which Richard & Pringle's Georgia Minstrels delighted a large audience at the Grand Opera House last night. A flashy, fast-moving first part, with plenty of pep and vim in the end songs and some effective vocalizing and harmony in the ballad numbers, aided and abetted by an agile master of ceremonies, who never had a chance to sit down, was followed by an olio of more than usual merit. But above all, the dancing numbers stood out. Evidently none of those colored entertainers had ever even heard of rheumatism, for practically all the principals scored in buck and wing specialities and acrobatic dance routines that were the last word in speed and also in exertion. Some splendid voices were revealed in the first part program, and Lee Glover's singing of "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and Climmy Miller's rendition of "River, Stay Away from My Door" in real Al Jolson style, scored tremendous hits. Aaron Gates was an excellent master of ceremonies, and kept the first part offerings moving at top speed. The costumes and stage setting added much to the effect, while George Bryant and his orchestra were of invaluable assistance.

In the second part a quartette had to respond to several encores. Chick Beeman was responsible for a lot of hearty laughter with his monologue, the Nay Brothers stopped the show with an unusual dance offering, and the whole company put on an effective "Fun on the Levee" finale, in which the feature was the singing of a number of favorite old negro spirituals in most delightful fashion.

KNOX JUNIORS TIE GEORGE ST.

St. James Takes 10-4 Decision From St. John's in Second Junior Contest.

CHURCH HOCKEY LEAGUE.

Outside of a 2-all tie between Knox Juniors and George Street in the second game, all last night's Church Hockey League fixtures at All Saints' ring were marked by big margins for the winners. In the juveniles game, St. James took a 10-4 decision over St. John's; in the second junior contest, it was 8-0 for Mark Street over Trinity; while the final tussle of the evening went to All Saints, 11 to 1, over Murray Street. Good ice, and fast play marked every game.

St. James' juveniles had a decided edge in the first period, getting four goals and blanking St. John's. The latter had a little the better of it in the middle frame, getting two to one, but again in the third chapter, St. James ran in five to two and threatened to run it higher. Flashes of good hockey were seen throughout this affair. The teams:

St. John's—Goal, Ford; defence, Pink, Patterson; centre, Thirnbeck; wings, J. Patterson, Edwards; subs, Perks, Young, Lomax.

St. James—Goal, Piercy; defence, Leggott, Grose; centre, Heal; wings, Smart, Spendely; subs, Dinsdale, Glose, Woods.

Referee, C. Sproat.

Battle To 2-all Tie

Knox Juniors and George Street put on a fine tie contest in three frames, both sides getting a goal each in the second and third periods. S. Seabrook and Anderson countered the Knox markers with Lesurf and Andrews doing the tallying for the other side. Hard checking, good goal tending and careful hockey was maintained throughout by the rival outfits, with neither side showing any advantage. The teams:

Knox: Goal, Hammell; defence, Fisher, S. Seabrook; centre, Gatfield; wings, McDonald, Anderson; alternates, Menzies, Masters, Irwin.

George Street—Goal, Currie; defence, Lesurf, Parnall; centre, L. Cassie; wings, I. Cassie, Heard; alternates, Wright, Taylor, Andrews.

Referee, B. Sproat.

Mark Street turned on the steam in the second session to run in six big ones and then added two in the last canto to whitewash Trinity Juniors. The East City aggregation, led by Burton who scored five of the goals, proved too much for the losers' defence and worked their way in often with tricky stickwork and hard shots. Earle got two goals and Stewart one for the winners. Clark stopped quite a few for the losers, and the forwards all worked hard. The teams:

Trinity:: Goal, Clark; defence, McBain, Head; centre, B. Huffman; wings, Armstrong, Hamley; alternates, E. Huffman, Hayes.

Mark Street: Goal, Hunter; defence, Mitchell, Wright; centre, Earle; wings, Alton, Stewart; alternate, Burton.

Referee, N. Frost.

Walk Away For Saints

The final game was a walk-away for All Saints against Murray Street, the former running in 11 goals to the losers' one. All the Saints turned in an effective offensive game, the forwards all shining, and the defence going great in both departments. Hope was almost a stone-wall in goal, just one hard one beating him. The losers kept trying but they were outclassed in every period. The teams:

Murray Street: Goal, Galley; defence, Holmes, Miller; centre, Lasenby; wings, Ellis, Pammett; no alternates.

All Saints: Goal, R. Hope; defence, Beauclair, E. Hope; centre, Clark; wings, Frost, Hetherington; alternates, Williams, Pulford.

Referee, C. Sproat.

SAINTS GAIN 4-2 VICTORY OVER SENIORS

Clock Makers Take Fall in Postponed Game of City Girls' Basketball League.

SET TERRIFIC PACE.

FRIDAY GAMES.

7.00—Blue Petes vs. St. Paul's.
7.45—Westclox Srs. vs. Intermediates.
8.30—C.G.E. vs. Y. Seniors.
9.15—St. Andrew's vs. Sr. School.
February 6—Westclox Juniors vs. Wohelo at 9.00.

These games will complete the first half of the schedule.

After a speedy, hard-fought and thrilling overtime struggle the St. Paul's team came through with a 4-2 victory over Westclox Seniors last night in a postponed game of the City Ladies' Basketball League. From the start the teams set a terrific pace, and kept it up throughout the struggle. There was very little, if anything, to choose between them, as first one and then the other team attacked viciously.

Lone Marker.

B. Thirnbeck contributed the lone shot for the Westclox Seniors which was scored in the first half. In the second session C. Patterson registered a count to tie the score. The teams battled through the rest of the period without scoring.

In the three minutes' overtime, both teams were persistent in their checking. With one minute of play left, the St. Paul's had their sterling efforts rewarded when C. Patterson scored the deciding tally. The Westclox Seniors kept up their endeavor to knot the count. They tried their luck at long shots, but were unfortunate in each attempt.

The line-ups:

St. Paul's — Forwards, C. Patterson, C. Legop, I. Reid; centre, V. Davidson; defence, E. Morrow, J. Howson, I. Cowan, and S. Jackson.

Westclox Seniors — Forwards, B. Thirnbeck, G. Robinson, G. Mortimer, E. Bradley; centre, M. Mortimer, G. Hardill; defence, D. Webb, H Joyce, and C. Mason.

Referee—Howard Macdonald.

C.G.E. Juniors Also Win.

The C.G.E. Juniors added another victory to their list when they defeated the Senior School Girls last Monday night. The contest was a lively affair and quite a few penalties incurred. The Senior School Girls had a number of fine scoring chances, but they could not click as effectively as their opponents.

At the end of the first quarter the C.G.E. Juniors were leading 5-2. Z. Thomas tallied two baskets, and from a foul off J. Nichols, D. Seabrooke was able to count another point. The Senior School Girls gathered in their two points by two foul shots put in by J. Nichols and M Kingsbury. In the next quarter Z. Thomas registered two more baskets in a rather easy fashion, and brought the score up to 9-2 at half-time for the C.G.E. Juniors. In the third quarter Z. Thomas was again successful, and added another two points. In the last quarter the Senior School Girls were able to secure another basket to their credit when T. Buller tallied. The C.G.E. Juniors combined again and N. Pearson and D. Seabrooke netted a basket each, which brought the final score in their favor to 15-4.

The line-ups:

C.G.E. Juniors — Forwards, D. Seabrooke, N. Pearson, Z. Thomas, I. Waldie; centre, W. Wallwork; defence, D. Gibson, L. Bosley, L. Giardino.

Senior School Girls—Forwards, J. Nichols, K. Thackeray, M. Lucano; centre, T. Buller, I. Glover; defence, M. Kingsbury, S. Yeotes, J. Mlane, I. Courneya.

Referee—Stan. Shields.

PETES PREPARE FOR TIGHT TILT

Lightning-fast Ice Promised for Second Game of Intermediate O.H.A. Play-off.

HOLD 2 GOAL EDGE.

The O.H.A. playoffs are here once more! To-night at 8.30 up at the Brock, Bowmanville Intermediates and the Petes meet in the return game—the first one here—of their group titular series, the winner advancing to the next round of the O.H.A. playdowns. The Petes have an edge, inasmuch as they licked Bowmanville on the latter's ice, 2 to 0, last Monday. They will fight hard to retain that two-goal lead against the battling Rubbertown veterans.

A lightning-fast sheet of ice is promised to-night, and local fans will have their first opportunity of the year to see these two speedy teams on proper footing, all their other games being shinny affairs on a slushy surface. Both are big and powerful, packing lots of speed and clever hockey. This game should be a real exciting battle.

George Piper will probably be the most marked man of the visiting aggregation. The tricky centre has been a thorn in the sides of the Petes, not only this season, but for a number of years back. He is the boring-in type of player, and the puck seems glued to his stick as he works his way in repeatedly and snaps sudden hard shots from the different angles. His brother at right wing and old Hooper on defence are others who will bear watching, though the whole team is dangerous for that matter. Martyn has been starring in goal lately.

The Petes expect to be at full strength, if the doctor will permit Archie Weir to return to-night. If the defence star cannot be back in the line-up, Pat Calladine, who has been burning up the E.P.L. this season, will likely be used instead. Either Gillespie or Miller will be back in goal, Howe and LeBarr on defence, and the regular forward lines of Ellis, Dallin, Dundas; Jarvis, Creighton, Hatton. Jack Sabatino of Lakefield will referee this championship game, and a huge crowd of fans is expected to fill the Brock.

Amateur Mitt Slinger Breaks Neck In Fall

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Feb. 3. (CP) A postmortem will be performed to-day on Tony Dragon, well-known amateur boxer, who collapsed and died during a bout last night after he had been struck on the head several times by Alex Hazel, Leamington. Dragon slumped to the floor after a wild flurry of blows during which Hazel had punched him on the head and above the heart.

No charge has been laid against Hazel. Chief of Police J. C. Badcock declared Dragon had been chewing on a piece of hard rubber during the bout and it was believed the boxer swallowed this when his head was snapped back by a blow.

Dragon dropped face forward to the canvas and it was generally believed the fall had broken his neck.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

"WELL," SAID the chimney to the five shadows children, "I think I'll take a smoke."

"No smoking allowed," Knarf warned the chimney.

The chimney couldn't shake its head (it didn't have a head to shake), so it answered: "I'm allowed to smoke." With that the chimney called down to the fire, way down in the furnace: "Fire, fire....send up some smoke!"

For a while the chimney waited, expecting the fire to send up some smoke. But no smoke came up and finally Mij, the shadow boy, said: "The fire must have gone out."

"Gone out!" the chimney exclaim. "I never heard of such a thing. Where could it have gone out to?" The chimney tried to look down into the back yard to see if by chance the fire had gone out through the cellar window. But it wasn't in the back yard. "I wonder if you would mind finding that fire," the chimney asked the shadows.

"No smoking," they warned.

"We'll look," the shadows promised. They trooped downstairs into the cellar. When they reached the furnace they found the door open. "You see," the y found the door open. "You see," Flor cried, "the fire has gone out through the open door."

The Fire Is Out

The coals in the furnace were still glowing but there was no fire. It had certainly gone out. So they all went into the back yard and looked around for the fire. It wasn't under any of the trees, nor behind any of the bushes. At length they saw some sparks rising into the air in the direction of the street and all five shadows ran out to see if the fire wasn't burning somewhere in the street.

Yes, there was a fire burning in the street. It was a bon-fire. "Did you go out of the furnace?" the shadows asked the fire. They were careful not to get too close to the fire. It darted out at them with its sharp tongues.

"Did you go out of the furance?" the shadows asked the fire again.

"I come from a match," the fire answered, cackling with glee.

"Come now, go back to the furnace where you belong," Hanid told it. "The chimney is waiting to smoke, and the house is getting cold."

But the fire paid no heed to them. And when they tried to catch hold of it, it cried: "Be careful.... I'll burn you!"

STOLE 50 TREES IN EMILY TWP.

Toronto Man is Remanded for Sentence in Lindsay Police Court.

4 DEATHS IN FAMILY

LINDSAY, Feb. 3. — (Examiner Correspondence).—At a session of the police court yesterday Leo Baptiste, Toronto, was remanded for sentence for two weeks on the charge of stealing Christmas trees (fifty in number) from the farm of Clare Harrington, Emily Township. Another man, Harry Fegan, of Toronto, charged with the same offence, did not appear. Fegan, it appears, had hired Baptiste to draw the trees which the former was going to get in this locality. Before the men left Toronto they were warned to cut no trees without consulting the owner. The magistrate stated that a stop had to be made of the practice of parties cutting down trees without first obtaining permission. Mr. Harrington had attempted without success to obtain restitution.

The death is announced at Fenelon Falls of George English, a well-known resident of that district. His brother, James, passed away in Lindsay a few days ago. This is the fourth death in the family in fourteen months.

The Board of Education has appointed a committee to meet the teachers in the local schools to discuss the question of salary reductions. The petition from local women's societies requesting the reinstatement of the singing teacher in the public schools met with the announcement that the board could not accede to the request.

Prints with dark backgrounds are favored for blouses to wear with town suits.

Kathleen Dunford Wins First Prize

Winner in Map Contest Conducted by Presbyterian Publications.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Feb. 3. — Kathleen Dunford has received a note from the Presbyterian Publications, announcing that she had won first prize in the Scripture puzzle and map contest. In the autumn there were several Scripture puzzles published in Young Canada,the Sabbath School paper for the Intermediates. Then having worked the puzzles a prize of five dollars was offered for the best map of Palestine, with these places correctly placed. About 60 entered the contest. Kathleen received her five dollars, with the exchange, so she has her amount clear. All the puzzle answers were correct, and decision was wholly on the maps. One prize went to Calgary, one to Nova Scotia, others to Toronto, Hamilton and other places. A boy from Warsaw Presbyterian church had entered.

Kathleen is the daughter of Mr. Allan Dunford, Toronto, but has spent her life since she was two years of age, with her aunt, Mrs. Henry Clements, and Mr. Clements in Warsaw.

The members of the Warsaw Presbyterian congregation held their annual meeting in the church on Tuesday evening, with more than the usual number out.

Rev. Mr. Sutherland presided.

After routine opening Dr. Munro read the church report, showing all work being carried on and finances in good condition. The new year starts with a clear sheet. The doctor also read the Sunday school report showing a good attendance in the six classes. After lesson helps and Sabbath school papers have been supplied, also certain moneys donated, there is still a substantial balance on hand.

Mrs. James Greystock read the missionary report. Their allocation had been reached and sent away and a live interest shown in the work.

Mrs. Munro read the Ladies' Aid report. It, too, was most satisfactory.

The old managers were re-elected and three trustees appointed.

In connection with all Women's organizations in and around Warsaw, Mrs. James Greystock is the key-woman to arrange for the World's Day of Prayer Service to be held on March the third.

At last Sunday evening service in the United Church, Rev. J. W. Wilkinson ordained David Taylor as elder, in place of Uriah Payne, who wished Mr. Taylor to take his place after his five years were up.

MEDICAL TREATMENT BRINGS NO RELIEF

"My daughter's face and neck were covered with a mass of sores, which our doctor diagnosed as eczema. He prescribed treatment which we tried for two months without relief. The poor child's face had to be swathed in bandages and she was confined to the house. I was about to call in a skin specialist, when I heard how Zam-Buk had healed many sufferers from this dread disease, so I purchased a box of ointment and tablet of soap. After a few days treatment there was a great improvement; day by day the sores disappeared and within a month my daughter's face was entirely cleared of any sign of the terrible disease, without a single scar. I can't say too much of the wonderful healing power of Zam-Buk."—Mrs. H. A., Toronto, Ont.

LEONOR LOREE AGAIN WINNER

Colorful Financial Figure Comes Out on Top in Battle of Railroads.

75 YEARS OF AGE

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—A four-party merger conference of eastern railroads was in progress some time ago.

General W. W. Atterbury, president of the mighty Pennsylvania, enter. He looked around.

"Well," he said, "we're all here except Mr. Loree, the owner of the New York Central.'

"General," responded the late Clyde Brown, general solicitor of the powerful New York Central, "we don't know whether Mr. Loree owns the Central, but we do know that he has the money to buy it."

Not So Jocular

There were several stings to that jocular exchange.

In the first place, Leonor Fresnel Loree, last of the veteran railroad capitalists of the tribe of Harriman and Hill, had obtained that money, $63,000,000 to be precise, from the Pennsylvania. He had obtained it for his minor Delaware & Hudson, a "bridge" line extending from Wilkes Barre, Pa., and Albany and Troy, N. Y., to the Canadian border, where it connects with the Canadian Pacific for Montreal.

For years Loree had been threatening a purposed four-party trunk line in the east (a merger of all roads there into four), by a fifth trunk line. His little road, which was paying a 9 per cent dividend through ownership of collieries, etc. not only threatened, but took action.

It bought heavily into Lehigh Valley and Wabash, throwing a monkey wrench into plans of the Pennsylvania and Van Sweringens.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was for the four-party plan, but Loree had the pawns.

A Deal

General Atterbury (wartime director of American rail operations in France) thereupon went to Loree and arranged to take over the D. & H. interest in the Wabash and the Lehigh Valley for his Pennsylvania. That was at the height of the boom of 1928.

It looks as if rail stocks would continue to skyrocket.

Loree sold the D. & H. interest in the two roads to the Pennsy for $63,000,000 as aforesaid.

Two years later that interest was a liability to the Pennsylvania. Wabash went into receivership, the Pennsy not desiring to throw any more money into a rathole. And Lehigh Valley, an excellent road, but a coal road with no tie-up to the Pennsy for through traffic, stopped paying dividends.

In a 'final" four-party adjustment, to which Loree was not invited, Lehigh Valley was assigned to the Van Sweringens, but by that time the Van Sweringens, were borrowing right and left.

Still Worse

Worse yet, the haughty 11,000-mile New York Central, which crosses the 870-mile D. & H., at Albany and Troy and Schnectady, N.Y., also was borrowing right and left.

No. D. & H. had an investment fund of $40,000,000. Lorsee sat smiling. He saw New York Central stock slip from $360 a share to as low as $8.50—when the market was at its worst.

Loree went to J. P. Morgan & Co., and told them to buy 500,000 shares of New York Central — a tenth of the outstanding stock. The cost was a mere $10,000,000—at an approximate average of $20 a shere.

His D. & H. virtually controls New York Central, the giant founded by Commodore Vanderbilt and perpetuated in his family by a series of special grants, such as the family itself owning certain essential connecting terminal properties.

Other Control

The Vanderbilts long since have not been in actual control. The late George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank of New York, was the power, together with the Union Pacific (in which the Harriman family still has large holdings).

Baker is dead. And, curiously enough, about the time that Loree bought New York Central, the Union Pacific began switching to Pennsylvania, with promise of a quicker return to dividends.

That promise has been fulfilled. The Pennsylvania has declared a 50-cent dividend to common stockholders, meaning an outlay of $6,500,000, although the road has borrowed $27,500,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for electrification, and another $2,000,000 to 'make work" by repairing cars.

Then, Dividends Stopped

But oddest of all, with all its cash, the Loree road has omitted its dividend for the first time in 53 years. Since 1826 it has failed to pay dividends in only 12 years. During the panic of 1907-8, it raised its dividend from 7 to 9 per cent. The dividend was reduced last years from $9 to $6.

Loree no longer is a young man. He is 75, was born at Fulton City, Ill., and entered the railroad business as an assistant in the engineer corps of the Pennsylvania in 1877, after being graduated from Rutgers.

He lives at 277 Park avenue, New York, and has an estate, "Boxwood", at West Orange, N. J. His office is in the heart of the financial district.

He probably will sit at the head of the table in any four-party merger now. Baltimore & Ohio is saddled with indebtedness, so is Nickel Plate, and Pennsy and New York Central are just beginning to earn again. Loree is the most colorful figure in the railroad world today.

But Loree says he does not desire the chairmanship of the Central.

He explains how during the war, under federal control he was in chargeof railroad operations in the eastern regions and now president of the Central, Frederick E. Williamson, was his able assistant.

TRAINING COURSE TO OPEN TO-NIGHT

Course of Study Opens in Y.W.C.A. at 7.45.

The Christian Education Council of Peterborough is sponsoring a course of Bible study and teachers' training, commencing this evening, with lectures each night next week.

These lectures, it is hoped, will serve a twofold purpose this year. They will give guidance and aid to the teachers and leaders of Christian education in the various churches in the city, as well as provide a course of Bible study for adults who are not definitely connected with teaching a Sunday School class.

There are five courses from which one may choose. Children's Work—Material and Methods, led by Mrs. L. J. Pettit; Boys and Girls' Work—The Psychology of Adolescence, by Rev. C. D. Daniel; Young People's—Material and Methods, by Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr; Teaching Values of the Old Testament, by Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean; and Teaching Values of the Life of Jesus, by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

Each evening will be divided into two lecture periods, interspersed by a worship service and recreation period.

The school will commence at 7.45 p.m., and all sessions will be in the Y.W.C.A., and is open to anyone who is interested in the Christian education of our youth or the study of the Bible.

There is no entrance fee, but a silver collection will be taken to assist in defraying expenses.

We Introduce on Saturday—

The New Eatonia Vacuum Cleaner at a New Low Record-Breaking Price

A Price That to the Best of Our Knowledge is Dollars and Dollars Less than any other full-sized Motor - Driven Brush - Type Vacuum Cleaner on the Market.

39.50

This we consider one of the most satisfactory achievements in the history of EATONIA merchandising—to offer this most efficient, new, up-to-date, everyday requirement of every home at a price unheard for a vacuum cleaner embodying such qualities! How do we do it?

FIRSTLY—By the economies effected by quantity buying to supply our many stores across Canada.

SECONDLY—Since the first electric vacuum cleaner, people have had to be shown what an electric vacuum cleaner was—and what it could do. Nowadays, most everybody realizes the advantages of a vacuum cleaner in the home—it's merely a matter of buying the most economical way. Therefore, we eliminated every possible expense in the methods of selling vacuum cleaners—the door to door canvas—transportation—wasted time of numerous no-sale demonstrations, etc.

IT ALL MEANS THAT YOU CAN SAVE MANY DOLLARS! Come into the Store and see this wonderful vacuum cleaner. THE EXTRA BIG SAVINGS MAKES IT WELL WORTH YOUR WHILE.

The new EATONIA has been passed and is thoroughly recommended by our Research Bureau and the Eatonia Committee—to us, an absolutely convincing recommendation! It is a Canadian-made, brand new, full size, dependable and efficient cleaner—and is thoroughly guaranteed to give every satisfaction that a good cleaner should give.

Deferred Payment arrangements made if desired.

Come and share in the first shipment of this new EATONIA help for the home.

FRED HEIMACH SIGNS CONTRACT

Hack Wilson, Dodger Outfielder, Rejects New Offer From Brooklyn Club.

IS OFFERED $9,500.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (C.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers have received the signed contract of Pitcher Fred Heimach, the club announced today.

Heimach, who with William Watson Clark forms the southpaw division of the Dodger pitching staff, appeared in 36 games last season, chiefly in relief roles. He was credited with nine victories against four defeats.

At his home in Martinsburg, W. Va., Hack Wilson, rotund Dodger outfielder, revealed last night he had rejected a new offer from the club. The Dodgers were understood to have offered Hack $9,500 for his labors in 1933, as compared with $16,500 in 1932, but Wilson says it still isn't enough. A 10 per cent. cut, he said, would be acceptable to him.

BORDER ARSON RING'S 'TORCH MAN' TALKS

Liberals Oppose Government Aid For Barter Plan

But What If Private Backing Is Found? They Ask In The House Of Commons—Queries Are Not Answered By Government.

HON. H. H. STEVENS OUTLINES ATTITUDE OF GOVERNMENT TOWARD RUSSIAN TRADE.

OTTAWA, February 4 (C.P.). — Any person in Canada may sell goods to Russia and any person may bring goods into Canada from Russia except the articles banned under the Order-in-Council of 1930. The Government of Canada, however, will not support a barter of Canadian cattle for Russian oil and coal in the terms submitted recently nor will it indicate its attitude in advance towards the promotion of such a deal by means of private capital.

This was the position of the Government as explained in the House of Commons last night by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Stevens was showered with questions about the Russian barter scheme when the estimates for his department came before the House in Committee of Supply.

Western members were particularly curious about the barter proposals, and a Maritimer, Col. Thomas Catley of Pictou, raised his voice against any admission of Russian coal to compete with the product of Nova Scotia mines.

Finances Own Transactions.

The Government was on sound ground when it refused to involve Canada financially in the scheme, Hon. James Malcolm, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, told the House. He believed traders should finance their own transactions, and cited a trade arrangement once made with Roumania on which the Government had failed to collect as a reason for the Government staying out of the scheme.

Mr. Malcolm, however, saw no reason for the ban on Russian coal, and believed the Government should encourage imports from countries willing to trade with Canada.

Both Mr. Stevens and Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, were pressed for an indication of the stand the Government would take if the barter syndicate could provide its own finances. Mr. Ryckman said the Government would give a quick answer if a business proposition were laid before it, and Mr. Stevens said he would give no assurance to any syndicate which might be taken out and peddled to foreign countries.

With the exception of coal, lumber, pulpwood, and furs, any person in Canada may import from Russia to any extent they desire, subject to the statutory import duties, and may export to Russia to any extent they may arrange, so far as the Canadian Government is concerned. This was the statement of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, replying to queries directed at him during consideration of the estimates in the House of Commons last night.

All imports and exports to and from Russia were under state control, he said, and for the past five years their foreign trade had been conducted on long term agreements. The question of extending such credits to Russia was a matter of grave importance. Up to the present the government had not considered it advisable to place Canada's resources behind goods shipped to Russia.

Miss Agnes MacPhail (Prog. Southeast Grey) said that the farmers of this country were suffering to an extent that it indirectly injured the whole of the Dominion. Yet farmers were being deprived of the opportunity to get their goods at the cheapest price, especially when the price level for the commodities they produced was so low.

QUEEN'S PARK HOLD RANGERS TO 1-1 COUNT

Seven Teams Advance To-day Into Third Round of Scottish Cup Play.

FOUR TIE GAMES.

Aston Villa Cuts Arsenal's First Division Lead to Four Points.

GLASGOW, Feb. 4 (C.P. Cable)—Seven teams joined Dundee in qualification for Scottish Cup 3rd round play by snatching victories in the second round to-day. Four of the eleven games played were drawn.

Hearts, Motherwell, Celtic, Kilmarnock, Stenhousemuir, St. Johnstone and Albion Rovers all chalked up wins. Queen's Park held the mighty Rangers to a 1-1 draw, and each team scored only one goal in the games between Aberdeen and Hibernians, Leith Athletic and Clyde and Partick Thistle and Ayr United. Dundee won their way into the third round with a victory over Bo'ness on Feb. 1.

Motherwell, tied with Rangers for First Division leadership, piled up seven goals against Montrose, a second division outfit, who were able to score only once, and Hearts gave Airdrieonians a 6-1 trouncing in high scoring performances. Dundee United put on a spirited battle against St. Johnstone, but were one goal short of matching the latter's four. Kilmarnock second the only goal in their game with St. Mirren. Celtic and Stenhousemuir took 2-0 wins from Falkirk and Third Lanark. Albion Rovers won from Dumbarton with the odd goal in three.

Six first division outfits and two from the second now have qualified for third round play.

Sheffield Wednesday kept pace with the Villans in second place by defeating their home town rivals, the United, by 3-2. Newcastle United, the third place team ,also kept within striking distance by taking Chelsea 2-0.

West Bromwich Albions and Leeds United were content to call their hard-fought battle a 1-1 draw, but Derby County showed a good edge in their match with Sunderland, winning 3-0. These results left Leeds United and Derby County tied for fifth place with 33 points each.

BRAZIL FLIGHT FOR MOLLISON; STARTS MONDAY

Hopes to Boost Britain's Aircraft Trade in South America.

4,800 MILE TRIP.

Flier Sets Route by Way of Senegal French West Africa.

LONDON, February 4 (C. P. Cable). — A flight from England to Brazil, a distance of 4800 miles, is to be the next long distance effort of Captain J. A. Mollison, famous British transatlantic flier.

Captain Mollison plans to leave Lympne Airdrome, England, on Monday, and expects to make the journey to Port Natal, Brazil, in three and a half days. He will head directly south from England to Senegal, French West Africa whence he will take off for the hazardous venture across the South Atlantic.

The noted aviator, who flew to Canada and the United States last summer and whose wife, the former Amy Johnson, possesses the north and south flight records between England and Cape Town, told Reuters of his flight to-day.

"I have been preparing this flight for some months, including investigations of the meteorological conditions," he declared. "I think the time is more than ripe for a British flight to show its flag in South American waters. I hope, by the flight, to do something to help our foreign trade in aircraft with South American countries."

Plans on Wind's Aid.

Captain Mollison is plotting his course by Rhumbline instead of by the Great Circle route for the 1,019 mile crossing of the ocean. He may meet tropical storms but will have the help of the north-east trade winds for the first half of the crossing. After that he will be flying in atmospheric "doldrums" for 700 miles with the wind at only seven miles per hour. The trade winds will help him again for the last 300 miles.

The captian declared he would not know whether he would attempt a return flight until he got to Brazil. He leaves here to-morrow for Lympne in his now famous "Heart's Content," the same plane he has achieved his many other great successes with, and will be accompanied by his wife in her long-distance-record plane, "Desert Cloud."

FINANCIER AIMS TO JUMP BOND

Action Would Delay Trial of 50 Other Defendants in $1,500,000 Swindle.

BOND THREATENED.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 4.—(A. P.)—C. C. Julian's announced decision to jump bond here and take refuge in Canada may delay trial of more than 50 other defendants charged with him in what the government alleges was a conspiracy to defraud 15,000 investors in the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties Co., of $1,500,000.

District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde indicted today the mail fraud trial, scheduled to start in federal court Monday, may be postponed pending an extensive search for the dapper Canadian promoter.

If the Promoter carries out his threat not to appear, Hyde plans to ask immediate forfeiture of his $25,000 appearance bond.

Once A Poor Boy

By Sam Robertson, C. P. Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(CP)—In the dim long ago he worked for pennies, selling papers on Winnipeg streets, but he lived to form a California Petroleum company that grew into a $40,000,000 corporation, then crumbled.

Those are the low and high points of the book-like career of C. C. "Ponzo" Julian, born of Jewish parents on a humble farm near Morris Man. A few months ago he was a financial power in the United States. Today he was sought by friends who stood a $25,000 bail bond he says he will jump. If he does, he will possibly be sought by police.

The immediate reason this modern version of the small town boy who made good is in the news came with a letter, signed by Julian advising the press and through it the authorities he will not appear for trial in Oklahoma City next Monday on a chargeof using the United States mails to defraud.

The court action Julian and 50 others face grew from the sale of $3,500,000 worth of stock in the Julian Oil and Royalties Company, now in receivership.

COUNSELS WIN RACE BY PLANE TO SEE VERIGIN

Seek Doukhobor Chief's Future Plans for Guidance of Order.

WILL REMAIN LEADER.

Liner Montcalm Sails Tonight Taking Prisoner on Way to Exile.

HALIFAX, Feb. 4 (C.P.).—A big red monoplane dropped down to-day on the snow-streaked turf of the Halifax airport—and a race was won. Peter Makaroff, J. P. Shukin and S. F. Reiben had reached this city in time to see Peter Verigin before the Doukhobor chieftain sails for Russia as a deportee from Canada.

They will seek from immigration officials the right to confer with Verigin; to obtain from him ideas and plans on which to base the future activities and policies of the order. Peter Verigin is still the head of the Doukhobors; he will govern them in exile, as did his father, Peter the First, years ago.

"If the Montcalm has sailed, this trip across the continent will have gone for nothing," said Makaroff as he stepped from the plane here. But the Montcalm, on which the leader is expected to go, does not sail until to-night.

The three men—Makaroff, legal advisor; Shukin, vice-president of the Brotherhood; and Reiben, for years secretary to Verigin, piled into a taxi and raced down to make their attempt at talking to the leader, who reached here last night by train after he had been taken from Prince Albert Jail on Monday, where he had served part of a sentence for perjury.

SPIRIT OF PROPHETS IS REBORN IN THE NEW WORLD OF ZIONISM

Socialist Experiment is Most Displeasing to Capitalistic Backers.

ALL MUST WORK

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

JERUSALEM, Feb. 4—The finest, the most worth-while things in the new Palestine have been achieved by the Jewish Socialists. Their co-operative groups of workers in agriculture and industry working on communal lines in production and distribution of income have been the driving power in the redemption of the land and in the building up of a not inconsiderable industry. That the Socialists are to-day practically the pacemakers in the process of building up the country is not due to the fact that they are more intelligent than the working class of other countries, but because they came to Palestine, a raw and undeveloped country, with a definite system in life in their minds.

Pierre van Paassen

The agricultural communes, known in Hebrew as Kvutzoth, grew out of the social instincts of the laborsettlers. As happened later in Russia on the collective farms the principle of exploitation was abol-

Five Buffalo Men Under Indictment As Direct Result

Prisoner, Who Went To Jail With Lips Sealed, Decides To Name Alleged Employers On Learning They Failed To Support His Family As Promised.

LOSSES COST INSURANCE FIRMS $500,000 ONLY TWO OF NEWLY ACCUSED RAISE BAIL.

BUFFALO, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Two years after he went to prison, the "torch man" of an alleged Niagara frontier arson ring has talked, and as a result five Buffalo business men were under indictment today on arson charges.

The accused are Adolf Keleman, Kenmore; his brother, Benjamin Keleman, Buffalo; Charles Waldow and Morris Waldow, Buffalo, and Israel Ostrofsky, Buffalo.

Police said the torch man, Harry E. Bennett, 40, serving 20 to 40 years in Auburn prison, who went to jail with his lips sealed, decided to name his alleged employers when he learned they were not keeping their promise to support his wife and three children while he was in prison. The alleged arson ring cost insurance companies about $500,000.

Benjamin Keleman was released in $23,000 bail; his brother, unable to raise bail, was jailed; the Waldows and Ostrofsky were released in $7,500 bail.

REDS GET BLAME FOR FALSE NEWS

Reports From British Columbia Smelter Show Strike Area Quiet.

VICTORIA, Feb. 4 (C.P.).—Four hundred striking smelter company workers at Anyox were quiet last night—just as they have been since walking out two days ago, it was learned in official quarters last night.

British Columbia Provincial police here denied reports machine guns were being rushed to the town in north-western British Columbia and said they believed Reds were responsible for sending out false information, including a report that Anyox resembled "an armed camp."

It was said 600 men are still at work at the Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company plant at Anyox and were not being troubled by the strikers. Precautions were taken by police in case trouble developed but "everything has been orderly," it was stated.

GIRL'S SUICIDE EFFORTS FAIL

Takes Poison After Mother, 2 Sisters Arrested for Keeping Brothel.

POLICE MAKE RAID.

HAMILTON, February 4 (C.P.).—Ann Peters, 20, is recovering to-day from an attempt to commit suicide by poisoning. The woman swallowed poison during a police raid on her mother's home last night. She was rushed to hospital in a patrol wagon and prompt first-aid methods, coupled with the fact she had taken an overdose of the poison, saved her life.

To-day her mother and two sisters appeared in court on charges of keeping a brothel and being found in and were remanded to Wednesday. A charge of being found in was also laid against Ann.

J. P. O'Reilly, appearing for the defence, applied for bail in order that other members of the family could go and visit the girl in the hospital. Crown Attorney J. W. Ballard opposed the motion, declaring his information was to the effect the other two sisters had also threatened to commit suicide by poisoning. Bail for the mother was set at $500, but the Magistrate refused to fix bail for the two girls.

"Are there any other young children in the family?" asked the Magistrate.

"I am told there are two smaller children, who have been taken to the shelter," replied the Crown Attorney.

"In that case the matter is more serious. Charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency might be laid," the Magistrate said.

JAPS BEAT OFF FIFTH CHINESE ATTACK ON PASS

Attackers Lose Heavily in Desperate Three-hour Combat.

FRESH TROOPS SENT.

Further Assaults Expected—Nippon Garrison Nearly Surrounded.

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 4.—(C.P.).—The Japanese military headquarters here reported its garrison at Chiumenkow, in the great wall of China, repulsed the fifth Chinese attack in eight days after three hours of desperate fighting early to-day.

Heavy Chinese losses were reported.

The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency said Chinese troops in the Shihmenchai district, westward from Chiumenkow, were recently reinforced by two of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang's brigades. With the aid of these regular troops despatched by the North China military ruler, the Chinese forces were reported trying enveloping tactics by attacking the Japanese garrison from the east, north and west. Further Chinese assaults were expected.

Chiumenkow, a main coastal passage through the great wall into the Chinese province of Jehol, was captured by the Japanese a week after the fall of Shanhaikwan, the Chinese border city, 12 miles southward.

Attractive Display In Examiner Window

A display that is attracting much attention from passers-by is on view in the south window of The Examiner. The Trail Rangers, Tuxis Boys, and Sunday School Classes are conducting a share selling campaign from February 6 to 20, and the Boys' Parliament is also asking public support in raising $11,000 for 1933 expenses. The window shows some of the literature in connection with Boys 'work, also the outfits used by the Trail Rangers and the Tuxis Boys, and some very fine examples of their handicraft, in delicate wood carving.

"Invest in Boyhood" is the slogan of the campaign. "To seek truth, to cherish health, to love God, and to help others" is the four-fold promse of the lads enlisted in this work—a very noble motto for youth.

MORGAN SINKS WINNING GOAL FOR DOHERTYS

Belleville Intermediates Stage Comeback to Take 2-1 Victory.

A TIGHT BATTLE.

Fans See 60 Minutes of Fast Hocky Featuring Heavy Checking and Spectacular Plays.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 4 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Belleville D.A.C. staged a come-back last evening in the Campbellford Arena when they sent the Maroons down to a 2-1 defeat in the Intermediate O.H.A. fixture after sixty minutes of fast hockey, featuring heavy checking and spectacular play. With the Arena packed to see the first real game played on home ice in the intermediate section, the Belleville outfit did the 'dirty' on the Maroons in the same manner that they suffered defeat by Campbellford on their own ice last week.

Up to the last minute of the play the game belonged to either team, the last counter being made by Morgan with one minute to play. One goal was called by the goal referee in the third period in favor of the Maroons, but Walt Jackson, handling the bell, did not allow it. To the fans, however, it looked a counter, the puck rebounding from the net after severe play in the visitors' area.

Play was fast throughout, although the second and third frame of the game tightened up with severe checking by both defences, although play never became rough. It was more a matter of two well-matched teams clashing for supremacy, each of which knew how to handle their sticks and opponents. Only seven penalties were handed out in the sixty minutes of play, Eddie Bush, Campbellford's fast little sub., being boxed for the first time this season for an unintentional trip in the first period.

Stars For Belleville.

McMeekin and MacDonald on the Belleville line-up played excellent fames, featuring some fast drives and working in well to the Campbellford net and taking advantage of rebounds that almost netted them counters. Hulin in the Maroons' net, however, played an air-tight game, the two counters registered against him being almost impossible to save, one being a bouncing puck, the second going in when the Belleville aggregation were on top of him in the net.

Campbellford played a strong defensive game throughout the periods, and showed up well in combination with Davis and McKay starring on the forward line. Both Harry Ingram and MacArthur did some flashing plays, clearing the puck on many occasions and driving through the visitors' line. Whitton, subbing at pivot, did his old tricky play and earned more than one counter but Tice is a hard man to beat.

The first frame opened with Campbellford taking the offensive, but being held more to centre play by the visitors. Davis did some forward rushing, but MacDonald checked heavy and kept the puck the right side of the blue line. McMeekin broke through the Maroons' forward line on several occasions, but was unable to get too near the net. Harry Ingram and Huck MacArthur worked their own specialty in defensive tactics. Early in the play McKay drove through the visitors' defence and staged a scramble in their net, Harry Ingram trying some long shots from rebounds. P. Morgan, however, cleared this mess and flashed through the Maroons, getting behind the net, but to no advantage.

Whitton coming on to the ice started things hustling and kept Tice busy for some time but Gilbert cleared this tangle. Whitton and Harry Ingram did some fancy passing and kept play in the Belleville area for some time, until Bush was fenced for tripping, the first penalty handed him this season. Coming away from the face-off the Hull drove through to the blue line and shot a bouncing puck which bounded over Hulin's stick into the net. Play warmed up some then and Harry Ingram started some terrific rushes, supported by Whitton until in a scramble Ingram was fenced for charging. The bell rang on centre ice play.

Maroons Take Offensive

The second frame of the game opening brisk with Campbellford playing for a come-back, the offensive being taken by Davis who for some time worked wonders. The play in this frame was Campbellford's with the visitors doing nothing more that defending their net

Alleged Bandit of Markham Bank is Taken in Toronto.

PART OF LOOT FOUND.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Alleged to be one of the two men who robbed the Markham branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce last Monday, a man was captured early last evening in an expensive apartment hotel room in Toronto. He gave his name as Frank West of Toronto.

The arrest took place at a time when the full force of Toronto's police department was directed toward the capture of the second man who participated in the Royal Bank hold-up yesterday, at Church and Wellesley Streets.

Acting on information received late yesterday, Detective Sergeant Albert Johns, with Acting Detective Morseman and Patrol Sergeant Fred Bevan, slipped quietly into a hotel described by the police as "one of the best uptown hotels."

No Resistance

With Detective Moresman stationed in the hall outside, Johns and Bevans entered West's room with guns drawn. Caught by surprise, the hotel guest offered no resistance, Detective Sergeant Johns said.

In the room with West, the officers say they found a gun and a sum of money—$1,055.

West admitted in a signed statement, the police claim, that the gun was the one used in the Markham hold-up and the money part of what was taken at the time.

Police were reluctant to give details of the capture last night. They would not give the name of the hotel in which the capture was made, nor the history behind the information received which led to West's arrest.

Details of Hold-up

At about 2:30 last Monday afternoon two young men walked into the Markham branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, herded the staff into the vault, cleaned $2,000 from the teller's cage and make a clean get-away.

They were, however, chased by Manager M. M. MacKenzie and a customer, from Markham to Stroud, where the pursuers were forced to abandon the chase owing to engine trouble.

One of the men held the staff at gun-point, while the other held his hand in his overcoat pocket in "a very suggestive manner." Their manner was deliberate, and they were seen by a witness to laugh and chat in their car immediately before they pulled away.

CLIMAX IN SPRING.

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 4.—More than 200 earth tremors have been registered in the vicinity of Mount Vesuvius since yesterday morning, when the volcano entered a phase of intense activity, viewed by scientists with alarm. The strongest shock yesterday shook the observatory on top of the mountain for 15 seconds, and spread panic among the inhabitants of the near-by towns of Boscotrecase, Resina, Portici, San Sebastino and Torre Del Greco. No damage was reported. The inhabitants of Boscotrecase fled to the open country until the strongest shocks subsided. The Director of the Observatory, Prof. Alessandro Malladra, issued a statement saying that the present violent period is likely to be temporary, but a "paroxysmal outburst" apparently is brewing inside the volcano, which probably will reach the breaking point in the spring. He recalled that the 1929 eruption, in which a voluminous flow of lava destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of vineyards, killed several persons, and expressed the hope that it would not be repeated, but he considered the symptoms alarming.

AT END OF TRAIL.

CAUGHNAWAGA, Que., Feb. 4.—"Never before in the history of America have we, the proud Iroquois Indians of Caughnawaga, aborigines of this continent and wards of the nation, appealed to you, brothers and sisters of Canada" begins a statement appealing for unemployment relief funds, signed by members of the Caughnawaga Relief Committee, and issued yesterday. The statement is entitled "The End of the Trail."

"We appeal for mercy and charity funds to feed and clothe our—and your own—destitute people residing on our reserve" the statement continues. "Advertising experts, leaders in their field, employ pictures of our people in various phases of life as symbols of endurance. This is logical; but even we, with our traditional powers of endurance, can no longer endure without your help the merciless exactions of the economic depression.

"We have come to the end of the long quagmire trail. Exhausted in body and soul, gasping for breath, we stand collapsing at the brink of the great divide. Are you going to stand by and watch us and our children fall into the abyss of lost hope? Or will you, like good palefaces, extend a helping hand to our groping people?"

Some Lessons Gained From The Depression

By J. C. Armour, Montreal

We who are engaged in floriculture at this time all appear to be very depressed as to what the future will bring. When an acute attack of depression comes over us, it would be well to get out our history book and get a little consolation from the fact that conditions never turn out so bad as the prophets forecast.

The terrible conditions which might be described as an economic blight started two or three years ago is not the first which affected the whole world. So I am going to turn over the pages of my history book and bring to my readers' notice a few economic gales which have swept the world in the past. And strange to say, these distressing storms subsided. We shall turn to the period between 1890 and 1897 which quite a few well remember. During that period there were six distinct and separate financial disasters. These all occurred in quick succession and note that they have lasted for seven years. The trouble started in Great Britain, known as the Baring Crisis, and the same year trouble started in the United States. Next year it was South America and Canada. Several countries in Asia and Continental Europe suffered. Two years later a smash occurred in London when building societies suspended operations. The following year, 1893, over 497 banks failed in the United States in a few weeks, while the number of unemployed per thousand was twice what it is to-day. Stores, factories, mills, blast furnaces closed down everywhere, and $4,000,000,000.00 of railroad stocks in the United States alone were placed in the hands of the courts. Financiers said the world was ruined. In 1897 the slump was over and business began to pick up, and prosperity came back very quickly.

History Will Repeat.

Every section or volume of history makes reference to some sort of blighting influence and no matter what the pessimists say, this cycle of poverty and suffering will surely pass. We find in times such as we are now encountering that the foundation of vast fortunes are being laid as was the case when the slump of 1890 occurred. I believe that to-day in the British Commonwealth, history will record the following. The countries comprising that group remained calm and determined with a national pride to see the slump through. They paid their just debts. They opened up new industries, they made an agreement between themselves.

While we are probing the pages of history let us go back a little farther. A few days before the Battle of Waterloo the Duke of Wellington made a remark, and it was this, "I hope I shall not live to see the degredation of my country which is due in a few years' time."

So we will ramble along through history looking for periods where conditions parallel those of to-day. In 1823 there were more paupers and beggars per thousand than there are unemployed to-day. To-day the average working man enjoys as necessities many things which would be classed as extravagant luxuries in 1823. The bank failures in the United States to-day are nothing compared to the disaster of 1893. It is also well to bear in mind that there has not been a single bank failure in the United Kingdom or Canada during the present crisis.

Past Depressions.

We will now cite a date that most of us can remember and the panic that occurred at that time. In 1907 a cry went out across this continent and other parts of the world. "We are ruined, recovery can not come." Factories, mills and shops closed, but the panic ran its course and those with cool heads and courage came out all right. It may be said that this is the biggest disaster of all and nothing like it in history before. How many remember 1918 when the allied forces were retreating before the most powerful and best equipped army the world had ever known. We stood in front of the newspaper office and saw bulletin after bulletin of disaster appear. We came out all right and the crisis passed.

We had for ten short years a series of quack remedies and shortcuts to riches. We had fools unfit to run a wheelbarrow driving $5,000.00 cars, spending foolishly, extravagance, luxury, and high living. To-day we are learning that without sowing there is no reaping.

An adjustment of world or international debts would have a tremendous effect on hastening the end of business ills. Already there are signs that 1933 may see the end of a great many of our troubles. Who knows perhaps the dim light that heralds the dawn will appear? My history book and encyclopaedias all record past depressions and slumps boldly and truthfully. Therefore, history will surely repeat itself and another generation will read about the dark days which started in 1930. We will have the experience, they will have only the history. Everyone in floriculture should now face the future with determination and hope. Those who have struggled through the past few years deserve praise and the good work must go on.—Canadian Florist.

Has it ever happened to you that something you've told an acquaintance comes back, after many days, so distorted that you hardly recognize it? The spoken word so changes and colors much that we say, that by the time it passes many lips only the skeleton of truth remains.

But how different it is with the printed word! That is why you can trust the advertisements. Had you thought of it that way? Because the manufacturer and merchant are compelled to be accurate in type, you know that the quality of soap, ginger ale, clothing, butter or furniture you buy is as standardized as the calendar. It's all the manufacturer and retailer claim for it. It has to be!

Read the advertisements. Read them carefully, critically. Read them for profit! Read them knowing that the truth pays . . . . you and the advertiser!

The United States Congress a Scene of Confusion and Without Leadership for Constructive Legislation

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

THE President-elect, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has already lost important political ground. He has not advantaged himself, nor his party, nor the country. His overtures have thus far made for confusion rather than constructive legislation. He called a conference of congressional leaders in New York. Plans were considered outlining Democratic policy. Within twenty-four these items of policy were repudiated by other leaders of his own party. The rank and file of the Democratic party showed great disappointment. The unity of the party is broken. Criticism of the President-elect is rife at the hands of his followers. Then this ludicrous thing has happened. The President-elect and his conferees now fail to agree in their understanding of what it was upon which they had agreed to agree. The result has been the abandonment of matters of importance in the Democratic program for the present session. The two items to which the President-elect has tenaciously held, the legalizing of beer with increased alcoholic content and a farm allotment bill, both of which at this writing seem certain to react to the hurt of the Democratic party.

In the face of world affairs, the more sensible and far thinking men of both parties regret this confusion and do nothing to help the situation. The Republican members were so disconcerted by the results of the November elections that they lost confidence and gave into the hands of the Democratic members of Congress power they have not been able to handle with statesmanship wisdom. Senator Garner, who was elected both to a seat in Congress and to the Vice-Presidency, as Speaker of the House has steered that body of legislators into some of the most precipitate, unthoughted and undignified action on legislation ever recorded in the annals of the Congress of the United States. Any student of the Congressional Record cannot avoid this conclusion. The Senate has only milled about, giving but little consideration to matters of high importance to the United States and to the whole world. The filabuster carried on under the direction of Democratic Senator Long of Louisiana against the banking bill introduced by another Democrat, Senator Glass of Virginia, is an evidence of the impasse already developing in the dominant party. The Republican senators were the bystanders, and for days had a great laugh, watching the big fight and saying that the show was for the benefit of the Democrats at home. So why should they dirty their hands with Democratis mud?

Borah has been for many a day the bane of the Republicans. Senator Long is the present bane of the Democrats. He is making miserable the life of the President-elect, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his colleagues. He is young, a physical giant, and is a fighter from the word go. Within a short time after taking the oath he quarreled with the leader of his party. Immediately he resigned all his committee memberships. He is the self-styled "Kingfish" of Louisiana. Often in his speeches in Congress he is as ludicrous as Amos and Andy. He can sit unperturbed under the sharpest assaults of his fellow Democratic and Republican senators.

When the present session of Congress had spent eighteen days trying to get somewhere, Long had obstructed every move that did not meet his unqualified approval by occupying one-third of the time spent in debate. On the 24th day of January Long had held the floor for six days continuously opposing the Glass bill which proposes branch banking. Senator Long credits himself with having saved Franklin D. Roosevelt from defeat at the nominating convention at Chicago. Senator Glass had the approval of the President-elect for his branch banking bill. This bill will not be passed at the present session of Congress, and will be one of the first and most important to be considered when the Democrats take control on the 4th of March. Roosevelt faces a difficult hour when he chooses his leaders and makes known his Cabinet, as this man Long is sure to demand recognition for his convention activities on his behalf. Long is an insurgent. And under the Senate rules his power to obstruct legislation is tremendous. This is giving Roosevelt and his senator friends serious concern.

Hoover had his troubles after he became President. Roosevelt is getting some of his before. Then there is trouble in the Republican camp. Borah of Idaho and Senator Johnson of California are at loggerheads. Borah heads the Foreign Relations Committee. California Johnson demands that Borah make known all he knows about the conversations which took place between Premier Laval of France and President Hoover respecting war debts. To this demand of Johnson, Borah has given a biting reply. Both men are stubborn rather than peacemakers. To Johnson's retort Borah proposed to start a kindergarten for childish senators and invited Senator Johnson to become his first pupil. For the rest of the senate this cross-fire was full of humor. But for Borah and Johnson it was war. What we have written here reveals the lack of harmony in both parties. This forebodes but little constructive legislation in Congress after the 4th of March.

WEEKLY BIBLE LESSON

(By REV. WYLIE CLARK, B.D., D.D.)

Jesus Chooses the Twelve.
Mark 3:7-35.

THOUGH there were no telephones in those days, yet the doings of Jesus had been told far beyond Palestine. Travellers to and from Jerusalem and Galilee had told of the miracles of healing. Well people came to see and sick people came with the hope of being healed, until great crowds pressed about Him.

The synagogue would no longer hold them, so they were out in the open air.

Jesus did not remain inside, but went out where He had a chance to meet them all. Jesus can never be confined in any building. He is out in the open where the whole world can get in touch with Him.

The great thing in the lesson today is the calling of the twelve. Now, just why did He call them?

First, He needed help. The people were being so moved that He himself could not do all that was required. He wanted to send out preachers and healers who would be able to act for Him, and thus they could go to many places and reach many people.

Second, He knew that He was going to leave the earth, and if His work was to be carried on there had to be someone to do it.

It was necessary that these men should know Him and have some understanding of what He was trying to do.

They had evidently been with Him and were devoted in their following. In making the selection He chose the best of those who were available. We try to do the same to-day. Each congregation picks out the most able and faithful workers to fill the offices and push the interests of all its people.

To these men was given a big job. Of all the men of their day they were by far the most important. They were the foundations of all that Christianity has been and will be.

As men in their work one Judas was a failure, two, Peter and John, were brilliant, and nine were ordinary.

They were used of God to fulfil His purpose in the salvation of men They testified to the life, death and resurrection of Jesus.

To-day we are Christ's workers—His called—and even if we are only ordinary people, yet it is ours to carry on and with Him on our side we are sure of success.

A Chat with Young Peterboro

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 12.

EVERYBODY likes a story. A story sticks where a sermon or a lesson doesn't. The Saviour knew that so He did most of His preaching with parables. A parable is a story with an inside meaning; an earthly story with a heavenly meaning, we used to say. Some folks just took in the story, others took in the story and its inside meaning, too. That's why the Saviour said, "Take heed how you hear." There's lot of difference between hearing and heeding. Everybody knows that we ought to be very careful what we say, but it's just as important to take care about how we hear. Sometimes a thing goes in one ear and out the other, and it ain't always because there's nothing between to stop it. Sometimes we hear all right, but get things twisted up inside. Got a wrong impression, we say. Well, we often give out a wrong impression all right, and that makes trouble.

Now here's this story about right hearing, that is, heeding Bible truth. Some are like the wayside, hard, not interested. They may hear a sermon-story, but they are thinking about other things, and the truth makes no more impression on them than shooting peas at the side of a house. Then there are some who are easily stirred up, but it don't last. Shallow, not very deep, all on the surface. They make good resolutions, but break them. Then there are those who have too many irons in the fire. Good things maybe, but listen! Anything is a thorn or a weed if it chokes out the crop you want to raise. Good things are bad if they choke out the best. Then there's the good ground. But here's the point! Soil can't change itself, but we can change the soil of our hearts by the Saviour's help. A parable is a story with truth wrapped up in it. Let's get the wrapper off and get what's inside, and we shall be good hearers.—Young Canada.

Jesus Chooses the Twelve

Scripture—Mark 3:7-35

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

While the first year of Jesus' ministry spent in Judaea was one of comparative obscurity, the second year, spent largely in Galilee was one of great popularity. Great multitudes came from all sections to hear him and thronged him so that he withdrew into a boat and preached from it.

The opposition of his enemies increased with his popularity. This made Jesus feel the need of selecting men to carry on his teaching after his death. But before selecting them he spent the entire night in prayer alone with God on a mountain.

Copyright, 1933, by Central Press Association, Inc.

After this night of prayer Jesus called his disciples to him and from them he chose twelve, whom he called apostles, "that they might be with him and that he might send them forth". So communion comes first, then conquest; worship, then work.

So zealously did Jesus give himself to his work that his mother and brothers thought he was beside himself and tried to restrain him. Jesus replied by pointing to his disciples and saying, "Behold my mother and my brethren."

THIS MIGHT BE POSTPONED.

A federal appropriation of a million dollars for the National Radio Commission will strike most people as an expenditure that the Federal Government might have done well to postpone until the return of more prosperous days.

Whatever they may think of the general principle involved in Government control of broadcasting facilities, it is to be imagined that the majority of the Canadian people will feel that a trial of the system might be held over until the country's financial condition justifies the expenditure involved.

A million dollars for the Radio Commission to play with is a lot of money to be tossed around at a time when Canada faces a large deficit and is confronted with dwindling revenues, and at the same time with increasing demands for the expenditure of public funds.

Nationalized radio may be a very desirable asset, but at the present time it is one of those things that we could quite easily get along without, while the money that is to be devoted to its activities could be turned into a more useful channel.

Up to the present the commission has given little indication of an adequate return for the expense involved.

THE LIQUOR BILL DROPS.

It is evident that economic conditions are having a decided effect upon the sale and consumption of liquor, and that temperance is being encouraged by the pressure of hard times.

The last annual report of the Quebec Liquor Commission, covering the twelve months ending with May of last year, offers clear proof of that fact.

The report shows that the liquor bill of Quebec was $5,000,000 less than for the previous year, and $10,500,000 less than the record established in 1929-30 when sales reached a total of $27,539,996, not including the beer purchases, which are not handled directly by the commission.

On the whole there was a substantial decrease in the sale of spirits in Quebec, according to the statistics given, the consumption dropping from 865,858 gallons to 692,270 gallons, but in the same period Scotch whiskies showed a higher sale.

A lesser quantity of wine was sold, the total being 1,131,737 gallons, as compared with 1,351,193 gallons the year before. Champagne was in much less demand, the total sales showing a falling off of 14,000

In spite of smaller sales however, the operations of the Quebec Commission contributed over $6,000,000 in taxes to the Federal Government, and revealed a net revenue of $6,113,899, to which part of the accumulated reserves were added to make $8,569,275 to hand over to the Provincial Government.

SOMETHING WRONG HERE.

Several Ontario nawspapers, including the Chatham News and the St. Catharines Standard, have done a good service in calling attention to a weakness in the present legislation governing municipal elections, and undoubtedly the verdict of the public will be that the condition complained of should be remedied.

Under the act it is required that a property-owner who desires to enter a municipal contest must show that the taxes on his property have been paid before he is allowed to qualify.

A tenant, however, who is anxious to become a candidate is under no such obligation in regard to his rent.

That leaves a situation possible wherein a tenant who may owe many months' rent for the property he is occupying is eligible for election to a municipal body, while the owner of the same property cannot possibly qualify until his taxes are paid, even though it is probably the case that he has not paid his taxes because his tenant has not paid his rent.

It is undoubtedly true, as the St. Catharines Standard expresses it, that a tenant with rent unpaid should surely be regarded as much in default as the landlord with tax arrears over his head. The law plainly is anomalous.

Here is a little matter the Legislature might look into when it starts tinkering with our laws next week.

A GREAT RECORD.

Other Provincial Governments would be showing good judgment if they would communicate with the administration in Nova Scotia with a view to finding out what methods that province has used n reaching its present desirable financial condition.

Nova Scotia's annual statement reports a deficit of only $163,000, which, in view of current conditions and the showing of other Provincial Governments, entitles the Maritime province to the hearty congratulations of the whole Dominion.

Only a few years ago—in 1925 to be exact—Nova Scotia had a deficit of $1,160,000. To reduce that to $163,000 in spite of the depression of the last three years is a creditable piece of financing, especially as a much larger appropriation has been provided for sinking fund.

In addition, Nova Scotia has had new payments to make, including $350,000 on mothers' allowances and $970,000 on public health, activities that have only been undertaken recently.

In other directions the Government of Nova Scotia has been progressive, but in spite of all the fresh obligations it has had to assume it has succeeded apparently by careful planning and judicious spending to reduce the provincial deficit almost to the vanishing point at a time when other provincial administrations are viewing with alarm the big gap between revenues and expenditures.

If you have occasion to argue with a donkey, you might as well address yourself to his tail as to his head.—Forest Standard.

MOST FAMOUS OF SHIPS.

The most famous ship in the world is the Cunard liner Mauretania. She would have shared the honor with the Lusitania, if the Germans had not torpedoed her sister ship. The Mauretania is nearing her 23rd year, which seems old as ships go, but she remains the third fastest trans-Atlantic steamer, and there is always a big passenger list. People look upon a trip in the Mauretania as something that they can talk about in after years; something that stamps them as members of a large family who have been privileged to live in her while crossing the ocean.

It is said that a large group of Americans who have enjoyed the hospitality of the smoke-room, have an agreement with the Cunard company that when the sad day comes that the Mauretania must be broken up, the smoke-room is to be carefully taken to pieces, the parts numbered, shipped across to New York and re-erected there exactly as it was in the ship. There is to be formed a "Mauretania Club," and only men who can prove that they have been first-class cabin passengers will have the right of membership. There they can re-live the happy hours of crossing over again, look out of the portholes—or maybe it should be windows—and gaze upon—Broadway.

But here's what started us out about the Mauretania. During the recent tremendous gales in the Atlantic, when the wind blew up to one hundred miles an hour, many of the great liners were from a few hours to several days late. The crack German liner Bremen was two days late. The Mauretania, which crossed at the same time, reached New York one hour ahead of her scheduled time.

The veteran queen of the Atlantic may not be as spry as she used to be when she was a girl, but old as she is she has the British spirit and plows her way through the most terrific weather. Put that down to British construction—and British seamanship.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

BRITISH SHIPS HANDICAPPED.

Canadians will be happy to learn that the British shipping industry is decidedly on the up-grade. The fall in the value of sterling has had one good result—an increase in British exports—and to-day there is a greater demand for freight ships than there has been for years. Orders are being placed with the shipbuilders, and that is the one infallible sign of an expected trade revival.

Nevertheless, British shipping has been, and still is, operating under a tremendous handicap through the subsidising of foreign shipping by their respective Governments. The United States, Germany, Italy, France and Japan in particular are subsidising their shipping to the aggregate value of $150,000,000 a year, and it is exceedingly difficult for the non-subsidised British shipowners to compete on such uneven terms.

So serious is the situation that the large British companies are talking of concerted action in the nature of reprisals. For one thing they would petition the Government to abandon the traditional policy of giving foreign ships equal treatment in British ports in the matter of port charges. On top of subsidies some nations have closed their ports altogether to coastal trade, which deprives British shipping of a large source of revenue. Thus, in addition to high tariffs, another barrier has been raised against international trade.

It is no secret that the British Government has not only been deeply concerned about this matter, but it has also been inviting the large shipping companies to submit proposals for breaking down this destructive obstacle. And here in fact is the concrete suggestions of the British Chamber of Shipping.

Ships under other flags cannot compete with state-aided ships, which, like dumped goods, have no legitimate place in trade, since to the nations to which they belong they have no commercial value, while they are a standing menace to the freight market and hamper the operations of all ships, under their own and other flags, operating on an economic basis. But before retaliatory measures are taken, British owners, however, intend to endeavor to secure the co-operation of as many nations as possible pledged to work for the re-establishment of world trade through the removal of trade barriers, including the modification of tariffs upon the goods carried and the removal of all forms of discrimination, including subsidies, in favor of ships under the national flag by which such goods are carried. Then an appeal will be made to the World Economic Conference, supported by the International Chamber of Commerce. If these arguments do not succeed, the British Government, it is authoritatively stated, will adopt one or more of the methods suggested by the Chamber for the protection of British shipping.

It is significant that Mr. Stanley Baldwin declared recently that "Foreign countries are building ships with subsidies and running them with subsidies. That opens up a very grave problem. Whatever steps other nations may take, we cannot allow that great industry to suffer that kind of competition from foreign nations."

If the case against flag discrimination which will be presented at the World Economic Conference does not bring about repentance on the part of the offending nations, the British Government, it is understood, will come forward immediately with measures of protection and the support of the overwhelming majority of M.P.'s in the House of Commons, irrespective of party divisions, is assured.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is evident that the C.C.F. movement will get nowhere in Parliament, whatever may be its luck among the electors.

When Henri Bourassa flays them, they stay flayed. The Quebec Independent never calls a spade an agricultural implement.

The Vancouver Sun wants interest on savings banks deposits reduced to 1 per cent. Why penalize people who by industry and thrift have managed to save up a small nest-egg?

Canadian exports to the United States last year were $73,000,000 less than in 1931. On the other hand, however, importations of American goods into Canada declined in the same period by $155,000,000. The advantage would seem to be ours.

Toronto reports another bank robbery. There are evidently some people who have not yet learned the lesson that trying to secure money at the point of a revolver is inevitably a losing proposition.

A census of Mexico City shows that it has a population of 973,299 humans and 500,000 dogs. And there are enough fleas, according to Edna Ferber, to beat both the humans and the dogs, starting from scratch.—Detroit News.

A THOUGHT

ABOUT SELF RESPECT

If we do not respect ourselves how can we expect others to respect us? This feeling of self respect is something stronger than pride. It is the energy of the soul which masters the whole being for its good, watching with a never ceasing vigilance. It is the sense of duty and the sense of honor combined. It is an armour which, though powerless to shield from sorrows that purify and invigorate, yet will avert all hostile influences that assail, from whatever source they come. Self preservation is the first law of nature.

THE TUTTS By Crawford Young

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 34

When Jere Kane returned to his hotel he was more in a funk than ever before. He had spent a hard day, not physically, but ofttimes mental fatigue is far more exacting than is the phys cal.

He frankly admitted to himself that he did not know which way to turn next He had exhausted all his resources, or thought he had, in an effort to find the elusive "Buddy" to whom Bailey continually referred in his diary. What if Dorotha's sister was the "Buddy"? If she was his case would have been clear enough but for one fact.

Dorotha would have had ample reason to kill Bailey but for that one fact—she did not know until Sunday to what depths her sister had descended and Bailey was murdered Saturday night. More than that, Evelyn Deane had refused to name the man who had betrayed her, so Dorotha would have had no just reason to suspect Bailey, unless it was his generally-accepted reputation as a Don Juan.

On the other hand, suppose Evelyn Deane—Buddy—had done what the director feared she would, kill him. If that was true then Kane's hunt had only begun, for she had not locked herself in the garage with Chivington, hit him and herself over the head with that wrench and then remained there to die.

The whole thing was impossible. Someone else had committed the murder, possibly someone he had not even considered. He had often wondered just how a perfect crime would be committed. Now, he was faced with one that was as near perfect as it could be.

A man alone in his own house murdered by the unseen hand of a criminal as cunning as any he had ever encountered!

While he thus ruminated he had been standing before the window gazing down at the wide expanse of the lawns which surrounded the huge hotel. He saw, in the scarlet beams of the setting sun, minute creatures roaming over the golf course; he saw, in another direction, swimmers disporting in the hotel's big pool. Cars drove in and out of the driveways.

The far-away sound of music came to his ears. That reminded him that it was getting late and he had partaken only of a light luncheon at noon, and he was growing hungry. Perhaps if he forgot the whole affair for a while, if he flung himself into a night of recreation he might re-embark upon the investigation on the morrow with a fresh mind and a new enthusiasm.

And, so deciding, he undressed, took a cold shower and then attiredhimself freshly. He was about to leave his room when he remembered Ben MacQuarrie. An instant later he had the inspector on the telephone and was inviting him to dine with him.

His old friend met him in the lobby. MacQuarrie gave him a playful poke in the ribs. "You old bachelor," he laughed, "I'm going to surprise you."

He led Kane over to the palm room and into the presence of two young women. After presentation he explained that he had tried earlier to get Kane on the 'phone to ask him to join the party. "These charming young women," he said with assumed eloquence, "are from your Garden of Eden. They are actresses. I won't tell you how I met them."

One cast a coy glance at Jere Kane. "Does it make a great deal of difference how he met us?" she asked.

"Quite properly," MacQuarrie put in hastily. "I was introduced to them at one of the movie studios."

"Do you always have to spoil everything?" the coy one—it turned out later that she was Harmony Hale, a contract player—pouted.

Kane laughed and suggested that he was hungry. They went in to the dining room. After they had ordered Harmony suggested that they dance. Kane led her on to the floor with misgivings; it had been a long time since he had danced. But after a few clumsy steps he found himself and moved easily across the glassy floor.

The girl lay in his arms, a smile of contentment on her face. He piloted her about the floor, essay ng some of the fancy steps that he used to do in his younger days and found that he had not forgotten them. And soon all troubles of the Bailey affair had been ejected from his mind.

As they glided by their table MacQuarrie hurled a jest at him, but Kane only frowned and went on. Harmony said, "Don't let him kid you, boy friend. You'll get by in anybody's ballroom."

When the dance was ended they returned to the table to find the first course of their dinner awaiting them. Without further ado, they began their meal. Before long the thing happened that Kane had feared. The conversation turned to the murder of Richard Bailey.

He tried desperately to veer off onto another subject but the others would have none of it. The other girl—Maris Manners—said, "I think it's a dirty shame that Lillian should have been pulled in on that deal. She wouldn't hurt a fly."

Kane grunted something which they did not hear.

MacQuarrie asked, "How are you progressing with your plot against the police?"

"Oh!" Harmony exclaimed innocently, "is her plotting against the police?"

MacQuarrie explained that Kane was working on the Bailey case, but he said nothing about the friction with John Lee. The girls evinced considerable interest; they plied Kane with questions: they wanted to know whom he thought was guilty; they wanted to know what he thought of Lillian Hull's arrest and confession; there were a thousand and one questions they asked, all of which he answered as evasively as possible.

The music started again. Harmony wanted to dance and Kane led her onto the floor. As they danced away she said fiercely:

"Richard Bailey was a cad. I should have killed him myself."

Kane looked at her in surprise. "You knew him?" he asked.

"Only too well," bitterly. "He tried to do the same thing to me he tried to do to Buddy."

He started and she cast a quick glance at him.

"You knew Buddy?" she asked.

He shook his head. "I'm not sure," he said slowly, "unless—"

"Do you think Buddy killed him?" she demanded with an intensity that belie her frivolous appearance.

"Who is Buddy?" he countered.

"Evelyn Deane," she told him. "Poor kid—"

"You know what happened to her, don't you?"

"Yes," in a hushed voice, "I saw it in the papers this afternoon."

Kane said nothing. He felt that she had something else to say, but would need no prompting to say it. In that he was right.

"I don't think she killed herself, either," she went on after a moment's hesitation. "Somebody tricked her. Chivington had something to do with it. He was a sly old devil, and just as bad as his master."

"What do you mean?" sharply. He had considerable difficulty in suppressing his elation at this turn of events.

But she fell silent. Try as he might he could not draw her out. Harmony Hale knew something she was holding back. But what was it? Was she trying to protect someone, or was she merely trying to hide a bitter period of her past life?

The music stopped. Reluctantly, he led her back to their table. He wished he could have a few minutes more with her; she might, he felt, set him upon the trail again. He was confident that she had some valuable information to give him. What had she meant in her reference to Chivington? Did she mean that Chivington had aided his master in the moral laxities which were rampant at hat house up on the hill?

Try as he might he could not steer the conversation back to the murder again. Whereas before that dance he had been loath to discuss it, now he was eager to. But MacQuarrie had a lot of questions to ask about the motion picture business and Harmony all too willingly sought o satiate his appetite for further knowledge of that industry.

At last, th girls decided they had had enough and wanted to go home.

"Just one more dance," Kane pleaded with Harmony.

But she refused. She had to be at the st dio early to-morrow for a long day's work. The picture in which she was working was behind schedule and the business supervisor was riding the director.

As they strolled outHarmony drew herself close to Kane and whispered:

"I want you to take me home. I have something to tell you."

Inherent in the strength of this signature there is a delicacy and grace which suggest the woman; although it might easily be the signature of a man whose personality was a blending, in certain measure, of the sterner (so called masculine) and softer (so called feminine) elements. This blending is the keynote of the signature we have here—the signature of a typical lady of quality and forerunner of the "modern" woman. For the sterner characteristics; there is self-assertiveness, in part due to physical vitality and energy, and consequent breadth and variety of interest; organizing and executive ability; a clear, incisive mind, self-control and a tendency to discipline. To balance there is aesthetic sense, feminine grace and poise, and capacity for tenderness—although its manifestations are severely checked, by reason of a general rectitude of disposition that regards the display of emotion as bad form. Together with this trait there is loyalty to tradition, pride and reserve.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE BIDDULPH MURDERS

ON THIS DATE, in 1880, the people of Ontario, and of all Canada, were horrified by reading in their newspapers of terrible happenings in Biddulph township, 12 miles north of London During the previous month James and Judith Donelly had been arrested on suspicion of having set fire to a neighbor's barn. Their trial was fixed for the 4th of February but early in the morning of that day, "a band of ruffians" some disguised, broke into the Donnellys' house, murdered the elderly couple, a son and niece and set the house on fire. They then proceeded to the house of another son, three miles away, and murdered him. A 13 year old lad was the sole survivor.

All the provincial detectives were put on the case, and, after long investigation they reported that suspicion lay against a vigilance committee. Three were arrested charged with murder and 30 others as accomplices. Eight of the accused were committed for trial and in April six of them were arraigned before Mr. Justice Armour. The existence of the vigilance committee was admitted, but the evidence was contradictory, no direct proof could be brought, and the jury divided, seven for acquittal, four for conviction, and one uncertain.

The case was, traversed; but instead of it being heard before one judge, two, Osler and Cameron, were appointed a special tribunal to try the case in January, 1882. The proceedings were rapid. Within four hours 90 witnesses had been examined and the jury had returned a verdict of "Not Guilty." The crown, seeing that it was not possible to secure conviction, decided not to proceed further, and consequently, the identity of the murderers was never judicially proved, though old-timers in and around London assert that, outside the law their identity was well known. It was one of the very few cases in Canada where justice was baulked.

Grain Review

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE.

WINNIPEG, February 4 (C.P.).—Mid-week export buying, induced by weakness in the Canadian dollar, came to the support of a lagging grain market on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange this week. Selling pressure was light, which also aided wheat prices in showing firmness in face of heavy shipments from southern hemisphere countries. Values closed the six-day period as much as half a cent higher.

Closing the week on Friday at 46⅞c, May future was up ⅝c, and July ⅜c to ½c at 47⅜c to 47½c. October option was up ⅜c at its finish a t48⅜c.

Sharp drops in the Canadian dollar on foreign exchanges aided the wheat market. Seizing the opportunity of covering their exchange cheaply, United Kingdom importers contracted for good amounts of Canadian wheat, to be shipped mostly out of Vancouver. This was the largest export business so far this year, and imparted a strong undertone to the wheat market.

Shipping by every available boat, Australia and Argentine exported more than 8,500,000 bushels of wheat in the past week. Most of this went to Europe, with Australia finding a good outlet in the Orient.

Cash grains again were lifeless, with spreads closing the week unchanged. Coarse grains eased in light trading, flax declining 1¾ cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

(By John P. Boughan—A.P. Market Editor).

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Corn and wheat are running neck and neck just now for first place in grain trade attention.

An outstanding reason for increased notice taken of corn is that normally the present time of year furnishes its heaviest movement to terminal markets. Another conspicuous fact is an extra profitable feeding difference between prices of corn and hogs. The prevailing ratio is about 14 to one, whereas 10 to one has been usually regarded as right.

Compared with a week ago, corn prices this morning were 1-1¼ cts. a bushel lower, wheat ½-1 down, oats ⅛-⅜ off, and provisions varying from two cents decline to 10 cents advance.

Prices of corn are hovering close to the lowest figures of the season, and this circumstance has a particular tendency to make many traders friendly toward an upturn in values. The fact, however, that country offerings of corn show an increase on price advances leads to belief in some quarters that holders may sell much more freely between now and corn planting time than as a rule has been expected.

Some trader authorities assert a greater than expected disappearance of domestic wheat is taking place both on account of feeding to live stock and because of re-stocking of flour supplies. Oats are mainly tagging after the corn market.

Liberal exports of lard have given firmness to provisions.

GOLDS BOOM ON STANDARD

Heavy Trading in Issues Continues To-day in New York and London.

REACH NEW HIGH LEVELS.

(By the Canadian Press.)

Gold mine shares boomed again to-day on the Toronto mining market, while trading in the issues continued in New York and London. The standard mining exchange here resembled scenes of the 1929 boom as leading Canadian gold producers were again pushed upwards on heavy buying, in some cases, like Lake Shore, reaching new high levels.

Advances in gold shares were recorded in New York against the general stock market trend while they continued a feature of the London stock exchange. The unofficial curb market which sprang up in London continued into the afternoon but South African gold shares there tended to ease off from the records of the past week.

The large party of Canadian and United States' financiers accompanied by Charles McCrea, Ontario mines minister, reached Northern Ontario to-day and began their tour of inspection of the chief Canadian gold producers, scheduled to occupy several days.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.— (C.P.) — Prices declined on the Montreal stock exchange during to-day's short session. Trading was fairly heavy. The majority of price changes were of a fractional nature.

Shawinigan Power lost ¼ at 10⅝ as did Dominion Bridge at 15 and Canadian Car at 3½. Cockshutt Plow eased 3-8 at 3. Brazilian Traction declined 1-8 at 8 3-8. Canada Cement at 2 7-8 and Massey Harris at 2⅜ were down 1-8. Bank of Montreal dipped 2½ points at 170.

Hollinger led the advances, establishing a new high for the year at 8.15 where it closed up 35 cents. Steel of Canada at 15 and McColl Frontenac at 15 were both up ¼.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 4. (CP) — The Toronto Stock Exchange had a fair Saturday session to-day with prices only slightly weaker and volume much better. Leaders in the oils were again active, especially in British American and International Pete, the latter showing a fractional gain. Imperial just held its ground. Moving along with New York quotations on the interlisted shares were down slightly. C.P.R. and Ford lost a fraction while Nickel and Brazilian held steady and Smelters closed up a point.

The beverage stocks held firm on the whole although Walkers Common was down a fraction. Trading was slow in the steel and food sections and about the only change was a gain of half a point on Steel of Canada.

Utilities continued irregular, the loss of a point in Bell Telephone appearing against a half point gain by Montreal Paper. B.C. Power "A" also lost a point.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—(CP)—The Standard Mining market today had its most exciting Saturday session in the last five years. Quotations on the gold shares bobbed about, variations of 10 and 15 points showing between sales in some cases.

The high-priced gold shares still hold the stage for volume. Lake Shore got up to a new high above $39, Dome pushed above $18, McIntyre above $27, Hollinger above $8, Wright Hargreaves and Pioneer above $5 and Teck Hughes to about 4.85. There was a slight sell off from these prices before the close.

The secondary group, especially Sylvanite, Howey and Ventures were in active demand and much stronger while the other favorites in recent market sessions were under fair accumulation. Noranda made less headway on the upside, touching $25 for a gain of 35. Nickel lagged.

Buying was heavy in Eldorado although the price slipped back to around 1.50. Mining corporation gained about 10 and Nipissing was sluggish.

WALL STREET.

(By Claude A. Jagger, Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(A.P.)—A gentle sag again appeared in the stock market to-da, in a full weekend session. The closing tone was easy, with a number of shares off fractions to more than a poin, but the turnover approximated only 400,000 shares.

The selling was a mere trickle, while sentiment, as indicated by brokerage comment, was not bearish on the whole, traders were still content to adhere to the watchful waiting policy of recent weeks.

The weekly freight car loadings report, showing a recession from the previous week of 24,346 cars, was about as expected and failed to bring important selling into the iarriers.

Allied Chemical and Case lost as much as two pints but thse recessins were exceptinal. The recent selling of tobaccos shifted Reynolds B which lost a point.

REMANDED TO FEB. 10

TORONTO.—Frank H. West, arrested on charges of auto theft and holding up the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Markham, was remanded until Feb. 10 when he appeared in County Court to-day shortly after he had pleaded guilty to the auto theft count.

Relief Fund Reaches $7,000 Mark

Contributions to the Relief Fund as listed by City Treasurer Adams amounted this morning close to $6,400, which was $500 from the De Laval Company, for which a cheque was received by Mayor Denne today, brings the total virtually to the round figures of $7,000.

This amount does not include several substantial subscriptions which have been reported during the week as assured. When they are added to the fund, its total will be almost at the half way mark of $10,000.

ASTRONOMERS IN TROUBLE.

MEXICO CITY.—Tearing their hair, Government astronomers have asked the President to move their observatory far from the "madding crowd."

The observatory is in a populous suburb, an aeroplane beacon nearby, and the flash of automobile headlights play hob with telescopic work. Trucks rumbling over a highway register miniature earthquakes on a seismograph in their cellar.

RAIL TRAFFIC INCREASES

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont.—"Wasn't the depression awful?" asked employees of the Michigan Central Railway here when they started checking up present traffic. The number of trains in operation showed a marked increase over any period in the last three years. Three thousand cars were yarded in one 24-hour period.

FIVE FARMERS ARE WOUNDED

Shot Trying to Run Picket Line With Truck Load of Milk.

PRICE WAR CONTINUES.

DES MOINES, Ia., February 4 (C.P.). — One farmer was near death in a Sioux City, Iowa, hospital, and at least four others were suffering from gunshot wounds as debt-laden United States agriculturalists to-day continued to look to Legislatures and Congress for relief.

R. D. Markell, 68, of Elk Point, S.D., was seriously wounded, and his two sons, Harry and Keath, were shot when they attempted to run a blockage of 100 pickets near Sioux City.

Nile Cochran, 39, of Moville, Ia., said by officals to have been one of the pickets, was being held for questioning, after being treated for gunshot wounds, and at least one other unidentified farmer was known to have been shot.

The shooting occurred when the Markells attempted to transport 1,000 gallons of milk into Sioux City in defiance of a price agreement following the milk strike in North-Western Iowa last fall.

Meanwhile the Iowa Legislature had approved a plan to allow the manufacture of alcohol from corn to provide a market for part of the grain surplus. The Senate followed the House's action and voted 43 to 6 to allow establishment of a manufacturing plant at Ford Dodge for the production of industrial alcohol.

'JUNGLE' RESIDENTS HOLD CONFERENCE ABOUT BAD TIMES

Would Put Taxes on Fortunes, Abandon Gold Standard and Inflate the Dollar.

RETURN TO FARMS

NEW YORK. — A city within a city is the logical appellation of the bonus army squatters settlement on the bank of the Hudson River and 78th street. The gathering consists of 125 unemployed men who dwell there and manage to keep going—not only that but they find time to discuss plans to lift the United States out of its present economic stress.

Payment of the bonus for United States' war veterans runs through the culture of the settlement as the first requisite to an upswing. Even technocracy enters the conversations.

Evening meal consumed, they usually gather around milk can stoves light hand-rolled cigarettes, and the discussion is on.

"The concentration of cash caused the whole thing," maintained John D. Clark, unemployed letter carrier and camp commander. "That and an obsession of bond buying. The rich didn't know what to do with their money, and so they wanted to be Napoleons and control the whole world, lending money to foreign countries, running their factories wild and over-producing, gathering all the money in the country into their vaults and making it useless. That's what I mean —dead money."

"Yes, that's what caused it. Now the way to end the depression is to push the country off the gold standard, inflate the money, pay the bonus, and make it a crime for a man to have more than just so much money. Stiff inheritance taxes would do a lot of good. We can trade with most of the foreign countries because we're on the gold standard. The reason money should be inflated is because if I borrowed $100 from a man in 1928, I really owe him about $125 now."

The commander walked over to the headquarters shack, sat down on his cot.

"The United States should be thrown off the gold standard," he said.

"We need a president like Theodore Roosevelt," said Geo. Shields, the adjutant.

Another squatter—an ex-farmer, whose farm was mortgaged—advocated "Somebody to lead us back to the farm. The Government, or the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should buy up a lot of farms, 15 acres and a mule to each man."

"You'd have to buy coffee and sugar and things you could not grow," contended another squatter. "Of course you could make corn whiskey or apple jack. Yes; that's a good idea, 15 acres and a mule."

Declaring that all the depression needed was a little push, the next jungleman thought that fortunes should be broken up and scattered.

Another thought the depression would end if the people quit sinning.

A former pants presser, Grover Ingot, thought that "a modified form of technocracy would be the thing for the country. A form of technocracy under the government would not be under the control of engineers, but under representatives from every branch of work."

Communists are not allowed in the settlement. Most of the men have been affiliated with one of the major parties at one time or another.

ROAD FOR CARS WILL WIND UP AND AROUND NEW STORE

Motorists Can Drive to Floor They Want of Strange London Building

ROOF FOR PLANES

London.—Plans for the most unusual shopping centre in the world are being submitted for official approval here.

The architects are the designers of some of the best modern buildings in Britain. They believe that there is nothing in their plans which is against any regulation.

The building will be in Oxford St., London. It will be seven storeys high and each storey will have a twenty-foot roadway running round it. Motor cars will drive up to the roadways on an inclined track ten feet wide.

There will be another track to take motorists back to the street. The traffic will be one-way.

The shop windows on each of the seven storeys will be let to different shops. There will probably be a millinery row, a dress row, a motor car row, a provision row—and so on.

Motorists will not need to leave their cars until they reach the shop on the floor they want.

A 30-foot arcade will run through the centre of the building and from this will radiate escalators serving all floors. There will also be elevators, of course.

A link-up by way of a subway to the new Marble Arch Underground station is also planned.

There will be a frontage on Oxford St. of 360 feet.

Restaurants and gardens will form part of the flat roof and a central space will be used as a landing ground for helicopter aeroplanes — which the designers think will be a part of life in the near future.

There will be a parking space for more than 1,000 cars.

It is claimed that rents for floor space in the building will be lower than in any other shop in Oxford St.

The building will be built of concrete, steel and glass and will be floodlit at night.

FAMOUS PATHOLOGIST AND WIFE DIE OF FLU

Professor John Glaister of Glasgow, Was Noted Medical Expert in Criminal Cases

Glasgow, Scotland—Professor John Glaister, the famous pathologist and medical crime expert, of Glasgow University, and his wife, died within a few hours of each other here, the victims of an influenza epidemic.

Professor and Mrs. Glaister had been married for 54 years. Both were in their 77th year.

Professor John Glaister, Jr., who succeeded his father in the chair of forensic medicine at Glasgow University 15 years ago, is coming home from Egypt.

Professor Glaister was one of the greatest of medico-legal authorities and was known as the "Sir Bernard Spilsbury of Scotland."

For 33 years he held the chair of forensic medicine in Glasgow University.

A day or two before his death he was present in Glasgow high court waiting to be called as a witness. He became indisposed in the evening, and the court was informed the following day that he would be unable to attend. This was the only occasion in 30 years in which he was unable to attend at court.

At the trial in Glasgow of Peter Queen, who was sentenced for the murder of a woman by strangulation, Professor Glaister appeared for the crown, and Sir Bernard Spilsbury was called for the defence. Their evidence disagreed on many details, and there were dramatic incidents.

Professor Glaister was chief medical witness in the famous Oscar Slater trial.

NOTED WOMAN OWNER OF RACEHORSES DEAD

Lady Nunburnholme, Widow of Yorkshire Shipowner, Scored Many Wins

London.—Florence, Lady Nunburnholme, who died recently at her London home in Grosvenor Sq., W., at the age of 79, was buried in the garden tomb at her former home, Warter Priory, near Pocklington, Yorkshire, the county where her racing colors were so often seen.

She was the widow of Baron Nunburnholme, the Hull millionaire shipowner, who died in 1907.

It is understood that although at one time she was worth more than £750,000, Lady Nunburnholme died comparatively poor.

She was a great figure in society and extremely popular in sporting circles.

In 1925 her horse Amethystine won the Kempton Jubilee, and another of her horses, Racedale, won the race again last year.

Other turf triumphs included the Goodwood stewards cup in 1926, which she won with Perhaps So, and the Great Yorkshire stakes at York in the summer of last year with Loaningdale.

Lady Nunburnholme was the mother of Lady Chesterfield, who not only owns racehorses, but has gained many prizes in the show ring.

When Lord Nunburnholme died his widow became the owner of the Wilson shipping line and Earl's shipyard, which she later sold, and in 1928 she also sold Warter Priory to the Hon. George Vestey, second son of Lord Vestey.

This estate of 10,000 acres produced in one day's shooting a bag of 4,460 birds, the British record for one day.

WELL-KNOWN GLASGOW ANTIQUARY IS DEAD

Muirhead Moffat Was Authority on Scottish Antiques

Glasgow, Scotland.—The death has occurred of Mr. Muirhead Moffat, a well-known Glasgow dealer in antiques. In business in the city for about 35 years, Mr. Moffat took a great interest in Scottish antiques, and specially old Scottish weapons, on which he was a recognized authority. Two years ago he purchased a Wallace sword and gave the assurance at the time that it would not leave Scotland. Mr. Moffat was also a cartoonist and illustrator of considerable ability.

KING'S STAMP EXPERT RECEIVES KNIGHTHOOD

Edward Bacon Has Been 20 Years in Charge of Royal Collection

London—One of the most surprised and delighted men in England at Christmas time was Edward Bacon, the King's stamp expert, who was knighted by his royal employer and friend. For nearly 20 years he has been curator of the King's stamp collection. During that time he has gone three times a week to Buckingham Palace to look after the King's stamps and discuss new issues, possible purchases and other matters connected with philately.

He was in the stamp room at the palace one morning just before Christmas when he was told the King wished to see him. He describes what followed:

"We talked for a while and then the King told me that he had a surprise for me. And indeed it was a surprise when he said that he intended to make me a knight commander of the Victorian Order.

"We were alone in the room and the King motioned me toward a footstool near him. And there I knelt while he grasped a sword and touched me lightly on the shoulders.

"I was so affected I could barely hear him say, 'Rise Sir Edward.'

Sir Edward Bacon is 72 and a quiet, modest, scholarly man. He completed the arrangement of the Tapley collection of stamps in the British Museum. For six years until 1923 he was president of the Royal Philatelic society, and his publications on stamps are among the recognized text-books on the subject.

From 12 albums, when Sir Edward first began his philatelic visits to the palace, the royal collection has grown to 300.

Strangely enough he has now no collection of his own. "A man cannot devote himself to two collections," he told an interviewer.

FALLS OVER CLIFF

Plymouth Town Official Drops 100 Feet at West Hoe

Plymouth, Eng.—The body of Mr. Frederick L. Mapp, deputy engineer of Plymouth, was found dead, in West Hoe pleasure grounds, where he had fallen from the cliff. He was 63.

When a serious subsidence occurred along the cliff road some time ago Mr. Mapp promised that he would frequently examine a portion of the rocks and make sure that everything was safe.

To inspect the cliff he had to stand on a garden seat and lean over the wall. Presumably he was doing this when he overbalanced and fell 100 feet.

A £26,000 GIFT

Worcester, Eng.—Sir William Morris, the motor car manufacturer, has been presented with a gold-finished Royal Worcester porcelain coffee set by the staff of the Royal Worcester Infirmary to commemorate his recent gift of £26,000 to that institution.

GIFTS SPREAD THROUGH A VILLAGE BY OLD RESIDENT

All Friends of Alfred Oakes of Ramsbury, Wiltshire, Remembered in Will

THEY GET £10,000

Ramsbury, Eng.—Many residents of this pretty Wiltshire village near Marlborough are receiving handsome legacies under the will of Mr. Alfred Ernest Oakes of The Cedars, Ramsbury, a mining engineer, late of Colombia, South America, who died here in August, aged 85.

Mr. Oakes, a brother of the late Sir Augustus Oakes, librarian of the foreign office, left estate of £30,576. He had lived here for more than 40 years and ten years ago invested £1,000 to provide an annual outing for the children of the village school.

His bequests to the village, many of which came as a surprise, total about £10,000, including £2,500 in trust for life to Mrs. Frederick John Talmage, the woman who looked after him; £2,000 to her husband; £100 to Tom Lewington, postman; £25 to Sidney Smith, a saddler, apprenticed to Mr. Wren; £500 to Frederick Smith, carpenter; £200 to his servant, Emily Cox; £500 to his servant, Harry Reushen; £2,000 to Reushen's sister, Florence May Asby, and £100 to his servant, Frederick Chamberlain.

Other bequests include £500 to Savernake hospital and £500 to Ramsbury Institute to build a billiards room.

There is also £100 for Charles Conquest, formerly a writer und. the name of "Lambourne" in the Sporting Life, "for his kindness to me in the coursing field when my greyhound, Hermosa, broke her leg at Southminster."

Mr. Oakes has left £200 to John Henry Lawrence, a solicitor, and large bequests to Mr. and Mrs. Talmage's ten children. He stated that if there was not sufficient money to pay all the legacies those to the Talmage family were to be paid in full first.

Mrs. Talmage worked when a young girl in Mr. Oakes' household when he first came to Ramsbury and since the death of his wife, nearly 30 years ago, had constantly watched over his needs.

Mr. Oakes was born in Norfolk and when a young man was employed on the railway in Somerset. Later he carried out the ex nsion of Blackpool pier before going to Sierra Leone. Afterwards he led an adventurous life in the gold mines in California and Colombia.

Mrs. Talmage was getting supper for her ten children when a London reporter called to see her.

"The money will come in very useful," she said, "and it was terribly sweet of the old ma to remember us so kindly. When he lived alone I cooked all his meals for him and I was with him when he died."

WOMEN DETECTIVES WATCH SHOPLIFTERS

They're Ready to Go Anywhere in London

London.—Scotland Yard, the underground and omnibus companies, and the London stores are co-operating in a big drive against shoplifting and the pickpockets.

Several of the large London stores have been robbed of goods running into hundreds of pounds by pilferers during the past few weeks.

Pickpockets have been more than usually busy at west end centres.

In one week 21 arrests were made.

Police patrols in plain clothes have been put on in the busiest shopping districts. At the big stores women detectives are on duty, mixing with the shoppers.

There is now a flying squad of women detectives who can be switched to watch any district where shoplifting is reported.

MYSTERIOUS FIRES AT BIG COUNTRY HOUSES

Lord Clinton's Mansion Near Torrington, North Devon, Latest of Long List

London.—Heanton Satchville, Lord Clinton's mansion near Torrington, North Devon, was destroyed by fire after there had been three other outbreaks of fire in the same house.

The police are investigating a string of fires which have occurred during recent months at big country houses in all parts of the country.

In many cases the property has either been unoccupied or temporarily untenanted.

Here is a list of some of the big houses at which mysterious fires have occurred.

Mansion House, Lochton, Perthshire, occupants away.

Odell Castle, near Bedford, unoccupied but fully furnished.

Clifford Priory, Herefordshire, unoccupied.

North Heath Farm, Horsham, unoccupied.

Steventon Manor, Hampshire, owner away.

Stype Manor, near Hungerford, Berkshire, occupied only by domestic staff.

Fair Oak Park, Eastleigh, Hampshire, unoccupied.

Elm Grove, Hyde, unoccupied.

Barham Court, Teston, near Maidstone.

Nothing remained of Lord Clinton's house after the fire except the blackened ruins of the main building, and the servants' and kitchen quarters.

Lord and Lady Clinton were staying at Bicton, East Budleigh, Devon. The outbreak was discovered by the housekeeper. She and a maid and a man-servant were the only occupants of the mansion. Nothing from the upper floors was saved, and the loss included Chippendale, Sheraton, Queen Anne and Tudor furniture, and many things that could not be replaced. The library contents and the principal art treasures were saved.

Sheffield, Eng.—Five thousand people, mostly women, were present at the funeral at Darnall, Sheffield, of the four child victims of the recent house fire in Irving St., Sheffield.

PROPOSED NEW ARMY UNIFORM RIDICULED

Girls Won't Walk With Tommy in That Outfit

London.—The Duke of Beaufort ridiculed the proposed new uniform for the army, in replying, on behalf of the army and navy at the Calne Fat Stock Show. The Duke said:

"I have soldiered myself, and I hope we are not going to see the army dressed up in the so-called uniform which we saw in the newspapers recently."

Another protest against the uniform came from Sir Philip Hunloke, helmsman of the King's racing yacht Britannia, who declared:

"If we are going to dress soldiers in a costume that is a mixture of convict's and poacher's I do not think you will find many young girls walking out with the Tommy of to-day."

The new service uniform, as at present proposed, is to include a deerstalker cap, an open-neck tunic, roll collar, large flap pockets, pullover and waterproof cape.

TRAIN RUNS BY GAS ENGINES AND GEARS

Synchronized Gear-Boxes Are Electrically Controlled and Driving Is Easy

Preston, Eng. — The new petrol engine locomotive, with a self-changing gear-box, is undergoing tests over a section of the L. M. S. Railway line.

The engine driver becomes a chauffeur, and has a job like driving a motor car with automatic shift and the steering wheel missing.

To change gears, an indicator is moved to the gear number required. The locomotive has two 150 horsepower engines.

It is claimed that this new form of transmission will hasten the development of the car-like train. In the Diesel electrical principle, adopted for train use in Germany, transmission from engine to wheel is by electric motor, but in the new British engine a form of motor car gear-box, electrically controlled by air pressure, has been adopted.

CINEMA MAN'S BATTLE BEATS HIS OWN FILMS

Fights Both Bandits and Detectives and Saves His Money

London.—The manager of a west-end cinema provided crowds of London shoppers with a thrill worthy of any gangster film when he engaged four men in combat.

Two of his opponents were detectives! They thought he was a desperate bandit escaping with loot, but the bag he carried contained £500 of his cinema's takings, which real bandits had unsuccessfully tried to steal.

The cinema manager was Mr. William J. Seymour of the Rialto, in Coventry St.

As he was walking down the west side of Leicester Sq., a car, driven by a chauffeur in livery and containing two men, drew up behind him.

The two men jumped out and one hit him on the back of the head, while the other made a leap for the bag.

But Mr. Seymour was wearing a hard felt hat, and the blow merely dented the hat. He sailed into the bandits, knocked out one with a kick and started a tug-of-war with the other for the bag. Then two detectives who happened along joined in the fray. They didn't know who were the robbers, and Seymour thought the detectives were more hold-up men. In the mix-up the bandits got away and Seymour, bursting into Thurston's billiard hall, was overpowered by the detectives and arrested. But he saved his money.

DEATH BREAKS PLAN

Father Hurt, Son Killed, on Last Round as Newsagents Together

Coventry, Eng.—Thomas Kelsey, aged 68, a newsagent, of Wolston, Coventry, and his son, Thomas, aged 28, set out on what was arranged should be their last round together before the younger man took over the work from his father.

On Knightlow Hill their motorcycle combination came in collision with a motor car.

The father had his collar-bone broken. The son was killed.

SCOTLAND AND NORTH OF ENGLAND FLOODED

Six Feet of Water in Houses in Suburb of Maryport, Cumberland

London.—Aged people and children were rescued from bedrooms when the suburb of Grasslot, Maryport, Cumberland, was flooded.

Police commissioned lorries and carts from which ladders were erected to bedroom windows.

Only two streets escaped the floods.

A drainage stream running from high land swept into the suburb like a river.

Houses at the worst points were flooded to a depth of five or six feet, and many had three feet of water, in which furniture was floating, on the ground floors.

Women and children were carried to Grasslot school, where fires were lighted and breakfast served.

C. Towers' coal depot was flooded to the extent of six feet, and horses in the stables were taken out with only their backs showing.

The water was reduced by knocking holes through a wall and flooding the Glasson football ground.

For at least 40 years there has been no serious flood at Maryport, the population of which is over 10,000.

There has been serious flooding in Scotland.

On the Carlisle-Abington Rd. a bridge was washed away north of Lockerbie. The road between Motherwell and Hamilton was impassable.

Between Stirling and Lochearnhead the road was submerged for miles north and south of Callender.

Heavy flooding at Hamilton resulted in the creation of a lake extending two and a half miles between Clyde Bridge, on the Motherwell-Hamilton road, and Bothwell Bridge.

The main thoroughfare between Hamilton, Motherwell and the east was under six feet of water.

In the Speyside district of Morayshire large areas of agricultural land were under water.

A landslide occurred on "Rest and Be Thankful" Hill between Arrochar and Cairndon in Argyllshire. Many tons of earth and rock fell into the roadway, which was completely blocked, and motorists were compelled to make a wide detour.

MUSSOLINI WILL RAID TIBER'S BED FOR GOLD

To Dredge Waterway to Recover Treasures of Ancient Gods

Nice, France. — Encouraged and emboldened by his success in raising Caligula's galleys from the bottom of Lake Nemi, where they had lain for centuries, Mussolini has now decided to solve Italy's gold problem by dredging the depths of the Tiber river in search of treasure which he can turn into gold.

Five years ago Mussolini called into conference a score of engineers and historians. He told them that in Caligula's galleys there were treasures that would make Italy one of the richest gold countries in the world. The engineers meekly suggested that already for centuries Italian divers had raided the galleys and that they were of the opinion that not much of value was left on board. They told Mussolini the ships were so rotten they could not be lifted up. In order to discourage the dictator one of the engineers stated the entire lake would have to be pumped out in order to reach the galleys.

"Then, pump out the lake," Mussolini ordered.

For some years Italian workmen have been "at it" and a short time ago the lake was pumped dry. There lay two rotten ships. The historians were right. The ships had been raided and robbed for centuries and nothing of value was found.

Now Mussolini is planning to remove the galleys to a space in Rome and build a museum round them. Italy expects to realize millions of liras from the gate receipts.

Mussolini, looking for new worlds to conquer and having found there were no new worlds outside of Italy on which he could try his hands, is now going to dredge the bottom of the Tiber river.

The ancient river was the recipient of invaluable treasures for thousands of years. Beginning with the time when the Eternal City of to-day was a little village the Tiber river was worshiped as the domain of gods.

When a man committed a theft and his conscience began to bother him he took the stolen object, threw it into the river, and his conscience was eased.

Professor Ciro Nispi-Landi, the archaeologist, was certain the entire river was regarded as the abode of a multitude of gods whom the Romans, Goths, Huns, Jews, Vandals and even medieval Christians regarded as insatiable deities, who constantly held them to blackmail and whom they constantly propitiated by parting from their most precious properties.

Some years ago a contractor was engaged to sink two shafts across the river, preparatory to building a new bridge. He brought out ancient relics which when sold almost paid for the bridge. Another contractor on river work brought out enough objects to fill a new museum in Rome.

Finsbury Park District Residents Have an Exciting Night Experience

London.—More than 100 pianos were burned in an exciting night fire at the factory of Witton & Witton, piano manufacturers, in Fonthill Rd., Finsbury Park, N.

The fire became so intense that a district call was circulated and all available fire appliances and men from surrounding districts were mobilized.

The Seven Sisters Rd. depot of the United Dairies adjoins the building, and there 60 horses were stabled. The animals became terrified at the smoke and heat which penetrated their quarters.

Policemen went from door to door to warn the residents of neighboring houses, most of whom were asleep when the fire started, to leave their homes.

Hundreds of people with coats thrown over their night clothes dashed out to watch the fire.

The factory was badly damaged and parts of the roof collapsed. The plant employs more than 100 hands. A crowd of 5,000 people assembled at Seven Sisters Rd. and police reinforcements were called to control traffic.

NEW MUNICH BEER NON-INTOXICATING

Palatable and Nourishing, Only .38 p.c. Alcohol

Berlin.—A claim to have solved the great problem of producing a highly palatable beer which invigorates and nourishes without intoxicating is put forward in the Munich Medical Weekly. The announcement is made by three doctors of the University Institute for Research into the chemistry of food.

It is stated that the new alcohol-free beer contains all the carbohydrates, albumen and mineral salts which are extracted from the malt by the usual methods of brewing. It is further claimed that the beer is as refreshing, nourishing and stimulating to the appetite as any other.

The new beer contains only .38 per cent. of alcohol, as against 3.7 in the old Munich dark beer.

SWEDISH MATCH CO. BOARD SUMMONED

Made False Return on Stock Issue, Is Charge

Stockholm.—The whole of the old board of the Swedish Match Co., altogether nineteen persons, have been summoned to appear before the town hall court here for breach of the share companies' law. The case arises out of the company's issue of 200,000 new shares in March last year.

The board informed the authorities that the whole issue has had been fully paid up, but, according to Police Assessor Sandstrom, 151,710 were not paid for in cash at all, but were debited to Kreuger and Toll.

DIVORCED HUSBAND TO RESCUE OF WIFE

Stands by When She Is Charged With Shop-Lifting

Croydon, Eng.—"When a man marries a woman, then whatever may happen in the divorce court it is the husband's place to be by the wife's side when she needs help."

This was the statement made by Herbert Hodson, when his divorced wife who is 56, was charged with shop-lifting in London. Her husband, hearing of her trouble, asked that he and Mrs. Hodson might remarry and make a fresh start.

The magistrate said that although she deserved to go to prison for three months he would fine her £15.

"I am afraid I shall have to sell my piano, my most valuable possession," Mr. Hodson said.

Mr. Hodson, who was educated at the University of London, was lecturer to an engineering college for years. He has also been lecturer to many societies, and during the war was a government inspector of aeronautics. He is now living in one room and is drawing the dole.

A PENALTY SHOT

La Plata, Argentina.—The referee at a football match here refused to award a penalty kick in favor of the home side, so the president of the local association fotball club whipped out a revolver, took aim and fired.

The referee is in a critical condition with a bullet wound in his head.

SECRET OF EMPRESS REVEALED BY TREE

Eugenie Sent Money, Gems to Mother in Spain

Paris.—Inside a tree just cut down at Perpignan was found a bottle. This contained a document bearing the arms of Emperor Napoleon III. and the seal of the French chancellery.

It set out that on September 4, 1870, the empress committed to a man named Manuel Perez, to be handed over to her mother, the Countess di Montigo, at Madrid, two million francs and a quantity of jewelry, valued at five million francs. The document has been sent to Paris for examination.

COMPOSES MUSIC ON 'TALKIE' FILM

Professor Gets Greater Range Than Possible on Instruments

Berlin.—When Herr Pfenninger composes and writes out a piece of music, it does not have to be played by a band or any musical instrument, but the public can hear it just the same. He writes on the sound track of a "talkie" film.

At a meeting of the German Kinotechnical Society, Herr Pfenninger claimed that he can reproduce the compositions of others in this way, and also compose music containing gradations of pitch and intervals which are beyond the power of any known musical instrument.

Herr Pfenninger does not write direct on to the film but draws the "vibration lines" on paper and then transfers them.

GERMAN IS INVENTOR OF GLASS THAT BENDS

Sheet Less Than Tenth of an Inch Thick Is Used as See-Saw

Berlin.—Unbreakable glass is said to have been invented 2,000 years ago. An artist appeared before Tiberius with a glass cup which he dashed on the ground. It was not broken but merely dented like a piece of metal. Then he hammered the cup back into shape with a mallet. Tiberius asked if anybody else knew the secret, and when the inventor answered "No," had him beheaded lest this wonderful glass should depreciate the value of gold!

Now the secret that died with its discoverer so long ago has been again revealed, this time in Germany, where glass has been produced which neither splinters nor breaks. To test it three adults used a long sheet of 9-50th of an inch thickness as a see-saw, and the glass is reported to have shown an elasticity similar to that of highly-flexible steel.

As a further test, a heavy steel ball was dropped from a height of ten feet on the glass without leaving any impression.

BAN CRUELTY TO BIRDS INFLICTED 2,000 YEARS

Mussolini Declares Capri Sanctuary, Deprives Epicures of Tidbits

Rome.—Mussolini has issued an order which puts an end to 2,000 years of cruelty in the island of Capri, off Naples.

The island, a famous retreat, has been declared a sanctuary, and severe penalties are decreed for killing birds of any kind on the island.

Bird lovers all over the world will applaud the triumph of Dr. Axel Munthe, the famous Swedish physician, who has devoted half a century to the preservation of bird life. Mussolini's order is an outcome of his efforts.

In his book, "The Story of San Michele," Dr. Munthe told how for hundreds of years it had been the practice during Holy Week to spread nets for exhausted migratory birds which called at the island. They were captured in thousands, packed alive in boxes and sent as tit-bits for "epicures," to Italy and France.

He once protested to the queen of Italy and was offered lark paste at lunch in the royal palace!

BRITISH CHANCELLOR'S THREATS HAVE OPPOSITE EFFECT TO THAT INTENDED ON DEBT SETTLEMENT

Demand by American People for Payment Strengthened — Fiscal Experts Wonder How Payment Can Be Made Except in Goods.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Oratory like that of Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, has a contrary effect. He warned of European reprisals if the United States insisted on war debt collections. Stand-pat debt collectionists in Washington say if we have just a bit more of such warnings, there need be no worry that the debts will be cancelled. The American people, in anger, would not hear of it.

Neville Chamberlain

If American statesmanship had any idea that another cut in war debts would be popular throughout the country, it clearly has been corrected by the public's reaction to news of approaching conferences. The Chamberlain speech, to borrow an English expression, appears to have "put the hat on it".

As a matter of fact, few politicians did believe that the proposed further scaling down of the debts would be favorably received.

Senator Robert B. Howell's sarcastic question, in response to representations that America must write off the European debts or lose Europe as a customer who cannot or will not pay for what he has had already" — evidently embodies the overwhelming national verdict.

* * *

FOR ALL THAT, the problem of collecting the debts in anything except goods, puzzles fiscal experts. The protectionist policy of the United States bars goods.

True, it is difficult to understand why Americans should suffer by having huge quantities of valuable commodities, which they paid for in 1917 and 1918, in the form of war loans, delivered to them.

Yet they do suffer by it—in unemployment.

A paradox?

Having paid for the goods a decade and a half ago, one would think that Americans would gladly accept and use them, and have an easy time of it for 62 or 63 years, while Europe is discharging its obligation.

It doubtless is natural for Europeans, who must produce the goods to be delivered here in liquidation of their "dead horse" indebtedness, not to like it, but for Americans to object to receiving the goods seems surprising.

Of course the explanation is that only a very few Americans, into whose hands the war bonds have graviated, actually get the goods; not the rank and file of Americans. The humble rank and file really do lose their jobs through having the European-made good admitted into the country.

Moreover, if Europe fails to foot its bill in something or other, the American rank and file will have to dig up the money to satisfy the war bondholders. The bondholders have no notion of being bilked, whichever way the cat may jump.

However, if an injustice lurks anywhere in this situation, it is a domestic injustice, and no affair of Uncle Sam's European debtors.

"And Never The Trains Shall Meet" Declares 24 To 1 Senate Committee

When the Canadian Senate Committee on Railways voted 24 to 1 against the amalgamation of Canada's two great railway systems, the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific, they dealt a telling blow to any scheme to merge these world's greatest transportation systems. An amalgamation would represent one of the most gigantic financial feats ever accomplished. On the one hand, the government or public owned National system, gross earnings of which were more than two hundred million dollars in 1930; on the other hand, the privately-owned Canadian Pacific, which earned about one hundred and eighty millions in the same year. A merger would mean that some 45,000 miles of track would come under one head (C.N.R. approximately 23,000; C.P.R. approximately 21,000). In addition, the Canadian Pacific ocean line, one of the largest in the world itself, and the great hotel systems of each railway would be linked. In the above layout is shown main lines of the two railways in Canada, showing duplication in some areas.

washed in the river. The family took him in as a son.

Source of Game

As the legend went on, the speaker said, the two boys became curious with regard to the source of the game their father brought home from his hunting expeditions and followed him one day. They found that he got his deer and birds from a cavern in which all the animals, birds and insects were locked. The boys gave them their freedom, unknown to the father. Thus the earth became populated with its animal, bird and insect life.

Professor McIlwraith cited this legend as typical in its supernatural content and also typical as an explanation of natural phenomena. A great bulk of the folk-lore is devoted to the explanation of natural phenomena and origins, he said. The Indians had no thought of systematizing and applying logic to their reasonings so their explanations seem extremely crude and primitive to us. They did not seem so to the Indian and were accepted without serious question. Even in cases where an Indian on the borders of two tribes heard conflicting legends of explanation, he was not troubled. He combined the better parts of the two legends into one.

Characteristic of the tales is the amount of repetition. Depending on the word of mouth, the incessant repetition of the main facts in a story were necessary in order to get the story across to the hearer, Professor McIlwraith said.

London Loses Two Best-Dressed Men

LONDON, Feb. 4 (C.P. Cable).—It is safe to say that London has lost its two best-dressed men in the recent death of the Earl of Chesterfield, formerly Treasurer of the Royal Household, which followed so closely upon the death of Sir Douglas Dawson, State Chamberlain.

Lord Chesterfield, who has just died, was a remarkably handsome man, with a notable carriage, and, like Sir Douglas Dawson, he rigidly adhered to the old style of tall hat and perfect cut-away coat in town.

Right up to the end of his long life the famous lawyer, Sir Edward Clark, who died not long ago, was faithful to the grey tall hat and frock-coat.

TOWN AND COUNTRY

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: There is evident again a determined stand, on the part of those living in cities, town and villages against any salary reductions.

The farmer, willy-nilly, has taken a reduction of 60 per cent. in prices since 1929, and what he has to buy has been reduced only about 15 per cent. Now he is confronted with refusals of many whose salaries he helps to pay, to take more than the five or ten per cent. reductions of a year or two ago. Small wonder the rift between the town and the country is widening and even bitter feeling beginning to show.

At the municipal elections a few weeks ago, we thought it was made sufficiently clear to our councillors that the people wanted economy. No we read that many members of the County Council refused to cut $1100 from the clerk and treasurer's salary. In fact we think they might have done better and found some honest and competent man to take that office at a salary of $2000. I suppose we like to feel magnanimous, but we do not find the city employing someone from outside its borders, even if they did live in the city once. But the county employs a city man to handle its money. There is nothing personal in this, because I do not know the present holder of that office, but in these changing times and conditions, new methods often are an improvement.

The argument was brought forth that much was saved for the council by the present clerk. We would like that to be more specific. Is it because he does work that the members of the council are supposed to do? They are being paid for their services and if they are not willing to do the work, why do they seem so anxious for the job? Or surely the duties of the clerk and treasurer do not require constant legal supervision from some source, to prevent the province or some corporation from beating the county. Queer system of governments we have if that is the case.

It was very noticeable too that there was just one item of business after another, done by the council borrowing money. When and how do we pay back? But we know that some of the members of the council are working hard to effect economy. We can see that the village reeves are all for spending money, but the farmers who are joining with them must be wealthy enough to escape the hardships most of the farmers are experiencing.

We are glad to read of some action in regard to taxes for educational purposes. We noted that the Toronto teachers have had little reduction in salaries. Many with some experience are getting $2000 for teaching one class in the public school. Compare that with the work done by and the salaries paid to our rural teachers. We wonder how much per $1000 of Toronto teachers' salaries is paid by government grants, which all of us help to pay. Can anyone give that information? Also, how much per $1000 is paid to the teacher in your country school by government grant? Half the members of parliament should be farmers.

We country women are discouraged by the way prices of eggs are down. They were 35c in 1929; 13½c now.

Let us make a "determined stand" for 25c for firsts, a little more for extras, a little less for seconds. Feed is not the only item, any more than gas is the only cost of a car, and there must be allowance for losses, too. The eggs are all fresh this time of the year.

COUNTRYWOMEN.

PAY AS YOU GO.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: On your editorial page the extract from the Ottawa Journal explaining how many municipalities are paying a high rate of exchange, was illuminating to some of us at least, and somehow those creditors reminded us of the creditor we used to read about in "The Merchant of Venice."

There are those who think it is quite permissable to get all they can from public funds, but this depression has taught us one thing: Every last one of us has a direct interest in the raising of public money, whether for the Dominion Government, the provinces, the municipalities, and we need to keep a vigilant eye on how it is being spent.

We have learned, too late, that even governments cannot go on borrowing indefinitely without paying huge sums in interest, and the principal some day. And we need to watch our creditors! Usually men who have made huge sums of money are not very particular of methods used to get it. Oh, I do not mean they are not "within the law!" But we are much happier if we have no occasion to get into their power by borrowing money.

Was it not the habit of easy borrowing which caused such high wages and prices during the war, while the soldiers got only $1.10 per day? Is it not the same habit which causes municipalities to load future generations with debt, while they will have their own obligations to meet? And companies borrow huge sums and pay high dividends with it, while we pay high prices for value never received, in goods or service. Then individuals suffer from an agony of debts piling up. Of course it was easy to listen to the smooth tongued salesman advocating the instalment plan.

If it is impressed on the grown-ups of this generation so that they will teach the younger ones to pay cash or do without, then the depression will have accomplished enough to justify itself.

We have scoffed at the bit of advice in "Neither a borrower nor a lender be," but I think we feel differently about it now. Perhaps it's the best rule to pay cash and insist on buying from those who sell for cash only. We do not want to pay for some one else's bad debts. Many things can be done without until the money is saved. For buying a business, a farm, or other necessary borrowing, if it were possible to deal with the government through such a fund to be had at a reasonable rate of interest, would it help matters? It should be possible for municipalities, school boards, churches and companies to get enough ahead till money comes in throughout the year.

Money should not be worth more than 3 per cent. interest any time. If there was no one to borrow money at high rates of interest, there would be less temptation for men to pile up wealth. We all want enough to live on, and keep us in old age, with possibly a bit to help the children, but not enough to spoil them. Do we need millionaires in a country where the people pay as they go? The poor things have such worries — they should be glad to find that the fashion is changing, and too much money isn't "the thing."

INDIANS OFFER WIDE FIELD FOR INVESTIGATION

North American Indian Folk-Lore Described in Lecture!

COMMON ELEMENT.

Professor McIlwraith Addresses Friday Night Supper Club.

"The folk-lore of the North American Indian offers a rich and almost limitless field for investigation in the study of that fascinating race of people which originally inhabited our continent," Professor T. A. McIlwraith of Toronto declared in an address to a Peterborough audience last night. "The fore-lore reveals to us the ways of thinking, the racial tradition and the general cultural levels with a completeness which formal history can not offer."

Professor McIlwraith spoke under the auspices of the Friday Night Supper Club in one of the series of university extension lectures which are being offered at the Y.M.C.A. to the public. In taking the folk-lore of the North American Indian as his subject, he spoke in a field which has been the object of his wide personal research during recent years. He holds a post as associate professor of anthropology at Toronto University and serves as keeper of the ethnological collection at the Royal Ontario Museum.

"The bulk of the tradition of the more civilized nations has been passed down by means of the printed or written word," Professor McIlwraith said. "However, in the case of the American Indian the racial history and tradition have been passed down almost entirely by word of mouth. The Indian did not ruin his memory by disuse in depending on the written word as we have. Thanks to his memory we have the great diversified body of stories, legends and myths which is included in the general term "folk-lore."

Know The Life

"To understond the folk-lore of a people we must first know the life they lived and their environment as a general background. We could not appreciate the writings of Chaucer or Shakespeare if we did not know something of the way their contemporaries lived and the way they thought. In reading Shakespeare we must refer to notes and glossaries. When we come to the life, thoughts and traditions of the American Indian, however, we are in a world which is even more remote than that of Chaucer and even Shakespeare.

"Various efforts have been made to translate the folk-lore of the Indian into English without losing the spirit which makes possible our appreciation. However, there are many difficulties. The language is different and the life of the Indian has been far different from ours. Consequently it is difficult to express it in a translation which can be appreciated. The translation and study of the folk-lore is hightly important, nevertheless, if we are to gain an insight into the people."

The consistency and accuracy with which the countless legends of the various groups of Indians have been passed down is surprising, Professor McIlwraith said. The same story or legend will be told by different members of a tribe or even widely separated tribes with almost no variation in the main facts. The growth of folk-lore is slow and the stories are impressed in the memories of each generation by frequent repetition.

Common Element

The content of the folk-lore of tribes as widely separated as those of California and Ontario is quite different in nature, but a common element can be found in the folk-lore throughout the race, Professor McIlwraith continued. The nearness and vividness of the supernatural is characteristic in all the legends and stories of the folk-lore. All the older tradition is reeking with the supernatural. The Indian did not recognize the supernatural as supernatural, but accepted it as matter of fact history, he said.

As an illustration of the extent to which the supernatural is ingrained in the folk-lore, Professor McIlwraith outlined one of the legends of the south-east Indians in the region of Georgia and Tennessee. According to the legend, an Indian man, his wife and their boy lived in the region shortly after the world was created. A river flowed by their dwelling. It was before the days when animals, birds and insects dwelt on the earth at large but the Indian man never failed to bring back plenty of deer meat from his hunting expeditions. They washed the blood from the meat in the river when preparing it. One day the boy of the family discovered a strange young lad who had sprung from blood of the animal carcasses

COMBINES BEAT LAKEFIELD 7-1 IN E.P.L. GAME

Intermediate Teams Give Splendid Exhibition Despite Lop-sided Score.

CLEVER GOAL-TENDING.

Alex Kempt's Junior Take 5-0 Decision From Normal School Team.

NORWOOD, Feb. 4 (Special to The Examiner).—Norwood Combines came back to form on Friday night on their home ice when they took an East Peterborough League fixture from Lakefield, 7 to 1. Despite the one-sided score, the game was on of the best of the season; the ice being in perfect condition.

The first period opened very fast with both teams checking hard. Both net-minders were on the spot many times, but kept their goals clear.

Bill Cripps, blocky defence man, got the gate for what looked like a hard body check; Pat Calladine followed him a minute later for slashing. During this two-man advantage, the Cement Town boys put on the pressure, but Beavis kept them off the score sheet. McConnell got an easy goal on a shot from the blue line that fooled Wannamaker, the puck never leaving the ice. Kennedy evened the count on a long shot that was deflected in off a defence man; Webb put the Combines one up a minute later to make it 2 to 1, the end of the first.

Brilliant Goal-Tending

The second period produced the best hockey of the night, both goal tenders played as if the Allan Cup was at stake and there was no scoring. Northey suffered a bad cut on the head when he was hit by one of Pat Calladine's rifle shots, after a short rest he was able to continue.

Lakefield defence went to pieces in the third session, and the Combines sifted through on Wannamaker with ease. Fred Cripps missed a nice chance on a solo effort, the best of the night. On the next rush Calladine took Stevenson's pass for the third; Fred Cripps got number four, and brother Bill came back with another solo rush to make it 5 to 1. Fred Cripps made it the half dozen, while Bill ended the scoring when he went through the entire team.

Cripps brothers were stand-outs for the Combines, along with Beavis, who played a stellar game in the nets. For Lakefield, George Wannamaker, Kennedy and Northey looked the pick.

Combines.—Goal, Beavis; defence, Bill Cripps, Scriver; centre, Stevenson; wings, F. Cripps, Calladine; subs., McConnel, Webb, Baker and Rogers.

Alex Kempt's juniors were too fast for the Normal boys in a city league junior game, winning 5 to 0 from the students. The game was much better than the score indicates, the Normal boys checked hard, but showed no combination. Against this the Norwood juniors were playing a perfect combination game. This made the difference in the game and score.

To single out any one player for a star on either team would be unfair to the rest as they all gave all they had.

Norwood—Goal, Thorby; defense, Rogers and Davies; wings, Puffer and Hamblin; centre, N. Rogers; subs., McGowan, Stewart, Innes, G. Puffer.

Mr. Linton, who was ninety-five years of age had been an inmate of the County House of Refuge for the past seventeen years and was called the "daddy of the home." He came from Roseneath and was a real character, always bright and glad to see visitors and ready to contribute a step dance to any entertainment which was taken out for the benefit of the old people. Liberals Oppose Government Aid

Government, Miss MacPhail stated, had sold goods to Roumania under a scheme which had cost money to Canada. The Dominion government had passed orders-in-council for assistance to the distressed furniture industry and for the Canadian Pacific Railway. If cattle could be bartered for oil to the benefit of this country, Miss MacPhail said, what was the use of being unwilling to develop trade in the large potential market of Russia. Russia was a good potential market for Canadian products.

How were trade and barter to be carried on if business men did not know the conditions into which they wanted to sell their goods? Asked Hon. James Malcolm, former Minister of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Stevens had pointed to four items which, under the order-in-council, may not be imported into Canada and had also refused to deal with individual cases.

One would think that because Canada was importing large quantities of Welsh anthracite this commodity had not been imported into this country before Mr. Malcolm declared. Canada had been buying coal from Wales for many years. The Russian coal would not injure the Welsh trade, but it might injure importations from the United States.

The House closed the first week of the session with Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, and Hon. H. H. Stevens locked in verbal warfare over a brochure published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, "Canada, 1933."

The book was nothing but "Tory propaganda," and distortion of present-day conditions in Canada, charged the Liberal leader. It was "unnecessary, untrue information, historically inaccurate and false political propaganda, unjustified on any public ground."

"Pitifully childish spleen," because the booklet dealt with the prominent part the present Prime Minister took in the Imperial Conference, retorted the Trade Minister, while the temper of the House rose several points at on jump. For almost the whole day the House wrestled with Trade Department estimates, passing three or four items and packing the whole punch into the last 15 minutes of the sitting.

The handbook had been prepared by able men in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, men who had discharged their duty without fear of favor, said Mr. Stevens.

"It was never written in the Bureau," repeated Mr. King.

"Every word was written in the Bureau," insisted Mr. Stevens, "without one word from me as to what was to be written. I give that on the authority of the head of the Department."

"He should be fired," interjected M. F. Hepburn (Lib., Elgin West).

Stake and Panel Bodies Made in Oshawa Plant for the First Time.

MORE POWERFUL ENGINE.

Chevrolet's 1933 Commercial vehicles, just introduced across Canada, include seven distinct lines: the ½-ton Commercial Chassis with wheelbase of 109 inches; a Sedan Delivery on a ½-ton 109-inch Wheelbase Chassis; a Light Delivery "Pick-up" with closed cab and all steel body on a 109-inch wheelbase 1½-ton truck; a 131-inch wheelbase 2-ton truck; and a 157-inch wheelbase 2-ton truck.

Prices generally through the entire line have been reduced.

General Motors Products of Canada, Limited, will introduce, for the first time, a complete line of stake and panel bodies made in the Oshawa plant.

French Type Roof

In the panel bodies on the ½-ton and on the 131-inch wheelbase truck, the roof is of the "French" type. Paint finish of the entire body presents a polished appearance. Particular attention is given to rider comfort. The seat is form-fitting and adjustable backward and forward, and the angle of the seat back is adjustable to three positions. Safety plate glass is used in the windshield, with a double seal. Seats similar to those in the truck cabs are used, but with "rebound snubbers" of fabric in the cushions.

The Sedan Delivery is a light Commercial car of extremely smart appearance. Besides all the other chassis features of the ½-ton line, passenger car riding qualities are provided by shock absorbers and springs with the same specifications as those used on the sedan and the coach of the Chevrolet passenger line. Body finish is of high quality and the use of chrome plating adds to the generally pleasing and distinctive appearance of this model.

Special Truck Engine

The engine in all three lines is a special truck type, and in the ½-ton includes the new helical syncro-mesh gears of increased quiet. It is not only more powerful this year but operates more smoothly and with still greater economy than formerly. Horsepower output is increased throughout the speed range.

All three lines use larger front brakes, with wider linings and heavier operating parts. The larger rear brakes on the ½-ton are equipped with the "cut-in" system of brake linkage. This permits the operation of both front and rear brakes by either the brake pedal or the hand brake lever.

Stronger Rear Axle

All lines of trucks have larger diameter rear spring pins. I-beam section in the front axle is heavier. The rear axle is completely re-designed and much stronger. Increased torque capacity and greater spring pressure feature the new 10-inch clutch, and the new universal joint is of the 4-arm forged spider type.

Throughout the lines, fuel tank capacity is larger—11½ gallons in the ½-ton and 12½ gallons in both lines of trucks. These increases, combined with decreased consumption of fuel, considerably increase the operating range of the vehicles.

Steering ratio has been raised from 12:1 to 14:1, a step-up that results in increased ease in steering.

If you want silence and solitude—don't advertise.

BETWEEN BOOK ENDS

"THE HOUSE UNDER THE WATER" by Francis Brett Young, 1932. Mr. Young is a gifted story teller. He has two happy talents: the gift of pure narrative and the gift of descriptive prose. And in this new book you will find both of these at their best. "The House Under the Water" is the story of Tregaron, who falls heir to anscestral house and lands in the Welch valley, Nant Escob. Tregaron is of foreign upbringing, a man violent, overbearing and with a flair for big business. He sells his whole valley to a Midland city which needs it for a reservoir. The valley which had been in his family for 800 years is undulated and destroyed. And then a curse descends upon him. Deep irony enters when water destroys the mine into which he had sunk his new fortune. Through these happenings are woven the lives of Tregaron's Italian wife and his three daughters, Virginia, Phillipa and Diana, with their various passions and tragedies. This is a long book, meandering feliciously through 700 pages. But it is a book which should please almost every type of reader with its beautiful description, varied characters and sustained interest. Although the word great cannot be applied to him, Mr. Young is one of the very few novelists in England to-day who preserves the old tradition in a difficult time.

Last week, when all good Scotchmen, as well as some appreciative foreigners were celebrating the 173rd birthday anniversary of Robert Burns, we wonder if you remembered how close Bobbie came to being a Philadelphia poet rather than a Scottish poet. At the age of 26, he had already taken passage to the American city when he received word that his poems had been accepted and were to be published and apparently overjoyed with this news he decided to remain in Scotland. It is amusing to think that Walt Whitman might have stepped into the shoes of Burns as unofficial Poet Laureate of Philadelphia. Bobbie Burns and Walt Whitman!

"A TALE OF TROY" by John Masefield, 1932. This again is the story of how windy Troy Town was besieged and taken by the wily Greek. But this story is a little different from the one you already know. The English Poet Laureate has dealt in close detail of how the famous horse was built, and was dragged into the city and of how the city was surprised. It is described by a number of singers, all participants in the story, including one of the men who was inside of the horse. Mr. Masefield has used a simple free-flowing construction and simple biting words, and the old tale glows again with added fire as he stamps it deep with his own beauty and power. Although this may not be classed among Masefield's best work, it has a spirit which most contemporary poetry with its seeking to capture the ultimate reality of sensation, lacks.

"MANY MOODS" by E. J. Pratt, 1932. Professor Pratt of the University of Toronto, is a personality well-known about town—you may recall with pleasure that vigorous drama "The Roosevelt and the Antinoe." This small new volume of verse also finds inspiration in the sea and nature in her sterner aspects. "Sea Gulls" and "Sea Cathedral" are strongly written and full of the tang, sound and might of that element. Many of his shorter lyrics are musings of twilight softness, refreshing in form and simplicity, and frequently enlivened with Professor Pratt's high-spirited phantasy. It is in the longer poems, however, that this able Canadian poet shines at his best. "A Reverie on a Dog" is deep in understanding and sympathy, and "Putting Winter to Bed" and "To Angelina, An Old Nurse" show Professor Pratt at his finest. This slim volume is rich in that intercommunion of nature and man which is the peculiar virtue of Canadian poetry.

"NEVER ASK THE END" by Isabel Paterson, 1933. This is the 4th book by Isabel Paterson, the I.M.P. (suspiciously apt initials!) of the New York Tribune. Her first three books are practically unknown—why, no one apparently knows, but this "Never Ask the End" promises to be something of a sensation. And deservedly so. "Never As the End" briefly, tells of how three Americans, one male and two female, all in their 40's, meet again in Paris. Sympathy of temperament and of past draw them together—Martha, piquant, witty; Pauline, beautiful, sensitive—and Russ, deep, level-headed idealist. Gradually these characters open their lives and hearts to you. Miss Paterson has tried to present the actual mental emotional and physical life of these civilized beings as that life appears at each fleeting instant of experience. And to accomplish this, she has used a technique—possibly she is the first to use it—whereby the thought and action of her people are put before you as they develop, just as in human living, simultaneously and with the same irrevalent distributed emphasis. You may dismiss any such attempt as a mere "tour de force"; but through the insight and dexterity of Miss Paterson this attempt succeeds.

And although Miss Paterson poses no query, behind it all is the question "What do men want, what do women want, of each other and of life?" And too wise and not wise enough to answer this question, Miss Paterson merely gives you this story of which any honest person must admit the truth of character. These people live!—G.H.R.

ished. Men and women could join the commune, but the commune engaged no Arab or Jewish laborers for wages. The collectivist principle on which the communes of the Kvutza type are based, did not meet with the approval of capitalist Jews in America. Yet they were not opposed. It was left to the Palestinian settlers themselves to work out their own destiny. Of course there are also plenty of agricultural colonies operating on the basis of private property of individual farms, or rather the basis of tenancy, for no Jew owns land in Palestine. All land is the joint property of the Jewish people.

No Friction

There is no friction between the two systems of agricultural operation. In the cities the position is different. Private capital flows into the city, an awful lot even at the present moment. One thousand well-to-do Jewish families from the United States have started to move to Palestine. Heavy investments are being made in founding new industries, in real estate and in orange plantation. All signs indicate that Palestine is to experience a period of moderate prosperity for the next ten years. Private capital is starting factories. It entrenches iself in trade and industry.

Naturally it draws labor into the range of its activities by employing wage-earners. On the other hand, any attempt at co-operative enterprise within the sphere which capital considers its exclusive domain is likely to meet with its hostile attitude and the array of all the financial resources at its disposal. Every experiment in industrial production on a co-operative basis must be prepared to face war from competing private enterprises. Yet the ultimate goal of the Labor Federation remains the establishment of a system of co-operative industry. In this way alone agricultural and industrial labor will be knit together in a strong bond and will function in unity.

The frame-work for such a system has been established in Palestine. The economic institutions of labor, the consumers' co-operative society and the Labor Bank have been in service for several years and are constantly widening the range of their activity.

Economic Equality

On a small scale a very important social experiment is being worked out in Palestine. The smallness of the scale does not detract from its significances, for all the things most worth having in life have always come from small minorities. The Jewish Socialists are trying to build a social order—and they are succeeding—on one fundamental principle which is economic equality, that is to say a social order where there is to be no room for differences in property or income, no room for copiousness and luxury side by side with hunger and destitution, and no room for competition and hatred that are the outcome of such differences.

Equality as such, however, is no more than an abstract principle. To turn it into practical reality, the social system has to be based on two essentials: the personal obligation of every individual to work and the co-operative organization of individual efforts. The first one makes it the duty of every member of society to contribute his share. It prohibits the establishing of anyone's economic existence upon the use of hired labor.

It declares work to be the prerequisite for anybody's civic rights. Economic equality will be fully safeguarded and definitely guaranteed, only when the co-operative organization of the workers will replace the unorganized effort of the isolated individual, that is to say when the national wealth, the means of production and the process of production itself, will be controlled by the working class.

Success Still Doubtful

Whether Palestinian Socialism will be able to achieve such a program completely remains doubtful. It all depends on the possibility of gaining control of the entire machinery of state. But this is the fundamental question which divides the whole socialist world into two groups: those adhering to the Second International of Amsterdam (the British Labor party and the German, Dutch, Belgian, Scandinavian social-democratic parties) say the gradual socialization of society is possible, but the Third International of Moscow says that only by and through a dictatorship of the proletariat can the goal be reached. The theories of reformist-socialists have received a shattering blow through the world crisis, for all the advances which they had achieved at the cost of immense sacrifice and unrelenting propaganda have virtually been wiped out today.

Yet it cannot be denied that labor is forging ahead valiantly in Palestine. Its ideals are those summed up in the social cries of the ancient prophets of Israel. Of course they are couched in modern scientific language.

To Transform Society

Labor makes the Palestine experiment, next to the colossal work of the Soviets, the most fascinating enterprise of our time. It aims at the transformaion of socicy. It seeks to lay down a standard of justice in human relationships. It approaches the east with a totally new conception. Not the exploitation of colonial peoples is its aim, but to establish a basis of fraternal co-operation and exchange between east and west, economically and culturally. Personally. I have a hope that Palestinian socialism, in rekindling the lamps of Israel on Zion's hill, will bring a greater measure of clarity and justice in the relations of man with man, even as Israel of old brought clarity in the relations of man with God.

The new Palestine, I believe, carries a new hope for the whole world. In Palestine Israel will recover his prophetic voice. Depend upon it; Israel has not given his last revelation to mankind, nor uttered the last immemorial words. The spirit of the old prophets still lives. The old light is being kindled again. This light will cast its rays into those depths where the majority of men still languish, into the hell of social need!

HELP RUSSIANS, PLEA TO WORLD

Countess Tolstoi, Daughter of Noted Writer, Points to Daily Executions.

THOUSANDS EXILED.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 4.—Addressing herself to "all those who still believe in a brotherhood of men," the Countess Alexandra L. Tolstoi, daughter of the late Leo Tolstoi, Russia philosopher and writer, today appealed to the world for help for the Russian people.

Present conditions, she said, are worse in Russia "under the bloody dictatorship of a small group" than they have been since the days of Ivan the Terrible.

"Open your eyes," she pleaded, in a statement which, she said, she sent to the League of Nations, and to leaders in Europe, China and Japan, "united in a common protest against the tortures of 160,000,000 of defenseless Russian people."

The modern Soviet regime, she asserted, has answered pitiful pleas for bread with "bullets and gas," while in Kuban, where a revolt has threatened, "whole families are executed, and 45,000 people—women and children — are driven out of their homes and are sent by Stalin's order to Sibera to labor camps to meet with certain death."

Writes From Farm

The Countess prepared the statement on her farm near Newtown Square, Pa., where she has been living for the past year—spending most of her time raising a few vegetables and tending a cow and chickens.

In 1908, she said, her father read about the proposed execution of twenty revolutionaries by the Czar's government, and wrote an article containing the famous line: "I cannot be silent." "And the Russian people," she added, "took up the outcry in a common protest against murder."

"Now, in the year 1933, when in the Northern Caucasus a bloody slaughter is going on, when thousands of people are shot and exiled daily, and my father is not here to protest, I feel that it is my duty to raise my weak voice against this wholesale murder. For twelve years I have worked in Soviet Russia, for twelve years I have tried to serve the people in the spirit of my father's teachings.

"The terror was progressing under my very eyes, but the world is silent. Millions are exiled, die in prison or in labor camps in the North of Russia thousands are executed. The Bolseviks began by persecuting class enemies, religious people, old priests, scientists, professors. Now the turn has come for the working classes, the peasants."

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 4. — Wobbly price changes in the wheat market yesterday led finally to a downward trend chiefly as a result of unsettlement of securities.

A general disposition was shown to go slow on either side of the wheat market pending more definite developments in the world trade situation. Enlarged forwarding of wheat from the southern hemisphere to Great Britain was reported.

Wheat closed heavy at the same as Thursday's finish to ½c lower; corn, ⅛c to ⅜c off; oats, unchanged to ⅛c higher; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 4. — Light pit trade and a minimum of export were features of a dull and uninteresting session on the Grain Exchange here yesterday, and wheat prices closed ⅛c to ¼c lower.

May closed at 46⅞c, July at 47⅝c, and October at 48¾c.

The Australian export movement this week reached a total of 5,195,000 bushels, of which 2,388,000 bushels went to non-European countries, chiefly to China. Argentine exports of wheat amounted to 3,438,000 bushels, compared with 3,601,000 last week, and 4,213,000 bushels in the corresponding week last year.

With the exception of a small quantity of No. 1 feed oats sold for domestic use ,actual sales of cash wheat and coarse grains were insignificant.

MORGAN SINKS WINNING GOAL

and breaking through when opportunity offered, mostly taking long shots at the Maroons net. Three minutes after play opened Whitton and Fred Ingram broke through the visitor's defence but were checked. Ingram however got the rubber at centre ice from the come-back and drove forward netting the evening count.

Belleville got a little on the rough side after this tally. H. Morgan being boxed right away for hitting. With one man off the ice much of the play was inside the D.A.C. blue line until McMeekin was able to break away but fell to MacArthur who drove forward after the leading count but failed to score. MacArthur however was fenced shortly after for charging but this was of no avail to the visitors, who immediately suffered from rushes by Davis. In a determined effort to get through Hull drove forward to the Campbellford defence but got into trouble when charged by Fred Ingram into the boards and who was handed a penalty.

Play Becomes More Even

In the last period play was more even with both aggregations fighting for the counting tally, no advantages being given away. Heavy checking featured this frame with Belleville meeting some of the Campbellford weight which somewhat unsettled them. Several severe scrambles were staged near the Campbellford net and at times Hulin had his work cut out to keep the invaders from counting, but he knew his game and cleared on every occasion. With four minutes to go Harry Ingram broke through and shot, the puck rebounding from the net, the umpire signalling a goal. Some argument followed this tally however, the referee ruling a no score play, claiming the puck re-bounded from the post and not the net. Play then became hot, but in a free-for-all in the Maroon's area Morgan, who had fallen on the ice was able to lift the rubber over the line giving the visitors the winning tally with one minute to play.

The bell sounded at the face-off.

The teams:

Belleville — Goal, Tice; defence, Sherry and Mond; centre, McMeekin; wings, P. Morgan and MacDonald; subs., H. Morgan, St. Denis, Hull, Gilbert.

INCREASED USE OF CANNED CORN IS FORETOLD BY COL. KENNEDY

Canned Variety Equals Fresh Corn in Nutritive Value.

CANADA'S STAPLE FOOD

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—In an interview here, Col. The Hon. T. L. Kennedy commented on the increased interest which was being shown by the canning industry in the use of corn as a staple article of Canadian diet.

"After all," commented Col. Kennedy, "corn is the original and national food of Canada. Long before the advent of the white man, corn formed the staple diet of the inhabitants of this country."

"In practically every section of Canada, and particularly here in Ontario, corn represents a valuable crop and the many varieties grow to perfection."

"Many of us can quite easily remember when corn, freshly picked, was a seasonal delicacy to which we looked forward every fall. Now, thanks to the modern methods of canning, we are able to enjoy this appetizing food throughout the entire year. Great credit is due the Canadian industry for the progress which has made, not only in the actual methods of canning, but also in the development of new varieties of corn and the improvement of existing varieties."

"Not only have the canners increased the household consumption of corn, thereby benefiting the growers, but they have also provided a source of employment for many thousands of Canadian workers."

Questioned as to the value of corn as a food, Col. Kennedy stated that "According to dietetic experts, corn represents a very valuable article of diet. It is an important source of carbohydrates and is also rich in proteins and vitamins A and B. In addition, corn represents a valuable roughage or bulk food and as such is a necessary addition to our present day diet of more concentrated foods."

'Modern preserving methods made canned corn every bit as nutritious as the fresh product. The nutritive values as well as vitamin content are perfectly preserved."

"I am heartily in accord with the policy of making the utmost uses of our own natural and national products," concluded Col. Kennedy, "as it is in this way that we can insure a market for our agricultural production and, incidentally, maintain Canadian industries to supply employment for our people."

WOMAN SLAIN FOR HER MONEY

Police Find Tracks of Two Men Around House and Empty Cash Box.

VICTIM WAS CRIPPLE.

AMHERST, N.S., Feb. 4. (CP)—Mrs. E. E. Smith, 60, was found dead early to-day in the darkened hallway of her home on Craft street. Her skull crushed by a blunt weapon. An empty cash box in an upstairs room and tracks of two men in the snow told the story of murder and robbery.

Medical authorities believed the woman, who was a cripple, lay dead on the floor for at least two hours before her grandson returning from his restaurant, found the body. Dr. J. R. Robertson, coroner, and Dr. J. W. Sutherland were called at once and Mounted Police started an investigation immediately.

Dr. Robertson said there was no doubt Mrs. Smith had been murdered. She probably died, he said, without knowing what happened. There were no signs of struggle in the living room where she was accustomed to wait up for her husband, and other members of the family or out in the hallway where she had gone, apparently attracted by the noise made as the murder-robbers smashed their way into the rear of the house.

Only a small sum of money was secured from the house.

An inquest was ordered for today.

Prof. McIlwraith Addresses Club

The Friday Night Supper Club at the Y.M.C.A. enjoyed a fine talk given by Professor McIlwraith of Toronto University. The address, although informal, was highly interesting, and contained many suggestions regarding observation of nature.

The speaker referred to the many cases in which man had upset the balance of nature by introducing animals and birds into countries where their natural enemies were not present, with the result that they became a menace or at least pests. He mentioned as examples, the deer in New Zealand, rabbits in Australia, and more recently starlings in Canada. The speaker urged his hearers to use their powers of observation more fully, and so enjoy a richer life.

C. A. Salmonsen, chairman, introduced the speaker, and made announcement of the annual club dance to be held on Friday next. The attendance at the meeting of 65 members was gratifying.

CHOIR PRESENTS PLAY AT KNOX

Mark Street Choir Present Their Play, "The New Minister."

PARTS WELL TAKEN.

"The New Minister" an operetta by Mark Street United Church Choir was presented at Knox Church last night, and was greeted by a large audience. The performance was sponsored by the Centre Sewing Circle.

The same operetta had been presented by Knox Church Choir about sixteen years ago, and to many of the audience last night it stirred memories of the previous presentation.

This musical play with its cast of about thirty-five people, was capably produced under the musical direction of Mrs. W. A. Greenslade, choir leader of Mark Street Church. Vern Morphet was stage director.

The choruses were well blended and the entrances and exits such that there were no delays in the moving from one scene to another.

Mr. Morphet had the role of the new minister and acted the part in a commendable manner. Miss Jean Hurl was entrusted with the part of the school teacher whom the Rev. Mr. Brown finally won as his wife. The part, although not long, was exacting, and was well handled by Miss Hurl.

Howard Hall, an old favorite at Knox Church, played the role of Seth Perkins, the village joker, to perfection. His was the main comedy part.

The other principal roles were also well enacted. They were taken as follows: W. J. Smithson, choir leader; Rufus Payne, sexton; Len Agnew, one of the younger members of the choir; and Miss Mabel Reynolds, spinster member of the choir.

The meetings of the Ladies' Aid Society and the Old Maid's Club provided full scope for some real comedy acting, while each member of the cast combined to make their dialogues, actions and singing real.

The three members of the Music Committee, Messrs. M. Peters, W. Binks and W. Gracie, combined well in their trios, and their acting showed evidence of much careful preparation.

Mrs. Greenslade played the accompaniments in a fine manner during the performance.

Before the rising of the curtain, Miss Frieda Kiltcher gave several piano solos and also again during the intermission. Rev. William McDonald occupied the chair.

After the performance the cast was entertained by the members of the Centre Sewing Circle. W. J. Smith expressed thanks on behalf of the choir, while the Rev. Mr. McDonald responded on behalf of the ladies.

"I See by the Paper -"

THAT is the expression—"I see by the Paper"—one hears on every hand—in the home, on the street, at social gatherings—when information of either a news or merchandising character is in question. And that expression—"I see by the Paper"——so generally used, is an irrefutable endorsation of our contention that the newspaper is a valuable medium for carrying the messages of business houses, industries or private individuals who want to reach a buying market. Then the cost of newspaper advertising is small, especially so when compared with the cost of circularizing by mail the same number of people served daily by The Examiner.

Gratifying Results

A short time ago we published from The Roy Studio, local photographers their voluntary testimony to big business resulting from advertising in The Examiner, and following will be found similar appreciation from a widely known medicine company—a testimonial which speaks for itself:

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

82 Years of Dummer's Municipal History Reviewed

17 MEN OCCUPIED REEVE'S CHAIR IN 83 YEARS IN DUMMER TOWNSHIP FATHERS BEEN FOLLOWED BY SONS

Clerk of Township is Grandson of Treasurer in 1862.

SALARIES 80 YEARS AGO

A summary of the municipal history of Dummer township in its personal changes since 1850 has been prepared by Alex Rose, clerk of the township and a grandson of John Rose who was treasurer of the municipality from 1862 until 1872 and prior to that period had been a member of the council.

Family names that have been prominent in the affairs and administration of Dummer for more than eighty years recur in this abridged record, and it is interesting to note that the penchant for public service has continued in some of these families down to the third generation.

Such names as Kidd, McCracken, Crowe, Payne, Choate, Morrison, Drain, Wasson, Darling, Rose, and others appear consistently throughout this long roster of the men to whom their community entrusted the responsible business of levying taxes, collecting funds and expending them in the development of the township.

List of Reeves.

The list of reeves from 1850 to this year in order, is as follows—Francis Crowe, William Wigmore, R. Morrison, Thos. G. Choate, J. Kidd, John Ferrier, D. Rose, A. R. Kidd, John Robb, Ed. Hawthorne, H. Moore, C. J. Darling, Rork Ferguson, A. Webster, James Hawthorne, E. N. McDonald and Richard Tedford.

A copy of the record of the municipality was shown to the Examiner by Ed. Hawthorne, who was reeve from 1893 until the end of 1896, when the administration of the county was changed to a commission of which he was elected one of the first members.

Excerpts from the township's record are quoted in brief as follows: Richard Dean was municipal clerk for twenty-one years William Darling held the same office for 24 years; and the late A. F. Choate was auditor 35 years. Ed. Hawthorne has been an auditor for many year, having been associated in that responsibility with Mr. Choate. He and M. Clysdale are the present auditors.

Salaries 80 Years Ago.

William Darling, who was clerk for so many years, was a teacher at the third line school, and the father of C. J. Darling.

The assessor's salary in 1851 was £7 10s, the tax collector was paid £6 and the auditors each $2.

The salary of Reeve Francis Crowe in 1850 was $4; G. A. Hill, the first clerk, was paid £15; Thos. Choate, the first treasurer, £4.

First Council in 1850. .. ..

Dummer's first council was elected in 1850, and remained in office until the end of 1858. Francis Crowe, G. A. Hill was clerk and Thomas Choate township treasurer during that period.

The polling sub-divisions and the men in charge of them were: Ward 1, Alex Kidd in Mr. Calhoun's school house; ward 2 Sam McMullen in his house; ward 3 Fr. McMullen in his house; ward 4 Ed. Kennedy at Warsaw; ward 5 F. Crowe, at the third line school.

William Wigmore was reeve in 1859 and 1861, and Francis Crowe in 1860-2-3. John Rose, Sr., was a councillor for several years and was appointed township treasurer in 1861, remaining in that position until 1874 when he was succeeded by D. Rose who carried until 1880.

Charles Riggs became township clerk in 1861, and was followed in 1864 by Dr. Bingham for one year. W. Darling was appointed in 1865, retaining the responsibility until 1890 with the exception of an interval of three years, 1870-1-2, when A. McGuire was in charge of the clerical duties.

Names of the councillors since 1862 comprise a roster of many of the leading families of Dummer. The council of 1862 was composed of Reeve Francis Crowe, Councillors Wigmore, Kidd, Corrigan and Payne.

In 1863 Mr. Crowe was again reeve and the councillors were Morrison, Kidd, Drain and Payne.

R. Morrison was promoted to the reeveship in 1864 and the councillors were Drain, Kidd, Choate and Crowe.

1865—Reeve T. G. Choate, Drain, Kidd, J. Carveth and W. Wigmore.

1866—Reeve J. Kidd, Councillors Choate, Crowe, Ferguson and Wigmore.

1867—Reeve T. J. Choate; Morrison, Spence, Ross, Carveth.

1868—John Ferrier; H. Ferguson, D. Rose, H. Spence, George Payne.

In the following summary the name of the reeve is mentioned first, with the four councillors:—

1869.—D. Rose; H. Ferguson, J. Wasson, H. Spence, G. Payne.

1870—T. G. Choate; D. Drain, A. Smith, J. Kidd, H. Spence.

1871—D. Rose; G. Payne, H. Spence, H. Ferguson, T. G. Choate.

T. G. Choate, Reeve

From 1872 until 1878 T. G. Choate was reeve of the township, and councillors were A. Smith, A. R. Kidd, W. Wigmore, J. Robb, D. Kelly, T. Ritchie, and J. J. Crowe.

A. R. Kidd succeeded to the reeveship in 1879 and was re-elected for thirteen successive years.

The council of 1879 was: Reeve A. R. Kidd, and councillors D. Kelly, D. Drain, W. Wasson and W. Wigmore.

Among the councillors during Reeve Kidd's regime were: D. Drain, W. Wasson, M. Hannon, J. White, R. Kirk, D. Kelly, J. J. Crowe, T. Webster, H. Moore and J. Doughty, R. Crowe and Ed. Hawthorne.

Dummer was accorded a deputy-reeve for the first time in 1887. R. Crowe was the first to hold that office. He was succeeded in 1891 by Ed. Hawthorne.

The members of the council for 1892 were Reeve J. Robb; Deputy-reeve E. Hawthorne, and Councillors H. Moore, C. Nichols and T. Webster.

Ed. Hawthorne Elected

Mr. Hawthorne was elected reeve in 1893 and held the office until the close of 1896. H. A. Moore was deputy for three of those years and R. Crowe one. Councillors during those years were R. McCracken, George Payne, William Crowe and T. Webster.

Meanwhile William Darling was appointed clerk in 1837, and carried on the duties of that position until 1890, seventeen years. D. Rose succeeded John Rose as treasurer in 1874, and six years later was succeeded by F. Lumsden, who was followed in 1888 by J. White.

It is of special interest to note that Mr. White was treasurer of the township for thirty years from 1888 until the end of 1917, an unusually long term of service. His successor was G. Crowe, the present incumbent, who took charge of the municipal funds in 1918 and is now beginning his fifteenth consecutive year in that responsibility.

Turning back to the clerkship, W. Darling resumed this position in 1872 after Mr. McGuire's three years, and was retained in office for eighteen years until the end of 1890. The next township clerk was B. James from 1891 until the end of 1899. Dr. Bell was appointed in 1900, and in 1902 Richard Dean took charge of the recorder's position which he held until 1922.

The present clerk of Dummer is A. Rose, who has already completed eleven years' service.

County Commissioners

In 1897 the county council was elected separately from the township councils; its members being commissioners. Among the Dummer men who were county councillors during the next four or five years were Ed. Hawthorne, Richard Crowe, and Thomas Webster.

Mr. Hawthorne's term as reeve ended in 1896, and for the next eight years, until 1904, H. Moore was the presiding officer of the township council. Its personnel in 1897 was Reeve Moore and councillors T. Webster, John Darling, W. Crowe and W. Payne.

Other members of the council during that period were J. Williamson, W. Miles, E. Martin, J. Patterson and D. Sedgwick.

John Darling's Service

In 1905 C. John Darling after eight years' experience as a councillor was promoted to the reeveship in which he continued his service to the township for sixteen years, with two brief retirements from municipal life. In 1912 he gave way to Rork Ferguson, the present reeve of Asphodel. Mr. Darling returned in 1914, was succeeded by A. Webster in 1918, came back again in 1919, and finally retired at the close of 1922, completing twenty-four years as one of the administrators of Dummer's affairs.

With Reeve Darling in the 1905 council were J. McDonald, W. Miles, E. Martin and J. Patterson. Other councillors from 1905 until 1911 were N. Pogue, J. L. Kidd, W. Carveth, N. Payne and Rork Ferguson, and H. McDonald.

Rork Ferguson's Entry.

Mr. Miles was a councillor for eleven years. Rork Ferguson made his entry into the municipal field in 1909, returned in 1910, was out in 1911, and was elected Reeve in 1912.

The councillors during Mr. Ferguson's reeveship were J. Greystock, H. McDonald, N. Payne and A. Webster. With Reeve Darling were councillors J. Clifford, Garfield Crowe and D. Nixon. Their four years from 1914 to 1918 were followed by the 1918 council composed of Reeve A. Webster, councillors J. Clifford, J. J. Crowe, N. Bell and W. Robison.

There was another change in 1919 when C. J. Darling was again elected reeve with councillors E. Hamblin, J. J. Crowe, George Barr and W. Robison. Other councillors until Mr. Darling's retirement at the end of 1923 were N. Bell, G. Kirk, J. Drain, H. Kelly, J. Hawthorne and S. Miles.

James Hawthorne was first elected to the council in 1922, and in 1924 was elected reeve. For eight years he held this office until he retired at the end of 1931. He was succeeded by E. N. McDonald, and the present reeve is Richard Tedford, with councillors E. Baptie, Percy Bell, S. Slysdale and Earl Ivy.

Well-known to Canadian theatre-goers who have seen her in this country in Noel Coward production, the pensive Jessie Matthews has gone into British films. Her first picture is Gaumont's "There Goes the Bride." Of further interest to Canadians is the fact that this was directed by Albert de Courville whose stage productions toured the Dominion in years past.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

WARSAW

Following are the main points of Dr. Munro's talk on health at the open meeting of the Women's Institute held recently:

The doctor quoted: "You never miss the water till the well runs dry," and if never ill you do not fully appreciate your health. "Warsaw on the whole has been a pretty healthy place, Any one who has lost his health realizes its importance. Health is considered of vast importance by the government, for there is a department of Health in each of the provinces, as well as in the Dominion Government. Ill health is estimated to cause an annual loss to Canada running to over a billion dollars. Add to that the hospitals and the sanitariums. Therefore, health from a monetary standpoint is valuable. An invalid cannot take advantage of opportunities which arise, so it is a great value personally, as well as materially.

"We have but few diseases which have a specific cure. For most ailments we have no specific cure. Nature always tries to bring the body back to normal, therefore we try to keep the body in as good a condition as possible, and thereby give nature her chance. For this reason we try to prevent illness. The great end of the Health Department is not so much to cure diseases as to prevent them. Preventative medicine will have, is already having, the greatest amount of stress. Some diseases are caused by actual wrong doing. When Christ said to the paralytic: "Thy sins be forgiven thee," He removed the cause. Sins of society produce social diseases; get rid of sins of society. There are slums in cities because people have slums in their souls. If prevention is the greatest means of getting rid of disease, then endeavor to prevent. Human beings are gregarious, therefore they are likely to be contaminated with anything that comes along, and we have an epidemic. However there is no need now for anyone to have typhoid fever, diphtheria nor small pox. In other wars more died from typhoid than were killed. In the last war deaths from typhoid were few. The disease was almost unknown during the greater part of the war. If it can be prevented then we should prevent it. We used to hear of black diphtheria, black small-pox, and so on.. That only meant that the disease had gotten such a foothold it had become very virulent. Since vaccination has been used small-pox is almost unknown. We can now vaccinate against small-pox and inoculate against typhoid with almost absolutely certain results. If typhoid was so prevented in trench conditions it certainly can be prevented in our homes. There is a serum which prevents certainly to a great measure scarlet fever. The fact that there has been no epidemic of scarlet fever when several times one case has appeared and the doctor has innoculated all who had in any way been in contact, and no one else has had the disease, is clear proof it prevents, but Dr. Munro said he would hardly go so far as to say it absolutely always prevents.

MILLBROOK

"The Intelligent Buying of Foods" was a topic presented before a gathering of homemakers, many of whom were Institute women, by a Departmental speaker within recent weeks, some of the facts gleaned from the material given including many points of practical interest, and worth passing on to other heads of families.

"When selecting food for your family be careful to find out the real cost," the lecturer stated: "that is, do not merely learn what the amount is in dollars and cents, but in actual food value—how much nourishment there is in it for your household according to the money expended. Then, too, the intelligent homemaker will study to make her meals fit into one another so the leftovers may be satisfactorily used in succeeding meals, keeping in mind that you are the one who pays for the bags, wrapping paper, string, etc., so the careful housewife avoids as far as possible, having to give small orders to her grocer and other tradespeople in constant succession.

In these days of economic stress and strain necessity is compelling us to avoid the expensive cuts of meat, and other foods which are high in price because of the season—as spring lamb, early strawberries, tomatoes in winter that anyhow are lacking in flavor, using instead the canned ones we have, with proper foresight, placed on our fruit-cupboard shelves; broiling chickens, and out-of-season vegetables of any kind come in the same category of needless extravagance, though (in reply to a question from a listener) I would not condemn the use of fresh lettuce if you can secure it during the winter months, its healthfulness being apparent.

Most housewives make the mistake of using too many highly-seasoned sauces and condiments, which really add to the labor of digestion without proportionate returns in food value at all, the men of the family being often responsible for the demand for these accessories with their meals. But if you make your own chili sauce, and catsups, they are more satisfactory, by far, than the ones you buy and a decided saving on the family purse when you come to make up your budget on the year's expenses. My advice would be to buy sparingly of the foods that are procured more for their ability to 'tickle the palate' than for their food value.

Women to-day hardly need to be urged to buy Canadian grown and manufactured goods and foods, and still the complaint comes in that we have too many imported jams and canned goods on our grocers' shelves. The remedy lies with the homemakers for if they refuse to buy these things the merchants will not keep stock for which there is no demand—so do not make the mistake of thinking no responsibility rests on your shoulders, and that it is not a matter of actual patriotism to discourage that habit on the part of store-keepers, and thus help make a real market for our own Canadian goods.

A garden is the greatest help in reducing your food bills, as home-canned fruits and vegetables are more desirable and more economical than any you buy, as well as fresher and therefore more healthful and palatable in the season. Some of you may can meats also, if you have your own beef and pork killed on the farm, but with village and town women this is not always practicable However, it is well to remember that even a small garden may yield a variety of vegetables and small fruits, and I know of some homes on the edge of a settled community where they keep a cow, and a pig or two, and meat is preserved for winter use in such households, actually preventing families from hunger this winter when the father has been out of work of any kind since fall. Chickens have been cheap this season, yet canned chicken is a dainty and a convenience I like to have on my shelves especially for emergency use.

MINSTREL SHOW FOR CITY RELIEF

Canadian Watercraft Minstrels to Give Show on February 8.

PLENTY OF FUN

The Canadian Watercraft Minstrels will be at the Collegiate Institute on the evening of Wednesday, February 8th.

They will present their show, entitled "A Night in a Broadcasting Station."

Also a skit called "The Coon Rehearsal" and twenty minutes with Mel Leal and His Liftlock Mountainers' old-time orchestra.

The boys are doing this in aid of the city relief campaign. Several of them are out of work themselves, but they want to do their bit for the needy of the city.

Delbert Lucas and H. Lundy will be in charge.

There will be plenty of swift gags, peppy songs and tuneful music.

Come along and enjoy yourself and see a good minstrel show.

Tickets at Bond's drug store, Warne's jewellery store and Juby's grocery. Adults, 25 cents; juniors, 15 cents.

Urgently Required At Relief Bureau

Urgently required at the relief depot just now are the followings things: Children's underwear, dresses and stockings, men's underwear and trousers, a sewing machine, a small cook stove, a single bed and a double bed, complete.

In homes where the breadwinner has been out of work for many long months—some of them for a year and more—there is no money for anything but the bare necessities. Food and fuel are supplied by the city, as well as physician's attendance and something for the landlord, but when it comes to furniture and clothing, they must rely on others more fortunately placed.

In a month or so spring-cleaning time will be with us. Why not anticipate the work of going over closets and attics, and send surplus clothing and furniture in to the relief depot on George street. Or telephone 3315 and it will be called for.

JAMES McGILL IS LAID TO REST

Former Deputy-Reeve of Cavan Township Stricken After Brief Illness. MASON, ODDFELLOW

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 4.—The death of James H. McGill, which took place on Monday, January 30, after a comparatively brief illness, removed one of the most highly respected residents of the entire countryside, deceased being in his seventy-second year. He was a former Deputy-Reeve of Cavan Township.

Mr. McGill was a son of the late Joseph McGill, and his wife Elizabeth Pritchard, pioneer residents of Manvers township, the family homestead being a short distance north of Bethany. Forty-six years ago next September he was united in marriage to Esther Stewart, their home being for some time in the vicinity of his parents' farm, removal later being made to Cavan for a brief residence, and then to the vicinity of Centreville where purchase was made of the farm property of the late George Fair, and where Mr. and Mrs. McGill continued to reside for twenty-eight years.

Seven years ago, following the decision to retire from an active agricultural career, Mr. McGill turned over the farm to his son and removed to the village of Centreville, purchasing the former Presbyterian Manse on the provincial highway, the warm-hearted hospitality of the owners being a widely-known characteristic of their home.

Deceased with a life-long Presbyterian, an elder and Clerk of the Session in the church at Centreville, and for several years was superintendent of the Sunday School, filling the office with efficiency and success. He was a Conservative in politics, a veteran member of the Millbrook Oddfellows' Lodge, a Mason, and some years ago was connected with the Independent Order of Foresters. For three years he served on the Cavan Township Council, and the following year was honored with the Deputy-Reeveship.

Besides his bereaved widow, the immediate surviving relatives include three daughters, Mrs. Jas. H. Might and Mrs. Harold Tate of Cavan, and Mrs. Charles Staples, of Janetville; also one son, Stewart, on the homestead; two brothers, Thomas McGill, of Enniskillen, and John, of Orono; there are a number of grandchildren and of nieces and nephews.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, took place from his late residence on Wednesday, at 2.30 p.m., under the auspices of J. B. Half Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 145, Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A. conducting the service for the church, the Masonic ritual being in charge of H. R. Scott, of Peterborough, Worshipful Master, and Rev. William Simpson, B.A., chaplain. The honorary pall-bearers were brothers elders of the Centreville Presbyterian church, James Hutchinson, David Dodds, John Moncrief, Jack Whyte, James McRoberts, and Robert Deyell, the bearers of the Masonic Order being G. E. Burnham, Dr. A. Jamison, Charles Thorndyke, Fred Waterman, P. I. Bentley, and W. H. Coombe. Interment was in Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes laid in loving memory on the casket were wreaths from the church and the Sunday School at Centreville; J. B. Hall, Lodge A.F. and A.M., Millbrook; Golden Sheaf Rebekah, No. 176, and Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 308, Millbrook. Neighbors who acted as flower-bearers at the funeral included S. Donaldson, Clifford Hall, T. Thompson, James Lacey, and Wilfrid Brown.

Among the large number of relatives and friends from outside points who were present for the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ashton, Roy and Harvey McGill, of Enniskillen; Mr. Earl, and the Misses L. and May McGill, of Bethany; Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson, of Keene; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Porter, of Lakefield; Mr. and Mrs. James Eagleson, of Orono; Rev. Cathedral Players Will Repeat Play

The value of advertising is well exemplified in the farce comedy, "It Pays to Advertise," which is to be repeated by request on Monday evening by the Cathedral Players in East City Community Hall, under the auspices of the parish of the Immaculate Conception.

This delightful three-act comedy, which is full of sparkling dialogue and has a gay little plot, was presented with great success by a group of actors from St. Peter's Cathedral and the East City parish, on Friday evening last, in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute. It received much merited applause and is well worth seeing again. This presentation will give the people of East City who were not present an opportunity to enjoy a fine evening's entertainment.

Owing to the length of the production, it is scheduled to start sharp at eight o'clock on Monday evening.

THAT UPSET MORNING FEELING YOU HAVE

Nine Chances in Ten It's "Acid Stomach"
How You Can Easily Correct It

According to many authorities, some 80% of the people of today have acid stomach. This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

It usually makes itself felt in sour stomach, indigestion, headaches, nausea, "gas," "biliousness," and most frequently in stomach pains that come about thirty minutes after eating. So you can easily tell if you have it.

Now Quickly and Easily Corrected

If you do have acid stomach, don't worry about it. You can correct it in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

What This Does

That's all you do. But you do it regularly, EVERY DAY, so long as you have any symptoms of distress.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy.

Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Neutralizes Food and Tobacco Acids a few minutes after taking.

MADOC W. I.

MADOC, Feb. 3 (Examiner Correspondence).—Madoc Women's Institute held their January meeting on Friday, at the home of Mrs. Gavin Wallbridge, with an attendance of 36, Mrs. C. N. Whytock presiding. Correspondence regarding the Handicraft Class was dealt with. The subjects chosen were mats of all kinds, lampshades, and novelties in oilcloth, crepe paper and sealing wax craft. It was decided to meet at Community Hall for classes on February 8, 9 and 10. All intending to join the class will please notify the secretary during this week. Members of the class must provide themselves with notebook and pencil, pair of scissors, paper of pins, needle, thread and thimble, pot of paste (not mucilage), tape line or ruler, and newspaper or wrapping paper for cutting patterns.

Reports were received from the card party, the net amount for relief being $11.00, and donations received from I.O.O.F., Community Club and teachers of the Public School Staff. Bale sent north valued at $14, local parcels sent out, and baskets of vegetables, fruit and good cheer for Christmas.

Roll call is to be answered by names of noted artists.

Mrs. Lester O'Hara then gave a very interesting paper on "The Romance of Canadian Pioneer Life," and Mrs. Ashley followed by a brief account of the Wardens of Hastings County, the first of whom was A. F. Wood of Madoc, and of the sixty Wardens, eight have been from Madoc, including the present incumbent in office, Mr. Walter Whytock. Current events were given by Mrs. Will Stewart. Mrs. George Huffman was appointed for next month.

Mr. J. R. Rutherford was then called on to speak on "The Canadian Banking System." Dividing his subject into the introduction and beginning of the system, the different periods of growth, its functions, and general conditions of to-day, the speaker made the subject most interesting and full of information to his hearers. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Rutherford and Mrs. O'Hara for their most instructive addresses, and to Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Stewart for their papers, also to Mrs. Gavin Wallbridge for the hospitality of her home.

Salada Tea Display In Examiner Window

A display that is striking and unique has been arranged in the north window of The Examiner establishment by the Salada Tea Company in connection with the visit to be made shortly to many homes in the city by a Salada Tea representative. Selecting homes at random, he will present a dollar in cash to each housewife who happens to be in possession of a pound or half-pound package of Salada tea at the time of his visit.

The display is exceptionally attractive. Arranged against a curtain of fluted red and green paper with a grounding of deep hennared and orange, a huge circular cartwheel stands out as a centrepiece. It is made of richly embossed silver paper, arranged in fluted sections like a fan, and solar rays of red and orange paper strike out from the silver circle which is centred by a half-pound packet of black Salada tea.

7 YEARS IN PORTSMOUTH

HAMILTON, Ont.—Charles Penny, Salt Fleet, was today sentenced to seven years in Portsmouth penitentiary after he had pleaded guilty to a serious offence against a nine-year-old girl.

Get Rid of That SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. Use it freely; it does not hurt the heart.

DON'T be too hasty in attributing little flare-ups solely to temper. Often they may be due to childhood's commonest ailment, constipation—and chances are he needs a laxative. Not just any laxative—for those intended for grown-ups are too harsh and may do more harm than good.

The annual dinner and dance given by the management of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company and the Canadian Sealright Company, to their employees, as an expression of appreciation for their loyalty and faithfulness during the past year, was a very pleasant event of last night at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. This yearly event is looked forward to by the employees of the two companies, with eager anticipation of a very jolly time, and their expectations were fulfilled to the utmost last night, when about one hundred and forty people including employees from the city and and from out of town, gathered in the handsome new clubrooms to enjoy a dinner, catered for in Hooper and Sons' best style, and the dance which followed, with a few games of bridge at corner tables for those disinclined for the speedier exercise of the dance. George Broadley and his orchestra, resplendent in gay paper 'hussar' hats, played the peppy music for the dance, which was enlivened by novelty numbers and special lighting effects. Included in the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Niven and their son, Graham Niven, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spain and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cairns, of Toronto, and Mr. Hawley of Boston, Massachusetts, auditor for the firm. The dinner, which was excellently prepared and served, was featured by several very brief speeches, and took place in the long L-shaped solarium of the clubhouse. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Marshall, who received the guests, were companioned at the head table by Mayor Denne, who expressed regret at Mrs. Denne's unavoidable absence. The company donned gay paper hats of many colors and styles, the long tables were decorated with pots of pale pink cyclamen and silver candelabra holding lighted pink candles, and the menus were dainty affairs in rich red paper pricked out with tiny silver stars. Appearing on one leaf were the Honor Roll names. Members of the organization since the opening of the plant in 1920 are Messrs. V. Hamilton, Donald McLeod, James Rowland, W. A. Parker, B. Hamilton, Robert Donoghue, E. G. R. Clarke, W. G. Lockie, James Mabee, Frank Milliken, James O'Donnell, John Cunningham, William James, Michael Donoghue and Miss L. E. Hall, while, while those who have been with the firm for ten years and over are Messrs. J. R. Marshall, Harry Garbutt and Thomas Skinner. Mr. J. R. Marshall, the popular manager in the chair, spoke very briefly after the toast to The King had been honored. On behalf of the directors and Board of Management, he expressed appreciation of the service of every employee of the company, who worked, not only for a wage, but also in the interests of the firm. "It is a pleasure to have you all here together like one family" he said, referring to the fact that four years of depression had been weathered in very satisfactory fashion by the company and concluding with the hope that soon the company may be able to give every employee a full pay envelope and also give employment to others who now lack work. Mayor Denne, following Mr. Marshall, expressed the same hope that 'happy days will soon be here again.' He spoke briefly of the manner in which the city, misled through wrong instructions from Mr. Ellis, chairman of the Relief Committee in Toronto, had gone ahead and "given men work to do instead of charity," and were now asked to repay some of the money thus expended. "But we are not like Sturgeon Falls" said His Worship, "we can pay back that money out of the treasury. And, through the newspaper campaign and letters, we now have $10,000, which means really $30,000 with which to carry on relief work and relieve the taxpayers of the burden." The Mayor concluded with a word of congratulation to Mr. Marshall and the employees of his company. Speaking for the Sealright Company, Mr. Sam Whitehouse spoke of the "whole-hearted co-operation" received from the Nashua Paper Company; while Mr. George Clarke for the Sales department, Mr. Vic Hamilton for the office, and Mr. John Cunninghom for the plant, reiterated expressions of thanks to Mr. Marshall and their fellow-workers, for co-operation and kindness during year just gone. Mr. Marshall referred to the long honor list of employees as an evidence of the manner in which the management and staff co-operated and to their pleasant relations. Vocal solos were heartily encored, when given by Mrs. G. A. Richmond and Mr Hugh Niven of Montreal. Mrs. Richmond sang "Winds in the Trees" and its encore, accompanied by Mr. Harry Northrop, and Mr. Niven sang "Sylvia" and an encore, accompanied by his son, Graham. The very brief program of speeches, which expressed throughout a very sincere and deep spirit of friendly co-operation and interest from management and employees alike, also a manifest affection for the very popular manager, Mr. J. R. Marshall, concluded the dinner, which as followed by the dance. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John R. Marshall, Mayor Denne, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Niven and son, Graham, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spain and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cairns, of Toronto Mr. L. Just Between Us Women

THE RECLAIMING OF ROOMS through changed decoration is something which at one time or another falls to the lot of almost every home decorator.

• • • • • • •

This is especially true where homes are houses rather than apartments, although even the flat dweller has to do it occasionally. It is she, really, who has all the time to make one room appear like another.

• • • • • • •

It is amazing how successfully some home decorators alter appearances of rooms at a moment's notice from living-room to bedroom, from kitchen to dining-room, etc.

• • • • • • •

Such changes are transient, however, as the changing back again has to be done daily, also.

• • • • • • •

It is when a room undergoes a permanent change of use that it has to be reclaimed through change of furniture. Or it may be that some unused room is needed and must be made into some specific type, chamber, sewing room, den, etc., with little more furniture and furnishings than are to be gathered from other rooms in a home.

• • • • • • •

Here the proper selection of articles and the knowledge of the least furniture, etc., which can possibly be bought, bring the most thrifty results.

• • • • • • •

It is seldom an easy matter.

• • • • • • •

No room can have too much robbed from it to go into the new room, lest neither appears well furnished. To avoid buying articles, the home decorator must be ingenious and inventive to save money without appearing to do so.

• • • • • • •

A good dressing table for a chamber can be made of a wooden box chosen for its height and width, mainly. It should be low enough to sit before and see one's reflection in a mirror positioned above it. Wad the top of the box, and cover it with chintz.

• • • • • • •

Tack gathered or pleated lengths of the same textile along the edges so that they fall in graceful folds to the floor.

• • • • • • •

A bench can be made in the same way to form the seat before the dressing table. This style of furnishing is in vogue to-day, so no appearance of economy is suggested.

• • • • • • •

A small box with clothes hooks for feet makes a smart footstool. Cover the sides with upholstery fabric, and the top, too, after wadding it. Or chintz can be used for upholstery if the foot rest is for a chamber or sun parlor.

• • • • • • •

In picking articles from rooms for the reclaimed attic or other room, be careful to choose those which accord pleasingly in style, wood, and finishes.

• • • • • • •

Let there be nothing incongruous about the new furnishings, but a happy harmony.

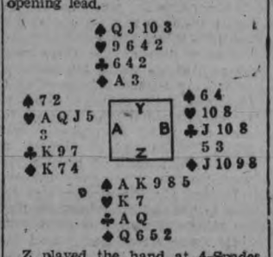
CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

LEADS AGAINST TRUMP CALLS

The following hand shows how the proper choice of opening lead defeated a contract that would have gone game against any other opening lead.



Z played the hand at 4-Spades. Knowing that it ordinarily costs a trick to lead from a suit headed by a tenace or by a K unaccompanied by either Ace or Q. A led a worthless spade. Having taken two rounds of trumps, the declarer led a club and lost to the K when he finesses the Q. A led back a club. The declarer led a low diamond towards dummy, then putting up the Ace he led a low diamond back towards his Q. B's 9 obliged Z to put up his Q or lose the trick. His Q lost to the K, and a diamond was led back. Finally the declarer had to lead a heart, and he lost two tricks in that suit.

Had A made an opening lead of a heart the declarer would have lost only one heart, one club and one diamond trick. Had A led a club the declarer would have lost no tricks in that suit. Giving his adversaries two heart tricks and only one diamond trick would have allowed the declarer to have gone game. Had a diamond been the opening lead the defenders would have won only two heart and one club trick. The opening lead of a trump defeated the contract.

Disclosures From Card Led

Give all possible information to your partner. He needs information more than the declarer does. The latter already knows the entire 26 cards of his side. Your partner knows only 13 cards of your side, until you enlighten him.

Yesterday we referred to the information conveyed by a K lead and the next card. If you lead the Ace, followed by the lowest missing card of that suit, you show no more.

The Q may be led from Q-J-10, Q-J-9-, Q-9, or the Q alone. J may be led in a similar fashion from J-10-x, J-10, or J alone. If Q-J-x-x or J-10-x-x, or more are held, ordinarily the fact that only two cards are in sequence makes a fourth-best card preferable to the honor lead. Some players lead the Q from four headed by Q-J, without either 10 or 9, but that point is still debatable. Usually the Q from five headed by Q-J-9 is a good lead, while the Q from only four headed by Q-J-9 is none too good.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

MANY WOMEN have taken up the subject of reducing with renewed zeal with the advent of the new year. Perhaps it's because they were too self-indulgent during the holidays, and gained weight. Or perhaps it's because they observed that the slimmer members of their set were the ones that got the big rush from the cut--in boys at the parties they attended. At any rate, they're dead set on losing weight. And a good many of them have been making further inquiries about that bouillon diet that I described a short time ago.

If you recall, I described this diet as best for individuals who are only from about six to ten pounds overweight. For individuals heavier than that, a more complete routine, such as the excellent one in my "New Figure" booklet, really is necessary.

I further explained that this diet was to last but six days, and that during the dieting period, nothing was to be consumed but clear vegetables bouillon, and the juice of four oranges. The oranges were to be taken in the morning and the bouillon during the remainder of the day.

What most of my over-plump readers have inquired about in their letters, is just how this bouillon should be made, and just what amount should be consumed each day. There are two ways of making this vegetable bouillon, but I shall merely describe the simplest way to you. Take one pound of carrots, twelve small white onions, half a pound of turnips and four ounces of potatoes. Place them in a large pot, add two quarts of water and salt to taste, and permit the mixture to simmer for from three to four hours. Then strain off vegetables and keep the broth in a cool place for preservative purposes.

As to the amount, about fourteen glasses of fluid should be taken each day. The first thing in the morning, two glasses of warm water should be consumed. About an hour later a glass of the orange juice should be taken. Several glasses of water should be taken between that time and noon. At noon, one glass of the bouillon should be consumed, and again at one, two and three o'clock. At five o'clock, another glass of the orange juice should be taken, and between six and seven, three glasses of bouillon in all should be imbibed. If such a set routine can be followed, this one is best for the bouillon diet.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Fingernails

Dottie: Massage a bit of warmed olive oil into the base of each of your nails nightly. This will help to correct their dry, brittle condition.

Reducing

Patsy: The reducing course outlined in my "New Figure" booklet is indeed guaranteed to take off eight to ten pounds in two weeks. It is, to my knowledge, one of the most healthful reducing routines in existence.

Vinegar Rinse

Claire:: The vinegar rinse should consist of half a glass of cider vinegar, and a pint of clear water.

Skirts For Day-Time Drop Several Inches

(By Adelaide Kerr, A.P. Staff Writer).

PARIS, Feb. 4.—(A.P.)—Decidedly longer day-time skirts created a sensation in the styles world to-day when Molyneux launched street costumes with skirts six to eight inches from the ground.

The silhouette was generally straighter, the thinnest mannequins being padded at the waist and side so they would show no incurve at the waist line, which was placed one to two inches below the natural line for the day.

Evening gowns had skirts so long they sometimes swept the floor and waist lines higher in the front and lower in the back.

Community Relief Fund Campaign

SUBSCRIBE NOW

So far no personal solicitation has been made and funds are being received daily by the Treasurer, Mr. Frank Adams.

Comparing the demands made by other places on their citizens, Peterborough's campaigns have been very modest. The committee is only asking for $20,000.00, a sum that should be readily subscribed in Peterborough by those who are able to contribute if the seriousness of the situation now existing is realized by our citizens.

This is the Situation--

About 800 families, comprising over 3,000 men, women and children, are on relief, the cost of supplying them with the bare necessities for existence is $4,000.00 a week—not a luxury is provided—at this rate more than $200,000.00 is expended in a year. Of this sum, the city pays one-third or more than $65,000.00, and the Provincial and Dominion Governments each a third.

In order to lighten the burden it is felt that individuals, plants and organizations that are able to subscribe will help out on a fund of this character.

The question of relief in this city, as well as in every other community, is a vital one, and whether we have realized it or not, it is the biggest problem in civic matters facing us at the present time.

A fund of $20,000.00 is going to help matters very materially. This sum should be raised without difficulty in Peterborough, and the fact that approximately half the fund has been raised without solicitation is much appreciated by the committee.

Mayor Denne was asked the other day by a citizen how much he should contribute. The Mayor's reply was: "Let your conscience be your guide."

If we all just let our hearts have something to say to our pockets on the occasion of this campaign, after having studied the situation and realized the utter distress that exists, we would reach our objective by Saturday next.

The need is here.

Relief is economically and sympathetically handled.

Hundreds are on relief contrary to their wishes.

Let us help them through this difficult period by giving of what we can spare and send in our subscription to Mr. Frank Adams, Treasurer of the Fund, at once.

Petes Win O.H.A. Group "3" Championship

INTERMEDIATES BEATEN IN SECOND GAME 4 TO 3 BUT WIN ON ROUND 5–4

Petes Forced to Play Defensi ve Hockey in Third Period in Order to Stem Bowmanv ille Rushes—Local Second Forward Li ne Stars.

ELLIS, DUNDAS AND DALLI N SCORE FOR LOCALS; JAMIESONS, PIPER, DENSE M STAR FOR RUBBERTOWN

The Peterborough intermediates won the O.H.A. Group 3 championship from Bowmanville, 5 goals to 4 on the round, though losing last night's game at the Brock, 4-3. The one-goal margin gave them the right to enter the Ontario playdowns. Last night's contest on fast ice was as thrilling as the score indicates, with Bowmanville staging a desperate fight in the third period to come within an ace of tying up the series. The Petes had won the first game, 2-0, in Bowmanville.

A crowd of about nine hundred was treated to a hard, fast battle, remarkably clean throughout. Only two penalties were handed out, one to each side in the third period. The local champs had an edge on the play the first two chapters, but were forced to play strictly defensive hockey the last twenty minutes. It was 2-1 for the Redshirts to end the first stanza, and tied at 2-all in the second.

Petes Threatens.

The locals second forward line starred in a checking capacity and put more fight in the game than the regulars. Jarvis again gave a great demonstration of backchecking at centre, with Creighton and Hatton equally hard to get through. They did considerable rushing but failed to chalk one up. Ellis was the most effective in this department, scoring one and assisting in the other two. Dallin and Dundas each scored one, the latter playing a good all-around game. LeBarr was the best of the defencemen in rushing, but all three checked the opposition up in good manner especially the last half of the game. Gillespie was hard to beat in goal and saved a bunch of hard ones in every frame.

The two Jamiesons, George Piper and Densem were the best of the Bowmanville veterans, though the whole team playing a hard, boring-in type of hockey that was always dangerous. Martyn was good in goal, those that beat him being ticketed. He saved a flock of tough shots, but the Petes' shooting was bad most of the game.

LeBarr got one in early in the first but the bell had called the play back. Dundas and Ellis then threatened and play was fast and a little in favor of the homesters. Then Ellis scored in close on a pass from LeBarr, and they continued to dominate but missed several great scoring chances. O. Jamieson then wormed his way through the defence on beautiful stickwork and pulled Gillespie out to even the count. The local second line was checking nicely but finally F. Jamieson bounced another in from close range, recovering after being partially checked. Bowmanville buzzed around hot for a bit, and Jarvis and Creighton teamed up to go right through but "Red" missed the net as the frame ended.

Muff Several Chances.

Dallin nearly got one in the second, and then Weir's wicked shot gave Martyn heart-failure. The boys were hardly used to such fast ice but kept up a stiff pace. The Jarvis-Creighton-Hatton line bottled the visitors up and they could not get by centre ice for minutes at a time. The goalie came out quick to save on Howe's rush, and Creighton again missed a great chance. The Petes swarmed in repeatedly but muffed them all. Gillespie had a few hot ones to take care of later, and Weir and Hatton almost got one together. Hatton then pulled a sensational save for the Petes, taking a dive of ten feet to just shove the puck aside as it was rolling in, after Gillespie had gone out to save one shot, and a Bowmanville player had tapped a rebound toward the goal. Doug got a big hand. Near the end, Dundas pulled off a great rush, passing to Ellis who shoved it back and Ira blazed it in to tie her up.

Visitors Stage Rally.

The home squad had an edge to start a fast, exciting third canto, and Martyn was having his hands full to keep the disc out. Dallin scored on a great piece of clever combination with Ellis. The Redshirts, however, never slowed up. They came right back two minutes later to score, O. Jamieson going right around the net fast to fool Gillespie. Right away, Densem scored again on a snap shot from an angle at defence, his quick drive getting away from the goalie. They tore in repeatedly, playing four men up, and the Petes were wearing themselves to a frazzle and alternating often trying to stem the tide, with Gillespie going good between the posts. Both sides were tiring under the hot pace, and the Petes began shooting the bootheel down the ice. Hooper went off for tripping Ellis as he went through defence and Jim also got a penalty for slashing at him, just before the final gong gave the group title to the Blue and Whites.

The teams:

Bowmanville: Goal, Martyn; defence, Hooper and Densem; centre, G. Piper; wings, F. Jamieson and Jackman; alternates, Chartren, O. Jamieson, Candler and Cameron.

SAILORS GAIN SERIES BERTH IN SENIOR "A"

Upper Scores Only Goal of Port Colborne Game Late in Third Period.

TO BLANK TIGERS 1-0.

Marlboros and Kitchener Empires Battle 90 Minutes to 3-3 Draw.

(By the Canadian Press)

Fans who follow the fortunes of teams in the Senior "A" series of the Ontario Hockey Association can sit back in comfort to-day and prognosticate upon the play-offs.

The quartette who will battle it out for the championship are Hamilton Tigers, Toronto Marlboros, Niagara Falls and Port Colborne, the latter cinching their position with a 1-0 win over the Tigers at Port Colborne last night.

Kitchener Empires, until yesterday with a mathematical chance to dislodge the Sailors, blew it last night when they tied Marlboros, 3-3, in 90 minutes of hockey.

Dukes Still Trailing

Earning only one point from the tie, Marlboros still trail the Tigers for the group leadership. The final order of finishing is far from settled, however, as Niagara Falls are three points behind the second place Dukes.

Port Colborne's win left them deadlocked with Tigers on the season's play, with two home wins each. After two scoreless sessions, Vern Upper flipped the rebound of Harry Wade's shot past Goalie "Hawse" Marsh for the only goal of the game, with eight minutes left to play.

Contrary to reports "Toe" Blake, who was reported to have signed a professional contract with Montreal Maroons, performed with the Tigers and played clever hockey.

Many Penalties

Two thousand fans, the largest crowd of the season, watched the two outfits race through 60 minutes of torrid hockey in which 14 penalties were meted out, eight of them going to the Tigers.

The dogged style of Empires and marvellous goal-tending by Tommy Berner were the two main reasons why the Marlboro-Kitchener game ended in a deadlock.

The youthful Dukes had an edge in territorial play, particularly in the first half of the game, but they were unable to amass a safe lead.

Manager Irvin Erb of Kitchener again was forced to don the skates and help out, following an injury to Lederman, who was carried from the ice during the overtime with a damaged knee.

Lederman, Schiedel and Harlock marked up points for Empires and Oliver, Kitchen and Primeau garnered Marlboros' goals.

Juniors Take Sixth Straight Victory

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the big event this week has been the benefit hockey game for Geo. Merrett, and the same was a wow so far as the objective was concerned, in spite of soft ice. The old Brock st. ice palace was crowded to the doors, not only with local fans, but with folks from all over the district, and the result was a really tidy sum laid in at the box office. The big attraction was, of course, Mister Ace Bailey and Mister King Clancy, of the Maple Leaves, which kindly come down to help out a good cause, and they sure did help it. Mister Bailey has always been the white-haired boy with Peterboro fans since he did a big share in copping the Ontario championship for this fair city, and Mister Clancy earned himself a huge slice of popularity Wed. nite. More than ever the local followers of the game'll be pulling for the Leaves to come through again, and every good play by Mister Bailey or Mister Clancy will be a source of joy. 2 great players, them lads, and success ain't turned their heads none. They're as comfortable to get along with as an old shoe, which is something you can't always say about athaletes not ½ as prominent as the Leafs' pair.

Our teams has been doing nicely, Mac, and Mon. nite they set up a new record when they both win away from home by the shut-out route. Several times 2 Peterboro teams has copped a win on the same nite, but so far as I can remember, and that's getting to be longer than I care to boast about, it was the 1st time local crews come through without allowing the enemy a measley marker. The kids cleaned up down in Cobourg 7 to 0, while the Wright clan got the jump on Bowmanville in the group play-offs by beating them 2 to 0 on their own cushion, which ain't a feat to be sneezed at. The victory was somewhat expensive, however, for the game cost the Petes the loss for a while of Mister A. Weir, who has been going great guns in recent fixtures.

1 thing was proved in that benefit game Wed. nite, and that is the Peterboro Junior City League is developing some right smart players. The Rotary and P.C.I. outfits, in spite of heavy going, turned in some mighty nice hockey, and 4 or 5 of the boys took the eye of hockey crickets. Their showing should earn the youngsters some support in their league contests, because it's from the ranks of these teams that the O.H.A. players of tomorrow has got to come.

Well, Mac, they oughta be some interesting hockey next week, and customers is advised to watch the dates and not miss a set-too.

Nothing more to-day, so cheerio.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

FIELDS LEADS BULLDOGS TO 3-1 VICTORY

Recently Demoted By Stars, "Whitey" Turns on Old Team Mates for Victory.

SCORES TWO GOALS.

TORONTO, February 4 (C.P.).—"Retribution," a little drama, the author of which is "Whitey" Fields, blonde, lanky pivot-player of the Windsor Bulldogs, is written in International Hockey League records to-day.

Fields, demoted by Syracuse Stars, a team battling for the league leadership, to Bulldogs, mired in fourth place, repaid the compliment at the first opportunity, when he led his new teammates to a 3-1 victory over the lofty Stars last night.

Scoring two of the three goals himself, Fields was a big factor in preventing Syracuse from going to the front in the championship race. He only joined the Bulldogs yesterday, but fitted in perfectly with Eddie Rodden and Al. Huggins to give the Windsorites a capable forward line.

Incidentally the victory was the first in five starts for Manager Herbie Mitchell's men, who previous to their losing streak had played five games without a loss.

Fields garnered the first and last goals of the game, while Blinco notched the other Windsor tally. Earl Miller scored the losers' single.

Freddy Robertson, husky Syracuse defenceman, and Andy Bellemer, of the winners, were given majors, in the flock of penalties imposed by Referee Mickey Ion. Ten were imposed on the Bulldogs, while seven were meted out to their opponents.

Chihawks Face Iron Task Over Week-End

TORONTO, Feb. 4 (C.P.).—Chicago Black Hawks, who have more to complain about than most National League hockey teams, start the last—and hardest—lap of a round-the-circuit tour to-night. They play Toronto Leafs at Toronto to-night and face Detroit Red Wings Sunday night at the border.

In last place in the United States division, three games behind Boston Bruins, Chicago has done enough winning this season to rank above every Canadian division outfit except Toronto. They would be in second place if they played in the Canuck group; as it is they are on the verge of being outdistanced by Detroit, Rangers and Boston.

Boston plays at Ottawa and Marcons and Canadiens hook up at Montreal in the other Saturday night duels, and Sunday night brings together the Americans and Rangers in Madison Square Gardens.

Win From Ontarios 9 to 2

Frank Buckland's Puck-chasers Take Easy Victory at Lakeshore Ice Cushion.

FEW PENALTIES.

Local Forwards Give Many Neat Exhibitions of Brilliant Work.

Peterborough's Junior Blue and White brigade made it six straight wins at Port Hope last night when they turned aside the Ontarios to the tune of 9 to 2. The Lakeshore youngsters gave all they had in an attempt to gain a foothold on second place, but they could not shake off their tireless checks, and in their few scoring chances, muffed the plays out in front of Sanderson. The O.H.A. having ordered a playoff to decide the section winner, the Petes' opponents will probably be Bowmanville, with the prospects that the first game of the home-and-home series being played here the middle of next week.

Frank Buckland's puck-chasers won pretty much as they pleased, the Ontario's only threat being their score seven minutes after the game opened. Ten minutes later when the Petes had found their bearings and with the first line in action, Bill Calladine slipped a pass to Jay to tie the count.

City League Recruit Scores

Payne, a City League recruit, put the Petes ahead, slamming in a rebound after three minutes of the second period, and Calladine took the puck from the Petes' net right in on top of Cancilla to get another thirty seconds later. Jim Phillips raised the spirits of the crowd after seven minutes' play when he tore in on Sanderson as the goaler picked off a shot with his hand, upsetting him and allowing the puck to slide over the line. Jay scored on a long shot from centre in five minutes and Calladine added another in three minutes. Cadd carried the rubber down, was chased to the side, but after spilling his check backhanded one into the nets to end the scoring of the period.

Spectator Injured

A Port Hope spectator was being carried across the ice after being hit on the face with a flying puck, and Bill Calladine's nice goal to start the Petes in the final session was not allowed. A pretty piece of work by Cadd and Jay in which the big defence man passed the puck to the wingman at the nets to permit of a perfect score was one of the feature tallies of the night. Burley made one of his flying wallops to go in alone and beat Mercer who was now goaling for the Ontarios, and Williamson slipped over a pass to Weir for the final counter of the contest. With a minute to go, Hill and Payton were chased for a mild form of slashing, to give the Petes their only penalty of the night.

Position Changes

With Fenton taking a holiday, MacGregor was given a workout on the defence where he did a lot of good work, Payne taking the assignment on the first line for a trial, in which he showed up nicely.

The teams:—

Port Hope.—Cancilla and Mercer; defence, Record and McTavish; centre, Pillsworth; wings, Phillips and Phillips. Alternates: Payton, Nelson, Rowland and Pillsworth.

Peterborough.—Goal, Sanderson; defence, Cadd and Weir; centre, Calladine; wings, Payne and Jay. Alternates: Burley, Hell, Williamson, MacGregor.

TONY CANZONERI KNOCKS OUT TOWNSEND IN FIRST ROUND

Three Hard, Murderous Right Hand Punches to the Head Send Vancouverite to Canvas for One Minute and Five Seconds Victory.

ENDING GREETED BY "RAWS" FROM CUSTOMERS; VICTOR WILL BE MATCHED WITH JIM McLARNIN

NEW YORK, February 4 (C.P.).—Tony Canzoneri was in full cry after the leaders of the welterweight pack to-day.

The doughty little champion of the lightweights, lacking opposition in his own division, made his debut as a welterweight contender in Madison Square Garden last night, and knocked out Billy Townsend of Vancouver, in a little more than one minute of fighting in the first round of a scheduled ten-round match.

TONY CANZONERI.

The crowd of 12,000 persons barely had settled back into their seats after the introductions when Canzoneri stabbed Townsend across the right with his fast left, and then unloosed a volley of right hand punches. The last, landing high upon the temple, sent the Vancouver 23-year-old to the canvas, and he stayed there as Referee Patsy Haley counted ten. The finish came in one minute and five seconds. Townsend failed to land a single hard blow.

Boos From Customers.

Although the sudden ending of the match brought a loud chorus of boos from the spectators, ringside critics, including New York Boxing Commissioner John J. Phelan, were convinced that Billy was the victim of three hard, murderous right hand punches.

"It was perfectly all right," Phelan said. "Tony was just too heavy a hitter for Townsend."

Newspaper experts concurred. They were virtually agreed that the three punches Canzoneri fired as Townsend was going down might well have toppled any welterweight in the ring.

Tony, who handed the rugged Billy Petronelle a bad beating in his last lightweight title defence, conceded eight and one-quarter pounds to Townsend. He scaled 132¾ pounds as compared with Townsend's 141.

In view of his decisive triumph over Townsend, Canzoneri probably will be matched soon with Jimmy McLarnin, another and more formidable Vancouver glove-wielder.

Bowling Gossip

During the last two weeks two heavy-hitting five-pin spillers in the city of Toronto turned in perfect scores of 450 apiece. This feat has only been accomplished once on local alleys, that being in a C.G.E. league game, when W. G. Shiner took the honors two years ago, on the Duffus Alleys. So far this season, the local topnotchers have been falling far short of any scoring that looms as a possible. Down at the Knights, both Ab Delahaye and Mel. Anthony have topped 380, while on the polished speedways of the Y.M.C.A. C. Wasson spilled 381. The Duffus bowlers are low on the list this time, Fred Hickey holding the season's solo count to date with 351. Incidentally any brawny ball tosser who cares to beat the depression may do so if he makes a perfect on the Duffus Alleys, as the management offers one hundred dollars to any who enters the five-pin hall of fame with a 450 score.

In the C.G.E. shop bowling league this week several keen battles were fought, most of which only tended to tighten up the league standing. The No. 2 Engineers team stopped the Cost No. 1 crew with a display of toppling that produced singles ranging from 65 to 263. G. R. Langley came through with the highest counts of the program, making 255 and 263, while his teammate, Ed Tracy, spilled 258 in one game. One of the Cost Men also joined the gooseberry brigade chalking up a single of 92. Shaughnessy of the latter team led with 226.

The Drafting Room hooked up with the Engineers No. 1 team in a rather one-sided duel, the former winning 2,187 against 1,722. Only four bowlers performed on each team. Max Metherel set a fast clip for the Drafting quartet securing 216, 283, 225—724.

Price Setting locked horns with the Stores No. 1 outfit in a see-saw tussle that produced some clever pin toppling. For the Stores Bud Weese displayed some of his former style when he bowed over 763 pins in three games. This total included a single of 308 and another 256. Fred Martin was next in line with 711, making solo counts of 264 and 257. The opposition were more consistent, Adams, Doris and Dyer securing 661, 640, and 623 respectively.

Cost No. 2 and the Testers split a four-point decision. Mills for the Cost tumbled 288, 170, 190 for a triple of 648, which was high in this game. The Machinists took on the Stores No. 2 team, and led by Fred Jones, who knocked off 240, 207, 197—for 644, resulting in a 3-1 victory. Robb of the winning team had two nice singles of 241 and 238.

Out But Not Through

Paul Pirrone, Cleveland, O., middleweight, crawls back into ring after being knocked through the ropes for second time in fourth round of hectic Cleveland brawl by Ben Jeby, who is recognized by New York Boxing Commission as world middleweight champion. When Pirrone did not immediately answer bell for sixth round the decision was awarded to Jeby.

Well, folks, you can lift the old weather-beaten fedora to the two Peterborough hockey teams. Yeah, they both came through again last night like a razor through cheese. The young Petes weren't letting the intermediates have all the credit for going through their schedule without a kick in the slats, so they kept up their winning streak, six it is, by trouncing Port Hope 10-2 right in the Hopers' back alley. As for the Petes intermediates, why they copped their group championship at the Brock by getting the round, 5 to 4, although they lost the game, 4-3.

* * * * * *

Probably the finest piece of fruitless fruit cake seen around these parts in quite a while was the Bowmanville effort in the third spasm. They did everything, including winning the game, but were still left holding the burlap at the end, being shy that one big marker. They came off the ice as disgruntled as a pickpocket wearing boxing gloves in a subway rush, and who can blame them. But, by the same token, the win was as sweet to the locals as a juicy watermelon to a darky in July.

* * * * * * *

Who was it said that stirring up muddy water makes soup for no one. We shouldn't burst into a eulogy with a crack about the penalty-box, but it's worth a crack. They built a fine new "cooler" on the west side of the rink, but the boys must have all been bashful about baptizing it as they stayed away in large numbers. Just two drew the gate in the whole contest, both in the last period. Hooper of the visiting squad and Jim Ellis, so James has that doubtful distinction of being the first local player in, but we are quite sure he wont be the last. Life is hard, and hockey is no parlor sport, either.

* * * * * * *

How was it done? Well, the Petes had most of the scoring chances in the first two periods by faster skating and better teamwork, while hogtying the Rubbertown boys with great checking. But they missed that net so often that we lost count. They'd get right in but their hurried shots would either be right at the goalie or smack into the wall back of him. They should have had several. The last period ,the visitors threatened almost steadily and only hard checking, good goaltending and a string of horse-shoes kept out that tying counter.

* * * * * * *

Weir did a very fair job of it, nose-guard, busted beezer and all. Dalling and Jarvis were not very spry after a sick spell but both returned to the wars with enough left to turn in a fine effort, Gamey's checking at centre again being a feature. Hatton and Creighton also worked hard, Red's shooting being off, and Doug hitting the spotlight with a circus diving save after Gillespie had come out of the net. The main forward line was effective at scoring ,and the defence never eased up, their checks being cleaner than usual and just as jolting. Early in the game, they were making the mistake of two going after the man with the puck, but they got wise shortly. Gillespie had another fine night twixt the gas-pipes. A fine win after a grand old race, and the Petes deserve plenty of support in their further hunt.

* * * * * * *

It was just like picking ripe plums off a tree for the juniors in the "prettiest town in Canada" last e'en, the final count being 9-2 with the P. H. lads just about buried under that count. Only their ears were sticking out, and were they red? You see, it was Port Hope and Bowmanville who insisted that the Petes playoff with the second-place team, though the locals weren't so fussy about it. Now that they've been ordered to, it'll be Bowmanville, as the latter's 3-0 win over Cobourg last night, and Port Hope's loss gives the Rubbertown roisterers second rung of the ladder.

* * * * * * *

We understand Calladine, Cadd and Weir were the best of the Petes down there, with the whole team showing a lot of class and smart teamplay on good ice. The winner of this Bowmanville-Petes' junior playoff series next week meets Fenelon Falls who walloped Lindsay by 8 to 4 on the round last night. They sure trimmed the rinkless wonders, tying their whiskers into a lovers' knot. The Scugog squad, which early this winter figured the Falls and the Petes were not fast enough for them, not only fell before the Little Roar outfit but even tossed in a few extra bounces. At that, it's tough having no rink at home.

Lakefield's E.P.L. hustlers got all tangled up with the Norwood Combines last night down in Alex Kempt's ice-ranch, the polls returning the home bunch with a majority of 7 to 1. At that, it was a smart embroglio for two rounds, but the Combines pushed 'em down cellar and tossed the key away in the last frame. The two Cripps boys made a lot of noise rattling in goals in this period, and the team as a whole clicked nicely. Just to make it unanimous, Norwood slapped a 5-0 coat of whitewash on Normal School in a City League tussle down there, too.

A couple of local curling rinks ramble up to Toronto for the O.C.A. tankard playoffs Tuesday. These gents are included: W. Howden, H. Clegg, H. F. Foote and skip Doc Sutton; C. Huffman, E. Bowling Gossip

By H. W. L. Mahood.

Miniature lawn bowling has come to stay. Eight rinks tested out the game last evening. It was enthusiastically adopted, fourteen skips were chosen. As many more will be, Tuesday and Friday evenings will see the game in full swing. The fee is one dollar for the season. One-third of the cost was met last evening by memberships. A schedule will be arranged next week for the season, February to May. This is a characteristically Canadian game. When the rules are worked out from the experience of bowling a few evenings the game may be copyrighted. Lady bowlers are requested to get into touch with the greens committee—H. Freeman, chairman, by next Tuesday evening, so that skips may be chosen, and a schedule arranged for team competition, and mixed games. At the outset of the games last evening, the best players were at sea for a while. For information, call Andy Brown, 'phone 3394. The next bowling evening is Tuesday, February 7th.

In the second game the Westclox Seniors broke on top, leading the "Y" Intermediates 12-3, with four of their players sharing the baskets. In the first half the "Y" Intermediates were held pointless. G. Robinson lost little time in putting the Westclox Seniors in the lead early in the first period when she gathered in a foul shot and a field basket. D. Webb added another point to the count by tallying from a foul off J. Dawson. Before the period closed M. Mortimer and B. Thirnbeck each tallied on rebounds.

C.G.E. Seniors Lose, 22-2

The "Y" Seniors took the C.G.E. Seniors for a ride in the third game, by a 22-2 victory. The contest was a thrilling affair and the C.G.E. Seniors had plenty of combination play and numerous bursts of speed but they were not as effective as the "Y" Seniors in securing baskets. The Seniors were held down to two baskets in the first half. I. Davidson registering the first followed by a clever one from H. Cole. The half time score 4-0 in favor of "Y" Seniors.

The C.G.E. Seniors secured their two points in the second half. M. Hallihan gathered these in from two personal shots off O. Elcombe and E. Armstrong. H. Cole still leads the team in registering baskets. Four more baskets and two foul shots from a technical foul off H. Peryer were marked in her favour.

Hungry Hounds Lose Annual Ice Fracas

The annual royal battle of the cinemas was staged last night when the Regent "Thistle Throwers" and Capital "Hungry Hounds" clashed in a real old-fashioned game of shinny, the Thistles sliding off the ice with a 4-2 win. The game was replete with stars, the two John (Gilbert Johnston and Barrymore Ristowe) between the goals posts showing some nifty willow swinging as they endeavored to clear.

Spectacular checking in the forward line was another feature of the game, back checking, heavy checking with the occasional neck slicing coming into the play. Line-ups:

Regent Thistle Throwers—Goal, "John Gilbert" Johnston; defence, "Warren William" Rishor and "Joe Brown" Mowry; forwards "Lloyd Hamilton" Pooley, "James Cagney" Jay and "George Raft" Davern.

Capital Hungry Hounds—Goal, "John Barrymore" Ristowe; defence, "Arrowbuckle" Beavis and "Kibee" Miller; forwards, "Gene Raymond" Beavis, "Wallace Berry" Deannard and "Bill Powell" Fowler.

NEWMARKET JUNIORS WIN EASILY FROM BELLEVILLE

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 4.—Scoring at will, the Newmarket Juniors won an exhibition fixture from the local club here last night by a score of 13 to 1, the lone Belleville tally coming near the end of the first period. It was just a question of how many the red-shirted crew from the suburbs of Toronto would score, but in spots the locals went every bit as well as the visitors, and from the exhibition learned some tricks that can be well applied. The winners had far too much speed, their system was clicking better, and their backchecking and thrusts on goal were a treat to watch. Bill Hancock has his team in fine condition for the coming play-offs.

Canucks And Rangers Make European Tour

MONTREAL, Feb. 4 (C.P.)—European sport fans will get a glimpse of professional hockey this Spring if present plans to take Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers of the National Hockey League on a foreign tour materialize.

Leo Dandurand, manager of the Canadiens, returned from New York to-day after a conference in New York yesterday with officials of Madison Square Gardens, owners of the Rangers, and Rene Racover, Parisian sports promoter. Final details remain to be worked out, Dandurand said, and it is possible the two popular N.H.L. clubs will leave early in April to play exhibition games with each other in Paris, Berlin, and other European cities.

. . . . And 2-1 for Belleville int. over Campbellford . . . . Billy Townsend was laid like a carpet and snuffed out cold as a banker's kiss in one minutes by Tony Canzoneri in N'Yawk last night . . . . The American Association of baseballers, following the footsteps of the International League, are going in next summer for that screwy playoff system which the Yanks laughted at in in Canuck hockey . . . Five down inside the the 20-yard line may be the next U. S. football rule, according to the Eastern Association of officials . . . . And so to bed.

N.S.W. SCORES 284 FOR FIVE.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 4 (C.P. Cable).—The second innings of a match between the New South Wales cricket eleven and South Australia to-day saw the N.S.W. batsmen playing in fine form to knock up 284 for five wickets. The scores were: N.S.W., 113 and 284 for five (Fingleton 43, Bradman 56 and 97, McCabe 67, Brown 79, Wall ten for 36); South Australia 114 (Howell five for 31).

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

Poor little match,
Even if you like it,
You're likely to strike it.
—Shadow Sayings.

"BE CAREFUL," the fire warned. "I'll burn you!" So the five shadow children (which means that they weren't really children but just the shadows of children) were careful not to come too close to the fire. Just the same they wanted to get it back into the furnace, where it belonged.

It was the chimney, high up on the roof, who had first noticed that the fire had gone out. Sure enough, the shadows found the furnace door wide open and the fire gone out. Where had it gone out to? Out into the street. It was now a bon-fire, burning little pieces of paper and wood for the children, who stood around, watching it dance up and down.

The Fire Vanishes

When the fire saw the five shadows it angrily ordered them away. It didn't want to go back to the furnace. But the shadows had made up their minds that unless the fire went back to the furnace the house would get ice cold, and the chimney would not be able to take a smoke as it wished. A chimney can't smoke without a fire, you know.

"You'll never get me back into that furnace," the fire cackled.

"Oh yes we will," Knarf answered for the shadows. "Just you wait."

It wasn't long before the children forgot to throw sticks and paper on the fire and it grew smaller and smaller. But still it warned the shadows not to come too close else it would burn them. The shadows waited patiently. They thought that as soon as it got to be as small as a spark they would be able to pick it up.

"There's the fire!" cried Knarf

Dear me, the fire got to be as small as a spark but before the shadows had time to pick it up, it vanished altogether. The five shadows gazed at each other. Where had it gone to, now?

Where's the Fire?

You can't imagine in how many places the shadows looked for the fire. They thought they saw it in a man's corncob pipe, but it wasn't really the fire. They heard the fire engines, and they followed them. But when they got to the house that was supposed to be burning, they found that the fire had gone out again. As they were walking back again they saw a man strike a match. "That's the fire!" Knarf cried, rushing up to the man. But the man blew the fire out. Finally, very sadly, they returned to the cellar. Imagine their surprise to find the fire roaring and crackling inside the furnace, and the chimney smoking for all it was worth. The shadows asked the fire where it had been.

"I was out," it answered, "and now I'm back again. Don't come too close to me or else I'll burn you." That's all it would say.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is under the propitious Jupiter, major benefic of the astral host. It promises advancement or preferment in employment, and encourages fulfilled ambitions especially in literary adventures or publications.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a profitable and progressive year, with honors, preferment or the co-operation of those in places of power and prestige. A child born on this day should be brilliant, ambitious, attaining high favors from those in power.

For Monday, Feb. 6

ALTHOUGH THIS day is not a very important or progressive one, yet a great deal depends upon individual push, courage and initiative. There may be some friction or misunderstanding in employment, also some measure of petty gossip or slander. Caution is enjoined in all writings.

Those whose birthday it is are called upon to exert themselves as the assistance from planetary sources may be called null. A child born on this day may be clever, quick to learn, but restless and fond of change.

LONDON CRIMES SHOW INCREASE IN LATE YEARS

Housebreaking, Robbing with Violence and All Forms of Fraud Among Foremost.

UNDER INVESTIGATION

By HUGO SPECK
Central Press Canadian Writer

LONDON, Feb. 4—There was a 100 per cent increase in crime in London in 1931 compared with the previous year.

Although the official figures have not yet been completed, it is already certain they will show the increase indicated. And the upward tendency affects all forms of crime. More particularly among these is housebreaking, burglary, robbing and violence, smash-and-grab raids, and all forms of fraud.

Lord Trenchard, commissioner of the metropolitan police, already has a number of important schemes under consideration which he hopes will drastically reduce the largest crime figures ever recorded for London.

Among these are:

A more extensive use of the radio, including the establishment of three London transmitting stations, in addition to the headquarters station.

Augmentation of the plain clothes force, the flying squad and the mobile force of the uniformed branch.

A constant day and night motor patrol service in all divisions, with improved radio sets in the cars.

Closer working union between country and borough forces, and renewed efforts to secure public co-operation.

The commissioner has already inaugurated a course of lectures by experienced officers on the prevention and detection of crime in relation to modern mechanized methods.

In order to facilitate a more vigilant watch on the known haunts of professional criminals he is working on a large map which shows the hunting grounds of criminals and special areas where they are most likely to be caught on returning from the expeditions.

Headaches and Dizzy Spells Nerves In Bad Condition

Mr. Neil Crawford, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My nerves were in such bad condition I found it almost impossible to get a good night's sleep. I was also bothered with headaches and dizzy spells.

I tried many different remedies, but they did not seem to give me much relief, but after I had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I could hardly believe the change they had made in my condition."

For sale at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd. Toronto, Ont.

PRUSSIAN DIET CROSSES HITLER

Both Centrist and Communist Members Vote Against Dissolution.

NAZI HOPES FADE.

(By Louis P. Lochner, A.P. Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Feb. 4 (A.P.)—The Hitler Cabinet's hope that the Prussian Diet would vote itself out of existence went glimmering to-day when, in the course of debate in which each party was given an hour's time, both Centrists and Communists announced they would vote against dissolution.

The Socialists also were expected to decline, on the assumption that the Diet will vote "No" on the question, Hans Kerrl, the National Socialist President of the Diet, summoned Premier Otto Braun, a Socialist, and President Adenauer of the State's Council, a Centrist, for a meeting late to-day.

Under the Pressian constitution, the Diet can be dissolved only by either the Diet so voting or by two of a triumvirate, consisting of the Premier, the Diet's President, and State Council President, voting favorably.

Political circles wonder what will happen if, as expected, the triumvirate also turns dissolution down. Some believe the Federal Government will authorize Vice-Chancellor Von Paper, who is Commissioner for Prussia by special decree, to simply take Premier Braun's place and together with Kerrl declare the Diet dissolved.

Before the Diet began debate on dissolution, the Communists demanded passage of a resolution, declaring the Versailles Treaty null and void. They also sought a number of measures in the interest of workers and farmers, but the Nazis blocked discussion of all these.

RUBBERTOWN TEAM BLANKS COBOURG

Lakeshore Outfit Loses 3-0 Decision in Bowmanville Last Night.

BOWMANVILLE, Feb. 4 (Special) —In a rather disorganized game, Bowmanville defeated Cobourg in an O.H.A. junior game 3 to 0 last night. Both teams played good hockey at times, but lacked combination and experience. In the first frame the teams were evenly matched with Jack Mutton, in the Bowmanville net, showing great form and stopping many hard close-in shots. The period ended goalless. Henderson and Lucas were the best for Cobourg, with honors on the Bowmanville team quite equally divided. In the second period, Cobourg gave Bowmanville a real opportunity when Staples and Comrie gained penalties, and were both in the box at the same time. Platt, however, turned all shots aside, but on a long floater shot by Bagnell, he misjudged, and Bowmanville took the lead. The third period saw more action with C. Osborne of the locals netting two goals in quick succession.

Cobourg.—Goal, Platt; defence, Staples and Comrie; centre, Henderson; wings, Hle and J. Parker; subs., Bevans, Lucas, E. Parker.

Bowmanville.—Goal, J. Mutton; defence, Veale and Bagnell; centre, C. Osborne; wings, B. Mutton and B. Dunlop; subs., D. Osborne, Hunt, Oke and Green.

Referee—A. Armstrong, Oshawa.

Marathon Dancers To Give Exhibition

Marathon dancing will be introduced to the Peterborough dancing public this evening in the form of an exhibition at the Winter Gardens. While marathon competition is not permitted in this country, Florence Robertson of Chicago and Stewart Roland of Detroit, former dancers on the stage, will show how it is done in a three-hour exhibition, from nine o'clock till twelve. They will trip the light fantastic continuously during this time, intermissions and all, and their experience during real marathon endurance contests will make it a realistic showing.

THE SPARETIME PREMIER

By PRIVATE SECRETARY

Ex-Prime Minister of France—"short, stocky, bushy, bristly."

(Since this story was written M. Herriott has suffered defeat at the hands of the French Parliament, and is no longer Premier, but French politics see so many changes dcubtless he will again be Premier at some time not so long a distance in the future.—Editor.)

Meet the Mayor of Lyons. Also the Prime Minister of France.

Here they come—Edouard Herriot by name.

Aged 60.

Short, stocky, bushy, bristly. Not a grey hair yet.

In spite of his two jobs.

As Premier he is a crony of Ramsay MacDonald, British Prime Minister.

But Edouard comes from Lyons, and has never really left it. He's still Mayor, and likley to be.

He lives there in a modest flat in the Cours d'Herbouville, opposite the Park of the Golden Head.

The place is full of books, and old friends, and bourgeois respectability.

Which is why Madame, a true Lyonnaise, won't leave it. Even though other houses in the same street have collapsed, more than once.

They build too close against the side of the hills in those parts. The hills are furrowed by tiny streams, and every so often accidents happen. Nasty ones, sometimes.

The Herriots don't mind.

Obstinate folk, these Lyonnaise. It takes an earthquake to shift them. Even then, they come back with the builders.

Madame Herriot was born at Lyons, she found her handsome, clever young lecturer there, she married him there....

And not all the exalted transformations in the world will drag her to Paris, save on a visit.

Just a trifle awkward at times. After all, if the Prime Minister happens to have a wife, she ought to show up occasionally in the capital.

Officially, Edouard is a Left-Wing Mayor, But she's not Left-Wing. So the good bourgeois of the silk city are not nervous.

Theirs is a nice flat. Not big. Not modern, in the steel-armchair and cubist-mirror sense of the term.

But as comfortable as any in France.

Madame is a good cook. And Monsieur is fond of his food. A true gourmet, he would rather not eat at all than not eat the best.

The duties of Mayor in Lyons are not exacting.

Edouard, one of the most brilliant historians and biographers in France, has had plenty of time for the craft of the pen, which is his real love.

There are books everywhere at No. 1 Cours d'Herbouville. Books of reference, books for the leisure hour, classics of the past, and classics by the Prime Minister.

Herriot misses his library when he is in Paris.

There, being Foreign Minister as well as Premier, he occupies an elegant suite at the Quai d'Orsay, overlooking the Seine. It bores him.

From time to time, he has taken a private pied-a-terre in the capital. But he doesn't entertain there.

Things being as they are, he has to entertain a good deal by deputy. Fortunately, he is popular with pretty and charming women, and they help him out.

Not a consistent early riser, the Prime Minister us usually about the streets before breakfast.

He likes to watch Paris go to work.

The first meal of the day is very frugal. Coffee and rolls, with perhaps a dab of English "marmalade." Sometimes a trifle of fruit.

But never enough to spoil that excellent lunch.

He works swiftly, decisively, with keen concentration. But never too long at a time.

He is no slave-driver of secretaries or other subordinates.

Perhaps that funny stump of a briar pipe has something to do with the man's equable temper. You rarely see him without it.

The caricaturists d——n it as an English habit. Herriot remains unmoved, chewing, biting, puffing the whole day long.

He has already begun to set a fashion—narcotically speaking.

Not sartorially. Nobody would call him a smart dresser.

He is less slovenly than Briand, but nothing like as natty as Tardieu.

Yet he has got one of the neatest minds in the whole Republic.

He came by it in a curious way.

When a youngster at school, in Paris, he had a dear old aunt. She was cook to Maurice Barres, the famous wit. Young Herriot used to visit her frequently.

Barres took a fancy to the boy. He encouraged him.

In the end, the fashionable boulevardier set the son of the wandering Army Service Corps officer on his educational and literary career.

He got him his first job in Lyons.

Barres has a neat mind. Herriot took example by it, and avoided pedantry.

Also snobbery. No man of eminence has ever been more loyal to his companions of school and college days.

One of them, Edouard Daladier, is in his Cabinet, as Minister of Public Works.

Another, Leon Blum, the wealthy Socialist leader, is still a friend, though they have parted on politics.

But scores of obscure cronies are always sure of a kindly welcome and a hand-shake — whether they look Edouard up in Lyons or in Paris.

Strange that Edouard should have that weakness about getting into the Academy.

One would hardly have thought he would bother.

After all, a Premier of France is a bigger man than any Academician. But Herriot still hankers after the one pedantic status.

You have to stand well with the old regime to be acceptable to the French Academy. They don't like Radicals, however brilliant their literary or scientific attainments.

So the Premier has been left out in the cold. He hates that. The philosophy of this shrewd, humorous, broad-minded and adaptable Gaul should have been proof against the snubs of snobs.

"Bonne-pate," they call Edouard. Good paste: the right stuff.

What a pity there are no little Herriots to carry on the tradition!

Never mind. His books are his children. And they will live after him. When the Prime Minister is forgotten, the biographer of Madame Becamier will be remembered.

A century ago, he might have married her. What a salon that would have been!

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

IT HAS been a long time since you saw the picture which used to be an old standby in the comic papers, of father in his night shirt walking up and down in the middle of the night with a yelling baby in his arms. Whether he was about to step on a tack or not!

One reason you haven't seen it is that not as many people would understand it nowadays as in days gone by. Its appeal is not sufficiently universal.

And the reason people would not understand it is that the new way of bringing up babies has nearly eliminated colic. Perhaps this is the most important reason for the advice we have been talking about this week of putting the baby on a schedule and sticking to the schedule.

The chief cause for colic in the oldtime babies was that they didn't get enough to eat. They were always being given little sugar tits when they cried, which caused fermentation in their stomachs, and probably actually gave them some colic. So that the treatment made them worse. Besides that they were allowed to sleep until they woke up. When they woke up they were hungry and then when they cried they were supposed to have the colic. A well-fed baby will be a colicless baby, and the three-month colic, and the six-month colic, and the wind colic, are all things of the past.

It was always assumed that when the baby cried the cause was pain. The modern method of schedule feeding has proved that hunger was actually the sensation the old-time "colicky" baby experienced.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Old Subscriber writes as follows: "There is a rumor being circulated in this community that a depression plant kept in the house is liable to cause infantile paralysis. Is this founded on medical science?"

Answer: No. There is no evidence that depression plants cause infantile paralysis. We had infantile paralysis long before depression plants were popular.

For the information of readers, depression plants are made by allowing salt to crystallize. A few cinders are put in a bowl and some salt and water are poured in. The salt crystalizes in very pretty shapes. Mercurochrome or methylene blue or ink may be used to color the plant. There is no danger in them whatever.

U. S. READY TO DEPORT COUPLE FROM HAMILTON

HAMILTON, Feb. 4 (C.P.)—A deportation order has been issued by United States immigration authorities against Fred N. Brotherton and Sarah Ann Hall of Hamilton, both of whom have been detained in Florida for six weeks, it was learned here.

The former Hamilton orchestra leader is wanted locally on a non-support warrant. When he disappeared last Labor Day a sensation was created through the finding of his clothing in his parked auto near the canal at Hamilton Beach.

PROBE TRAFFIC WHITE SLAVERY

League Commission Reports Licensed Brothels Main Stay of Business.

CHECK-UP MADE IN EAST.

GENEVA, Feb. 4 (A.P.)—The report of the League of Nations inquiry into traffic in women and children in the Far East, indicts the licensed brothel as the agency above all responsible for stimulating and perpetuating this type of commerce in human being.

The commission of inquiry spent nearly a year and a half travelling and investigating in eastern countries. The expenses were paid by the New York Bureau of Social Hygiene. The commission's findings were:

There is a certain movement of Occidental prostitutes to the East, but scarcely any Oriential women come to the Occident for prostitution.

The bulk of the traffic consists of Asiatic women from one country in Asia to another.

The largest group of victims is composed of Chinese women, and the second in numerical importance are Japanese, followed in very much smaller numbers by Malay, Annemite, Siamese, Filipino, Indian, Iraque, Persians and Syrians.

Prostitutes seek clients almost exclusively among their own countrymen. The commission recommends international co-operation among central authorities to suppress the traffic. The best weapon against those engaging in the traffic is to strike at their business organization, primarily by eliminating the best market, namely the brothel.

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

If you are located in a district that is troubled with interference from power lines, keep your aerial as far from the power lines, and as near right angles to them as possible. Also, raise the aerial above their height, if possible. Although the interference may not be completely overcome, it will generally be greatly reduced. Do not cross an aerial over or under power lines, as serious damage or inquiry may result if they come in contact with each other.

Ed.—Mr. Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans. If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr. Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

PLAN TO RETURN WAR-TIME FLAG OF HINDENBURG

Famous Colors in Possession of French Since the World War.

FRIENDLY GESTURE

(Central Press Canadian.)

PARIS, February 3. — Will the French return the captured flag of the Third Regiment of the Prussian Guard, a regiment formerly commanded by Marshal von Hindenburg himself? The Anciens Combattants, an organization corresponding to the Canadian Legion, say the French will and should.

Meanwhile, the interference of politicians has brought the whole story to light, revealing a touching streak of sentiment in the character of the 84-year-old President of the German Republic.

The flag itself, the return of which has been requested by Hindenburg through diplomatic channels, was found, after the Armistice wrapped around the body of a German soldier who, it is thought died at the engagement that took place at St. Leonard, near Rheims, on September 26, 1914.

Concealed the Flag.

Falling mortally wounded, this standard-bearer obviously detached the silk emblem from the staff and concealed the flag in his uniform. Artillery fire, evidently buried him where he lay.

When the body and the flag were dug up after the hostilities ceased in 1918, the flag was taken, as a war trophy, to Paris, and installed, along with the Napoleonic relics, in the Invalides, the French war museum. There is no question that the French have a right to it but, on the other hand, members of the Third Regiment of the Prussian Guards, and Marshal von Hindenburg himself, would like to have it back so that, in honoring the flag, honor may be appropriately paid to the soldier who, in dying, saved it as a last act of devotion to his country.

To this feeling former French soldiers, who have an almost unanimous respect for the famous German Marshal as a soldier and a man, are paying great deference, and bringng great pressure to bear on the government to return the flag as a gesture worthy of the name and fame of the great German who fought them and the humble soldied who died as a soldier should.

A Noble Act.

The feeling entertained by the Anciens Combattants has been well expressed by Maurice Guillaume in an article in Paris Midi:

"We have never under-estimated the valor of our former enemies," he writes. "Nor have they underestimated us. Our war records of all time hold many instances of chivalrous acts on the part of our adversaries. It would be a noble act, worthy of the best military traditions on both sides, to return that flag. To return that flag, to take it from the Invalides, and replace it in the cabinet of Marshal von Hindenburg, would be something worth doing."

George Bousfield Accidentally Shot While Out Hunting

Rifle Discharges While Getting Over Fence.

WILL BE NO INQUEST.

Passes Away While Being Taken To The Hospital.

George Bousfield, 15, youngest son of the Rev. and Mrs. G. J. Bousfield was the victim of a fatal shooting accident near Nassau on Saturday afternoon. Mortally wounded in the abdomen, when the .22 rifle he was carrying accidentally discharged as he was climbing a rail fence, the stricken boy died as he was being rushed to hospital.

The tragedy has caused a widespread feeling of sympathy for the bereaved family, and reference to the loss sustained by the Rev. and Mrs. Bousfield was made from the pulpit of several city churches on Sunday. The Rev. Bousfield is rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church.

It was only last summer that Hector, the eldest brother of the dead boy lost the sight of an eye as a result of an accident while on a camping trip. His other brother Gerald, is in the merchant service aboard one of the Canadian National Steamships.

It is learned that George in company with John Hepburn, 15, had set out from home early in the afternoon, and had skated on the Trent Canal to Nassau. Each of the boys carried a .22 rifle, in anticipation of some rabbit shooting on a ramble through the fields and woods. The fatality occurred on what is known as the Bell property situated at lot 5, concession 10, Douro township, owned by Walter Garbutt.

Young Hepburn had climbed the fence first and was proceeding across the field when he heard the report of a rifle. Turning around he was horrified to see that his companion had been shot, in attempting to get over the fence. Although mortally wounded, the plucky boy, it is stated, got to his feet and tried to walk for aid. He staggered a distance of about thirty feet or so, before collapsing.

Shouting for help as he ran, Hepburn sped across the fields in the

NATIONAL FARM STRIKE LOOMING

Only Preventative is Immediate Relief Says Association Leader.

LOOK TO ROOSEVELT.

DES MOINES, Feb. 6 (A.P.)— A threat that a national farm strike would be called by the Farmers' Holiday Association unless immediate legislation for the relief of agriculture followed the inauguration of President-elect Roosevelt on March 4, was voiced by Milo Reno, of Des Moines, President of the organization.

Reno, in his statement, went so far as to declare the strike was already being organized in several States. He said it would occur quickly and that "the public won't know until it happens."

Meanwhile, just across the Iowa State line in South Dakota the serious condition of a milk producer, shot during a gun fight over the delivery of milk to Sioux City, Ia., led officials to prepare to-day to serve warrants on more than a score of persons.

The wounded man, who hospital authorities said would probably not recover was R. D. Markell. He was shot last Friday as pickets attempted to block South Dakota milk.

DR. F. G. BANTING IS 15TH IN LIST U. S. IMMORTALS

Name Not Defintely Mentioned But Medical Circles Grant Him Honor.

INSULIN DISCOVERER.

Woodrow Wilson, William E. Boarah Head Group of 50 Compiled by Historian.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—Dr. Frederick Grant Banting stands fifteenth in line as one of the fifty "American immortals" sure of a place in the 1932 histories of the United States.

The Canadian discoverer of insulin was vaguely listed with the other 49 by Dr. David S. Muzzey, professor of American History at Columbia University, Saturday.

The fifteenth "immortal," Dr. Muzzey said, would be the person to whom chief credit is awarded for the discovery of insulin.

Although Dr. Muzzey does not mention the name of Dr. Banting, medical circles in Toronto last night agreed that he stood first in the group responsible for the discovery of insulin. Though the Nobel award was divided between Dr. Banting and Prof. J. J. R. McLeod, it was to Dr. Banting that the Canadian Government made its grant of grateful recognition. The Nobel award was later split four ways, Dr Banting dividing his share with Dr. C. H. Best, and Prof. McLeod sharing with Dr. J. B. Collip.

One Other Canadian

The only other Canadian on the list of great Americans is James J Hill, who went from an Ontario farm to become the great railroad magnate of the Middle West.

Professor Muzzey's other 49 "immortals" follows: Woodrow Wilson, William E. Borah, Charles E. Hughes, Oliver W. Holmes, Louis D. Brandeis, Herbert Hoover, Morris Sheppard, Henry Cabot Lodge, George W. Norris, Andrew W. Mellon, William J. Bryan, Newton D. Baker, Gen. Leonard Wood, Elihu Root, Alfred E. Smith, Charles G. FAST PACE SET BY INDUSTRY IN PALESTINE Arabia and Soviet Russia Are Increasing Their Purchases.

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
(Copyright)

JERUSALEM, Jan. 14. — Before the war Palestine was a backwater in the world's economic stream. No manufacturer looking for markets turned his eyes to this country, inhabited as it was by poverty stricken fellahin and nomad Beduins whose entire needs could have been budgeted for by a few dollars. No merchant seeking better trade routes whereon to bring goods more rapidly to his customers gave so much as a glance in this direction. And certainly no banker desirous of finding new fields for the profitable investment of surplus capital ever dreamed of the wastes of Palestine to the industrialist and the business man meant nothing and led nowhere.

Pierre van Paassen

A few short years, and the backwater has become a main stream bearing much traffic. The population has changed from an isolated, decaying community to one in the forefront of civilization with highly developed needs. The certain future draws the trained eyes of financiers to the financial opportunities now evident.

Volumes have been dritten on the romantic episode of the new Palestine's growth. The story can be told in figures as well as in verse. It demands the attention not only of the dreamer but of the hardest-headed business man or the most efficient efficiency expert.

BLAZE ON LINER DOUSED BY CREW

Steamer Standing By and Coast Patrol Boat Called Are Unneeded.

FIFTY-FIVE ABOARD.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Feb. 6. — (C.P.).—Fire which broke out on the deck of the Furness liner, Pacific Shipper, was brought under control at 8.30 a.m. to-day, the coastguard wireless station here reported. The ship was 12 miles off Coos Head, north of Marshfield, Ore.

The crew battled the flames for several hours while distress calls were sent to ship and shore stations. The steamer Charles L. Wheeler stood by until danger was past after a fast run to the position.

A coastguard power boat from Marshfield sped to the scene and the lookout at Coos Head reported an hour later than the fire had been brought under control.

Shipping authorities said the Pacific Shipper had a crew of about 55, commanded by Captain H. Fairclough, and that although equipped to carry passengers, was believed to have none on board. It is a vessel of 3,850 tons net.

RADIO LICENSE RULING IS SET TO BE APPEALED

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.— (C.P.)— The decision of Magistrate W. A. Smith of Windsor, Ont., supporting the refusal of Archie F. Gignac, solicitor for Sandwich West township, to pay a radio set license fee, will be appealed to a division court, it was learned at the Department of Marine to-day. It was not known here when the case would be proceeded with.

Mr. Gignac's refusal to pay the $2 license fee was in the nature of a test case to try the validity of the law governing the collection of such fees. Magistrate Smith commented that the law was faulty and would have to be re-drafted.

Two boys, one carrying a rifle, were seized and admitted the shooting. "Why," said one, "we came out into the country to be sure we wouldn't hit anyone."

REID WILL HANG ON FEBRUARY 10 DISMISS APPEAL

Henry Walter Reid Fails in His Appeal at Osgoode Hall.

TWO JUDGES DISSENTED.

J. A. O'Brien Will Likely Take Appeal to Minister of Justice.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—(CP)—Henry Reid, sentenced to hang Feb. 10 for the murder of Harry Thomas in a Peterboroughout boathouse, failed in his appeal and the conviction for murder stands, Chief Justice F. R. Latchford announced late this afternoon. The judgment was a minority one, however, Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton dissenting and it is understood Mr. Justice James Magee also dissents although his written reasons are not ready.

Mr. Justice Latchford stated accused had to satisfy the onus cast on him by law, and went on to say that on careful consideration of the whole case he could not help but think all details of the killing had not been revealed to the court. Had they been, the proper verdict might have been manslaughter he said.

Thomas was stabbed by a bread knife in the hands of Reid, who claimed Thomas had attempted to attack him after he refused to assist in a planned holdup.

PLANE DEBRIS FOUND IN BUSH 2 FLIERS DEAD

Discovery in Mackenzie River Country Made Week After Disappearance.

VICTIMS WIDELY KNOWN.

Snowstorm Believed to Have Caused Crash—Fire Completed Tragedy.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—A plane in which Pilot Paul B. Calder and Air Engineer Will B. Nadin, two of the most popular and efficient employees of Canadian Airways, Limited, lost their lives last week was destroyed by fire when it crashed ninety miles north of Fort Rae, in the far north Mackenzie River country, Wilfred C. Sigerson, Comptroller and Acting General Manager of Canadian Airways, announced here last night.

Missing Since Jan. 31

Mr. Sigerson, who received an account of the tragedy by long-distance telephone last night, stated that Calder and Nadin left Fort Rae, but never reached their destination. A search was made by Pilot W. R. "Wop" May, one of Canada's greatest airmen, who discovered the missing plane Saturday. It had crashed and been destroyed by fire. Near by were the men's bodies. No cause of the accident could be given, though it was reported that a severe snowstorm occurred at Fort Rae an hour after the two men departed, and it is believed they lost their bearings.

Mr. Sigerson expressed extreme regret at the death of "two such fine men and faithful employees of the company," and also sympathy for their widows.

Calder saw service in France and was engaged in extensive survey operations with the Royal Canadian Air Force, particularly in British Columbia. He joined Western Canada Airways in 1926, and took part in a large photographic survey of the Peace River outlet for the Canadian Pacific Railway, some 30,000 photographs being taken in the preparation of a map.

He knew the Rockies very well between the Peace River and Prince George and also did considerable flying the air mail between Calgary and Edmonton until the operations were terminated, and then was transferred to the "bush" division of Canadian Airways, Western Lines. He is married, his wife and four young sons living at Edmonton.

Will Nadin was trained with the Royal Air force, and joined Canadian Airways on coming to this country. He was acknowledged to be a clever air engineer and was stationed for some time at Prince Albert, Sask., until the establishment of the prairie air mail service, then proceeding to North Battleford. He also was married, his wife having moved to Fort McMurray, the southern terminus of the Mackenzie River air service maintained by Canadian Airways.

GREAT BRITISH FLIGHTS BEGUN

Air Force Fliers Aiming at 6,000 Miles Non-stop Report Over Mediterranean.

MOLLISON IN BACELONA.

(By the Canadian Press)

Two more great British air flights got under way Monday, Captain James Mollison winging his way to South America and a pair of Royal Air Force officers getting away on the long-planned attempt to capture the world's distance record.

Captain Mollison, distinguished aviator who made the only solo westward crossing of the North Atlantic last Summer, arrived in Spain early this morning and from there he will essay the 3,000 mile ocean flight.

Squadron Leader Gayford and Flight-Lieut. Nicholetts took their big monoplane into the air and hours later reported they were travelling smoothly and steadily over the Mediterranean. They hope to travel 6,000 miles—1,000 more than the present record held by the United States—before descending.

Board Of Health To Cut Estimates $1,500 For Year

Special Meeting Of Board Of Health Called To Straighten Out Few Matters In Connection With The Isolation Hospital.

MISS PRICE FOUND ABSENT FROM HOSPITAL WHEN MEMBERS OF THE BOARD PAID VISIT.

Chairman Is Told By Matron That Board Is Not In Control Of Hospital And She Will Only Take Orders From Dr. Young, The M.O.H.

All frills and "leaks" in connection with the operation of the Isolation Hospital are going to be dispensed with this year and the appropriation for the hospital will be reduced by $1,500 permitting a total expenditure of $4,000 was the statement made today by Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman of the Board of Health, at a special meeting of the Board. According to Chairman Stocker the meeting was called "for the purpose of straightening out a few matters in connection with the Isolation Hospital."

"We must cut out all these loop holes", declared Chairman Stocker in announcing his policy of slashing expenses in the operation of the hospital.

"What if we need special nurses?" demured Dr. T. W. H. Young, city M.O.H. and superintendent of the hospital.

"If you need special nurses, we'll get them. The hospital will be run properly but the expenses are going to be cut down," retorted Chairman Stocker.

Studied Health Act

It became apparent at the outset of the meeting that its main purpose was to inform Dr. Young that the Board of Health intended to take a more important part in the management of the Isolation Hospital. Again and again the Public Health Act was studied to learn just what power the Board had in the management of the hospital and that part of the hospital's administration that lay wholly in the hands of the superintendent.

As compared with past meetings of the Board at which Alderman Stocker and Dr. Young have crossed swords, the conclave was very peaceful. There were no hot words bandied about although it was ev-

CROWD PRESENT AS COURT OPENS

Justice Sedgewick Suggests Grand Jury Inquire Into Handling of Relief.

START CIVIL CASE.

The murder trial in which Edward Jackson, powerful mulatto, is accused of killing his Negro companion, Eugene Lee, excited such widespread interest that long before the time scheduled for the opening of the Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario this afternoon, the court-room was packed to capacity. Many people were turned away.

Richard Barnes, first cousin of the victim of the shooting tragedy, and who recently journeyed from Kentucky to be present at the trial, was seated among the spectators in the body of the court. He bears a striking resemblance to his uncle, who fell mortally wounded on the back doorstep at the Salter home on the 9th Line of Dummer Township in face of a fusillade of bullets fired, it is alleged, by the accused. The shooting occurred on the evening of October 17th, and severed a strange partnership between the two colored men.

Mr. Justice Sedgewick is the presiding trial judge, and when he took his seat on the bench this afternoon, a large representation of the bar were present in court, including J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.P.P., F. D. Kerr, K.C., Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Alex. Elliott, John Corkery and J. W. Stevenson.

Thomas F. Battle, K.C., of Toronto, is the special Crown prosecutor. He is being assisted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

"I am glad to see that the list of criminal matters at this Assize is not a large one, although the crimes to be considered by you are serious ones," said His Lordship in his address to the Grand Jury.

He believed that in a time of depression like the present, when there was so much distress and want, it was a matter of extreme gratification that the criminal dockets generally were not so large as in normal times. It was, he thought, indicative of a "backbone

High Commissioner Claims Man Appointed Was His Own Choice and Suggestion.

LONDON, February 6 (C. P. Cable). — From the bed to which he is confined by a severe cold Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom ,to-day issued through the Canadian Press vigorous denial of implication in a special cable from Ottawa to the Manchester Guardian, which he characterized as "a determined effort to make trouble." The article, Mr. Ferguson said, purported to reveal dissensions between Prime Minister R. B. Bennett an dhimself.

The Manchester Guardian's cable, published to-day, referred to the fact that Mr. Ferguson was not appointed to the Canadian section of the Intra-Empire Consultative Committee which will meet at Canada House shortly to consider ways of facilitating intra-Empire consultation, and ways of furthering Empire trade.

Emphatic Denial.

JAPS MASSING OUTSIDE JEHOL

Confident Chinese Defenders Will Retreat After First Blow.

DRIVE END OF MONTH.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, February 6 (C.P.). — Big Japanese concentrations at all strategic points along the eastern border of the Chinese administrated territory of Jehol continued to-day. It was impossible to conceal the activities although orders were being kept secret.

The Japanese military leaders were confident the Chinese forces massing for defence of the province will retreat rapidly after the first heavy blow. While movements were speeded up, the authorities insisted the drive to bring Jehol under domination of the Manchukuo Government would not start until late in February or early March.

Tang-Yu-Lin, who was installed as Governor of Jehol in 1928, under a special administration subject to Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, North China military ruler, appears definitely committed to follow his old leader. Japanese efforts to persuade the Chinese to surrender the province apparently have failed.

P. D. ROSS SUED BY W. T. PRESTON ASKING $20,000

Seeks Damages for Alleged Libel in "Retrospects of a Newspaper Person."

4TH SUIT IN 30 YEARS.

Plaintiff Now in His Eighties Claims Case Has No Parallel in English Jurisprudence.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—(CP)—Action for $20,000 damages began today by W. T. R. Preston, of Port Hope, once Ontario Liberal organizer and later Canadian Commissioner of Immigration, against P. D. Ross, publisher of the Ottawa Journal, and the Oxford University Press.

Mr. Preston seeks damages for libel which he alleges was contained in a book, "Retrospects of a Newspaper Person," written by Mr. Ross and published by the Oxford university press. The plaintiff says the book contains "false and malicious" statements.

According to his statement of claim, Mr. Preston contends that Mr Ross' words were "meant to suggest that he was guilty of misconduct as a civil servant, and that he condoned and approved of corrupt methods in the by-election." (West Elgin by-election of 1899.)

Accurate Reports

In his defence, Mr. Ross pleads that in some cases the excerpts referred to are accurate reports of judicial proceedings, while others are statements of fact or fair comment on matters of public concern and interest, which have not the meaning the plaintiff suggests.

The suit is being tried before Mr. Justice F. Kerwin and a special jury. D. L. McCarthy, K.C.; G. F. Sullivan and George F. Henderson, K.C., of Ottawa, are counsel for Mr Ross, while Mr. Preston is conducting his own case.

In his opening address, Mr. Preston said the basis of the case was laid 50 years ago, and that in the course of 30 years there have been three suits, "this, the fourth, the culminating one."

Has No Parallel.

"There is no parallel," he said, "in English jurisprudence for a case of this sort. These suits, all against the one defendant, began in my fifties, went on in my sixties into my seventies, and now in my eighties I have another. I shall endeavor to prove that malice on the part of one of the defendants has continued all these years."

Mr. Preston read excepts which he held to be libellous, and in outlining his own career in the public service declared exhibition of a "pugnacious, jealous and vindictive temper," as suggested in Mr. Ross' book would have disqualified him from giving the service he had given.

References in Mr. Ross' book to statements made in a previous libel suit by Mr. Justice Middleton were incorrect, Mr. Preston maintained.

Certain passages in the book describing the trial of the same suit he described as "romance."

CREW MUTINIES SEIZES GUNBOAT STEAMS TO SEA

Dutch Commander, Left Ashore, Pursues in Government Craft.

SAILORS IN UGLY MOOD.

Action Laid to Salary Cut—Officials Believe Ship Will be Beached.

BATAVIA, Java, Feb. 6. — Between Borneo and Papua early today there was being enacted a tale such as Joseph Conrad would have liked—a tale of a heavily armed cruiser in the hands of a mutinous crew, pursued by their commander.

Native Sumatran sailors, angered because their pay was cut, overpowered nine officers of the De Zeven Provincien, seized the ship while the commander was ashore, and put out to sea.

Where the vessel was to-day was not known definitely. It was somewhere in the Celebes Sea, however, plowing the waves in a mad effort to elude the Government steamer Aldebaran, with the Zeven's commander, ten naval officers of the main East Indies squadron, and several sub-officers aboard.

The cruiser, built in 1909, is armored by guns made by the famous German firm of Krupp. Its decks bristle with two 11-inch guns, four 5.9 guns, ten 13-pounders, and two machine guns.

Against such an armament, the pursuing ship will have little chance if the mutineers start fighting. That the Sumatrans are in no pleasant mood was indicated by the report of one of her officers, who escaped after the Zeven had put out to sea.

Officers Overpowered.

He said the officers aboard had been forced to surrender at the point of rifles. The mutinous sailors had armed themselves from stores kept in chests on the deck in case of emergency.

The Commander-in-Chief, who, with the main East Indies squadron, continued an attempt to intercept the fleeing vessel, has a long trip in store, it was believed here.

(The squadron was cruising south of Celebes Island, 1,800 miles from Harbor Oleleh in Sumatra, where the Zeven was seized at 2 a.m. Sunday).

The commander immediately made northward, communicating constantly for information and with orders. Meanwhile all governmental and civil and military posts were ordered to keep a sharp watch for the vessel.

The assumption was that the men now in charge of the Zeven are likely to run the ship ashore, where they will have a chance of landing and escape inland.

Last Monday the men mutinied on the cruiser and on some destroyers of the fleet. The crews refused to obey orders. Three days ago 430 native seamen mutinied and were arrested.

Interesting Photos Of New German Chancellor

HITLER STRIVES DISSOLVE DIET

Begins Drive for Power With Further Drastic Press Restrictions.

ELECTION MARCH 5.

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (C.P.). — Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Cabinet rallied judicial support for a last effort to-day to dissolve the Prussian diet.

Vice-Chancellor Franz Von Papen had cast the deciding vote, under his extraordinary powers as Commissioner for Prussia, at a meeting with Hans Kerrl, the president of the largest State's Parliamentary body, and Herr Audenauer, president of the State's council. The Vice-Chancellor would usurp the powers of Premier Otto Braun in the ruling triumvirate and cast the deciding vote with Kerrl, who is a Hitlerite.

The Hitler Cabinet already has called for new elections for the Reichstag on March 5 and new elections for tens of thousands of City Council posts in Prussia on March 12, but it has hesitated in according similar treatment to the Diet. Premier Braun was expected to appeal to the Supreme Court if the Vice-Chancellor took his vote away from him.

President Paul Von Hindenburg apparently has not been consulted as Hitler and his Nationalist colleagues consulted authorities on whether they could force new Diet elections.

Chancellor Hitler began his second week in power to-day by issuing, with the President's permission, new and drastic press restrictions. The Federal German press Association has protested vigorously but to no avail.

The restrictions give the Government what is described as "absolute means of effectively safeguarding its authority and the carrying out of its constructive work."

The Quebec Government has erected 1257 bridges in the province since 1908 at a cost of over fifteen million dollars.

FRED DODD IS APPOINTED TO HEAD BRIGADE

Chosen By Hastings Councillors as Fire Chief in Place of William Wellman.

Killingbeck Re-appointed

HASTINGS, Feb. 6. (Examiner Correspondence). — The regular monthly meeting of the village council was held on Friday night in the council chambers with a large number of ratepayers present. Reeve G. B. Stevenson was in the chair with Councillors Fleming, Hatherly, Fairman and Doherty present.

The appointing of a fire chief was one of the main items of the council. William Wellman was chief since the Fall of 1928. At the inaugural session in January F. Dodd put in his application, the matter was left over until Friday night when Mr. Dodd received the position at the same salary as William Wellman, namely $35 a year and free 'phone. Fire Chief Wellman was present at the meeting and after his dismissal there was considerable discussion as to him having 30 days' notice. He wanted two months' salary and it was granted.

Constable Killingbeck was again appointed at a salary of $20 a month. Thomas Kirk had his application in salary to be fixed by the council and J. H. Calberry applied at $15 a month.

R. N. Simpson was re-engaged as assessor at $35 a year, a reduction of $5. R. C. Doxsee applied for the position as assistant to the assessor to act as a valuator; this the council decided was not necessary.

Accounts Paid

The following accounts were read: Wm. Boyle, town hall, $1; C.N.R. watchman, (December), $16.67; Lena Metcalfe, Cedar Street

2 FLIERS BEGIN NON-STOP FLIGHT

Royal Air Force Men Head for South Africa to Beat Boardman Record.

USING MONOPLANE.

CRANWELL, England, Feb. 6. — (C.P.).—In an attempt to create a new world record for a long distance non-stop flight, a Royal Air Force long-distance monoplane piloted by Squadron Leader O. R. Gayford and Flight-Lieutenant G. E. Nicholetts took off at 7.15 a.m. (2.15 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) for South Africa.

Cape Town is 6,198 miles from this Lincolnshire town. To beat the present non-stop record of 5,012 miles made by Russell Boardman and John Polando, on a New York-Istanbul flight, the British pair must reach the vicinity of Zeafontein in British South-West Africa.

International aviation regulations require that the record be beaten by at least 62.14 miles.

The British fliers have a "Robot pilot," or automatic control system, in their plane, which relieves them from piloting when they desire. A short wave radio set was installed. The plane, with a 530-horsepower engine, is the same used by Squadron Leader Gayford and Flight-Lieutenant D. L. O. Oett in 1931 for the first non-stop England to Egypt flight.

$100,000 FIRE CONEY ISLAND

Blaze Sweeps Several Amusement Places Before Controlled.

JUST BEFORE DAWN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (C.P.).—Fire, persistent plague of Coney Island, struck again to-day at the famous seashore resort, riding along the boardwalk on a biting south-west gale and destroying several amusement places.

In the bleak hush two hours before dawn, and with thermometers registering 12 above zero, fire spurted from the wooden and papier mache "tunnel of love" in that section of the amusement place known as "The Dowery."

The gale picked up the fire and swept it through the ferris wheel, the kiddy park, the caterpillar ride, the motordrome—and two wooden concessions.

An accurate estimate of the damage was not immediately obtainable. A police officer at the temporary headquarters established within the fire lines placed the estimate at $100,000.

Canineicide

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(A.P.)—Patsy, all spick and span and battle-scarred for her day in court, grinned a genial canine grin as a jury decided the neighborhood dog feud in favor of her master.

Patsy had been losing one round of the feud several weeks ago when her master, Louis H. H. Northrop of Winnetka, came to her assistance and ended the fight. He had to crack next-door-neighbor's pal on the head to save Patsy, he said. Pal died of a fractured skull, and his mistress, Mrs. Albert S. Gardner, social leader, sued Northrop for $500.

The verdict was in effect justifiable canineicide.

The court took cognizance of the fact that in a long series of battles with Pal, Patsy had lost an eye and leg bites which caused partial paralysis.

COMMUNISM IS ATHEISM, SAYS ARMY OFFICER

Envoy D. Shankland of Toronto to Lectures at Campbellford on "Jesus or Paganism."

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 6 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The opening of a ten-day revival campaign by the Salvation Army in Campbellford was featured yesterday afternoon when Envoy D. Shankland of Toronto delivered a public lecture at the Hollywood Theatre on the subject of "Jesus or Paganism." Major H. N. Carr of Campbellford presided over the service, which was arranged for by Captain N. Pedlar. Prayer was led by C. L. Kellogy representing the Free Methodist Church; a vote of thanks to the speaker being given by Major J. M. Bygott. Two vocal numbers were included in the program: Miss Mae Bell singing in a rich contralto, "I Shall Not Pass This Way," and E. H. Lewis rendering "My Task." The accompaniments were played by Mrs. Gwen E. Lewis.

In a splendid address Envoy Shankland deplored the forces that to-day were tending to draw people from God; the three prominent ones of which were the teachings of Communism from the Russian Soviet; the world wide athiest movement, and the teaching of modernism by gospel preachers. Paganism, he said, was the worship of false gods and although to-day there were many people clinging to Jesus Christ yet many of the nominal Christians were swayed by false doctrines and beliefs. One of the reasons for this was the rapid advance of a false spirit among men during a time of world suffering and depression. People knew there was just as much wealth in the world to-day as ever, but this was cloistered together in places where it could not be reached by the masses with the result that the men who want money to buy bread find the channel through which they should be able to obtain it, employment blocked to them, and then in their uncertain state they become the prey of men preaching strange theories and beliefs.

Communism

The first of these adverse influences came from the Russian Soviet in the form of Communism, and this, said the speaker, was very prevalent in Canada, there being many people in Toronto who wished they were in Russia, and, he declared, many in Russia who wished they were out of the country. It was true that there were plenty of good people in that country who had honest motives in this strange theory of Utopia, but there were those in office who were after power and the control of the country, who when the peiple fol-direction of Mr. Garbutt's farm home. At work in the barn Mr. Garbutt heard the cries for assistance, and hastened out to render what aid he could. Meanwhile other members of Mr. Garbutt's family telephoned to the Standard Medical and Surgical Clinic for a doctor.

"The boy was conscious when I reached him," Mr. Garbutt told The Examiner, "and the only words he uttered were 'I am done'."

Realising the urgency of the situation Mr. Garbutt, aided by Hepburn, got the wounded boy into his car, and started off with the intention of rushing him to hospital. The car was met at Nassau Bridge by Dr. G. Murray Fraser, who found that the boy had already succumbed to his injuries.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young investigated and decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

George Bousfield was one of the most popular pupils at King George Public School, and this morning when the classes re-assembled for study Principal F. E. Kerr had a touching reference to make of his sudden and tragic passing. It is expected that the entrance class, of which George Bousfield was a member, will attend the funeral services on Tuesday morning in a body, the principal of the school said. It was also probable that the pupils of the junior fourth class would also be at the services.

Following the services at St. Luke's Church at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning, the cortege will proceed to Collingwood where interment of the remains are to be made. Among the clergy taking part in the funeral services will be Venerable Archdeacon R. C. Blagrave, D.D., rector of St. John's Church; Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, rector of All Saints' Church; Rev. J. L. Hughes, rector of St. George's Church, and Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton of Norwood.

Campbellford Man Falls Through Ice

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 6 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Breaking through the ice above the Campbellford lock on Saturday, Percy Brown took an icy plunge into the Trent River, and although a strong swimmer, had to be helped out by many ready hands.

Brown, with a party of men, was cutting ice north of the town for a local tradesman, when the ice upon which he was standing caved in, throwing him into the water. He later returned to work, however, none the worse for his plunge.

4,000 FARMERS DIE BY SUICIDE

Chinese Reports Say Besieged Force Preferred Death to Capture by Reds.

WOMEN ESCAPE.

SHANGHAI, China, February 6 (C.P.). — An apparently extravagant story of how 4,000 Chinese farmers committed suicide rather than fall captive to Communists in the southern interior Province of Kiangsi constituted to-day's sensation in the Chinese newspapers.

The papers declared the tragedy occurred in a village near Ningtu, South-east Kiangsi, in the heart of the Chinese Soviet district. The Reds were reported to have besieged the villagers for many months. When it appeared the former would soon gain entrance, the farmers were said to have ended their lives.

The women and children, the stories said, had been sent to safety before the siege started. The farmers' food stores were reported replenished by airplanes which flew over the village, dropping food and salt.

Communists were said to have blocked the farmers' water supply, writing their doom. The defeated forces were said to have taken their lives because they feared they would be subjected to tortures at the hands of the Reds.

PIECED PATCHWORK QUILTS were favorites with old-time quilt-makers, because it is this kind of patchwork that is economical.

* * * * * * *

In early settler days women were experts in thrift. By seaming together stout bits of discarded garments, a second textile was constructed without any cost. But this thrift was not enough for these expert workers.

* * * * * * *

Beauty must be expressed in the combnations of colors, and shapes must contribute to pattern. So it was that quilts of rare loveliness were wrested from scrap bags, and quilts cost nothing but the thread and linings.

* * * * * * *

In this era, when families have to make the most of everything they possess, and spend the smallest amounts for sustenance, homemakers do well to emulate these early settlers, and turn what would otherwise be waste textiles into handsome and warm bed covering.

* * * * * * *

It is well to remember that a quilt for which a foundation material has to be bought as a background on which to sew pieces cut into elements of design, is not essentially economical.

* * * * * * *

Applique patchwork quilts belong to ths class, which does not stress economy. Pieced patchwork is the economical kind.

* * * * * * *

The Examiner Fashion Department has a large number of patchwork quilt patterns to offer, some of which are very attractive indeed.

* * * * * * *

The patterns are simple and very easy to follow, and cost only 15 cents each.

* * * * * * *

Every homemaker in Peterborough who likes sewing, and who has any time to spare will delight in making several of these charming patchwork quilts, which were so popular in the days of our grandmothers.

* * * * * * *

I am told that it is indeed fashionable to start this work again, so to be in the fashion, start making your patchwork quilt right away.

* * * * * * *

There will be individuality in these quilts, since no two can be alike. Each quiltmaker will instill her own artistic personality into the quilt she makes, as did the old-time quiltmaker.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

SEVERAL of the better-known hair specialists in this country say that some day women will wash their hair as often as they do their bodies. These specialists maintain that since the hair filaments are merely an extension of the cuticle, they should be cleansed just as frequently.

The frequency with which hair should be shampooed always has been a debatable topic. There are some hair specialists who maintain that, frequent shampooing is likely to prove detrimental to the hair, rather than beneficial. Humans, they claim, are land animals, not water animals. And hair, which is human fur, has not the power to endure too frequent drenchings.

Personally, however, I have always found that the best criteron for the average woman is to shampoo her hair whenever it becomes dirty. A dirty scalp is extremely detrimental to hair health and loveliness. Dust, dirt and the excretions of the oil and perspiratory glands all accumulate on the scalp. If these accumulations are not removed, they grow rancid. Their poisonous acids tend to destroy the health of the scalp and hair. And the accumulations themselves clog the pores of the scalp and upset their normal action.

The problem of how often hair should be shampooed is an individual one, of course. Some women have dry hair and others have oily hair. And oily hair grows soiled much more quickly than dry, for the oily secretions tend to attract and retain dust particles. Then, too, hair grows dirty quicker in grime-laden city air than it does in the purer air of the country. And it also becomes soiled more speedily in summer than in winter, because of the increased perspiration that moistens the scalp.

Generally, a normal scalp needs shampooing only every ten days or so. The dry scalp, of course, must not be shampooed too often, as its dryness may thus be increased. Once every two or three weeks should be sufficient for dry hair. Oily hair, however, can stand a good number of shampoos, and even a weekly cleansing is not too much for such hair. Let the frequency of your shampoos depend upon the condition of your own hair. But make sure that you keep your hair and scalp in clean, fresh condition always.

NO TRUMP LEAD CHARACTERISTICS

The principal differences between trump and no trump blind leads are these; against trump calls you conserve your quick tricks, as you seldom can hope to win others; you avoid leading away from suits headed by single honors or ten-aces; at no trumps you open your longest and strongest suit, whether it is headed by tenaces or single high honors; you reserve high side honors to gain entry and continue leading your longest suit. The hand below illustrates one of the important lesser features of no trump procedure. When you hold two suits of the same length and approximately equal strength, reserve the suit headed by the higher card of re-entry, and lead the other suit.

Z played the hand at 3-No Trumps. A led his fourth-best spade. B played the J. The declarer's K won the trick. Z's clubs were established, so he felt that he must establish diamonds before running off clubs. He led the 3 of diamonds. Dummy's K drew out B's Ace. The latter led his Q of spades. A overtook the Q with his Ace of spades, and led back a low spade, depending upon his Q of hearts for re-entry. The declarer's 10 won the trick.

The declarer added to the two spade tricks already won, three diamonds, four clubs and the Ace of hearts. Z's side won ten tricks total, giving the adversaries only one spade trick, one diamond trick and one heart trick.

How different it would have been had A opened his right suit—hearts. Having a second possible stop to hearts, Z would have won over B's K with the Ace. When the declarer led diamonds, B's Ace would have won. B would have led back his 10 of hearts, and Z would have ducked, hoping that B held no more of the suit, and that B held the missing Ace of spades, but the 4 of hearts would have followed, and A's Q would have picked up Z's J, giving the adversaries four hearts, one diamond and one spade trick, and defeating the game contract by two tricks, instead of letting the declaring side win one trick over contract.

Of course part of the added efficiency of the heart lead over that of the spade, is due to the fact that Z can stop hearts only once, while he has two stops in spades the way it was played, but in general the opening lead of a suit having a lower top card, reserving the suit with the higher top card for re-entry, will save at least one trick for the defenders.

Buttons Down Front

THE SEPARATE SKIRT and sweater for sports, aye and for business and school wear, is an exceedingly wearable ensemble, and smart withal.

The buttoned-down-the-front styling of this pebbly weave skirt is attractive, with its restrained flarings which are loosed to flare at the bottom. Bottle green, Chanel red, dark brown or black wool crepe are good choices for this skirt.

The sweater is a novelty knit with ribbon trimmings and is pretty in white, pearl-beige or Brittany-blue.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

THE PARTICULAR danger of winter to children is the development of rickets. Rickets is a disturbance of the deposit of calcium in the bones and teeth, and if allowed to continue, will result in very serious bone deformities.

The cause of this calcium disturbance is not so much the lack of calcium in the body as lack of a substance in the food known as "Vitamin D", which appears to act by influencing the deposit of calcium in the proper structures. Vitamin D is formed in the body through the action of sunlight on the skin. How the sunlight acts we do not know, but we do know that sunlight makes many chemical changes in nature as, for instance, on a photographic plate, or in producing the green substance, chlorophyll, in plants.

Vitamin D, which is produced by sunlight in the skin, is carried by the blood to the liver and there deposited.

Certain animals have the ability to store this Vitamin D in the liver to a greater extent than others. Of all animals, the ones which store the largest amount, are the fish. Up to within very recent times the liver of the cod was the one which was usually used and which was supposed to have the largest amount, and cod liver oil will always be used because it is a very certain preventive of rickets. However lately it has been discovered that certain other fish store Vitamin D in the liver almost as much as the cod.

One of these is the halibut, and halibut oil can now be obtained in the form of a substance called "haliver." It contains Vitamin D, though not in such large quantities as cod liver, but it contains a very large amount of Vitamin A.

The latest addition is salmon liver oil, and it has been found by various investigators that salmon liver has nearly twice as much Vitamin D as cod liver. This fact has important economical implications, because up to the present time salmon liver was practically a waste in the salmon canning industry. The fact that this waste can be converted into a useful product should make the price of these fish oils, which are used to prevent rickets, within the reach of everyone.

Even a small amount of one of these oils a day, given to a baby from the time it is one month old, through the action of sunlight acts is sufficient to prevent rickets.

Ankle Length Skirts Make Debut In Paris

PARIS, February 6 (C.P.).—Ankle length skirts made their debut in the 1933 style shows over the week-end, Lanvin showing formal afternoon ensembles in grey, rose, and beige crepes, with ankle-length frocks accompanied by three-quarter length coats.

Street frocks and coats in grey, green, and navy wools had skirts six to nine inches from the ground. Several of the most formal Faconne crepe evening gowns have full skirts sweeping the ground six inches in the back.

A new use was found for an outstanding feature of the collection—silver fox and monkey fur being used to encircle the armholes, giving the shoulders a very wide effect.

PARENTS SEEKING BABY THOUGHT GIVEN ACTRESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (A.P.)—Two distraught parents who gave up their five-months-old baby girl in the belief she was going to be adopted by Sue Carol, movie actress, have appealed to the District Attorney to find their child.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ris of Brooklyn said to-day they read in newspapers last November that Miss Carol wanted to adopt a child, wrote to her and were visited by a "Mrs. Reynolds." After glowing promises by the woman about the future of their baby, Evelyn Jane, and their own recompense for surrendering her, Ris said they gave their daughter to the woman.

"Mrs. Reynolds" said she would come back with some money Dec. 18, but she never arrived. Finally Miss Carol was reached and she said she knew nothing about the adoption and did not know "Mrs. Reynolds."

Has Shaped Scarf

By MME. LISBETH

To hold their place in the sun scarfs must show an inclination to adapt themselves to individual styling.

That is exactly what has been done with the neckline of this suavely cut Lyons velvet frock. The scarf, in matching fabric, is cut in unusual fashion and gives the gown distinction.

Evening gowns with square decolletages, are very smart just now.

We shall be black and blue this summer, instead of black and white. Black and navy are scheduled for colors we will all be wearing, with particular stress on black satin for daytime wear. Shadowy gray colors are expected to be abundant, also, and there's a new melon shade particularly good for sports clothes.

The winter colony has gone in for baseball in a big way this season. Reaching for a high one or chasing the ball does wonders for one's waistline.

G. H. FERGUSON DENIES SPLIT WITH BENNETT

this character, but as repetition of this story indicates a determined effort to make trouble, I feel I should give it a most emphatic denial.

"There is not a shadow of foundation for any such report," Mr. Ferguson declared. "The appointment of the Secretary of the High Commissioner's Office (Col. G. P. Vanier) to the committee referred to was made on my suggestion and on my recommendation."

The Guardian cable asserts announcement of the Canadian Government's representatives on the committee was causing comment in political quarters 'for whereas most of the Dominions nominated their High Commissioner, the Bennett ministry named Dr. O. D. Skelton, (under-secretary of state for external affairs. The Canadian Government also named Col. Vanier.)

Strained Relations

"It is realized," continues the cable, that relations between Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Bennett have been strained for some months but this is the first occasion the Commissioner has definitely passed over in a public way.

"The apparent affront is receiving the attention of the Canadian press in which many articles have appeared in recent weeks indicating strained relations between the two leaders of Canadian Conservatism. It is widely prophesied Mr. Ferguson is likely to resign and return to Ontario in order to retaliate upon Mr. Bennett"

The Manchester Guardian's correspondent suggested probably the explanation would be that Mr. Ferguson, unlike other High Commissioners in London, was not a delegate to the Imperial Conference and that it was understood in Otttawa at the time Mr. Ferguson desired to come, but Mr. Bennett declined to invite him. "This," said the Guardian cable, "occasioned comment last summer, but the affront to Mr. Ferguson then was not nearly so striking as the decision not to appoint him to the London committee."

When announcement was made last week of the Canadian representatives to the London committee it was also stated the committee would hold its sessions in Canada House and that the deliberations would be opened by an address from Mr. Ferguson.

Jinx Haunting North Atlantic Ship Lanes

HALIFAX, Feb. 6 (C.P.)—A jinx that has haunted the North Atlantic shipping lanes all winter had another vessel in distress for a short time to-day—the 2,371-ton Hungarian freighter Puszta, bound for Providence, R.I.

Messages received here to-day stated the Puszta was helpless 315 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, with her steering gear broken. Later she was reported repaired and not in need of assistance.

It was the Puszta's second mishap within a month. On January 9, as she lay in Amsterdam Harbor, she was damaged by fire that burned out her saloons, cabins and wireless room.

A GREAT WORK.

That the Council for Social Service of the Church of England in Canada is doing admirable work in the present unemployment crisis, the seventeenth annual report of the organization, which has just been published, offers clear proof.

This book, profusely illustrated, is a revelation of the amount of service that has been contributed under the auspices of the Council.

Beginning with work for men in the unemployment relief camps, engaged in the building of our highways, following the Council's western relief work when the prairies became a desert, touching on the church's work for the unemployed, efforts to level the hill of difficulty for British settlers, to overcome the dragons in the path of womanhood and girlhood, helping people out of trouble on the way of life, the need of making the road safer, the development of the highways and byways of Christian social service through the activity of diocesan councils for social service, co-operation with other road builders in the road of life in Canada and overseas, it concludes with emphasis on the spiritual side of social welfare work, the evangelistic note in social service and the Council's share in the work undertaken by the joint committee on the evangelization of Canadian life.

GOOD POLITICS.

Mr. Woodsworth, M.P., may be an idealist and a visionary, as some people think, but he is giving signs of being also a shrewd politician who knows the right moves to further his cause.

The introduction into Parliament of a resolution approving of the establishment of a co-operative commonwealth was a shrewd piece of political strategy designed obviously for the one purpose of giving the C.C.F. movement the advantage of a lot of cheap publicity in Canadian newspapers and in Hansard.

There never was the slightest chance of the resolution being approved, and it, of course, was not put forward in any such hope, but it provided the opportunity for Mr. Woodsworth and his lieutenants to discuss the aims and objects of the organization in some detail, happy in the knowledge that the press would put the whole matter before the people of Canada.

There was good staff work in that move, and similar sound tactics are being followed in the approach being made to farmer and labor organizations, two classes that are inclined to pull in diametrically opposite directions in many cases, but that are being shepherded into the C.C.F. party with a good deal of skill.

The old parties better not under-estimate Mr. Woodsworth; the C.C.F. leader is not above playing politics when he can see an advantage in so doing.

THE FINANCIAL OUTLOOK.

Discussing the financial situation, the Ottawa Journal says "Mr. Bennett will have to tax or borrow or do both—it is just as well for the country to face realities."

Undoubtedly the outlook is such as to cause concern.

The main estimates tabled last week totalled $358,656,488, which is but a little over six million dollars less than was asked in the main estimates a year ago.

This represents a cut of perhaps twelve millions in controllable expenditure, having regard to the fact that this year nearly five million dollars more is required for interest on the national debt and another extra million to pay provincial subsidies.

In considering national finances, it is necessary to remember that well over half of the amount required by the Government is for expenditures over which there is no control. These, as listed by the Journal, are as follows: Interest on the national debt, $130,000,000; pensions, plus other soldier services, $60,000,000, and provincial subsidies, $13,000,000; a total of $203,000,000.

In other words, government will have to be carried on with a little more than $150,000,000, which, as the Ottawa paper points out, means that controllable expenditure has been brought back somewhere near where it was in pre-war years.

The need of economy is shown by the fact that at the end of the present year there will be a deficit of at least $50,000,000 on ordinary account and another $50,000,000 will be required for the Canadian National Railways.

FLYING THE SOCIALIST FLAG.

The debate on Mr. Woodsworth's resolution proposing the establishment of a co-operative commonwealth in Canada has had at least one helpful effect, inasmuch as it has produced a public admission that the C.C.F. movement is purely and simply Socialism.

It will be remembered that newspapers, including The Examiner, which described Mr. Woodsworth's new organization as a Socialist party, found themselves accused of being unfair to the aims and objects of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and were asked to give proof of the accuracy of such a description.

In the House the other day, however, W. A. Irvine, M.P., Progressive member for Wetaskiwin and one of the leading champions in Parliament of the new social order, made no effort to disguise the fact that the C.C.F. is flying the Socialist flag.

In his contribution to the debate, Mr. Irvine wound up with these remarks:

"May I conclude by saying that the resolution moved by the honorable member for Winnipeg North Centre clearly cuts the line between Capitalism and Socialism. There is no question about that. It places the issue where it ought to be placed. The next fight in Canada will be between Socialism and Capitalism."

That speech puts the thing right out in the open; it shows that the newspapers were quite justified in describing the C.C.F. movement as Socialism and the C.C.F. party as a Socialist party.

MAY AS WELL USE THE FRONT DOOR.

A bill sponsored by Col. S. C. Robinson, Conservative member for West Essex, designed to repeal the 1930 legislation forbidding liquor exports to the United States, was on Monday given first reading in Parliament.

This bill is unlikely to become law, yet, apart from treaty obligations or other undertakings we may have with the United States, there is no reason why it shouldn't.

Because, actually, all that the 1930 legislation did was to send our liquor to the United States by a more circuitous route. By the back door instead of the front door.

Last year our liquor exports to St. Pierre and Miquelon, which have a few hundred inhabitants, were 1,616,177 gallons. The liquor went to the United States.

We shipped 134,000 gallons to Bermuda; 160,000 gallons to British Honduras; 117,000 gallons to the West Indies. Most of this was for the United States.

We shipped 252,000 gallons to French Oceania, in the Pacific; and most of this went to the United States. French Oceania never bought a gallon of liquor from us until after the 1930 legislation.

In the circumstances, the 1930 law, under which we are supposed to protect good (but sometimes thirsty) Americans from our own sumptuary habits, seems to be little more than a nice bit of make-believe, or hypocrisy. And the worst of it is costing us a lot of money.

When liquor is taken from a bonded warehouse for export, it pays the excise tax. But when those who export it supply proof that it has been exported, the tax is returned. Before 1930, when our liquor was going directly to the United States, yet not consigned there (because it couldn't be, under United States law) the exporters had to pay the excise tax, couldn't get it back. Now, however, when they are exporting to St. Pierre and Miquelon and other points, they can prove that the liquor has been received at a certain place, get the excise tax back.

The loss to the treasury has been something like $20,000,000 so far.—Ottawa Journal.

THE BURDEN OF TAXATION.

Hon. Finlay G. Macdiarmid, in an address at London, Ont., the other day, declared that addresses by Canadian bank heads revealed a note of paternalism in calling on governments to reduce taxation, and he added that "it would be better to emphasize the efforts made by the governments in the past two years to reduce expenditures than assail them."

It is very true, as Mr. Macdiarmid says, that many of our government bodies have been making a valiant attempt at cutting expenditures. He cited the case of his home township, Aldborough, where a fifteen per cent. reduction in expenditure has been made in the past two years. Other municipalities have been forced to similar action and may be compelled to curtail still further. The Elgin County Council, at its sessions last week, debated various ways of keeping expenditures down to a minimum and named a committee to make a survey of county estimates and expenditures and to report on ways and means of reducing taxation. In the provincial field the Cabinet is taking steps to reduce the costs of government, one way being to decrease the number of members of the Legislature. In the Dominion the Finance Minister is making repeated attempts to keep his budget from year to year balanced. And so on all along the line. Some governments may not be doing as much as they might; others may be doing considerable and will have to do more; and still others may just be beginning to realize the necessity of taking action. But there can be no disputing the fact that, generally speaking, our rulers are realizing the necessity of lowering the burden of taxation. Just how great a burden it is has been repeatedly set forth by many economists, prominent among these being William Sanford Evans, of Winnipeg, who has made a deep study of the situation. In recent talks and articles Mr. Evans has shown that taxation had increased from $10.94 in 1895-6 for each man woman and child in Canada to $77.08 in 1929-30 and that the per capita taxation in the latter period was two and a half times as great as in 1913-14.

There are very great obstacles in the way of governments reducing taxation. Premier Bennett, addressing the Trades and Labor Congress delegation at Ottawa the other day, admitting that Canada in the matter of Dominion, provincial and municipal taxation is "dangerously near the limit to pay additional taxes," declared that a total of $21,500,000 a month—$260,000,000 a year—had to be raised for only three federal purposes—interest on the public debt, war pensions and the Canadian National Railway deficits. The first of these is fixed, we cannot honorably do away with the second, and the public would not agree, nor would it be in the country's interests, to close up the Canadian National Railways because of its huge deficits. Discontinuance of other public services would also be protested; in fact, governments have to continually fight against obligating themselves to new expenditures, demanded by the public.

The banking heads are right—there must be continued effort to reduce the expenditures by public bodies in order to secure lower taxation, and their appeal should be taken to heart as much by the people as by those in power. Mr. Macdiarmid is right, too. There should be recognition of the efforts that ruling bodies are making to cut expenditures and keep tax rates at a point where they can be met without becoming a burden.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Fewer than 200 people have subscribed to the Relief Fund. Other citizens who are able to help should come forward promptly, for the call is indeed urgent.

As for the abolition of private profits many Canadians have reason to feel that they have already been abolished.

It might be thought that by this time bank robbers would have arrived at the conclusion that Toronto is a decidedly unhealthy spot for such activities.

The Toronto Star is wasting a lot of time and space asking farmers if they would not like to sell their cattle at double the present price. There could only be one answer to such a question. Unfortunately, however, nobody seems to have a clear idea of how the sale can be brought about.

Courteous greetings for the candidate is, of course, to wish him many happy returns.—Dallas News.

THE TUTTS By CRAWFORD YOUNG

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 35

When they had settled themselves in a taxicab after giving the driver directions to the girl's apartment, Kane waited for her to begin. But she sat in silence, gazing out the window into the star-studded night, apparently unwilling to talk.

Kane covertly watched her. Harmony Hale was a comely girl, of the typical Hollywood type, with neatly coiffured hair of raven hue, wondering brown eyes, an alluring mouth and soft features of delicate tint. She was the popular conception—in the movie paradise—o al that an ingenue should be.

The cab swirled through the streets toward Hollywood and finally drew up before a lavish apartment building on Cherokee street. He paid the far and followed her to the door of her apartment.

There she turned to him:

"Come in," curtly. "I don't want anyone to hear what I have to say."

He entered the apartment after her. It was the sort of living quarters that anyone would expect of a girl of her type. The furniture was ultra-modernistic, the accoutrements almost gaudy. Large noisy-colored pillows were on the divan, the chairs, he floor. A long-legged doll stretched out on top of a radio receiving set.

She dropped down on the divan and indicated she wanted him to sit beside her. She suggested something to drink, but he declined. Presently:

"I want to talk to you about Richard Bailey," she said suddenly.

"Yes?" querilously.

"I know him," quietly, "too well."

"I divined as much," he returned.

She turned and looked at him. A strange, fanatic light was in her eyes. He saw her hands tremble, her lips twitch nervously.

"How well do you know him?" impassionately.

"I don't know him at all," curtly. "I don't recall that I ever heard of him until Saturday night."

She shuddered. "That night!" she grimaced.

"You can trust me," he said comfortingly.

She looked at him with quizzical eyes. Then: "I wonder if I can," slowly. After a moment's uncertain hesitation she went on:

"You don't think that I could keep up an establishment like this on what I make at the studio, do you?"

He stared at her coldly. "No," and his voice was hard, "I don't."

"Of course I can't. There has to be some other income. Richard Bailey was furnishing that income. He was paying me—paying me, I tell you," her voice rose frantically, "for what he did to me. I was getting mine, just like a lot of others were—"

"What do you mean?" he snapped. "You were blackmailing him?"

"Call if that if you want," heatedly. "Call it whatever you wish. But I made it my business to see that he came across. Richard Bailey, Star Maker!" A spiteful laugh was on her lips. "I would have killed him long ago," harshly, "if I had had the nerve—and didn't need the money."

"Are you," he asked quietly, "trying to tell me that you killed Richard Bailey?"

She considered h m thoughtfully. He knew that her conscience troubled her. At least once in every person's life there comes a time when that person must talk, whether it be to friend or foe. The burden becomes too heavy to bear; there must be some relief.

That, he divined, was what preyed on the mind of this gir now. She wanted someone to talk to, someone in whom she would confide without fear of having the secrets of her soul bared to the world. She chose him, he was convinced, because he was not of her own people, because he was a stranger from a strange land to which he would return when his work was done.

She knew that he was working in a supreme effort to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of Richard Bailey. MacQuarrie had told her that. If she could help him by telling what she knew and at the same time unburdening her own mind of its tortuous thoughts—

"No," she said slowly, "I did not kill him. I wish I had. He has done enough to me."

One thing was certain. This girl knew Richard Bailey as well as any with whom he had come in contact. More than that, she was willing to talk. If he could draw from her one slight clue—just one word that would help him he would count the night a success.

He said to her, "I have seen Bailey's diary. He wrote much in the days before his death of a girl named Buddy."

"Buddy's dead," she murmured sadly. "That was Eve yn Deane."

Tha was what he had feared to hear. He had hoped that there might be another girl named "Buddy" in Bailey's life. But, now, h saw it was a vain hope.

"Could it have been," with ill concealed eagerness, "Evelyn Deane who killed him?"

Harmony Hal shook her head decisively. "I don't think so," with conviction. "Buddy was not the kind who would kill. She was proud, unreasonably so. Why, she wouldn't even go back home when he thr w her over."

"Did you know her very well?"

"I think I knew her better than anybody else in Hollywood," in a voice that rang with finality.

He leaned toward her. When he spoke his voice was calm, but inwardly he could scarcely control himself.

"Tell me," he said, "was Evelyn Deane—or Buddy—getting any money from Bailey?"

"If she had been she would not have been forced to go on the street like she did," Harmony flung back. "He didn't do anything for her. He treated her as if she were a dirty dog."

Kane thought of the diary he had found in Bailey's den. What was meant, if this were the truth, by the continued reference to "Buddy's" demands on him? What price was she exacting that he should become so morbid as to consider suicide?

He thought of Bailey's hysterical entry on the day of his death, probably written but a few short hours before the hand of the murderer touched him:

"I can't go on any longer. I have come to the end of the road. . . . I am going to beat her to it."

Before this Bailey had written:

"I can see the end of everything. Buddy's demands on me are becoming an unbearable burden."

And later another entry:

"I found Buddy in the en today. . . . Of course she wanted more money."

Slowly, repeating from memory, Kane told Harmony of these entries. She showed her surprise. At first the expression on her face told of her doubt, but as he went on a flicker of realization crossed her features. He concluded with:

"What do you think now?"

"I think," she blazed, "that Richard Bailey is an abominable liar. If he wrote that in his diary he was trying to protect someone else. Buddy Deane never asked him for one cent."

He considered thi as he studied her through cold, calculating eye . What if she were speaking the truth. Then there must be another Buddy, someone who answered only to that name to Richard Bailey. Had he appropriated a pet name from one of his victims for another?

Bailey, he concluded, was entirely capable of doing uch a thing, judging from what he had learned of the man during the past two days. He asked:

"You have been asking him for money?"

She nodded.

"And you hav seen him frequently, asking for more?"

Again she nodded and: "I haven't been working until lately. I was in debt and had to have money."

"Did he ever call you Buddy?"

She blanched and drew away from him, as if he were about to strike her. She stared about the tiny apartment, a wild light in her glassy eyes. Finally, she looked at him and, in a voice that was heavy with threat, said, "If you think you are going to trap me into a confession of that murder you're crazy."

He hastened to calm her. "Not that," he corrected.

"Did you think I would tell you if he had?" sarcastically.

"No," he smiled, "and now I know that he did not."

This is the signature of a very buoyant personality. This man who is himself of good heart, is in himself an exhortation to others to be of good cheer—an exhortation by way of his calm and confident outlook and the harmony of adjustment which that calm and confident outlook would indicate him to have achieved. He so gracefully accepts the inevitabilities implicit in living that he dissipates little or none of his powers. He governs himself with the end in view of conserving his natural powers and energy for constructive purposes. He goes further and maintains at all times a reserve of emergency. He is in consequence reliant and reliable always. He has a singularly clear mind, which despite an inclination of scepticism is receptive. He thinks independently, is sure of his issues and tenacious in resolution of them. He is modest, sincere and natural. He has imagination and a fine healthy sense of humor.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

"LET'S BE FRANK?"

I SAY: "LET'S BE FRANK!"

You say: "Lets not!"

I say: "But honesty is a beautiful treasure. If we cannot bear to speak the truth, even though it be bitter, to each other, how can we be truly friends? And surely frankness is the symbol of honesty."

You say, "Yes, I know that is true. Frankness is surgery. Frankness has a keen blade and there are times when it cuts away misunderstanding and jealousies and prejudices, but it can kill, as well. Let the hand be careless, let it waver but a little, and the life-blood of our friendship may pulse forth beneath the sudden wound it makes."

I say: "But truth—"

You say: "Yes, I know you are interested in the truth, but I am interested in our friendship, also. How are we to know what we wish to say is the truth? I am no perfect instrument for detecting the truth of things. I have hurt and I have said what I would have given an arm to withdraw. I have been angry and I have sent forth words that crushed like mighty rocks. I have thought, many a time, that I was speaking the truth when I was merely using the words as weapons—when all that I saw, really, was the most sensitive point in my antagonist's heart....Who am I to say that I, always, unerringly, know the truth and can't speak it?"

I say: "But our friendship is strong and bold."

You say: "Yes, I know it is and I believe it will last through our lives. And were you in danger of great foolishness, I would warn you; and were I making some grave mistake, I would be grateful for your friendly interest. But I would not be frank in all things, in little habits that are yours, not mine. You are yourself and my friendship for you gives me the right to love you but not to make you over in my image of what you should be. My heart should magnify your strength, not be a microscope to search out your little frailties. Is not our friendship enough? Why must we burden it with specious frankness?"

I answer: "We need not. I spoke foolishly. Let us be good friends and cherish one another gently and strongly. That will be enough."

A THOUGHT

GLADNESS

And the finest fellow of all would be the one who could be glad to have lived because the world was chiefly miserable, and his life had come to help some one who needed it.—Eliot.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A SPEECH OF PROPHECY

ON THIS DATE, in 18665, John A. Macdonald made perhaps the most important speech of his career when he moved in the Canadian Assembly that an address be presented to the queen asking for the union of the British American colonies on the basis of the resolutions adopted at the Quebec conference of the previous October It was in the main a business-like discussion of the proposals, but it contained two remarkable prophecies which have since been fulfilled. Speaking of the governor general's office, he said: "The sovereign has unrestricted freedom of choice. Whether in making her selection she may send us one of her own family, a royal prince, as a viceroy, to rule over us, or one of the great statesmen of England to represent her, we know not. We leave that to her majesty in all confidence. But we may be permitted to hope that when the union takes place, and we become the great country which British North America is certain to be, it will be an object worthy the ambition of the statesmen of England to be charged with presiding over our destinies." It was not until 1911 that this prophecy was fulfilled and the Duke of Connaught came as governor general.

John A. also foresaw the British commonwealth of nations: "When we become a nation of eight or nine millions of inhabitants, our alliance will be worthy of being sought by the great nations of the world.... The colonies are now in transition state. Gradually a different colonial system is being developed, and it will become year by year less a case of dependence on our part and of over-ruling protection on the part of the mother country, and more a case of a healthy and cordial alliance. Instead of looking on us as a merely depend colony England will have in us a friendly nation, a subordinate but still a powerful people in North America to stand by her in peace or in war. The people of Australia will be such another subordinate nation. England will have this advantage, if the colonies prosper under the new colonial system, that, though at war with all the rest of the world, she will be able to look to the subordinate nations in alliance with her, and owing allegiance to the same sovereign, who will assist in enabling her again to meet the whole world in arms, as she has done before."

The debate on that address lasted until March 10 when it was adopted and sent to the legislative council for concurrence.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6. — (C.P.) — Wheat prices scored gains of about ¼ cent during early trading to-day which from the start was extremely dull and featureless.

Gains were increased about midsession to a range of from ¼ to 3-8. May was quoted at 46 7-8, July at 47 5-8 and October at 46 5-8.

Most of the support came from seaboard houses, presumably against small export business worked over the week-end, and as offerings were entirely lacking the advance was easily held. Inter-market operations were insignificant and traders generally are marking time pending new developments.

Liverpool wheat displayed an indifferent tone and shortly after mid-session quotations were unchanged, while Buenos Aires wheat prices at noon were unchanged to 1-8 lower.

World's wheat shipments for the past week totalled 13,760,000 bushels, of which 4,750,000 bushels was of North American origin. Supplies on passage increased nearly 3,000,000 bushels for the same period.

STANDARD EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, February 6 (C.P.).—The inevitable profit-selling hit the Standard Mining Market around mid-day just when, with enthusiasm at fever pitch, the market seemed to be heading for new high levels. The selling rocked the price structure considerably, shaking $2 off Lake Shore's top morning price and nearly as large a proportion from the highs for several others of the gold favorites.

There seemed to be plenty of takers for the flood of stock thrown on the market and before the close prices began to steady. Hollinger fell back fro m$8.75 to $8, McIntyre from $27.50 to $26.25, Dome from $18 to $17.65, Teck-Hughes from $5 to $4.65, and Wright Hargreaves from around $5 to $4.75. At the close most of the shares had recovered some of the loss and were working higher.

The secondary gold shares were fully as unsteady as the high-priced group. Siscoe, Granada, Ventures, and Sylvanite failed to hold the high prices at which they started this morning. Most of them finished the day below Saturday's closing level.

In the base metal section Nickel was heavily sold, indicating switching into the golds. It fell back 25. Noranda was a big trader, but closed a little off.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (C.P.).—The stock market crept forward cautiously to-day after an early sag. In the late trading net gains of fractions to a point were substituted for equivalent forenoon losses. Dupont firmed a point, while General Motors gained a major fraction. Net gains of fractions to a point appeared in United States Steel, United Aircraft, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Case, International Harvester and American Can. American Telephone and Bethlehem were steady. Sales approximated 700,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONNTO, Feb. 6.—(CP)— The Toronto Stock Market hit a little faster pace today and the price level, after sagging in the early session, party recovered in the late afternoon. Heavy trading marked the day's record in Nickel and C. P. R. with both stocks weakened fractionally. There is said to have been some moving of funds out of nickel and into the gold stocks.

The oil shares were under pressure with the turnover large in all three leaders. International Pete fell below 11 but came back while Imperial traded most of the day at 8, down ¼, and British American finished with the lost of ⅛ to 7⅝. Among the smaller issues, Crown Dominion and Canadian Oils had small losses against minor gains in Supertest Pfd. and McColl Frontenac.

In the Utilities Bell Telephone was strong during the morning and higher but lost the gain while Consumers Gas held strong at 175. Steel shares were quiet and minor recessions were registered for Steel of Canada and Dominion Bridge.

JAPANESE FEEL THEIR POSITION MISUNDERSTOOD

Their Decision to Go Their Own Way is Dangerous, James Cuthbertson Tells Rotarians.

GROUP SUICIDE.

Many Japanese Families End Their Lives Together Despondent Over Conditions.

Japan in her international relations was compared by James Cuthbertson, for many years a missionary to the Flowery Kingdom, in an eloquent address to the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day, to a small boy who has got into trouble, feels a sense of grievance and has got into a frame of mind when he does not care. "Japan feels that her position is misunderstood by the rest of the world, and she has arrived at the decision to go her own way," said Mr. Cuthbertson, "and in that decision there is enough dynamite to destroy our whole international structure."

Mr. Cuthbertson, who was introduced by Rotarian James Dutton, said that there were many things in regard to Japan that he did not feel free to discuss, inasmuch as other missionaries had got into trouble as a result of their frank remarks being recorded by the Japanese Government and used against them.

"Other information, however, he was in a position to supply, and he began by describing Japan's system of government with a Cabinet entirely independent of the will of the people, and with Parliament only having control of money bills. Two of the principal posts in the Cabinet, those dealing with the army and navy, were filled by a general and an admiral respectively, and it did not require much acumen to see where such a situation led.

There was, he said, a great deal of Communism in Japan, and being kept underground by the authorities, was spreading like an infectious disease. There was at the same time much Fascism in evidence, and on the doors of that movement could be laid the blame for the assassination of prominent Japanese during the past year.

A distressing feature of the social life of Japan was the increasing number of group suicides, cases in which whole families, despairing of recovery from depression, ended their existence together.

Industrially, Japan was greatly troubled, Mr. Cuthbertson said, by strikes. In more prosperous times the system of paying retiring allowances to men who were released from employment had been inaugurated, and to-day when industrial concerns found themselves unable to pay such allowances, strikes and troubles of all kind developed. The Singer Sewing Machine Company was one of the firms that had run into this particular trouble.

Speaking of the necessity of missionaries in Japan, Mr. Cuthbertson declared that the religious beliefs held by many in that country were not good enough, and as an example he read a newspaper clipping showing how the wife of a Japanese had been whipped to death by her husband and family in an attempt to exorcise the evil spirit with which she was supposed to have possession. possession.

The world, the speaker contended, was off balance, and what was needed to end depression was not new trade policies or currency adjustment, but for the people to atune themselves with God.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker on motion of Rotarian W. R. Morris. Rotarian W. J. Wootten was also thanked for revising the Club's song books, and the change was voted a decided improvement.

Peterboro Asks For Radium Seeds

TORONTO, February 6 (C.P.).—After weeks of preparation, tests, and purification, radium seeds for the treatment of cancer have been sent out for use by the radium emanation plant at the University of Toronto.

The despatch of 12 seeds to Western Hospital to-day represents the first active step, as far as the public is concerned, taken by the Ontario Government in its war against cancer.

A requisition for radium seeds has already been received for Peterborough, and will be filled shortly.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (A.P.)—Grain prices averaged higher early to-day. British exchange jumped four points, and cold weather prevailed over the entire domestic wheat belt, with dust storms reported in Kansas and Nebraska. BOARD OF HEALTH TO CUT ESTIMATES

ident that Dr. Young intended to stand by the rights of his office and that Alderman Stocker and the members of the Board are to secure a firmer grip on the management of the hospital.

Visited Hospital

Firing the opening gun, Chairman Stocker declared that he and other members of the Board had several times visited the Isolation Hospital during the past few weeks and had found Miss Price, the matron, absent. Following this experience, he continued, "I went up one evening and had a quiet talk with Miss Price. I told her that she could have three mornings and three afternoons off. She replied that we were wanting to control her time and that we should telephone her when we were coming. I told her that it was our privilege to come at any time we felt necessary.

"Thursday she telephoned me," added Chairman Stocker, "And said she would take no orders from anyone except Dr. Young. Now clause 47 of the Health Act distinctly states that this Board is in control".

Here clause 47 was read as follows: "Subject to the regulations the local board of the municipality, by the corporation of which an isolation hospital is established, shall have the management and control of it, and of the conduct of the physicians, nurses, attendants and patients."

"Dr. Young is an executive officer of the Isolation Hospital and is subject to the charge of this Board," concluded Chairman Stocker stoutly.

Dr. Young asked "Is that correct?" and then read the clause.

When he had finished his study of the clause, Chairman Stocker commented, "That's straight enough".

"We've looked over the Act and we have twice interviewed Mr. Corkery, the city solicitor, and he assured us that we are in control," he added.

Sounds Reasonable

Dr. Young said that it sounded reasonable. "I have no explanation as far as Miss Price is concerned," he said. "The Board is certainly in control of the hospital, but any rules it desires to make should be passed here by this Board. So long as it is done in that manner I have no objection to make and will try to co-operate as I always have. But I do object to individual members going up there giving orders contrary to my instructions to the staff. I am superintendent of the hospital and my appointment was by bylaw. Any resolutions passed in a proper manner I will act upon."

Chairman Stocker said that he had omitted to state that the Board should not and can not interfere with anything pertaining to the medical jurisdiction of the hospital.

"If you think that individual members of the Board can manage that hospital and interfere then I will not be held responsible for the spread of contagious disease," commented Dr. Young.

A debate developed here as to where the control of the Board left off and where the responsibilities of the Medical Officer of Health began. Alderman McIntyre read Clause 25 of the Public Health Act as follows: "It shall be the duty of a local board to superintend and see to the carrying out of the provisions of this Act and of the regulations, or of any by-law of the municipality pertaining to public health and to execute, do, and provide all such acts, matters and things as necessary for that purpose."

"That clears that up as far as I can see," Alderman McIntyre said.

"Well, I'm carrying out my duties as superintendent of the hospital," explained Dr. Young.

"Well, this Board is going to function and if it can't here then we'll take it up with the City Council." declared Chairman Stocker.

"Take it up with the Department of Health," suggested Dr. Young.

Well Within Rights

Mayor Denne: "This is not a personal matter. These men on the Board think they are well within their rights in asking for closer co-operation by the hospital staff. I think you might have taken up the matter of the matron not obeying the Board with the chairman, not having Miss Price 'phoning up. We want co-operation, we are not working at cross purposes. She is a servant of this Board and appointed the same as you are."

Dr. Young: "You appointed me?"

Mayor Denne: "Yes."

Dr. Young: "The Council appointed me."

Mayor Denne: "Well this Board represents the Council; there are four of us on it."

Chairman Stocker said he desired to publicly offer an apology to Mayor Denne because he had not been invited to make the several trips to the hospital along with the other members.

Dr. Young said that co-operation was the thing he desired also, but he did object to "the individual members going up to the hospital and interfering."

Chairman Stocker acknowledged that the Board had no power in connection with medical matters. "But we have with the management," he stated.

Dr. Young: "There's bound to be overlapping, and I am not going to be responsible for any mismanagement."

Mayor Denne—"There won't be any mismanagement. We want to do away with that. Alderman Stocker is working for the city's benefit in this thing. He is elected by the people and is responsible to them."

Who Is Supreme?

Alderman Holland — "Who is supreme? Is the Medical Officer of Health the servant of the Board or is the Board his servant? I take it that he is the servant of the Board and not of the nurses. In other words the Board has the right to go up to the hospital and see what is required there and how ters are going."

Alderman McIntyre—"Any expenditures outside the medical, this Board has the right to approve or disapprove. As far as the employing of nurses at the hospital, that is up to the Board, subject to the recommendations of Dr. Young."

Dr. Young said that he had the right to employ or discharge nurses, but had always done so on the advice of Miss Price, the matron

Alderman McIntyre questioned whether the Medical Officer of Health had the right to employ or discharge nurses, and he read Clause 34, Section 5, of the Health Act as follows: "The Council of a city town, township or village, or a local Board of Health may appoint one or more public health nurses, and one or more duly qualified physicians, and engage such other services as may, in the opinion of the Council or local Board, be required for carrying out the provisions of this or any other Act administered by the Department of Public Health or the regulations made thereunder for the prevention or treatment or disease."

"There's no use having a Board if we can't act," concluded Alderman McIntyre.

Alderman Holland stated that the Board must do its duty to the citizens.

Alderman Stocker said he was informed that one of the nurses was getting married and was leaving the hospital. "This is only hearsay, but I know it's true," he added. "Why was this Board not informed?"

Dr. Young said that the nurse had only informed Miss Price last week.

Mayor Denne—"The chairman should have been informed and not to get such information indirectly."

Dr. Young—"I am the supreme ruler in regard to the nurses."

It was suggested by Mayor Denne that any changes in the staff should be told to the Board when first known. "There's no need for friction," he said. "There is no friction in the other city departments.

Dr. Young—"Miss Price has been acting under the rules laid down by the Board some years ago."

Mayor Denne—"I'm not finding fault with you or Miss Price. But we have a lot of money invested up there, and we want co-operation."

Here the Mayor suggested that by co-operating with the other two hospitals in the city, the nurses in those hospitals could spend a term in the Isolation Hospital and learn the nursing of contagious diseases.

Alderman Holland said that he had been advised that the Isolation Hospital was not a training school.

Dr. Young—"That was stopped by the Board last year. By resolution of the present chairman I was stopped giving diplomas. By that system the city was saved thousands of dollars. It's a pity we can't train general nurses in contagious diseases."

Mayor Denne—"It seems to me that without experience on contagious diseases that the nurses in the other hospitals are not getting a full training. While the nurses at the Isolation Hospital are not getting anywhere by their training. I still think the time is coming when we will have to make changes and get a full time Medical Officer of Health. We must get things whipped into line. The Isolation Hospital and the laboratory are costing the citizens too much money.

Chairman Stocker — "Every patient at the Isolation Hospital costs $250."

"What about Miss Price's time off? We've got to come to some understanding," stated Chairman Stocker. She can go off morning, noon and night and we have no authority to say anything. It is not unfair to ask her to have three mornings and three afternoons off. We won't say anything about Sundays.

Alderman McIntyre—"You mean each week".

Chairman Stocker—"Yes. I understand they have the right to time off to go out each day."

Dr. Young suggested that this should be left to the matron since she was a responsible woman in a responsible position and the Board should trust her discretion.

Chairman Stocker explained that the system of training nurses at the Isolation Hospital had been dispensed with in the need for economy. "We don't require nurses when we have no cases", he said.

Dr. Young replied by pointing out that the police force isn't fired when there is a week without crime or the fire brigade when there are no fires.

Alderman McIntyre — "Yes but these steps were taken after ten years experience in connection with contagious diseases at the hospital".

Chairman Stocker—"The number of cases are going down, down with every increase in sanitary conveniences. What do you propose to do in connection with the matron's time. This woman is a servant of the Board and we want to know when she is at the hospital and when she is not."

Mayor Denne—"Lets give it a little thought before we do anything."

It was decided to leave the matter until next meeting of the Board.

Alderman Holland—"Are we going to leave all purchasing to the matron?"

Chairman Stocker—"We are not. Here are some of the expenditures up there for last December: $12 for fixing up a Christmas tree, $10 for fixing the radio; $5 for a subscription to the Saturday Night; and $3 for tuning the piano".

Dr. Young—"Mr. Turner, last year's chairman, was consulted about the Christmas tree and his permission secured by Miss Price."

Chairman Stocker—"I'm informed on very good authority that on many evenings there are social parties at the hospital. I haven't been snooping around there one evening in my life, but 100 people have come and told me about these parties."

Dr. Young—"There are not continual parties up there." He said that on a very few occasions Miss Price had entertained a few friends, paying for the cost of the refreshments from her own pocket.

Chairman Stocker—"Well I'm telling you we are going to cut the appropriations by $1,500 and you'll not get more than $4,000. We must cut out these loop holes and leaks. If you need special nurses we'll get them and the hospital will be run properly."

Mayor Denne asked Alderman Holland and McIntyre if they had found the hospital in first class shape when they visited.

Alderman McIntyre replied "Fine" and Alderman Holland, "Excellent."

The Mayor, Chairman Stocker and Dr. Young were appointed a committee to draught up a proper routine of work and recreation hours for the nurses at the hospital.

Alderman McIntyre—"This Board is bound to have co-operation and we're going to have it."

It was decided that anything in the nature of major purchases at the hospital must be referred by Miss Price to the chairman, but that she could use her own judgment in the matter of purchasing of provisions.

Chairman Stocker—"Dr. Young has been off duty for two months, but the only way we know is by hearsay."

Dr. Young said that he had taken sick on December 23, and after visiting his daughter at Christmas had returned and informed Mr. Turner, last year's chairman of the Board, that I would have to be off for some time and I appointed Dr. Herbert Young in my place.

Mayor Denne said that he heard much criticism over Dr. Young appointing his son in his place.

Dr. Young thought that it wasn't unreasonable for him to appoint his son in his place. Questioned as to his activities among indigent patients, he said he had treated hundreds and never delayed to question whether they had funds to pay him or not.

Mayor Denne—"That's what we pay you for."

The meeting then adjourned.

No Open Season on Constables

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 6. (CP). There is no open season on railway constables, and they are not fair game for young hunters, Magistrate C W Hawshaw told two London lads to-day. He fined them $5 each to help impress these facts on their minds when they appeared before him on trespassing charges.

One of the boys, Clifford Holstead, admitted he had threatened to shoot Constable W. R. Emett of the Canadian National Railway force when the officer chased him and a companion into a field, and confiscated the boy's rifle.

A powerful charge of nitro-glycerine was used and the office, as well as the safe was badly shattered.

Parched Belfast Is Rushed Beer

....BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 6. (AP)—A hurried trip by steamer from Dublin to Belfast with 400 tons of beer today solved a shortage in this city occasioned by the rail stoppage resulting from the strike of rail workers which has been in progress a week.

Railroad workers struck last Monday in protest against a wage cut.

Brewers in Dublin sent a special steamer to this city with the beer, but dock workers refused to unload it. A local stevedore, however, came to the rescue and enrolled volunteers, who guarded by police, brought the beer ashore.

..The status of the rail strike continued unchanged to-day.

BONCOUR'S FALL MAY HURT WORK DONE BY CAHAN

Secretary of State on Way Home From France With Report.

TREATY NOT ASSURED.

Uncertain as to Stand New Ministry to Take—Talked With Two Gov'ts.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6 (C.P.)—Defeat of the Boncour Government in France has possibly invalidated a "fair understanding" on trade matters reached between Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State, and the French Government, Mr. Cahan intimated to-day on his return from Paris.

Replying to a question as to whether he was returning with a new French treaty in his pocket, Mr. Cahan said that was not "exactly the case." I am going back to Ottawa to make a report. I negotiated some time with one French Government. We reached a fair understanding, and then it was defeated. I took up conversations with the Boncour Government. There, too, we reached an understanding eventually. But since I left France, I see that the Boncour Government has been defeated."

"Is it not true that French foreign policy remains pretty well undisturbed by Governmental changes?" the Minister was asked.

"I'm afraid that's not the case. I certainly found a difference. That is why I can only say now that I am going to report what happened to Mr. Bennett," Mr. Cahan said.

that the appeal had been lost, expressed sincere sorrow.

"If there is a disagreement among the judges," he declared determinedly, "I shall again take an appeal to Ottawa."

There were five Supreme Court judges on the court who heard the appeal, and unless their decision dismissing the appeal is unanimous, Mr. O'Brien said he would go to Ottawa again to save Reid from the rope.

He telephoned immediately to his Toronto agents to learn whether or not any of the judges had disagreed with the verdict dismissing the appeal.

The judges on the court were: Chief Justice Latchford, Justices Middleton, Magee, Masten and Fisher.

Informed later, that Justice Middleton, and possibly Justice Magee, had disagreed with the verdict, Mr. O'Brien said, "I shall carry a final appeal to the Minister of Justice again."

He had been in communication with his Toronto agents, but they knew nothing of the decision, but went out immediately to secure information.

in the nation," and a growing respect for law and order.

His Lordship reminded the members of the Grand Jury of the large part they had to play in the administration of British justice.

He pointed out the duties of the Grand Jury in respect to the bills of indictment that were about to be placed before them, namely one charging murder and two others charging manslaughter.

Grand Jury had a useful duty to perform, His Lordship observed in assuring the liberty of the subject. It was the Grand Jury's privilege to inspect the Court House and Gaol and other county buildings. Cases had been known where persons had been wrongfully imprisoned.

In view of present conditions, His Lordship suggested the Grand Jury might do well to inquire into the relief situation in Peterborough. He did not mean to suggest that the necessity for such investigation existed, but he said it was a matter the jury might wish to enquire into.

Eight tables were played and very much enjoyed by everyone. The first prizes were won by Miss Mary Campbell and Charles Bloomfield; second prizes by Mrs. K. A. The refreshments were served by a committee of club members under the direction of Miss Helen Stewart, the competent social convenor of the club, and followed immediately by the presentation of the prizes. Keith Tate, acting president of the club, thanked Mr. and Mrs. Stewart for the use of their home and those who had supported the Badminton Club in this their initial effort.

The regular meeting of the Junior Institute was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon, with ten members and one visitor present. Miss Pearl Mullen, the president, occupying the chair.

A letter was read from Mrs. Little, formerly Erma Deck, the latest bride of the Institute, thanking friends and fellow members for the gift sent her.

Misses Lois McNaughton and Muriel Bullock were appointed a program committee for the March meeting and Misses Mildred Harrison and Ida Heard as refreshment committee.

It was decided to give $3 toward the junior scholarship for girls in the county judging competition. Plans were made to complete the autograph quilt the society is making at as early a date as possible.

Miss Ethel Blakely gave a reading and the members had a singsong, with Misses Blakely and Marjorie Frankish at the piano, and Mrs. Ralph Garbutt accompanying them with her guitar.

A report of the short course held in Peterborough in January was given by Misses Ida Heard and Olive Bell; this was one of the high lights of the meeting, as they gave a full and very comprehensive resume, showing that they had absorbed much benefit, and by their report were able to pass on many valuable suggestions to their fellow members.

Afternoon tea was served.

FIVE HUNDRED POUNDS

By C. V. DHANAPALA

The Wilsons lived in a pleasant red-brick house with gray stone facings and two gables, one of a long row, all alike.

It was the home in which, twenty years ago, Charles had started his married life with Maude, who was then only eighteen. She was an energetic, efficient housekeeper, clean and color-loving. The facade of the home assured the passer-by beyond all doubt of the ultimate prosperity of the Wilsons.

Charles, with little intellect but plenty of sound rule-of-thumb common sense, had become the head salesman of one of the big Smithfield merchants.

Not a very edifying job appraising meat, but he earned "a good bit"

"A gown shop!" He laughed mockingly. Her fury blazed. "Your own way; always your own way."

—as do all who have the buying and the selling eye, and play the middleman game well.

For five years after their marriage, Maude had kept on her work at one of the Shaftesbury Ave. gown shops, an experience which she presumed entitled her to more than one privilege:

She knew a thing or two which most women didn't. She had seen life, attending to the wants of "Society."

"Look here, Charles," she'd say, "didn't I work in the West End for years? That wallpaper is just the thing for the drawing-room. It goes very well with the furniture."

And again: "Why don't you talk sensibly when we have decent visitors? Educated people don't seem to interest you.

"You ought to have worked in the West End. Why you don't even read the papers. How do you expect ever to know what's done?"

He would invariably concede: "Have it your own way, my dear. You always do. I only wanted to . . ."

While he struggled for words, she would carry on: "That's a lie. You always say that. I never have my own way. I'm only telling you what is correct."

And yet, on the whole, they had been comfortable and happy throughout. He loved her. She knew, sooner or later, he always did everything she desired. She reconciled herself to the fact that she would be his wife as long as they both lived.

After all, one couldn't expect everything from life.

Often they entertained friends, almost all of them hers. Those who came specially to see him were only his relatives.

And everyone remarked, "You do know how to keep a home, Maude." . . . "I've never seen a married couple so without troubles as you two. You and Charles go so well together."

So the years passed happily until Charles' chief, old Andrews, in between the puffs of his after-lunch cigar ,announced to his fellow merchants that he was saying good-bye to the market. He called Charles into his office.

"I'm going to retire," he said; "the doctors say I'm silly and that if I take it too quietly now the reaction will kill me. Still, I'm ready to quit. I've worked hard."

He paused and looked at Charles steadily.

"Twenty-three years you've worked for me, isn't it? Splendid. I've made some cash in those years and you've helped to make it. I'll give you five hundred, as a parting present. The best way for you to spend it will be to set up on your own."

Charles went home with joy.

"He tells me to set up on my own," he said to his wife. "We'll make plenty of money now. I know a good carcass when I see one."

But instantly his joy passed away. Maude had that look of withering scorn that he knew so well. His last words brought a queer, wry smile to her face.

"I suppose ideals of this kind are born in you," she said, flushing deeply.

"Here's an opportunity to do something really worth while, and you think of meat! No, we'll open a gown shop. I know the business inside out. We'll have some style about it."

"Listen here, Maude. I haven't been in the business all these years without learning something, and I am going to spend the money just as I have planned. It isn't a small amount. Good God, it's five hundred pounds! I can't let you have your own way over this. The money is mine. Every penny won in a lifetime of toil."

He paused.

"A gown shop!" He laughed mockingly. He now admired his courage. Her fury blazed. That laughter that he had dared! How it whipped her body and soul.

"Your own way, always your own way," she cried out excitedly. "I've slaved for years to make a sensible fellow of you. Now, in the hour of the greatest chance, you won't listen to a word I say."

For hours and hours they argued. Exhausted they retired to bed, but neither of them slept.

She felt bitterly humiliated to think he had dared to talk to her like that! Even to laugh at her!

After all these years through which she had been watching and guiding him. And now he would do with the money as he liked. Curse him! Impossible, absolutely impossible, to continue life with him under the same roof.

She had sacrificed the best part of her life for him. Been a loyal wife; brought up two children until they married well; put up with his illiteracy; slaved herself keeping the home.

And this was his return. Oh, no. The money must be spent as she desired. He must, or she'd leave him. Yes, as soon as he received it she'd pack and go.

He, too, thrashed out the situation. If it were his wages, it didn't matter. He loved her. But heavens, this was a fortune.

Hadn't he given in to her ever since they were married? If only he could run the business himself. She'd give in all right when she saw him prosper.

But to open the business he needed her help. He couldn't start alone so easily, after all these years of her guidance. Dammit—why didn't he understand things as well as she did?

Confound it, if she must have the money, let her have it. How she would lose it all! A gown shop!

And he'd be expected to work and be the joke of all those friends who gathered round her. He was thoroughly sick of everything.

Yes, she could have the money, if she must; he'd do away with himself. By God, he would.

But when Charles returned home the next evening, he was a very different man. He wondered how he possible could have thought of suicide.

So silly! Besides, he loved Maude so much.

She was still grimly silent. He hesitated for a moment, and then sank into a chair.

"Thank God," he said, "our troubles are over now."

"So you're going to listen to me at last?" she exclaimed with a breath of satisfaction.

For a moment he looked at her silently. In his face there now beamed an expression of triumph.

"Andrews died last night," he told her calmly. "There will be no five hundred pounds."

Ex-Mate Can't Forget Colleen

Broken in health and shattered in spirit since he was divorced by Colleen Moore, the film star, John McCormick (inset), once a wealthy Hollywood motion picture producer, is reported to be gravely ill in Paris. Those assigned to his care declare McCormick is a victim of an all-consuming love for the actress, whom he cannot forget. Colleen is shown with Albert Scott, New York broker, whom she married in Florida about a year ago.

In Winnipeg Court-Martial

Rev. Mr. Cuthbertson Speaker On Sunday

Rev. Mr. Cuthbertson, missionary of the Japan Missionary Alliance, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. Mr. Cuthbertson, who has spoken on former occasions in St. Paul's Church, gave a short and interesting account of his work among the people of Japan. He remarked that Christianity is gaining many converts in the land of the Mikado. At the present time, the country is in the throes of an economical, industrial, educational, social, and religious upheaval, torn between many factions and opinions, and at war with China, making her position among the nations an unenviable one. Buddhism is rampant, but Shintoism (the worship of national heroes) claims countless adherents. A Shinto college turns out about 7,000 graduates each year, and these propagate their teachings throughout the island. The Christian faith, however, offers more of peace and hope to the Japanese, and thereby is gaining a strong hold. An instance of the growth of Shintoism was given, of a man who had purported to have been cured of tuberculosis by the belief, donating $150,000 to the work of the sect. Further narratives of Japanese turning from idol worship to Christianity gave Mr. Cuthbertson's hearers a true conception of the great work which he and his helpers are carrying on in the land of the apple blossom.

Occupying front seats in the church was a party of C.G.I.T. girls, numbering about forty, in smart attire of sailor blouses and berets, under the leadership of the Misses Marion and Josephine Armstrong.

HARDY LADS.

WILMINGTON, Del.—Police have a lot of clothing and a lot of sympathy for a group of boys—but the boys probably won't call for either. Steamship company officials complained the boys were swimming nude in the Christianave. When the boys saw police coming they fled in various stages of undress. The temperature was only 20 degrees above zero, which explains the sympathy.

Julian's Attorney Sure Of Appearance

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6.—(A. P.)—O. A. Cargill, attorney for C. C. Julian, Canadian-born, whose trial and that of 52 others on mail fraud charges was scheduled to open in Federal court to-day, expressed confidence the oil promoter would appear.

Julian last week announced in a letter he would forfeit his $25,000 bond and remain in Canada and gave as one of his reasons for so doing, the belief he could not receive a fair trial. Herbert K. Hyde, district attorney, called Julian's statement a "publicity stunt" and "hokum."

Suspended U. S. Sergeant at Arms Cites Public Charges to Support Article.

FRACAS OVER BRIBES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (A.P.) — Appearing in his own defense before the Senate Judiciary Committee to-day, Davis S. Barry—Senate Sergeant at arms—cited public charges of Congressional bribes to support his magazine article saying some members of United States Congress sell their votes for money.

The official—now under suspension for his writing—read a prepared statement to the committee considering what punishment to mete out to him.

He cited a statement made by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, in the Senate last Spring that banking interests had "hired some Congressmen" to oppose banking legislation.

The committee was inquiring into Barry having said in an article that there are "not many crooks in Congress" and also that there are only a few Senators and representatives "who sell their votes and it is pretty well known who those few are."

Association Men On List for Prize

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(C.P.)— Edward J. Neil, sports writer of the Associated Press, has been recommended for the Pulitzer Prize, awarded annually for the best news story written during the year by United States' newspapermen.

Neil, who wrote a graphic description of a ride down the bob-sled run at Lake Placid during the 1932 Olympics, is the second Associated Press man to be recommended.

Walter Winchell, columnist of the New York Daily Mirror, urged that Neil be awarded the prize in his column to-day.

Francis A. Jamieson, of the Associated Press, Trenton, N.J. Bureau, who "scooped" the world on the finding of the Lindbergh baby's body, has been recommended for the prize by various State Newspaper Publishers' Associations.

CONSERVATIVE RESIGNS HIS SEAT AT ROTHERHAM

LONDON, Feb. 6 (C.P. Cable).—The Rotherham, Yorkshire, seat in the House of Commons is vacant, due to the resignation on account of ill-health of the Conservative members, George Herbert.

The Conservatives are expected to nominate Henry Drummond Wolff, prominent member of the Royal Air Force during the war and industrial representative for many Continentl countries. He is a grandson of Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, for many years prominent in mid-Victorian politics.

It is probable there will be a Labor candidate and present indications are Alderman Dobbie of York, President of the Railwaymen's Union, will carry that banner.

Mr. Herbert's victory over F. W. Lindley, the Labor candidate, in the last general election was only by a scant margin, the Conservative having polled 23,596 votes against the 22,834 polled by Mr. Lindley, who had held the seat for eight years.

FOUR COUNTRIES OPEN TO VERIGIN

Counsel Claims He Has Passports to Costa Rica, Argentina, Mexico.

ANY PLACE BUT RUSSIA.

HALIFAX, Feb. 6 (C.P.).—Other countries will welcome Peter Verigin, declared P. G. Makaroff, K.C., to-day as he directed his forces in a battle to save the Doukhobor chieftain from deportation to Russia.

Makaroff, who flew from Winnipeg to Halifax via Boston in an effort to block deportation of Verigin, said he had passports for Costa Rica and Argentina. Another passport was on the way from Mexico.

If Verigin were deported he should be sent to one of these three countries in preference to Russia, the Winnipeg lawyer declared. Canadian authorities have ordered that Verigin must go to Russia, the country from which he came to Canada.

Meanwhile Makaroff has enlisted the support of two Halifax lawyers, J. J. Power, K.C., and L. A. Ryan, for a skirmish scheduled for to-morrow before Mr. Justice Humphrey Mellish in Supreme Court.

Makaroff and his companions, S. F. Reiben and J. P. Shukin, were in the city only a few hours on Saturday, after a speedy flight from Boston, when an order nisi was granted calling for production of Peter Verigin in court to-morrow.

Diet will

C. B. Smith, K.C., retained to represent the Department of Immigration, said he would be in court when Verigin appeared.

Immigration officials to-morrow must show cause for detention of Verigin, spiritual leader of 16,000 Doukhobors in Western Canada. Backed by the $20,000,000 Doukhobor Corporation, his aids are seeking to forestall the deportation order, and, if they are successful, the 50 year old chieftain will be returned to Prince Albert prison to serve nine months remaining of his 18 months' sentence for perjury.

Chihawks Hold Leafs To 2-2 Tie--Canadiens On "Block"

ROACH AND GARDINER STAR AS DETROITERS DEFEAT CHICAGO 1-0

Jackson Plays Brilliant Game in Hawk-Leaf Struggle on Saturday.

FRENCHMEN LOSE 7-2.

Beveridge Plays Clever Game in Nets as Senators Defeat Bruins 3-2.

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (C.P.)—John Ross Roach, the aging puck-stopper from Port Perry, is genuinely tickled to-day over the National Hockey League lay-out. Passed along by New York Rangers at the close of last season to Detroit, a consistent second-division club, Roach looks over this set of facts and chuckles:

Detroit is tied at the top of the United States section with Rangers, the least-scored-on goaler in the circuit is John Ross Roach himself.

Roach and Tiny Thompson of Boston have scored more shut-outs than another other netman—seven.

And, lastly, just to turn a satisfied smirk into a broad grin, John Ross Roach put one over his most-feared rival, Slapstick Charlie Gardiner, last night.

It was a close thing as 11,000 Detroit fans watched the duel of Roach and Gardiner. Four minutes from the end of the third period they had turned back every assault until suddenly Gardiner's Black Hawk defence slipped wide open; in stepped Herbie Lewis and Happy Emms, and Lewis shot the puck past Gardiner to give the Red Wings a 1-0 victory.

Ties Thompson's Record

Down at the other end of the rink Roach smiled a happy smile. He had tied Thompson's shut-out mark and he had beaten Chuck Gardiner in the sort of game the Winnipeg curly-head shines. Maybe after all these years of cooling in the shade, John Ross Roach is coming to force recognition from the hockey world.

Detroits' triumph kept them even with Rangers who humbled the Americans before a crowd of 15,000 in Madison Square Gardens and pushed Americans down to third place in the Canadian section. The Patrick second and third forward lines were responsible for the 4-1 victory; Cecil Dillon, Butch Keeling and Art Somers scoring before the Cook Brothers engineer the fourth, Bill assisting Bun. Johnny Sheppard got the only American goal.

While Toronto Maple Leafs were being held to a 2-2 tie Saturday night by Chicago—and Gardner—Montreal Maroons put when seems likely to be the finishing touch to the feeble Canadiens. After the 7-2 defeat of the Frenchmen, Leo Dandurand announced the break-up of the once fleetest team in hockey, twice world champions in the last three years.

Leafs held a good working margin over the Hawks at Toronto, but only twice could they beat Gardiner. Tommy Cook gave Chicago a lead in the first period and King Clancy tied the score early in the second; Mush March snapped another past Lorne Chabot early in same session, and Harvey Jackson matched it.

It was the sixth—and just about the most disastrous—defeat in nine games that brought the Dandurand pronouncement, forecasting disposal of at least five Canadien players who were not named. The Canucks battled Maroons grimly and not unsuccessfully for two periods before the Redmen broke through and made it a rout.

Little Aurel Joliat and Howie Morenz kept Canadiens in the hunt, Joliat scoring in the first session to match Paul Haynes' goal, and Howie in the second as Earl Robinson and Jimmy Ward scored for Maroons. But there was no reply when Maroons took things into their own hands in the third period. Haynes scored twice and Ward and Wally Kilrea netted one apiece.

The Frenchmen heard the bad news immediately after the game, but they weren't told whom Dandurand has in mind.

Ottawa's Surprise Win

Ottawa Senators scored a surprise win at home against Boston Bruins, running up a two-goal lead in the first period and hanging on to take a 3-2 decision. Desse Roche and Hec Kilrea scored the first two and Syd Howe the third; Eddie Shore and Frank Jerwa pounding shots past brilliant young Bill Beveridge for the only Bruin goals.

PROVIDENCE REDS IN SECOND PLACE

Gain Third Victory of the Week by Defeating Boston Cubs 5-2.

BOSTON, Feb. 6. —(CP)— Although crippled by injuries, the Providence Reds made a great showing during the past week and today found the 1932 Canadian-American Hockey League champions only a half-game behind the top-place Philadelphia Arrows. The Reds gained their third victory of the week by pasting the Boston Cubs by a 5-2 margin in Saturday night's tilt at the Boston Garden. This was the Reds' first success of the season on that surface and it left them one and a half games ahead of the third-place Cubs. A week ago these teams were separated by a single point. The other members of this five-club circuit trailed in their usual order, New Haven in fourth place and the Quebec Beavers last.

Heads Scorers' List

"Yank" Boyd, Philadelphia winger, managed to pick up two points during the week, which jumped him past Paul Runge, his teammate, to the top of the scorers' list. He has registered 15 goals and as many assists for a total of 30 points. Runge has made one assist less. Lloyd Klein, Boston winger, continued in third place with 28 points and his mates on the Cubs' Varsity line crowded him closely. Alex Cook with 27 points and Ted Saunders with 25.

Peters of Philadelphia, continued as the circuit's highest penalty carrier with 29 minors and two majors. Regan of New Haven, stood second on the list with 25 minors and two majors and Jerwa of Boston, with 24 minors and two majors, and Nichols of Philadelphia, with 20 minutes were locked in third place, both having served a total of 30 minutes in various penalty boxes to date.

201 RUNS FOR INNINGS.

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 4. —(C.P. Cable).—A Queensland cricket eleven was dismissed for 201 runs to-day in the first innings of an exhibition match here with the visiting English Test team.

The home players fell easy victims with the exception of three batsmen, Cook, who scored 53, Andrews 45, and Litster 67.

Harold Larwood took two wickets for 24 runs, W. E. Bowes three for 4 and Hedley Verity two for 29. The M.C.C. had scored six without the fall of a wicket, when play closed.

It is a long time since Frank Goddard was a familiar figure in the boxing ring and he is past the forty mark. But the fact remains he thinks he can stage a comeback and efforts are being made to put him on a card as a preliminary, in London.

Dempsey And Mayor Talk Over Battle Of Maxies

Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, left, and Jack Dempsey, who will promote the bout, discuss possibilities of Chicago as the site for the proposed scrap between Max Schmeling and Max Baer. Standing between them is Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager. Cermak is sponsoring a bill authorizing 15-round bouts in Illinois, passage of which would virtually assure the bout for Chicago.

GROVE 4TH TEAM TAKES EASY WIN

T. C. S. Outfit of Port Hope Loses 6-1 Decision at Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 6.—(Examiner Correspondence.) — The Grove fourth team won a decisive victory over the "under fourteen" team of T.C.S., Port Hope, in a very snappy game played on Friday afternoon in the Lakefield rink. There was a good crowd present and the play was watched with keenest interest, the other boys watching the youngsters and cheering them on. The skill displayed by both teams was worth seeing as they played according to rule and both have supervised practice which told in the hockey technique displayed. The penalty box was not used at all.

Budden, the Grove goalie, was a star and saved many a shot from counting up. He was the outstanding player of both teams, vigilant, and cool as a veteran.

Robertson, the 'Red Horner' of the Grove, played a splendid game and Shepherd was also outstanding.

Little Dunn ii, the smallest boy on the ice, showed indefatigable energy and will be an asset to any team, as he shows real skill. Cutten and Tippett were the strong men of the T.C.S. aggregation, which was a good team, with speed, good stick-handling and combination.

K. A. Mackenzie was the referee.

Robertson scored the only goal in the first period after eighteen minutes of play.

Five minutes after the puck was faced off in the second, Macrae scored and fourteen minutes later Pullen got past Russell, who played a good game in the nets, but not as spectacular as Budden. One minute later Cullen got in the only count for the visitors.

Macrae opened the third period's counting after five minutes of play, and six minutes later Peck scored on a pass from Pullen. Shepherd scored the last goal, Dunn ii getting the assist after four minutes, and that ended the scoring. The final score was 6-1. The line-up was:

The Grove—Budden, goal; Pentland i, r. defence; Robertson, l. defense; Peck, centre; Pentland ii, right wing; Pullen, left wing; subs, Dunn ii, Macrae, Shepherd, Baxter.

OLYMPIC FLAGS, 40 of them, are gathered by Edward Zuchelli and Miss Gloria Widmann for permanent display in the Los Angeles, Cal., museum along with other relics of 1932 Olympic games, held in Los Angeles.

Three Pitchers Sign With Cleveland Club

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 6.—(A. P.)—Three pitchers had been added to-day to the Cleveland Indians' list of players who have signed 1933 contracts. They were Clint Brown, Oral Hildebrand and George (Sarge) Connally.

But club officials received word from Parsons, Kans., that Willis Hublin had sent his contract back unsigned, joining the ranks of Wes Ferrell, Mel Harder, Dick Porter, Willie Kahn and Roy Spencer in resisting reductions in salary.

HEAVY HOCKEY LINE.

The Boston Bruin's first line of Dit Clapper, 194; Nels Stewart, 195, and Marty Barry 180, is perhaps the heaviest in the National Hockey League.

Black Hawks Beat Columbians 5 To 0

TWEED, Feb. 6.—(Examiner Correspondence).—With a great display of individual skill the Black Hawks defeated the Columbias 5-0. The game opened with slow play and close checking. Walter Leal placed the puck in the net from centre ice after the game had been going three minutes. The Columbias tried hard to place an equalizer but their combinations were broken up. With a burst of speed Gerald Simmons outskated his opponents to run up a second goal. The first period ended 2-0 for the Black Hawks. In the second period the Hawks played a defensive game until near the end of the period when Stanley Luffman intercepted a pass in front of the Columbia goal to place the score at 3-0. During the last period Gerald Simmons and Herbert Leal both placed a counter in for the Hawks. The game was well contested and few penalties were handed out by referee Gerald Quinn. A good crowd witnessed the game.

TRIPLE TIE KING LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

Penalty Paves Way for Stars' 5-1 Victory Over London Tecumsehs.

HERD AND TECS TIE.

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (C.P.). — A three-day tie for the leadership exists to-day in the International Hockey League, following a trio of games over the week-end. London Tecumsehs and Buffalo Bisons, two of the leaders, battled through 70 minutes of scoreless hockey Saturday, while at the same time Cleveland Indians downed Windsor Bulldogs, 2-0, for their fourth successive victory.

Sunday Syracuse Stars played hosts to London and shoved enough rubber past Herbie Stuart in the third period to pull out a 5-1 victory and advanced into a tie with the Tecs and Buffalo for the top position.

London and Buffalo started their game at a fast pace, and the 4,500 fans who filled Fort Erie rink settled back in an expectant mood. They were disappointed, however, for after the first session, the game degenerated into an exhibition of defensive play.

Tecumsehs spread their men across the ice and ragged the puck at every opportunity. Buffalo strove valiantly to open up the play, thrusting four men forward on the attack, but they were unable to penetrate the well-knitted London defence with any degree of consistency.

Quenneville Injured.

An unfortunate accident occurred in the first period when Leo Quenneville, London winger, crashed into the boards and suffered a fractured collar-bone, which is expected to keep him on the sidelines for the rest of the season.

Two goals in the final frame was the only scoring in the Cleveland-Bulldog clash. Daley notched the first one for the Indians, and when Windsor pressed for the tieing counter, they left their defence weakened, and young Jack Riley slipped through to notch a second goal.

Near the end of the match Eddie Ouellette and Frankie Ingram squared off for a fistic duel, which resulted in both receiving majors.

Defence Cracks Wide.

It was a tight game at Syracuse until the fourth minute of the final frame. Each team had scored a goal and play was even when Harold Hicks drew a penalty and the London defence cracked wide open.

Syracuse scored two while Hicks was off, and garnered another pair before the game ended. Harold Darragh counting twice. Dave Downie and Captain Tony Savage scored the others.

Farrand Gillie gave London a lead half-way through the initial session and Stew Adams tied it up in the second stanza.

A trio of major penalties kept Freddy Robertson, robust Syracuse defenceman, on the sidelines for the affair.

Keene Club Wins Lawless Ice Cup

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 6.—The Keene Curling club hold the Lawless trophy for another season, this was the result of the annual tournament, which was played in Lakefield Friday evening. Reductions are in order and instead of four rinks from each club competing, there were only two this year, but once again the Keepe boys were a bit too strong and the trophy remains in Otonabee for 1933. The cup was donated in 1922 by A. G. Lawless for an open bonspiel and when these were no longer held it became the trophy of the annual inter club bonspiel between Keene and Lakefield.

Golf Duffers Fare Better In Putting

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 6. (AP)—The Hollywood Country Club had found to-day that its golf "duffers"—players with an 18-59-26 handicap—fared better in their putting to six-inch cups than did the more expert golfers.

Club officals kept tab on 150 players over the week-end in view of the interest in Gene Sarazen's proposal for large cups, the club returned the regulation 4¼ inch wells on its first nine and equipped the second nine with six inch cups.

The "duffer" score on the big cups was 15.36 while the "scratch" to 12 handicap players took an average of 15.87 putts on this unaccustomed nine holes. Average of the middle class, 12 to 18 handicap, was 16.36 on the enlarged cups

MELVIN JOHNSON of Detroit, and Kitty Klein of Buffalo, are America's new speed skating champions, having recently won those honors in the national championships raced for at Oconomowoc, Wis. Both are new to the front rank of ice skating.

PONIES BLANK HAWKS 5 TO 0

High School Students Have No Trouble in Subduing Davis' Outfit at Lakefield.

IN DISTRICT LEAGUE.

The Lakefield game between the High School Ponies and Davis' Black Hawks was a walk-over as to score which was 5-0 for the Students. B. Blewett handled this game also and there were more penalties than goals by far. The fact that Loyst had a "shut out" score for himself was due to his marvellous work in goal. The Hawks bombarded him but not one could catch him napping, it was a good exhibition and certainly won the game for the Ponies who were about matched with their opponents except that they had had some organized practice and their combination work was smoother. The Hawks featured no less than four Wannamakers and were a strong team but their scoring punch could not penetrate the Loyst fortress. After four minutes of play Blewett scored and ten minutes later added another. Glen Wannamaker got the only penalty. The second period was devoid of goals but five penalties were handed out, Lennpx and Payne for the Ponies and G. Wannamaker, Lawless and F. Wannamaker for the Hawks.

The third period was fast and furious and everyone worked hard but scoring was light, Blewett scored the first after three minutes play and seven minutes later Lennox got one past Webster. After a scramble in front of the nets Chittick centred it out and scored from well inside the blue line, making the score 5-0 where it stayed for the remaining minute of play.

G. Wannamaker got two penalties, K. Wannamaker and P. Payne and Stenner each one. Loyst was the star performer of the entire game with Jewell, Lennox, Blewett all doing especially well. Morin and Lawless were strong men of the Black Hawks with T. Webster playing a good goal. The line-ups follow:

High School Ponies—Goal Loyst; defence, Morrison, Stenner; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell, Blewett; subs, White, Lennox, Payne.

Davis' Black Hawks—Goal, T. Webster; defence, Lawless, Morin; centre, Davis; wings, G. Wannamaker, K. Wannamaker; subs., M. Wannamaker, F. Wannamaker, F. Payne.

WORLD'S RECORD SET AT NEW YORK

Emmett Toppino Defeats Fred Shaver by Two Feet at Millrose Games.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(CP)—The first indoor setback in two years for George Venzke of New York, world mile record holders, was sandwiched yesterday between Emmett Toppino's spring triumph over Frank Wykoff and a narrow escape from defeat from the great Bill Carr as the sensations of the twenty-sixth annual Millrose Amateur Athletic track and field carnival.

Two of Canada's outstanding trackmen, Bert Pearson and Fred Shaver of Hamilton, Ont., failed to triumph in their clashes against the luminaries at the meet staged Saturday night, but Shaver was whipped in one of the evening's closest and most thrilling finishes.

Pearson Eliminated

Pearson, Canada's sprint sensation last summer, failed to get through the heats in the 50-metre event. He finished a close third to Ed Seigel, New York ace, and Al Kelly of Georgetown University, in a trial timed in six seconds, but his third eliminated him.

Before an excited crowd of 17,000 spectators, filling Madison Square Garden to capacity, Ned Turner of Michigan University overtook Shaver in the last few strides of the 800-metre race. Shaver set most of the pace, but could not withstand the sizzling finish of Turner, and was beaten by two feet. George Bullwinkle of New York was third. The time of 1.57.8 was more than six seconds short of the world indoor record.

Cunningham Triumphs

It was the feature one-mile event of the meet in which Venzke lowered his colors to a smashing piece of running by Glenn Cunningham of Kansas. Cunningham beat Venzke by 10 yards in the fast time of 4 minutes 13 seconds in a race which saw Eric Ny, Swedish ace, collapse two laps from the finish.

Wykoff, Southern Californian, who holds the world outdoor 100-yard record, won his first trial in the 50-metre, but bowed to Earl Widmyer of Maryland in the semi-finals, and then finished fourth and last in the final. Toppino, still very much the king of indoor sprinters, won handily from Ed Sieger, previously unbeaten, and Pearson's conqueror. Toppino was credited with a new world record of 5.7 seconds.

Carr, running anchor for the University of Pennsylvania's 1,600-metre relay team, in a triangular race with New York University and Ohio State, came within an eyelash of being nipped at the tape by Harry Hoffman of New York University. Many partisans in the crowd thought Hoffman had edged his crest in front with a terrific drive, in which he had picked up six yards. The Penn quartet was clocked in 3.21.2.

FAMOUS CUP MACHINE IS ON "MARKET"

Dandurand Announces Waivers Will be Asked on Five Players.

NO NAMES MENTIONED.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Canadien's hockey machine that has won two Stanley Cup victories in the past three years is being dismantled.

Leo Dandurand Managing Director of the National Hockey League club, announced to his players and the press that he had sounded out the other league clubs on the waiving of five men now members of the Flying Frenchmen.

No names were mentioned by the little sportsman, who, with his partner, Joe Cattarinich, controls the Canadiens, several race courses, and other sporting ventures.

It was a gloomy, dispirited group of players who gathered at Canadiens' dressing-room at the Forum following the stinging 7-2 defeat inflicted by the youthful, reorganized Montreal Maroons. The eventful third period, in which Maroons brushed aside a fading defence to run in four goals, climaxed half a season of indifferent showing by Canadiens.

Dandurand rose to tell his men that drastic measures were in order. He had watched and waited for over a month in the hope the team would pull out of its slump; but, with little indication of this shown in the defeat, he was forced to make moves. Not naming the players he had in mind for trades and sales, Dandurand stated he knew the weakspots on the team, and speedy action would ensue to strengthen these positions. In passing he remarked that he had found in negotiations with other clubs the salary list of the Canadien team was exceptionally high, probably the highest in the league. This made it more difficult to arrange the trades he had in mind.

The announcement was received with much emotion by the players. One or two all but broke down. Dandurand had words of praise for "some of the players," again naming no names.

In censuring his team, Dandurand again confirmed his confidence in the handling of Coach ("Newsy") Lalonde, who had tried everything in the way of switching his forward line combinations. His work on and off the bench had been satisfactory to the Canadien directorate, Dandurand stated. The speaker had been on the bench with Lalonde at home and on the road.

Dandurand's move is in line with his sweeping reorganization of the team in 1922, and again in 1926. In both cases he found new, vigorous blood was necessary, and following the changes in each case the team became one of the most powerful in the league.

KING EDWARD AND GEORGE SCHOOLS IN LOOP PLAY-OFFS

Former Takes 9-1 Victory From the Pick-up Central Squad on Saturday.

EAST ENDERS WIN 3-1.

The two leading Public School Hockey League teams continued to set the pace in the game played Saturday at All Saints' rink, both King Edward in first place and King George in second again winning, and practically cinching the play-off berths in this order. King Edward took a 9-1 decision from a picked-up Central squad, illness to several of the latter players causing them to default. King George nosed out Prince of Wales, 3-1; and Queen Alex took a 7-3 decision over Queen Mary. The ice was fast and the games good.

The two Queen teams opened proceedings in lively manner, with the Q.A. boys getting a lead early and ultimately running the count to 7 goals against 4. It was a fine contest, with good teamplay showing and fair defensive playing. The forwards for the winners all worked hard, while Kent was probably the best of the losers. Both goalies stopped a number of good ones. The teams:

Queen Mary: Goal, Graham; defence, Kent, Ackford; centre, Mortimer; wings, Crary and Jones.

Queen Alex: Goal, Herriott; defence, Ash and Galley; centre, Edwards; wings, Morrow and King; alternates, Flitton and Metcalfe.

King George teamed up a little better than Prince of Wales to get the nod, 3 to 1, in a hotly-contested affair. Both sides showed plenty of speed, nice passing, hard shooting and effective checking—making it a fine game to watch in every period. Both goalies were kept busy but let no soft ones by. The whole of the Wales' squad fought hard throughout, with Legon and Bousfield (who was accidentally killed Saturday afternoon) probably being outstanding for the East City aggregation. The teams:

Prince of Wales: Goal, Jay, Jones; defence, Webb, McIlmoyle; centre, Williams; wings, Lucas, Johnston; alternates, Leether, Sutherland, McDougall.

King George: Goal, Hepburn; defence, Hoporoft, McLean; centre, Bousfield; wings, Legon, Blade; alternates, Davies, Craig.

Referee—Abbie Rose.

With several players on the sick list, the Central squad could not ice a full team, but used a pick-up outfit, including some of the K.E. boys in their games against King Edward. The latter, now leading the league, won the tilt, 9 to 1. The count was 5-1 in the first period and the southenders ran in two more in the second and in the last frame. It was one-sided in every stanza, but some nice hockey was seen. The winning line-up:

King Edward: Goal, Piercy; defence, Patterson and Grose; centre, Conners; wings, Post and Jobe; alternates, Hall, Walman, Anderson and Leggitt.

Referee—E. Legon.

TAYLOR RETAINS SINGLES HONORS

Robertson Sisters Double Winners in Badminton Finals.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (C.P.) — Miss Ruth Robertson and Miss Margaret Robertson of the Badminton Club of Ottawa, two of Canada's outstanding badminton players, each won two titles Saturday as the annual tournament of the Ontario Badminton Association was concluded on the courts of the Rideau Winter Club here.

Three of last year's titleholders retained their provincial crowns, with the new titleholders being crowned in two events. All events with the exception of the mixed doubles were decided in straight games. Ottawa and Toronto players divided the honors, three of the championships being won by Ottawa players and two by Torontonians.

Jack Taylor of Toronto retained his men's singles title defeating George Goodwin of Ottawa 1932, runner-up for the Canadian singles event in straight games in a masterful exhibition, the Queen City player never looking like losing at any time. The ladies' singles crown was also defended successfully, Miss Ruth Robertson of Ottawa, last year's champion, having a decided edge over her sister, Miss Margaret Robertson, the winners' decisive overhead carrying her far greater pace than Miss Margaret Robertson's, the final count standing 11—5, 14—12.

BELLEVILLE GIRLS WIN

KINGSTON, Feb. 6 (C.P.) — Queen's girls' basketball team went down before a fast Belleville quintet, 31-27, in a close, hard-fought game here Saturday. Belleville led at half-time, 21-9, but Queen's rallied strongly in the last half to take a lead until the last few minutes, when Belleville forged ahead again.

Belleville—Anna Gartley, Esther Moncrieff, Annie Cruji, Eugene May, Marion Mateer, Sally Stillman, Eda Blaker, R. Rimmons.

Queen's—Dorothy Kenny, Ruth Fishleigh, Eva Rickard, Nora McGinnis, Kay Wayling, Bud Yuill, Jo Tett, Isa Galbraith, Dot Napthali.

DRAFTSMEN DROP 2-1 DECISION TO SWITCHGEAR IN C. G. E. LOOP

Senior Toolmakers Cop First Victory This Season by Blanking Office 2-0.

MACHINISTS WIN 4-1.

The Brock Street Arena echoed on Saturday afternoon to the loud cheers of more than three hundred fans who turned out to see the weekly program of hockey staged by the eight teams in the C.G.E. Inter-department League, who have been dishing up plenty of entertainment to the rabid team followers for the last six Saturdays.

The Switchgear team demonstrated all too clearly the old saying that "Youth must be served" when they lengthened their lead in the senior group by trouncing the strong Drafting outfit 2 to 1 in a splendid game. The senior Toolmakers iced a winning team for the first time this year with their goalie Stan Jones in his best form, turned back the classy Office sextet 2 to 0. In the intermediate section the Machinists drew away from every other team by winning 4-1 from the Structural Steel who are now tied for second place in the group standing with the Armature Winders. The latter team added another point to their total by holding the Fractional Motors to a one-all tie.

The Toolmakers in their tangle with the speedy Office team held a superior edge on the play during the first two periods, when their clever three man attacks carried them well inside of the Office territory and the shooting at short range kept Miller in the net on his toes. McGregor, Jay and Williams composed the first string forward line of the Mechanics and this supplied the winning punch. Wheeler and Ron Routley also turned in clever performances for the winners, the latter securing the second goal.

The first session was scoreless, both sides missing several times from close-in. In the second however the Toolmakers' launched a series of three man attacks, that finall resulted in a counter when Jay took a neat pass from McGregor to bulge the help. Shortly after this Routley carried the puck into the corner and when he attempted to centre the puck it glanced into the Office net off Beavis' skate.

Eddie Williams, Mick Magee and Tuck worked themselves into the ground for the Office in the third period in a desperate attempt to pull out a win, but the Toolmakers rose to the occasion for the first time this season in a finished display of defensive work around their own net that saved the day. Stan Jones, goalie for the winners was unbeatable, warding off a series of sizzling shots that came at him from all angles. Sanderson, Griffin and Earle played fine hockey for the Mechanics during the final period.

Ron Payne playing on the wing for the Office received a nasty cut on the face from a skate in the second period and was forced from the game. The teams:

Office—Goal, Miller; defence, Beavis and Newson; centre, Tuck; wings, Williams and Magee; alternates, Gray, Payne, Masters.

Tool Room—Goal, Jones; defence, Griffin and Sanderson; centre, McGregor; wings, Williams and Magee; alternates, Earle, Wheeler, Routley.

Penalties—Tuck, Beavis, Jay, Williams.

Upset of Day

The Switchgear win over the husky Draftmen was sensational in so much as the winners had a noticeable edge of superiority which was rather unexpected in view of the fact that the Drawing-Makers were conceded the Works' Championship my most of the dopesters who voiced their opinions at the start of the season.

Both teams went at it hammer and tongs from the initial gong and end to end rushes at breakneck speed featured every period of play. The Gear men drew first blood when Jack Playford sunk the rubber n the Drafting net through a mix-up of players in the middle of the first period. The Switchbuilders forced the play in this session with fast well organized attacks that were hard to turn back and Kearns, the Drafing goalie, was forced to block repeatedly.

Darrel Allin evened the count shortly after the start of the second period when a fast shot from the wing bounced into the opposing net off Hope's pads. Mowry, on defence for the winners made a beautiful solo rush in this frame, stick-handling his way through the entire Drafting team only to be robbed of a goal when his shot hit the post. Cadd playing on defence turned in some clever hockey for the Draftsmen but his attacks usually went to pieces before the Switchgear defence when he failed to pass the puck. Shields and Rooke were thorns in the side of the opposing goalie as most of their shots were from close in but were all blocked. Playford for the winners was dangerous on every rush and on one occasion with only the goalie to beat, he shot a fast one over the top of the net.

The eams:

Drafing Room—Goal, Kearns; defence, Howe and Cadd; centre, Palmer; wings, Allin and Rooke; alternates, Shields, Masterson, Price.

Switchgear—Goal, Hope; defence Whatley and Mowry; centre, Maudsley; wings, Paggett and Playford; alternates, Lawrence, Higgins, Hurst and Cordery.

Split the Honors

The Armature Winders who are showing improvement every time out, split the honors of a hard-fought battle with the Fractional Motors 1-1. The latter opened the sporing in the second frame when Ev. Thomas took a pass from Duchene to beat Pearson from close-in.

The Winders evened the count on a nice individual attack by Les Calladine who worked his way through and flipped the puck past Routley. The latter team missed numerous chances to score in the last period when Bert Millard carried the puck along the boards, skirted the defence and centred the puck only to have the pass wasted. Muir, Auld, Milliken and the Willson brothers played clever hockey for the Armature outfit. On the opposing side Hatton, Cathcart and Duchene were the most prominent. The teams:

Armature Winders—Goal, Pearson, defence, Auld and Muir; centre, Calladine; wings, Milliken and Millard; alternates McGillen, Menzies, Ben and Max Wilson.

An Easy 4-1 Victory

The Machine Shop had little difficulty in disposing of the Structural Steel team who have been weakened by the loss of Harmer, the count being 4 to 1. The winners were faster and showed better combination in every period and presented a more rugged defence in Gibson and McGillen. Pearson, Craig and Jones on the first line for the winners worked splendidly together. Opposing them, Kearney, Howarth and Pilling were the most effective. The teams:

Structural Steel—Goal, Black; defence, Darling and Howarth; centre, Pilling; wings, Kearney and Shadgett; alternates, Fee and Wilson.

Machine Shop—Goal, Tice; defence, McGillen and Gibson; centre, Pearson; wings, B. Jones and Craig; alternates, Clarke, Hetherington and Rogers.

Referee for all four games — Archie Weir.

DOUBLE HOCKEY BILL ON SLATE

Westclox to Meet Payne's Carters in East Peterborough Game To-night.

ALSO CITY LEAGUE TILT.

A good double-header is promised fans at the Brock to-night, featuring the two local East Peterborough League teams. The Westclox will meet Payne's Carters at nine o'clock, following a City League fixture between Normal School and Rangers at 7.30. With real fast ice, and the end of both schedules in sight, both hockey games up there this evening should be filled with excitement for fans.

The Carters are generally figured as being one of the strongest teams in the E.P.L., and one that must be beaten for a playoff berth. They will be favored to win to-night, but Westclox are very likely to cross up the dopesters again as the speedy East City crew prefers fast ice and will get it this time. They have shown vast improvement recently and should be due to trounce any of them from now on. In fact, they cannot afford to drop any more tussles if they would keep pace with the leaders.

The Normal School and Rangers are about equal in strength and in standing, and will doubtless put up a fine battle. The Rangers have thrilled several large City League crowds with fine games against P.C.I. and Rotary, but the student-teachers have not been seen in action locally yet, their games being either out-of-town or postponed on account of soft weather. This is a squad that should show a lot of good hockey, and the City League contest, as well as the big intermediate one later, makes it a hockey twin-bill that ought to draw a good crowd to the arena at Brock street this evening.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

This is more like hockey weather, if it just lasts. Ice is fine and fast and this is an important week for the game all over the district. Three School League contests were run off Saturday at All Saints, and it looks now like the old rivals, King Edward and King George, will meet in the playoffs—that is, if there isn't an upset to wind up the schedule next Saturday. The C.G.E. Shop League drew a crowd of well over three hundred at the Brock and again dished up four smart tussles. Switchgear had a 2-1 win over Drafting, Toolmakers blanked the Office 2-0, Structural Steel was on the wrong side of a 4-1 count against Machinists, and Armature Winding split a 1-1 game with Fractional Motors.

* * * * * *

George Bousfield, star centre, of the King George school hockey team, accidentally shot himself to death a few hours after he had helped his team win on Saturday. He was a fine player, popular with teammates, and also an outstanding soccer player in the school loop. Our sympathies, and those of the boys who played with or against him, go to his bereaved parents. Incidentally, his loss will be a serious one to the King George team when it enters the playoffs, as it should, in two weeks' time.

* * * * * *

What team does the Petes' intermediates meet in the next round of the O.H.A. playdowns? We're being asked that often these days, but cannot give an answer. We should hear soon, and it's likely to be either Campbellford or Belleville—although it might be against the winner of that Central League which had a bye, similar to the E.P.L. one, but the latter loop decided against using it. According to the O.H.A. book, there is no playoff between first and second teams in that Belleville-Campbellford-Trenton group, and now Belleville is a game ahead of the Hydro team, with the schedule almost over.

* * * * * *

Meantime the Petes will do just enough practising to keep them in trim, without going stale. And a few more days ought to see all the players feeling fit again. Weir's broken nose is healing nicely, while Jarvis and Dallin, who weren't in the best of form in that Bowmanville game here Friday, should be chipper as ever before they hit the ice in the next contest. From now on, the pace is bound to be gruelling for both juniors and intermediates, once they get out of their groupings. They're in big game hunting now, and they'd better forget they ever shot partridges.

* * * * * *

Bowmanville juniors meet Port Hope this evening, and when we said Bowmanville and the Petes would playoff, that wasn't a certainty as the Hopers still have a mathematical chance. But if Bowmanville wins to-night, and we can't see them losing, then it'll be the Rubbertown boys against us, first game probably here Wednesday and back there Friday. Fenelon Falls is all set to take on the winner next week.

* * * * * *

Southend Hockey League games tomorrow night are: Canuck Bantams vs. Warne Bros. at six, Ranger Juveniles vs. Albion Knitting at seven, Pirate Intermediates vs. Park Hill at eight, and Canuck Intermediates vs. Northenders at nine. That winds up this loop's schedules. To-night, these Church League contests are billed: All Saints' Juveniles vs. St. Andrew's at six, George Street Juniors vs. All Saints at seven, St. Paul's Juniors vs. Mark Street at eight, and Knox Juniors vs. Trinity at nine. This week should complete the church games.

* * * * * *

Plenty doing in the E.P.L. this week. The two local teams Westclox and Carters go on at the Brock to-night at nine bells, just after a City League fixture. Westclox figure on giving the powerful Carter outfit a real battle this p.m., and may trim them on fast ice. Lakefield will meet Westclox and Norwood will tangle with the Carters at the Brock Wednesday, unless there is an O.H.A. game. First tilt is billed for eight o'clock. Then on Friday, the Alarm outfit plays in Lakefield. That's the way they line up now—tonight, Wednesday and Friday.

* * * * * *

The Oshawa sports scribe says: "According to rumours current in baseball circles of the city, there is a good possibility of the formation of a strong intermediate baseball league in this section this summer. In the near future the president and secretary of the O.B.A.A. will pay a visit to the city when they will meet representatives from Lindsay, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby, with a view to the formation of such a league." Possibly a Peterborough team could get in there, if a local outfit was interested enough. Raybestos from here used to be in the Lakeshore loop.

* * * * * *

And here's a baseball jolt from Belleville: "It is understood that Ralph Judd, classy southpaw of the 1932 senior O.B.A.A. championship Guelph team, and his catcher, Tel Johnson took up residence in Cobourg on January 1st last. If this rumor is true the "Summer Town" sure have gone into senior baseball in a big way. They will have a high class hurling corps at least. The pitchers would be Judd, "Hoot" Gibson, Toey Ibey, Archie Campbell, late of the Vics, and Wakeley of Port Hope. On the receiving end, Tel Johnson and Rollings would be available. Not a bad string of battery men!" Whew, you're right, Belleville, that's not a bad bunch, at all, at all. In fact, we'd go so far as to say it's just about good enough to lift the old C.O.B.L. cup.

* * * * * *

One thing and another: West End League games—To-night at ten, George Street vs. Maroons; Wednesday at eight, Keene vs. All Saints, and at nine, George Street vs. Maroons .... What's become of that gals' hockey loop? .... A bouquet to Cec. Williamson who refused payment of five bucks for that bouquet of flowers given Mrs. Bailey at the Merrett Benefit Game .... No rasslin' bout in Ontario can be advertised as a "championship bout" in future, and still folks say no progress is being made any more .... The LeBarr family challenges any other family to a hockey game, both families permitted to use one outsider as long as that one player isn't a star .... Oh, yes, that oyster supper for the Hollywood Inn was purchased by Sugar Bowl, the west end candy shoppe having won the challenge thing, 5 to 4, from the uptowners.

Carnera And Schaaf Matched This Week

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Fistic dreadnaughts both, Primo Carnera and Ernie Schaaf will battle 15 rounds in Madison square Garden Friday night for the right to meet Champion Jack Sharkey in a title match, outdoors, in June.

Schaaf, whose contract now is owned jointly by Sharkey and Johnny Buckley, probably will rule a seven-to-five favorite over ponderous Primo although he will have to concede the vast Venetian about 50 pounds.

Schaaf has made a striking comeback since his serious slump of last year when he was beaten by Max Baer, Stanley Poreda and Unknown Winston. He started his campaign back to the top by knocking out Winston in six rounds and then polished off Poreda in the same number of heats. He is a harder hitter than Carnera and seems much the big Italian's superior in the vital quality of stamina.

COMBES STILL A HOLDOUT

RICHMOND, Ky. Feb. 6. (AP)—Earle Combs, silver-haired centre-fielder for the world champion New York Yankees, has not yet signed his 1933 contract, but says he is sure he can reach a satisfactory agreement with the management.

"They want me to take a right sharp cut this year" Combs said to-day.

TRINITY JUVENILES WILL MEET GEORGE STREET "A" FOR TITLE

Former Wins 27-10 Decision on Saturday While Mark Street Juniors Swamp St. John's Outfit 40 to 12 — Play-off Dates Set.

The Church Basketball League schedules were completed at the "Y" Saturday evening, Trinity Juveniles winning from George Street B, 27 to 10; and Mark Street Juniors swamping St. John's, 40 to 12. Trinity and George Street "A" meet the 11th and 18th for the group championship, points counting. Both teams are almost intact from the finals last year, when the George Street squad won. Trinity is an improved outfit this year. A draw was made Saturday, and Murray Street and Knox Juniors ordered to play off the 11th, the winner to meet Mark Street the 18th for the second half leadership. If Mark or Knox win the second half, they will play two games with Murray, winners for the first half, for the championship, total points to count. Following are the standings:

Juveniles:	W.	L.	Pts.
Trinity	5	0	10
George Street A.	4	1	8
St. Paul's	3	2	6
St. Andrew's	2	3	4
George Street B.	1	4	2
Knox	0	5	0
Juniors (2nd half):	W.	L.	Pts.
Murray Street	2	1	4
Mark Street	2	1	4
Knox	2	1	4
St. John's	0	3	0

In the first game Saturday, the Trinity Juveniles proved too strong, though the game was close, and George Street B made it a fight. Stinson went good, getting six points, while Gunsolus and Weese each got a basket. The count was 12-6 for the winners at the end of the first half. Ward counted 18 points in a fine evening for the victors, with Thorburn getting nine. These two and Davern starred. The teams:

George Street B.—Stinson, Weese, Gunsolus, Ash, Henry.

Trinity.—Ward, Thorburn, Gates, Davern, Edmondson.

Referee, V. Holmes; scorer, J. McClenaghan.

St. John's was minus Britnell and Patte, but Mark Street was unbeatable in the junior tilt. They got twenty points each half, while the Saints rallied to get eleven in the second half. Walsh and Young tried hard for the losers, but could not get going till late. M. Hunter had eleven points; G. Hunter, 15, and Sagar, 14; all playing fine combination for the Ashburnham aggregation. Mackey and Pearse formed a strong defence. The teams:

St. John's. — Gledhill, Walsh, Smith, Young, Patterson.

Mark Street.—M. Hunter, G. Hunter, Sager, Mackey, Pearse.

Referee, J. McClenaghan; scorer, W. Ward.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

Cried Master Tim:
"I'm going for a swim."
A shark came along
And that was the end of him.
—Shadow Song.

"I'VE FOUND a swimming pool! I've found a swimming pool" Knarf cried. The other shadow children with the turned-about names—Mij, Flor, Hanid, Yam and Knarf—came hurrying up to him. They were all out on the sidewalk in front of the house. It was early morning and the sun was hidden behind heavy clouds. Because it was so dark and cloudy, the shadows did not have to stay with their masters and mistresses. Just see if your shadow stays with you, the next cloudy day.

Well, the other four shadows came hurrying up to Knarf. Then Hanid exclaimed: "It isnt a swimming pool at all. It's only a rain puddle."

Knarf shook his head. "You may call it rain puddle if you like, but it's a swimming pool just the same." With that Knarf made himself as

RUN IN CUT
Knarf sprang up and down on the spring board.

small as the head of a clothespin and got all ready to jump into the swimming pool.

The other shadows quickly made themselves small, too. Then they seized Knarf. "You can't go swimming without a bathing suit," they cried.

"That's right,' he said. So he ran round and round the pool ,looking for a bathing suit. All he found was a spider. "Will you spin me a bathing suit?" Knarf asked the spider.

"Will you catch me a fly?" the spider asked Knarf. The shadow boy answered that he would be glad to catch the spider a fly. So he caught the spider a fly—not a very big fly, but big enough—and the spider at once set about spinning Knarf a bathing suit.

In the meantime Knarf began looking all over for a match stick.

"What do you want with a match stick?" the other shadows asked. He told them that he wanted to make a spring board.

"Oh, the water isn't deep enough," little Yam exclaimed.

"You'll land on your head," Mij added.

"Never mind about that," Knarf said. "Just help me find a match stick." So they hunted all over and finally they found a match stick. The end was already burnt off, but Knarf didnt care about that. Then he dragged over a little pebble. He placed the white pebble over one end of the match, and the other end of the match stuck out over the water. Knarf walked out to the end of the match stick over the water and sprang up and down, taking good care not to spring into the water for he still had all his clothes on.

"Is my bathing suit ready?" Knarf called over to the spider.

"In just a moment," the spider called back.

For Tuesday, February 7

A FAIRLY FORTUNATE state of affairs is read from the predominant planetary auspices. The mind will be keyed up to high tension, but should be subdued from impetuosity and excitement. It may be desirable to negotiate with large corporations, mergers, secret bodies or through diplomatic measures. There is a sign warning against litigation and contention.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an exciting and progressive year born of individual initiative and resolution. But excitement, acting on impulse and with violent methods, would be disastrous. Shun law. A child born on this day may be excitable, passionate, impetuous but have fine enterprise and initiative. It should avoid wrangles and litigation.

After New Mark

Waving a cheerful greeting to the towers of Manhattan, Sir Malcolm Campbell, famous British automobile racer, is shown as he arrived at New York on the S.S. Aquitania. He is just recovering from a rough voyage and an attack of influenza. Sir Malcolm is en route to Daytona Beach, Fla., with his rebuilt speed car, Bluebird II, to attempt to better the record of 254 miles an hour

BOOTLEGGER SLAIN.

MORGAN CITY, La. — A bullet from the dark chopped short the career of Billy Mule, Jr., accused of strong-arm bootlegging in the peaceful "Land of Evangeline."

As Mule left a prize fight Friday night, the bullet killed him in the street within sight of several hundred fans. The unseen killer escaped.

FAST PACE SET BY INDUSTRY IN PALESTINE

its export to neighboring countries four-old in one year. Its own motorships carried the goods. Seventeen tobacco factories are working full blast. The wine cellars at Richon-le-Zion are holding close to the record of 1929. The perfume factory at Benjamina has run short of flowers, as the orders from Paris pour in.

Ice, cement, oils, soap, flour, matzoth, tobacco, wines and spirits are manufactured from local materials. The match factory at Acre, opened as recently as 1927, developed so successfully as to engage the attention of the international match cartel. Fishing on the Mediterranean has taken on new aspects. Properly fitted out trawelers have been imported and cold storage facilities built. Jewish sailors have begun to appear. Perhaps for the first time in history. Agriculture, above all, shows remarkable results.

It is hardly more than about sixty or seventy years ago since Jaffa oranges were for the first time shipped to European markets. To-day they have earned for themselves a very good reputation, mainly in Great Britain and in central and in northern Europe.

Increase in Automobiles

In the teeth of great difficulties, lack of capital, strange conditions, inexperience, official apathy and ill-concealed opposition, chaotic laws, untrained labor and a hopeless mass of red-tape in all official dealings, Palestine industry and agriculture have reached a stage of modernity that astonishes even the most optimistic. Before the war there was only one automobile in Palestine. To-day there are ten thousand. Arab effendis, enormously enriched through Jewish initiative one way or the other, flash by in splendid limousines. Not only in transport but in all phases of activity there has come a complete metamorphosis.

Before Jews began the establishment of their modern works there were only crude soap and still more crude articles of piety made in Palestine. The curious visitor who explores the old city of Jerusalem at night will still find in some reeking den Arabs suspended in vats of oil refining the quality by swinging their naked bodies through the liquid.

The all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv has to-day 412 industries. They are all in operation. Banks are springing up in all directions all over the country. There was one under construction in ancient Jericho when I passed through. Haifa, above all, is fast becoming a modern city. Activity on the harbor and on the oil-line from Mosul has produced a feverish rush atmosphere. Real estate along the bay is soaring. A huge boulevard going all the way from Jaffa along the coast to Beyrouth in Syria has been started. It will take the place of the old caravan route over the shore.

Small Area

Palestine to-day is one of the most prosperous countries on earth. The economic situation is of such a nature that the Holy Land is one of the most profitable lands for the investment of capital. Small as Palestine is—its total area cannot be much larger than Lake Ontario—it represent a big market, a growing market and a virtually inexhaustible market. Palestine is the gateway to the Near East. Behind and around it lies a hinterland of untapped wealth, great cities, vast populations, all potential customers of Pelestinian industry. It stands to reason that the silk factories of Haifa are not merely producing for Palestinian needs. Their products go to Bagdad, into Persia, and even into Soviet Russia. There is a growing trade between Palestine and Soviet land. Russia was represented at the Near Eastern Industrial Exposition at Tel Aviv last year, and its commercial agents placed large orders for cement and for oranges.

The Shah of Persia and the King of Irak and Transjordania are customers of Palestine factories. The latter two are frequent visitors in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, where they come to see the latest movies.

Film Studio Coming

Besides the national Hebrew theatre, Habima, one of the greatest theatrical groups in the world, according to the critis of New York, Berlin, Moscow and Rome, where the Habima visited, Palestine will scon have its own film studio for the making of Jewish films. In short, there is great activity in all departments of life in Palestine.

The visitor who comes expecting nothing but ruins and cloisters and holy places receives the surprise of his life. There is a brand-new Jerusalem with magnificent hotels, churches, doctors' buildings, hospitals, etc., ets., to be seen, as well as the picturesque old bazaar. The new suburbs are delightful places.

I sat one evening on the roof of Professor Klausner's home in Talpioth, right outside Jerusalem, and saw the last rays of the sun turn the Dead Sea into a pool of red flames. Cool breezes sweep Jerusalem every night. Even in summer the nights are refreshing. But the days in summer . . . no, those summers aren't made for blonde, blue-eyed Nordics. Our eyes cannot stand that heat. You have to be an Oriental for that. Jews revel in it, which is as it should be, for this is their home, and here of all places they should feel at home.

MEMBERS SEEK TO FREE GANDHI

Prisoner's Aim to Renew Disobedience Drive Proving Bar.

UP TO CONGRESS.

BOMBAY, Feb. 6. — Opposition members in the House of Assembly to-day demanded the release of Mahatma Gandhi, but the Government declared it was unable to release the Nationalist leader from jail in view of his stated intention to "use all his talents to promote the civil disobedience movement."

The members demanding Gandhi's release based their request upon the recent statement of Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for India, in which he assured the Indian people the British Government was carrying out a policy of goodwill to India.

Harry Graham Haig, home member of the executive Council of the Governor General, replied by declaring the whole question was in the hands of Congress. He added, however, "the Government has not received satisfactory assurance that if Gandhi were released the civil disobedience campaign would be completely abandoned. On the contrary, Gandhi has just recently declared he would use all his talents to promote the civil disobedience movement if he were released."

Playing In New Snow Tots Drown In Pond

HIGHLAND FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 6 (A.P.)—The joy that new, white snow brings to children meant tragedy to the family of Lieut. Godwin Ordway, Jr., of West Point.

His son Albert, 7, and daughter Margaret, 4, looked out the window yesterday and saw shining whiteness verywhere.

"Please, can we go out and play in it," they begged, dancing up and down in their eagerness.

They were permitted to go, and they didn't come back. Following tiny footprints, their father found them drowned in a small pond that holds only six feet of water. They apparently had slipped on the snow-covered bank.

Cricket Results

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 6. — (C.P. Cable).—The first innings of an exhibition cricket match between Queensland and the visiting English Test team was still unfinished after the second day of play was closed this evening.

The scores were: Queensland, 201 (Cook 53, Andrews 45 and Litster 67, Larwood two for 24, W. E. Bowes three for 43 and Verity two for 29)9. M.C.C., 303 for eight, Jardine 34, Wyatt 40, Sutcliffe 35, Hammond 27, Ames 44 not out and Allen 66).

Two Guelph Blasts Being Investigated

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 6 (C.P.) — Police to-day were investigating two mysterious explosions which occurred within ten minutes of each other in widely-separated sections of the city last night. In each case, the fires which followed damaged buildings. A house occupied by Tom Rasso was almost completely burned and a store operated by Dominic Belcastro was only saved after a two-hour battle by the fire department.

Neither the store or house was occupied at the time of the blasts, and no one was injured in the explosions.

New French Premier

EDOUARD DALADIER

The task of forming a new French government fell to Edouard Daladier, minister of war in the cabinet of Joseph Paul-Boncour, after two days' effort to find a man enough groups would support. The Socialist bloc was responsible for the overthrow of the Paul-Boncour ministry when the chamber of deputies rejected a proposed budget-balancing program.

New South Wales Wins Cricket Title

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 6 (C.P. Cable). — The coveted Sheffield Shield, cricket trophy competed for annually by the four major elevens of the Commonwealth, was won today for the 20th time by New South Wales.

The final match to-day which won for them the trophy saw New South Wales defeat South Australia by 98 runs. The scores were: N.S.W., 113 and 356 (Bradman 36 and 97, McCabe 67, Brown 79, Wall ten for 36 and Lee four for 69). South Australia, 114 and 257 (Nitschke 105, Howell five for 31, O'Reilly five for 56 and Hill four for 61).

The batting of two of the Australian Test team stars, Don Bradman and Stan McCabe, aided considerably the N.S.W. innings.

New Swim Star

This pretty young co-ed from the University of British Columbia, Miss Dorothy Rennie, set a new world's record for the plunge for distance at a swimming gala in Vancouver recently. She plunged 70 feet 6 inches, eclipsing the previous record held by Hilda Dand of England. Peggy Vandervoort of Vancouver, Canadian record-holder at 66 feet 6 inches, was second with a plunge of 67 feet in the same gala.

C. Huffman	W. Howden
E. Metcalfe	H. Clegg
George Cairns	H. F. Foote
Walter J. Oke	Dr. N. H. Sutton
Skip	Skp

The draw for to-night's schedule games at the local rinks, is: Morrow vs. Westbrooke; Hall vs. Cruthers; Bissell vs. Moore; L. I. Hamley vs. Seymour; Donaldson vs. Davidson; Downey vs. Sedgewick; Richmond vs. Kay.

Sugar Bowl Pays For Oyster Supper

Hollywood Inn received sweet revenge and an oyster supper when they defeated Sugar Bowl, 5 to 4 in a fierce return struggle the other night at the Brock. It was anybody's tussle and the uptown crew figure they would have won in another few minutes. Their Chinese goalie, Joe Lee, was almost unbeatable, though his new imported stick, sporting a blade that concealed a large part of the goal, had something to do with his Chabot style.

The Black Yula and the Masked Marvel also went good for the Sugar Bowl boys; while the Hollywood big guns were B. Darcey in goal, and Robertson and Ruiter on the front line. It was a merry melee for the few frantic fans, and a hectic hockey hot-cha for the would-be's and has-beens—as well as the few scintillating stars—that made up these teams. Clark had two stitches over his eye after the game from an accidental cut.

Sugar Bowl: Goal, Joe Lee; defence, R. Hewett, J. Thornton; centre, Judge Baker; wings, J. Playford, F. Hewett; subs., L. Johnston, G. Dormer, R. Best and G. Kingdon.

Hollywood Inn: Goal, B. Darcey; defence, McWilliams, Jim White; centre, Robertson; wings, Ruiter, Wainman; subs, Richardson, Clark, G. Hill, A. Lord.

BAILIEBORO

Mr. Billy Howson has returned from Guelph where he attended the Winter short course at the O.A.C.

Mr. G. Fletcher has installed a grinder in his shop, this being the second installed in the community this winter. Previously farmers of the township were forced to take their grain to Millbrook, Cavan or Peterborough in order to secure chop and this meant a long haul and almost a day's journey with a team and load.

The local C.O.F. organization held its regular weekly meeting in the hall on Tuesday evening.

COMMUNISM IS

lowed, made abject slaves of their followers. The leaders of the nation Envoy Shankland pointed out, knew that it was impossible to build up on their ideas when the surrounding world was being led by democratic governments; so they sent their agents out to spread the seed of Communism among the nations of the world, with the result that there were 60,000 of these in the United States of America and 15,000 in Canada.

In Russia, he stated, the majority of the people were not in favor of their government, which was being led by the power of darkness. "Russia had the right to her own political beliefs, he said, but the tragedy was when she carried her teachings to other countries such as Canada."

In this country Communism was being spread so much by the central organization as through interlocking groups which appear on the surface and which are supposedly for the uplift of men. And the chief of these teachings was the disbelief in God, which was carried on very strongly among the children, bringing them up with the idea that there is no Supreme Being. "We do not want our children to live like that," he declared. "I feel urged to say that Communism means atheism, paganism, the breaking of family ties and the degradation of women."

Another great influence against good was the world-wide athiestic movement, the speaker said. Although this movement was not very strong in Canada, there were in the world ten million people linked up with a central organization, declaring their disbelief in God. "The Almighty had been found wanting as well as His churches, he said, and the great breeding ground for this heresy were the high schools, colleges and universities, especially in America." In many of these institutions in the United States, organizations existed, dubbed with fantastic names, but all in direct opposition to any belief in God.

And the third influence for bad came from among the Christian preachers who were declaring modernistic teachings, contrary to the teaching of the Word of God.

In introducing the speaker and welcoming the public, the theatre, graciously loaned for the occasion by Abram Rappaport, local manager, being well filled, Mayor Carr stressed the good work being carried on by the Salvation Army, not only in Canada but in every part of the world, declaring his appreciation of the results that are granted their efforts. Speaking of Envoy Shankland, who has worked not only in Toronto, but extensively in the States, Mayor Carr said that over fifty years ago he was the first convert in Toronto to the Salvation Army.

Always Tired, Sluggish

Mrs. Hartwell's Run-down Health Restored by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, She States.

Feels Fine Now.

"I have derived great benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. Lorne Hartwell, Osnabruck Centre, Ont. "My health got poor; indigestion followed, and I was nervous and irritable. My heart was also bad. I got up in the morning more tired than when I went to bed. My weight was reduced, my ambition shattered, my memory uncertain. I was unable to do my housework and I was so discouraged that life was a burden. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. While taking the first box my appetite revived. The daily use of the Pills for a time restored my health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills earn high praise from benefited users because they actually rebuild health by enriching the blood. Nervous, rundown conditions yield to their blood-building properties. Young girls are wonderfully helped in their growth and development. At your druggist's in the new protective glass vials. Try them. 50c package.

Over 600,000 insects have been named and described, and at least that many more await discovery.

More than 10,000 Alberta silver fox furs were placed on sale at the first annual sale of pelts in London this year.

RADIO NOTES

By E. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

Short wave stations have many peculiarities. For instance, certain hours of day or night are better for reception from certain directions, and for certain wavelengths.

Eastern stations operating on waves of from about 20 to 33 metres are best heard between noon and 10 p.m., and similar Western stations are best from 10 p.m. to daybreak.

Stations of from 33 to 75 metres are usually best after nightfall.

Ed.—Mr. Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans. If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr. Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 40c to 42c; oats, 20c to 22c; barley, 30c to 32c; corn, 32c to 34c; rye, 29c to 30c; buckwheat, 28c to 30c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Capsized in a rush of big liquidating sales of speculative holdings of May wheat, all grain values went lower Saturday.

Moderate recoveries ensued, but not until after wheat had fallen to the lowest figures in almost a month. Corn and oats both outbid the season's price record.

Wheat closed nervous, ¼c to ⅝c under Friday's finish; corn at ⅛c decline to an equal gain; oats, a share to ⅛c off, and provisions, unchanged to a setback of 2c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Eggs maintained their upward trend on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market last week.

Light arrivals enabled the egg market to hold the 1-cent gain recorded early in the week. Receipts totalled 6,743 cases, as compared with 8,889 cases the previous week. Carlots or less of fresh graded extras were quoted at the close of the week at 21 cents for extras, 19 cents for firsts, pullets at 16 cents and seconds at 17 cents a dozen. Some odd sales at half a cent under these levels were reported.

Butter eased a fraction, No. 1 grass made finishing the week at 20½c to 20⅝c a pound. Volume was small, receipts being 342 boxes.

Potatoes declined 5 cents a bag. New Brunswick Green Mountains selling at 75c per 80-pound bag. Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at 80c to 85c per 80-pound bag and at 90c to 95c per 90-pound bag.

Cheese held steady, current receipts of Ontario white being quoted at 9c, colored at 10c and early make at 10½c to 11½c a pound. Receipts for the week were 845 boxes.

Trading in oats by houses with export connections. Cash wheat transactions were negligible.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 6. — Very small export sales and weakness at Liverpool and Chicago were bearish factors in the short week-end session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on Saturday, pushing prices ⅝c to ¼c nuder Friday's close.

May closed at 43½c, July at 47¼c, and October finished at 48⅜c

Foreign buyers showed little interest, though shippers' offers eased a little overnight, and no export to speak of could be traced. From figures on the winter wheat acreage in the Balkan countries it was believed a greater area has been sown, though crop conditions are not so good. The news had a depressing effect on the market.

Obituary

THOMAS EMMERSON

CROOKSTON, Feb. 6 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death occured Friday with startling suddenness of Thomas Emmerson of Crookston, Ont. While feeding the stock at noon he fell on the hay and was found only a few minutes later by his wife and a passing neighbor. Dr. Beatty was called and pronounced death due to a heart attack. Mr. Emmerson had been in his usual good health until the day before, and it is thought his helping to unload some hay had caused a strain from which his death was the result.

Deceased was a blacksmith by trade, but for some years was mail carrier for this vicinity. He was of a remarkably genial disposition. He was passionately fond of music, and also horses. Up until about two years ago, when he had the misfortune to lose a fine horse in a fire which burnt his barn and stable, he always owned and drove a fast horse, and friends will recall how very often he might be seen driving swiftly by, singing as he drove.

Deceased was in his 80th year. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his sorrowing widow, two sons, Vinc. and Charles, also one daughter, Laura (Mrs. Frank Chambers) of Bannockburn.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Interment in White Lake Cemetery.

CAVAN LABORER IS CRUELLY MURDERED

HARRY SALTERN IN MURDER TRIAL FIRST WITNESS

Jackson Murder Trial Opens Before Mr. Justice Sedgewick.

SHOOTING DESCRIBED.

Jackson and Lee Came to Dummer to Farm Last Summer.

Almost in the shadow of the gallows, newly built for the execution of Henry W. Reid here next Friday, Edward Franklin Jackson, 42, Negro, of Milwaukee, was indicted this afternoon in the assize court with Mr. Justice Sedgewick presiding for the murder of Eugene Lee, 61, of his own race, in Dummer township, October 17 last.

Dismissed from the National Soldiers Home Milwaukee, last summer the two Negroes entered Canada a few weeks later to establish a chicken and fruit farm, as they told farmers in a scrub section of Dummer township where even pasture land is lean and farming usually provides only a scanty living.

They quarrelled over the purchase of materials for a house they had begun to build. Lee was living with a farmer, Edward Saltern and Jackson slept in an automobile on property they had bought. Late in the afternoon of October 17, Jackson crossed through the bush to Saltern's and in the midstof a conversation about cement and lime started firing a revolver at Lee, five or six bullets causing almost instant death.

CONDIE FREED BY GRAND JURY

No Bill is Returned in Manslaughter Case Against Condie.

TWO TRUE BILLS.

Committed on a charge of manslaughter for alleged complicity in the death of Frederick Fletcher, who died from a fractured skull after a fall downstairs following a drunken revel on New Year's Eve, Robert S. Condie, of 306 Aylmer Street, was this morning given his freedom, after the Grand Jury at the Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario had returned a "no bill."

Harry Hendrichon of Montreal was indicted on a manslaughter charge, the jury returning a "true bill." The accused is alleged to have struck the blow that caused Fletcher to topple from the landing to the foot of the stairs.

Defended by the Hon. G. N Gordon, K.C., the accused will stand trial following disposal of the murder charge against Edward Jackson, who is accused of killing Eugene Lee.

Following the jury's finding of a "no bill" against Condie this morning, Mr. Gordon moved for the discharge of his client. Immediately afterwards Condie, who had awaited trial at the County Gaol since his committal early in January, was formally released on the order of Mr. Justice Sedgewick.

Pip, King Vulture Drowns in Bath

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(CP)—Pip, king vulture of the zoo, is dead. He was drowned when he fell into his bath at night and was unable to climb out again because the sides were icy. He was fond of bathing and had a mania for pulling girls' stockings down.

A girl friend of Pip, a fellow of the zoo, who took a fancy to him in his cage. It cost her a him when he arrived from S. America in 1921, used to play with him in his cake. It cost her lot of stockings. Pip's first move was towards her legs. Little by little he yanked at her stockings till they fell around her ankles. He could not resist them. He often tore stockings but never hurt the girl's legs. He didn't seem to care about men's socks.

ONE MAN SLAIN, FIVE WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

Only Spit of Pistols Light Inky Room For Detectives on Raid.

HAND-TO-HAND STRUGGLE.

Forced to Retreat Out Window, Police Return and Overpower Gang.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. —(AP)— A battle in a house of death, where only the blue spurt of bullets lighted the pitch-darkness, won high praise today for two detectives who got their man and four more.

One man was killed last night and five persons wounded before detectives George Seelandt and Michael Petrizzo, fighting through an ambush, dragged Pasquale Russo from a huge and ramshackle house in Brooklyn and charged him with homicide.

They had been seeking him many weeks for the slaying of Anthony D'Antonio whose body was found wrapped in a blanket on a vacant lot.

Last night the detectives went to the third floor of the big house, looking for Russo. They pounded on a man believed to be him.

Lights Go Out

Then the lights went out. Bullets spat against the walls. On the ground floor, amid struggling, rasping foes, the detectives lost their prisoner. Battling slowly forward, they crashed through a window to the street.

There, reinforced by other policemen, they dashed back inside, turned on the lights, and found Russo beneath a bed. His brother Anthony, also arrested, was charged with homicide, too.

In the basement the police found Louis Marciano, a tenant, dead of many bullet wounds.

GENERAL STRIKE IN CLOAK TRADE

Over 2,000 Walk Out in Toronto—All Shops Picketed.

"SWEAT SHOP" WAGES.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—(CP)—Climaxing numerous strike threats made lately, a general strike of the entire Toronto cloak trade, affecting more than 2,000 cloakmakers, went into effect today. All shops were picketted.

"The employers have ignored the honest efforts of your committee to discuss terms," declared Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada prior to the strike. "Therefore the only alternative is for you to take the step you are contemplating. In this way you may convince your employers you are in earnest and are not going to continue working under sweat-shop conditions."

Following a strike meeting at which 1,500 workers voted in favor of walking out, a committee of 150 members under Charlee Kreindler, Cleveland, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, complete preparations for the walkout, which followed at 10 o'clock this morning.

Workers for months have claimed the employers had exploited them by paying "sweat shop" wages and forcing them to work under unpleasant conditions

BUCK, 4 OTHERS NAMED LEADERS KINGSTON RIOTS

Evidence Disclosed During Action Against Convict for Part in Recent Outbreak.

GUARDS TELL STORY.

Claim Millich Ran Amok With Butcher Knives, Smashing Everything.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 7. (CP) Tim Buck, former leader of the Communist party in Canada, with four others, helped instigate the riots at Portsmouth penitentiary here last October it was to-day disclosed in evidence against Willard Millich, convict at the penitentiary, who was committed for trial on a charge of rioting.

Buck was sentenced to five years imprisonment at Toronto in November, 1931, when he was convicted of advocating the use of force and violence in overthrowing the government. Seven other members of the Communist party were also sent to the prison on similar charges.

Millich, serving a five-year term imposed at Sandwich two years ago, conducted his own case and minutely cross-examined every witness.

Sensational evidence, telling of the part Millich had taken in the riots, was given by guards and other officers of the institution. It was Millich, they claimed, who ran amok in the kitchen, smashed dishes, lights and everything else and finally securing the keys, locked himself and 40 more prisoners in the building. Armed with a pair of butcher knives, they said, he threatened first the guards and then other convicts who he claimed had promised to go with him.

Warden's Story

Matthew Walsh, deputy warden at the time, told of the riots of Oct. 17, named the leaders and spokesmen for the rioting convicts.

"At five o'clock Inspector Smith made an agreement with the convicts to return to their cells," he said. The leaders and spokesmen were Sam Behan, Tim Buck, Garceau, while Evans and Powell were no more active than the others. The convicts went quietly to their cells.

"We couldn't get into the kitchen, for the key, in the lock from Chamberlain Asked to Make Statement in Commons Absolutely Refuses.

SAMUELITES HOLD TRUE.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the Exchequer, refused to disclose the nature of the Anglo-American debt negotiations in the House of Commons today.

"The terms of an invitation addressed to the British government to send a representative or representatives to Washington early in March and the acceptance of that invitation, already have been published. I have no further statement to make," he said.

Sir Stafford Cripps, a Labor member, pressed the chancellor for a statement on the debts in view of his recent public statements.

"It is obviously unnecessary to repeat those statements," the chancellor retorted.

Before the session opened the Liberal parliamentary party met and defeated a motion that its members should cross the floor of the House to the opposition side.

By this vote they continued to follow their leader, Sir Herbert Samuel.

COUNSEL BREAKS NEWS TO REID IN DEATH CELL

Showed Considerable Emotion When Told Fatal News.

STILL HAS CHANCE.

Ready and Prepared for the Worst Reid Tells Adjutant Falle.

"Hello, Shorty. I've got some bad news for you."

In these words, spoken quietly, J. A. O'Brien yesterday afternoon first broke the tidings to Henry Walter Reid, condemned murdered, that the appeal against his sentence to be hanged had been dismissed.

Calmly, with his light blue eyes peering through the iron-grated door of his death cell at the county gaol, Mr. O'Brien said, Reid heard the collapse of his great hope. Later, as he more fully comprehended the meaning of the message —that unless a last, almost forlorn, attempt to have his sentenee set aside is successful he will walk to the scaffold in the grey down of Friday morning—he showed more emotion. Tears came to his eyes, Mr. O'Brien said.

"Yes," Mr. O'Brien told him; "it's bad news. The court has dimissed the appeal and the sentence stands."

"Yeh, that so?" queried the little man.

"It looks bad. I' sorry," added the lawyer in a voice little above a whisper. "But I dont' want you to lose all hope. There's still a chance. But I don't want to raise your hopes too high. I don't want you to expect too much. But there is one more chance and I'm going to make it. I'm going to take it back before the Minister of Justice at Ottawa."

"Yes," said "Shorty."

Court Did Not Agree

REID IS SAVED FROM GALLOWS

Favorable Recommendation Made By Minister of Justice.

LIKELY GET LIFE.

Indication that Henry Walter Reid's sentence to be hanged on Friday morning will be commuted to life imprisonment, or some other long term of prison confinement, was the conclusion arrived at by J. A. O'Brien this afternoon on receipts of a telegram from Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice.

The telegram received at 3.30 by Mr. O'Brien read:

"Could see you to-morow, but may inform you that favorable recommendation has already been made."—Signed Hugh Guthrie.

The telegram was the answer to one sent by Mr. O'Brien requesting an interview in Otawa to-morrow on Reid's behalf.

Mr. O'Brien was also in communication with the Minister by telephone and was informed that it would not be necesary for him to go to Ottawa. The telegram was the final word, but further news in detail is expected to-morrow.

PONSFORD DUBS ORMOND REPORT OLD ARMY GAME

Former Portsmouth Warden Lays Riots to Slackening of Discipline.

NO TROUBLE IN HIS TERM.

Refutes Charges Officers Under Him Were Inefficient—Best in History.

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (C.P.)—"In my opinion, after careful reading, the whole document is nothing more nor less than a masterly demonstation of the old army game of passing the buck," declared former Warden J. C. Ponsford of Portsmouth Penitentiary after scrutinizing the report of Brig. Gen. D. M. Ormond, Superintendent of Penitentiaries, regarding disturbances at the institution last October.

Mr. Ponsford, who for 19 years ruled the Penitentiary, declared "the riot was due to one thing only, and that is a continual slackening off of discipline and a showing partiality to some inmates. The more you give to a convict in a penitentiary, the more you may give. There is never any end to what he may want. A successful Warden must have the guts to say 'No.'

"During the 19 years I was Warden at Kingston I cannot recollect a single case of a man or woman being sent there for good conduct. I may say further a penitentiary containing 663 inmates such as Kingston on my retirement did not constitute a barrack containing a regiment of soldiers.

Regulations Known

"The report states one cause of the recent riot was lack of knowledge and familiarity with penitentiary rules and regulations. As far as I am concerned, I would like to say I do not take my hat off to Gen. Ormond or any other penitentiary official in Canada with regard to knowledge of the rules and regulations which I vigorously enforced during my 19 years as Warden.

"The only rebellion during my time at Kingston," he continued, "was when I first went there and it was a protest against my strict enforcement of the rules and dis-

To Take Reid Case To Hon. Hugh Guthrie

In an attempt to secure a reconsideration of Henry Walter Reid's sentence to be hanged here on Friday, J. A. O'Brien, the little man's counsel, will go to Ottawa on the midnight train tonight to interview the Minister of Justice.

A telegram asking for an appointment was sent this morning by Mr. O'Brien to the Minister, but at 2.15 today no reply had been received. "I shall go and seek an interview whether an appointment is arranged or not," Mr. O'Brien told The Examiner.

The papers bearing on the trial were forwarded to the Minister yesterday from Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

DAMASCUS, Jan. 13.—Damascus has twelve thousand automobiles. There is no speed limit. Chauffeurs don't require a license. The presumption in Damascus is that anybody can drive a car. A hundred thousand freight-camels cross and criss-cross in the streets. Four of them are killed every hour of the day and night. That's local statistics. When the new hook and ladder section of the city answers a call, it simply means a slaughter of camels. Arab chauffeurs drive like hell. There is no other word for it. All they

Fred McLaren, 52, Found Murdered; Finn Is Missing

Cruelly Battered About The Head, Fred McLaren, Farm Laborer, Found In His One-Room Abode on Syer Farm.

CORONER DR. TURNER FIRST THOUGHT DEATH DUE TO HEMORRHAGE—ULCERS OF STOMACH

Undertaker In Preparing Body For Burial Discovers Cuts And Fracture Of The Skull—$40 And Gold Watch Missing.

Cruelly battered about the head and lying in a frozen welter of his blood, Fred McLaren, 52, partially crippled farm laborer was found murdered about 3.30 Sunday afternoon in the near zero weather of his one-room abode on the Eighth Line of Cavan by Raymond Syer, nearby farmer, who owned the property.

"Jake" a jobless Finn known to have been residing with McLaren for the past week is missing, along with a gold watch and about $40 the slain man was known to have been carrying—and with a sketchy description, a blood stained two-foot hardwood stick and a smeared piece of rock as clues the police are working on a trail possibly two days old.

The tragedy was discovered when Syer was paying his usual weekly visit to the farm where McLaren had been looking after his stock for winter months. "I had crossed the fields," Syer told The Examiner, "I guess it would be about half past three in the afternoon, and went to the barn to see how things were there. As soon as I looked inside I saw something was wrong. The stock had not been fed for some time, and I knew something must have happened to Fred.

Rushed To House

I went right to the house, opened the back wood shed door and on looking inside saw the door to the living room of the house, where McLaren was batching it, was open about a foot. Everything was silent. I crossed the woodshed and shoving the door open looked in. There huddled on the floor, lying partly on his side, near the bed was Fred, his head covered with blood and a frozen pool of it on the floor. He apparently was frozen, so I didn't wait to see any more or go into the room but ran for home and phoned to the Coroner Dr. Turner at Millbrook.

Coroner Takes Charge

Dr. Turner on being notified, together with County Constable Ben Raper and Dr. T. W. Nash drove immediately to the scene of the crime situated three miles north and one mile west of Millbrook. It was dark by the time they arrived at the lonely farm house and the scene had to be surveyed with the aid of a flashlight. McLaren was living in only one room of the house, the rest of it being shut up. The place was terribly cold, the range out hours, and the door to the kitchen being open had left it as cold inside as out. The body was sprawled on the floor lying partially on the side, left arm thrown forward, with the right held stiff-

Verigin Deportation Battle Is Under Way

HALIFAX, Feb. 7.—(CP)— Made the central figure in a legal battle a few hours before he was to have been banished from Canada, Peter Verigin today was assured of ample time to adjust the affairs of his Doukhobor colonies in Western Canada.

The bearded spiritual leader of the Doukhobors, ordered to be deported to his native Russia, appeared in supreme court before Mr. Justice Humphrey Mellish today while immigration officials were required to show cause for his detention.

The lawyers in the case engaged in a heated argument over whether or not he could be deported before he finished his sentence for perjury in Prince Albert prison, and his lordship adjourned the hearing until Thursday, Feb. 9.

This is the interpretation placed upon the proposal advanced yesterday during a conference between members of the Cabinet and Sir Ronald Lindsay, Ambassador to the United States who is here to report on his conversations regarding the debts with President - elect Roosevelt.

REDUCE INSPECTORS.

George A. Gillespie Re-appointed Commissioner of City Trust.

With marked joy the City Council received notice last evening from the Nicholls Hospital Board that the Board will require only $400 a month from the city this year, being a reduction of $200 per month from the appropriations required last year.

A further reduction in the hospital's appropriation may be forthcoming, according to a statement of Alderman Fred Tuggey. "There is a reduction in salaries possible at the hospital," said Alderman Tuggey. "The Board has it under consideration now, and if it comes, it is probably that the amount of the reduction may be taken from this $400 a month".

Want Doctor's Report

A report on his activities in caring for indigent patients was submitted by Dr. T. W. H. Young, M. O. H. A copy of the report will be made to each member of the Council, at the request of Alderman Tuggey. "Why shouldn't we get a report on Dr. Young each month," said Alderman Tuggey. "The other officials all submit a monthly report. I move that a monthly report be asked for from Dr. Young."

Notice was received from the Provincial Land Settlement Relief Committee that all members of the five Peterborough families selected by the Council to take up land under the back-to-the-land scheme should receive medical examination from the M.O.H. and be passed upon as to their physical fitness. It was pointed out that the committee wants only strong, healthy persons to come under the scheme.

PIPER MUST BE PAID, REMINDER OF HON. GEORGE H. CHALLIES TO COUNCIL OF UNITED COUNTIES

Cites Low Tax Rate in Township With No Debenture Debt.

MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS.

Deputation to Interview Department Heads at Toronto Regarding Grievances.

(By A Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, Feb. 7.—"You can't pile up a debt that has got to be paid at the rate of interest today, and simply say that you can reduce taxes," Hon. George H. Challies, Provincial Secretary, reminded the members of the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham at a special meeting Monday afternoon which was called for the purpose of discussing some of the controllable expenditures which the council believed the provincial government could assist in re-adjusting.

The cost of highways, education, administration of justice and several other public services fell within the ambit of the conference, which finally ended by the council appointing as a deputation, Warden W. F. Rickard, Newcastle; Deputy-reeve N. A. MacColl, Campbellford; Reeve George Annis, Darlington, and Reeve P. Stinson of Millbrook, to go to Toronto during the session of the Legislature, and present to the heads of the several departments the representations of the counties council.

Although the members received no remuneration for yesterday's meeting, nor mileage expenses, only one of two of the forty seats were vacant, and the public gallery was entirely occupied.

Hon. Mr. Challies was introduced by Fred J. McArthur, M.P.P., Cobourg, and probably as an unscheduled preliminary reviewed the sources of the Ontario government's income and itemized the outgo, in other words, the receipts and expenditures. This section of his address was not only expository, but in some passages was a defense of the government's policy in its maintenance of public services and also in the economies it had effected.

From that provincial survey, the Provincial Secretary turned his attention to the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, and discussed some of the local budget appropriations which the counties council have ineffectually tried to reduce.

Several times during the discussion which proceeded in a most friendly atmosphere, Hon. Mr. Challies reminded the council that since 1928 their sources had been expansive in the construction of paved county roads, which during that time were controllable expenditures. Having "piled up" the debenture debt with its interest charges, the council was forced to look to the most available salients of current expenditure for attack, but the Minister's remark was that the fault had been committed, and there wasn't much else to do but "face the music."

At the same time, he encouraged the proposed interviews with the heads of several of the provincial departments.

$2,420,736 In Five Years

The united counties of Northumberland and Durham had received $2,420,736.01 in road appropriations by the Ontario government for the years 1928 to 1932 inclusive, Hon. Mr. Challies said.

The items of this amount were as follows: King's Highway, $1,141,773.58; county roads, $943,369.96 and township roads, $335,702.01.

And the counties had contributed during that time $228,354.68. These figures showed that the excess of payments by the government for roads built within the counties was $2,192,381.33 over the sum paid by the counties to the government.

The total of school grants paid by the government to the united counties last year was $92,654.67.

"This is one item over which the government has no curtailing authority," Mr. Challies said. "If a school board decides to pay a salary of $300, that it is entirely its own affair, but the government can say

TARIFF BOARD IS APPOINTED; SEDGEWICK HEAD

Sedgewick, Hebert and Campbell Are Members of Federal Tariff Board.

CAMPBELL DARK HORSE.

Justice Sedgewick is Now Presiding at the Assizes in Peterborough.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The Canadian tariff board, legislation for the organization of which was passed by Parliament 20 months ago, will begin to function this week.

Mr. Justice Sedgewick, as forecast, is retiring from the bench of the Supreme Court of Ontario, to accept the chairmanship.

Milton Neil Campbell, Progressive member of Parliament for Mackenzie district of Saskatchewan, is resigning his parliamentary seat to represent the West and more particularly the Canadian Agriculturist on the board.

The third members to to be Charles Hebert, B.A., of Montreal, who will be the French-Canadian representative on the board.

The House of Commons was told by Sir George Perley at 8 o'clock last night that His Excellency this afternoon signed the order-in-Council making the appointments.

Naming of Judge Sedgewick and of Mr. Herbert occasioned no surprise but the inclusion of Mr. Campbell fell as a bolt upon Liberal and Progressive members of Parliament. Formerly a Liberal, he was elected to Parliament in 1921 as a Progressive and while maintaining a thorough independence of action, has continued with the Progressive group.

Swearing In Process

The process of swearing in the members may not be completed until Thursday or Friday, but with the beginner of next week Mr. Justice Sedgewick and his colleagues will be definitely launched upon the work of bringing into operation a fundamental arm of the Imperial Economic agreement.

It will be the work of the board to say whether or not Canadian tariff schedules permit British manufacturers to compete upon a fair basis against domestic manufacturers in the Canadian market. Since the conference complaints have been numerous from several British industries that such a basis is now non-existent and there are indications that a dossier of work sufficient to keep the board most actively employed for 12 months is already awaiting attention of the appointees, and this entirely exclusive of the normal functions of a tariff advisory board.

There has been no tariff board in Canada since the election of the Bennett Government. That which was operative under the King regime was appointed by order-in-Council and was a sort of personal advisory board to the Minister of Finance. With Mr. Bennett's advent to office the order-in-Council was scrapped and at the first regular session under him in 1931 legislation was introduced to create by statute a tariff board as a fact-finding body for the guidance of Parliament in dealing with tariff structure.

In 1931 the Government endeavored to find a board that would command public confidence, but those who were sought would not act and those who sought the positions were deemed unacceptable. In consequence the positions languished for several months and before they were filled there arose a certainty that the economic conference would be held in Ottawa last Summer.

Extension of Functions

It became evident that the primarily intended functions of the board might require extension in the light of possible developments at the conference even to the point of different qualifications for the personnel, and in consequence, no further endeavor was then made to name the membership.

Following the conference efforts were renewed and with singular unanimity Mr Justice Sedgewick was

DEBT QUESTION TO BE STUDIED BY COMMONERS

Bill to be Introduced to Tighten the Income Tax Regulations.

NEW GOVERNMENT LOAN.

Changes in Representation to House of Commons is Proposed.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7. —(CP)— One and possibly two baffling economic problems will be grappled with by the House of Commons this session in an attempt to lighten the blows of the depression on the Canadian people.

The Commons committee on Banking and Commerce will study the question of debts and interest charges with a view to finding a way of lightening the burden of pubic and private debt and Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, indicated the government would lend a sympathetic ear to a proposal for an inquiry into the spread between the prices of raw materials and finished products.

Private members day in the Commons yesterday found opposition members more successful in catching the ear of the administration that government supports as six resolutions were dealt with.

Debt Problem

The debt problem was laid before the house by Alfred Speakman (U.F.A., Red Deer) whose proposed inquiry was promptly approved by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, and Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. Mr. Speakman had no solution of the problem but stressed its seriousness and the paralysing effect on debts on both agriculture and industry. The committee will have the responsibility of finding a way out. Indication the government had not been idle in the matter was given by Mr. Rhodes who said discussions had been carried on between the Dominion and the provinces "looking to some arrangement." He declined to go further lest his words be misconstrued.

The spread between the price the farmer received for his raw products such as hides and wool and the cost of the finished product was what worried Robert McKenzie (Lib. Assiniboia). He proposed an inquiry and, although the discussion was not complete, Mr. Stevens promised the consideration of the government and added he would have nothing antagonistic to say when the matter comes up again in a few days.

A. E. Munn (Lib., Vancouver North) had no difficulty persuading the Government to adopt his proposal to require banks, trust companies and other agents to deduct the income tax payable on bearer bonds when cashing coupons and turn it in to the treasury. Mr. Rhodes announced he had a bill designed to tighten income tax regulations regarding bearer bonds.

The perennial proposal of Armand Lavergne, Deputy Speaker, to change the name of Canada from the "Dominion of Canada" to the "Kingdom of Canada" was discussed briefly, but little support was offered and it will come up again.

Canadian Flag

Another perennial scheme, the Canadian flag resolution of Cameron McIntosh (Lib., North Battleford), was disposed of when Mr. McIntosh announced he thought Parliament should give its attention to more pressing problems and withdrew the resolution for this session.

A change in the system of determining the membership of the House of Commons was proposed by J. A. Barette (Cons., Berthier, Maskinonge). He climed the present system was unfair to the Province of Quebec, which now has a fixed representation of 65 members. Instead he would give Ontario the fixed representation and measure the membership of other provinces by an Ontario instead of a Quebec

COMMUNISTS ORGANIZERS OF PRISON RIOTS

Inefficiency of Portsmouth Prison Staff is Cited in Ormond's Report.

DISCIPLINE VERY BAD.

Haphazard Firing Took Place at Time of Penitentiary Outbreak.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The record of agitation charged against Toronto's eight most prominent Communists when they were sentenced last winter was swelled yesterday by a direct allegation of participation in the October revolt at Portsmouth Penitentiary.

"Admission during February, 1932, of certain convicts who were especially adept in organizing and inciting disturbances against constituted authority," read the generalized but unmistakable reference to the alleged activities of Tim Buck and his associates contained in the official report of the Kingston outbreaks which was tabled yesterday in the House of Commons.

Charging officials of the institution as well as certain of their superiors at Ottawa with responsibility for inefficiency and incompetence of the most alarming kind, the report which was made by Brig.-General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, was regarded here as one of the severest indictments ever made against a branch of the Canadian civil service.

Graphic Account of Events.

A graphic account of the events of Oct. 17 and 20, when convicts held two of the chief penitentiary officers captive for a time and when, in General Ormond's opinion, a general delivery might easily have been accomplished, was embellished in the report by outspoken comments on the apparent inability of practically all the institution's staff to meet the crisis confronting them.

According to General Ormond, the penitentiary officials had been improperly supervised and badly inspected for at least ten years. Officials, he said, did not even know the penitentiary regulations. He traced the riots to this state of affairs, coupled with the discontent of the convicts due to insufficient exercise and deprivation of cigarette papers; to the large number of young but apparently hardened prisoners and to the general monotony of prison life.

"I am also of the opinion," he added, "that two or three convicts, whose identity has not been disclosed up to the present time, are the principal organizers of the outbreak."

General Ormond's report contained a long recital of the shortcomings of officials. Ex-Warden J. C. Ponsford apparently failed to obey instructions to erect a barrier across one of the prison gates. Ex-Inspector Smith, on taking charge, failed to heed the warnings given him against possible riots while the acting warden, E. R. Jackson, now retired, held that as the institution had gone 100 years without violent outbreaks, it was "safe and secure if the man in charge gave it proper supervision."

Inefficiency of Staff.

"Information gleaned from Deputy Warden M. J. Walsh further impressed me the whole of the penitentiary staff was much less efficient than even my low estimate had led me to believe. It was apparent there was no organization of any kind to handle the situation that existed and expedients were necessary."

General Ormond, on previous inspections, found a guard who was unable even to properly load his rifle and shot gun. The weapons, said the general, were badly conditioned and inexcusably dirty.

The three convicts whose interviews he submits all complained of petty tyranny and persecution by officers of the institution, insufficient recreation and no cigarette papers. One added that magazines and periodicals were too severely censored and that penitentiary officers would sell the censored parts to convicts with the means to buy. Another denounced punishment as unjust and dehumanizing and held that diseased men used the same dishes, towels, shaving brushes and razors as other convicts. The third charged that he had been unjustly punished for participation in a conspiracy of August, 1931, "on the unsupported word of a pervert whose name he refused to give but investigation has shown it was convict—"

General Ormond gives an interesting insight into the psychology of one of these three prisoners whom he refers to as "F." He writes: :"F" boasted that he had been born a thief, had always been a thief and intended to die a thief, that he was undergoing a sentence of life and seven years, that he did not expect to get out of the penitentiary alive and his life meant nothing to him and he was willing to sacrifice it if by losing it he would make things easier for future generations of convicts in Kingston Penitentiary.

RETURNED BILL AGAINST NEGRO

Edward Jackson Must Stand Trial, Grand Jury Decides.

FIRST CIVIL CASE

Intimation was made by Special Crown Prosecutor Thomas F. Battle, K.C., late yesterday afternoon that a true bill had been arrived at, indicting Edward Jackson of a charge of murder in respect to the slaying of his colored companion, Eugene Lee in Dummer township last October.

While the Grand Jury's presentment had not been formally placed before Mr. Justice Sedgewick when the court adjourned last evening, it was expected that the murder trial would be one of the first matters to be dealt with by the court, folowing the disposal of a civil case, the hearing of which was almost completed last evening.

The large crowd that gathered for the opening of the Assizes yesterday afternoon filled the court room long before the hour scheduled for the commencement of the proceedings, and many persons were turned away. Undoubtedly Jackson, the big powerful mulatto who has been held in custody at the County Gaol since the middle of last October when he was committed for trial on the capital charge, was the centre of interest. His failure to put in an appearance in court probably caused not a little disappointment. At all events when the civil action, Paquette vs. Brown had been launched on its comparatively dry and dusty course, the crowd rapidly thinned away to nothing.

Grand Jury Panel.

The Grand Jury is composed of the following: M. T. Breckenridge, 315 Pearl avenue (foreman); Clarence Campbell, Chandos; Wellington Dunsford, Burleigh; P. M. Grover, Norwood; R. A. SAMUEL PARTY INDEPENDENT Leader Announces Liberals Now Under No Obligation to Support Government.

OBJECTS TO POLICY.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A declaration of independence from the "National" government by the parliamentary Liberal party was voiced today by its leader, Sir Herbert Samuel, at a luncheon given in his honor by the party whips.

Sir Herbert did not indicate that his Liberal group would cross the House of Commons to the opposition side in what he characterized as "the rubber stamp parliament," but he declared that "the Liberal party is under no obligation to support the National government as it is now constituted, with its policy as now declared. The Liberal party is free and Independent."

He was still reluctant to declare that parliamentary cooperation no longer is possible, "But," he said, "it must become impossible when it becomes clear that the government has no effective policy. Then it will become the National duty to say so and to take the course which would follow."

He objected particularly to the government's protectionist policy, asserting that the British tariffs "have been an utter failure."

His declaration does not affect the National Liberals, whose chief is Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary.

They arrived in Canada last November from Japan, where they are connected with the Japanese Evangelical Band, a missionary organization that co-operates with the other churches in Japan and supplements their missionary activities. It also reaches out in its own Forward Movement, to un-evangelized areas especially in the villages. Its headquarters in Japan are in Kobe. Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbertson, who visited the latter's brother in Western Canada before coming here, are leaving in April for England, where the headquarters of the Evangelical Band are located. There they will spend the summer, returning to Canada next fall and leaving for Japan the following January.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

LAST WEEK, I believe, I promised to give some recipes for fancy breads made with baking powder or soda.

• • • • • • •

Well, here they are—recipes which are new and have been developed to stress variety.

• • • • • • •

The first is Nut Rye Bread—1½ cups rye flour, ¾ cup corn meal, 2 cups white flour, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1¼ teaspoons salt, 4 level teaspoons baking powder, ¼ cup shortening, 1½ cups milk, ¾ cups chopped nut meats.

• • • • • • •

Mix and sift together dry ingredients. Rub in shortening and lightly stir in the milk. Add nuts. Put in one bread pan or two small ones.

• • • • • • •

Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cover top of pan with another overturned pan for fifteen minutes. Remove carefully without jarring the bread.

• • • • • • •

Orange and Date Bread: One quart flour as follows—3 cups whole wheat and one of bread flour, ¼ cup each of molasses and sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups sour milk, one teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon melted butter, grated rind of one orange (large), half cup shaved candied orange peel, and finely cut up dates.

• • • • • • •

Mix and sift dry ingredients except soda. Add soda to molasses, and gradually stir in the sour milk. Add melted butter. Stir in dry ingredients lightly and add grated rind and fruit last.

• • • • • • •

The dough should be quite stiff so a little more white flour may be added if needed. Put in bread pan or pans and bake in a slow oven about 325 degrees for one hour.

• • • • • • •

This bread is nicest when allowed to stand in pans well covered in a warm place for half an hour before going into the oven. When baking, put overturned pan above the bread pan as described in the previous recipe.

• • • • • • •

Remove after fifteen minutes, and continue baking.

Your Health

By Dr LOGAN CLENDENING

A MOTHER writes to ask about convulsions in her two children. She states there is no epilepsy on either side of the family, but she is naturally very much disturbed, and fears it appearance in her children.

Convulsions in children are usually due to high fever. Nearly any infection producing fever, no matter how simple, even if it comes from absorption from the intestines, can produce convulsions in the highly sensitive and responsive nervous systems of infants and young children.

For this reason, the old treatment for convulsions in children, which consisted of putting the child in a bath of cold water, was so especially effective. The water reduced the fever and produced a change in the tone of the circulatory system, and in this way stopped the convulsion.

Rickets is another cause of infantile or childhood convulsions—standing in frequently midway between convulsions due to fever and epileptic convulsions.

The cause of convulsions in rickets is probably disturbance of the calcium metabolism, and is really a form of disease called "tetany." It is usually very easy to relieve by treatment directed at the causative factor, rickets.

If convulsions in children continue to appear at regular intervals, with no relation to fever, it is usually more serious and nearly always means epilepsy. However, this is at least 20 or 30 times less frequently the cause of convulsions in children than the other, and the simpler reasons.

Children vary considerably in their susceptibility to convulsions. Just as a child's nervous system is more high strung than an adult's, so certain children are more high strung than others, and in these, convulsions are liable to occur from very trivial causes.

Whooping cough is frequently complicated by convulsions in these children.

On the whole, it is wisdom for parents not to worry about convulsions, no matter how frequently they occur during childhood, provided there is no history of epilepsy in the family, until the child is at least 10 or 12 years old, at which time if convulsions persist, they are probably epileptic in nature.

Mylady Now Wearing Heart On Fingernails

(By Ruth Cowan, A. P. Staff Writer)

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Instead of wearing her heart on her sleeve here's a new manner of greeting St. Valentine's Day the modern girl has at hand—red hearts painted with nail-polish on her ten finger tips.

That's the latest fad introduced today by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' Association at its semi-annual style revue.

The heart is painted on the nails with the points outlined on the tip with platinum polish. The moon at the base of the nail forms the white background for the top of the heart.

Civilization has passed successively through the bronze, iron, and steel ages and is now said to be in the chrome-alloy age.

Pearl buttons, clips and buckles play an important part in the decorative style scheme.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

"DEAR MISS GLAD: I know that it's simply splendid for a person to take a cold shower upon arising each morning, but I just can't seem to do it. I find it mighty tough to drench myself with cold water after leaving a nice, warm bed, and I just about freeze to death. Is there any way in which I could overcome this?

"BELLE."

If you find it difficult to step under a spray of cold water after leaving the warmth of your bed, I'd suggest that you regulate the temperature of the water. Allow it to be tepid at first, and then gradually make it cooler. This will not detract from the effectiveness of the cold shower at all. Always follow a cold shower by a brisk rubdown with a Turkish towel, in order to tone the circulation and make the body glow with warmth and health. A cold shower should make you feel full of health and vigor, and if it doesn't, if it chills you, you'd better stick to warm showers. For some folks simply cannot stand the shock of cold water on the body.

"Dear Miss Glad: I've just completed that excellent reducing course in your "New Figure" booklet, and have lost 35 pounds all told. This brings me down to my normal weight, and I certainly do look pretty swell now. I'm afraid I might gain weight again, however, and was wondering if there is anything I could do to retain my present weight. Can you advise me?

"MARIA."

If you wish to retain your present weight, and you have a tendency to obesity, be careful of your diet. You may resume a normal diet, of course, but don't adopt any improper food habits. Eat wisely and sensibly. Also, select one day out of every seven to imbibe nothing but liquids such as tea, coffee, water, orange juice, grapefruit, buttermilk and the like. If you feel faint, take an apple or two. But one liquid day each week will do wonders to keep the weight of your body normal.

U. S. Supplied 13,709 of 20,591 Quota Last Year—27,530 in 1931.

3,327 FROM BRITAIN.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7 (C.P.)—A continued falling off in immigration to Canada in 1932 brought the total for the calendar year down to 20,591 as compared with 27,530 the previous year. United States supplied the bulk of these immigrants, 13,709; while 3,327 came from the British Isles. Northern European races made up 909 of the remainder and all other races 2,646.

In addition to these immigrants the population was increased by the return of 18,220 Canadians who returned from United States.

Immigration from the British Isles decreased 57 per cent as compared with the previous year, while from United States the drop was only 10 per cent., from Northern Europe, 31 per cent, and other countries 21 per cent, an average 25 per cent. decrease.

Ontario got the largest share of immigrants with a total of 9,312; the others being distributed as follows: Quebec, 4,134; British Columbia, 1,950; Alberta, 1,692; Saskatchewan, 971; Nova Scotia, 916; Manitoba, 757; New Brunswick, 646; Prince Edward Island, 200; Yukon Territory, 10, and Northwest Territories, 3.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

NEVER DECEIVE PARTNER

To cope with skilled players, the defenders must make use of conventional plays against the declarer, and these conventional plays should be so much a matter of routine that they will be observed automatically. The hand below went game because A twice running failed to play conventionally, thus causing his partner to misread the situation.

Bidding had gone: Z, 1-Spade (which was not a good bid; Z should have passed, and bid later); A, 2-Clubs; Y, 2-Diamonds; B, 2-Hearts; Z, 2-Spades; A, 3-Hearts; Y, 3-Spades; B, 4-Hearts; Z, 4-Spades, ending the auction.

Neither side can go game against proper defense. Each can be held down to three-odd, if opponents pick off their four winning tricks.

A made an opening lead of his K of hearts, and held the trick. His partner played the 8 as a come-on. Instead of playing his next highest card (the 7), so that B would miss the 2 and credit A with having been dealt three hearts, A made the mistake of leading the 2, as if he held no more hearts. B won the trick with his 10, over the play of dummy's 9. It seemed to B that two heart tricks and one ruff of that suit could be made. He also hoped for two club tricks and one possible ruff of that suit. Winning six tricks would defeat the game contract by three tricks. As B saw it, even if dummy trumped high on the third lead of clubs the contract would be defeated two tricks.

B led his K of clubs. A should have played his 8 as a come-on. Instead of this, A played a discouragement card—the 2. It is not enough to have bid a suit. When partner leads a winning card of the suit that you have bid, you must inform partner whether or not you wish him to lead another round of the same suit. From B's position the 2 of clubs definitely requested B not to lead a second round of clubs. It appeared as if A held no more hearts, and that he was asking his partner to lead a heart, so that he might trump the trick.

In place of winning a second round of clubs at once, thereby defeating the contract by one trick, B led back a third round of hearts, expecting his partner to trump the trick. Of course the declarer trumped the trick. He pulled all opposing trump, discarded his losing club on dummy's established diamonds, and went game.

HOSPITAL CUTS REQUIREMENT $200 A MONTH

ratepayers, were given their third reading and passed.

George A. Gillespie was reappointed commissioner of the City Trust for a five year term.

A by-law was passed for the securing of $3,000 from the City Trust to be used in the purchase of the Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company's property. The money has been received already from the City Trust and paid over to the company and the city has received the deed of the property, the by-law being a mere formality.

"Where do the duties of the City Trust begin and where do they end, and what has it to do in the handling of the city's monies?" asked Alderman Tuggey. In the Ontario Statutes for 1908, replied City Clerk Armstrong.

Pass the Petition

Ayes and nays were called for by Alderman Tuggey on the third vote upon the passing of the by-law to petition the Provincial Government to amend the statutes so that an alderman, whose term of office has more than one month to run after nomination day, shall not be eligible to be elected mayor of the City of Peterborough unless he has resigned from the Council at least five days before nomination day.

All the Council except Alderman Tuggey and McIntyre said "Aye", and the petition carried.

Alderman Tuggey declared it was a waste of public money, and it was suggested that gentleman's agreement might be drawn up among the members of the Council that they would resign before offering themselves for mayor. Alderman Holland said that a council in the past had failed to provide for such a situation and "it is our duty now to carry it out to what it should be". The others expressed the same view.

The name of the Central Charity Board was changed to Central Relief Board, at the request of the members of the board.

Reduce Inspectors to Two

Also at the request of the Relief Board, the number of relief inspectors was reduced from four to two. The two retained are N. E. Phelan and F. G. McNeely. The other two will have their services dispensed with on February 15.

W. Hutchison application for a laundry at 504 George street was not passed, Inspector Stapleton reporting that an examination showed that the premises were unsuitable for a laundry, although the applicant himself met all requirements. Mr. Hutchison will be informed that if he is to open a laundry he must secure a suitable place.

The City Treasurer was instructed by resolution to hand over the balance of the relief fund to the use of the relief board for relief purposes.

On recommendation of Alderman Holland, chairman of the Property Committee, the fire insurance on the incinerator will be cancelled. He said that there was nothing at the plant that could be destroyed by fire.

Alderman McIntyre suggested that the aldermen consider the advisability of reducing the assessment on property. "The assessor will be going out upon his rounds in about two months, and this is something to think about," he said.

"It will mean increasing our tax rate," said the Mayor.

AN INTERESTING SOUVENIR.

A most interesting volume is the splendidly printed and prepared souvenir booklet issued by the Bank of Nova Scotia to commemorate its one hundredth anniversary.

This centennial booklet, which gives in some detail the story of the bank's organization and its growth and progress during the past one hundred years, makes fascinating reading for all Canadians who are interested in the development of their own country, for the bank's record of achievement is likewise the romance of the Dominion's great expansion during the same period.

As President S. J. Moore says in a foreword, "To have exercised the functions and worthily performed the obligations of a Canadian chartered bank for one hundred years is something to reflect upon with pardonable pride."

The Bank of Nova Scotia, which began operations in 1833, has played no small part in Canada's growth; such an institution steadily developing in strength has made its every move an important contribution to the progress of the Dominion, and as the president modestly puts it, "has sought intelligently and sympathetically to be of assistance in promoting the best interests of the country."

TOO MANY PERSONALITIES.

"This is an opportune time to say," remarks the Border Cities Star, "that Mr. Woodsworth, Mr. Bennett and other public men should be more careful in their utterances, especially when referring to opponents. A certain section of the public enjoys it, of course, but we would hate to believe that it is generally approved."

This warning, The Examiner feels, is timely and justified.

There are too many present-day politicians who think that it is good tactics to subject those who hold different views to their own to all kinds of personal abuse, and they carry it far beyond the bounds of good taste or of good sense.

It should surely be possible to discuss public issues and policies effectively without dragging in personal attacks upon opponents, but apparently many of our leading lights in the political arena have not realized that fact, for many of the things said on the public platform in recent speeches have disgusted the fair-minded portion of the community.

Not only Mr. Woodsworth and Mr. Bennett, who are named by the Border Cities Star, but others, notably Mr. Hepburn, have been guilty of the same offence, and even Miss Agnes MacPhail is not above venting her sarcasm upon those who do not agree with her views.

Constructive criticism is helpful, but there has been a great deal of the other kind indulged in that has accomplished nothing; on the contrary, has done a great deal of harm.

THE RIGHT STEP.

Public opinion will be behind the Board of Health in its decision to exercise a greater measure of control over the finances and the general operation of the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital.

It is clear that under the Health Act the responsibility of administering the institution rests with the Health Board, and there is every reason therefore why there should be close co-operation between the hospital staff and the board.

There is often a tendency on the part of some branches of the public service to imagine that they are a law unto themselves, and it is just as well, especially in times like these when every expenditure needs to be closely scrutinized, that public servants who are suffering from that form of delusion should be reminded that they are responsible to the representatives of the people who pay their salaries.

If there have been "frills" and unnecessary expense in connection with the Isolation Hospital or the Health Department generally they most certainly should be eliminated; present conditions with tax bills proving a terrible strain to many property owners do not encourage extravagance in any branch of the public service.

The pruning knife has to be used vigorously on the appropriations of all departments, and in deciding that non-essentials shall be trimmed from the appropriations of the Queen Mary Hospital the Board of Health is merely yielding to an insistent demand for economy in every field of public expenditure.

EVICT SHELF-WARMERS.

The folly of a storekeeper's wasting time, energy and money—and negligently sacrificing the possibility of profit—by insisting upon carrying lines that are certain in his particular case to be slow-turning "shelf-warmers" is illustrated forcefully by the results of recent studies of retailing establishments made by the Department of Commerce of the United States.

Examples of discoveres made by the Department of Commerce men are given by Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, in the February Rotarian magazine. He tells of one grocery store where there were cases of tuna fish of a kind that are commercially extinct at the present time (they have not been caught in years); there were also large quantities of those big No. 10 "hotel size" cans of fruits and vegetables—holding something like a gallon—cans that no individual customer would conceivably think of buying unless he were going to stage a public wedding dinner or to give a party for the fire department.

In another case, a student of business practices visited a merchant who exhibited, among his stocks, articles that had been on his shelves for more than a quarter of a century and were still awaiting a buyer.

"I cannot too strongly emphasize," says Dr. Klein, "the fact that any merchant who is striving for success with true determination should make a drastic check-up of the items he has been handling. If they prove to be slow-moving and unprofitable he should have no hesitation whatever in eliminating them. Nor should he permit himself to be deterred from such action by any false pride in 'carrying a complete line' or 'always being able to supply a customer's wants.'

"Many retailers have been finding, to their great gratification," he continues, "that they can make considerably more money than they have been making, by ruthlessly wielding the pruning-knife on the number of lines carried, or by effecting changes and readjustments in the character of the lines.

"The question rests simply upon the relationship existing between turnover, on the one hand, and overhead and other operating costs on the other. Whether turnover is fast or slow, whether goods are sold or slumber in peace, the charges for rent, heat, light, insurance, interest, stock care, and other items of overhead run right on."

WHAT WILL WE DO ABOUT IT?

Premier Bennett says that the country is near its taxation limits. He has probably come to this conclusion by looking at the estimates of tax expectation based on increased levies in 1932 and comparing them with the amount which has actually been realized. The comparison is disappointing.

The logical way for the country to accept this statement is by concluding that the people themselves will have to enter into the position faced by the Government and try and make the best of it.

We will have to learn to quit asking for things; we must do with less service; we will have to cease expecting customary grants. In short, our attitude should be that we are willing to help our Government in getting through what is undoubtedly a financial crisis.

Is it too much to suggest that Canadians, in such a time, should cease demanding payment for their coupons on Government bonds in New York funds just because they may be entitled to do on certain issues?

When a Canadian resident clips his 5 per cent. coupons and takes Canadian dollars for them he is being paid every cent he contracted for; he is being called upon to make no sacrifice.

When he turns them in for collection in New York, he is taking advantage of the exchange situation to get from his own country money which his own country cannot afford to pay.

By insisting upon his pound of financial flesh he is helping to increase the severity of the present situation.

In Britain the people who held millions of Government securities turned them in and accepted issues of lesser interest rate, the idea being to help the Government meet its bills and keep the country solvent.

If we cannot take the same attitude in Canada, then we have not the inherent strength and deep patriotism which is the proud possession of the people of the Old Land.

We are going through the present crisis only once, and upon the manner in which we size up to our problems will depend the degree of strength we possess when we emerge from the time of trouble.

We should at once quit gouging our own country. —Stratford Beacon-Herald.

OUR DEBENTURE DEBT.

The London Free Press, dealing editorially with the subject of inflation of currency, opened up an interesting discussion by making the statement that "London is in the unique and fortunate position of being the only city in Canada which has no debentures payable in United States funds."

London is indeed fortunate in having all its debenture debt payable in Canadian funds—but it is not the only city thus favored.

The Sarnia Observer, noting the proud boast in London, hastened to remark that "the city of Sarnia is also in the same unique and fortunate position. It has no debt payable in United States funds and its general financial condition is such that it can look to the future with confidence."

Since this seems to be a wide open discussion the Daily News would like to get into it long enough to say that Chatham, too, has no debentures payable in United States funds.

In fact, we can go probably farther than most Canadian cities, and add that the vast majority of our debentures are in the possession of Chatham people.

Several years ago when Mr. Thomas E. Cottier was clerk-treasurer, he introduced the system of offering Chatham debentures to Chatham people. There were two advantages to the idea; it kept Chatham citizens keenly interested in their city from a financial standpoint, and also enabled the debentures to be sold at par, with no investment house commissions.

Under Clerk-Treasurer William M. Foreman, the system of disposing of city debentures locally has been continued—in fact, during the past five years there have been more debentures sold locally than at any other time.

All of Chatham's local improvement debentures are owned locally. The Vocational School debentures were disposed of through sale to Chatham people. In fact, there have been only two important debenture issues in recent years which have been sold through bond houses. These were the Hydro-Electric debenture issue, number five, and the Fifth street bridge debentures. These were sold through a Toronto firm and are payable in Canadian funds.

Moreover, practically every Chatham debenture is payable at the Chatham office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The exceptions are one or two Hydro issues.

So that Chatham's record in the point under discussion is as unique as it is creditable. It is worth publishing, in order to let Chatham people know how competently their financial affairs are being managed.—Chatham News.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Relief Fund total is at the half-way mark with only a couple of hundred citizens heard from. Surely the second half will be forthcoming without delay in view of the urgency of the call.

Hon. G. H. Ferguson denies that he has had any split with Premier Bennett. The fact that he is still on the job should be proof enough of the truth of his statement.

The Ottawa Government is being called upon in some quarters to resign because of its attitude toward Russian trade. But surely no other administration would enter upon a deal in which the Government would have to take all the financial risk.

The Government has decided to appeal the magistrate's ruling in a recent Windsor radio license case. It is of the utmost importance that this matter should be definitely settled because it affects nearly everybody.

MURDER IN EDEN

By Charles Winfield Smith.

CHAPTER 36

It was well after midnight when Jere Kane left the apartment of Harmony Hale and started homeward Comfortably ensconced in a cab which he had hailed on the boulevard two blocks from the building in which she had resided, he gave himself up to contemplation of he affair, and particularly to consideration of he knowledg he had gleaned from his visit with her.

So far as obtaining real clues to the identity of the murderer was concerned his conversation with Harmony was a failure. But it had been enlightening; it had given him an insight in a side of Bailey's character which he had suspected but had discarded as being too fanciful, too far fetched.

Moreover, Evelyn Deane had been cleared. He could not help but admire her. A woman who cast her lot, found the cards stacked against her and took her medicine without a whimper! Proud! Willing to take her ch nces in another cruel, exacting life rather than to accept gratuities from the world which had cast her out.

When he reached his hotel he found Dorotha awaiting him. She s w him pass th ough the lobby and followed him to the elevator, catching up with him just a he was about to step into the car. He could not conceal his surprise at seeing her.

"I know it's late,' she said anxiously, "but I must talk to you.

He led her into the palm room, which was deserted, exc pt for themselves and a bellboy cleaning up tobacco a hes from t e floor. She waited until he was one, then:

"It's about this," she said, handing him a large envelope, inscribed in a woman's handwriting.

Kane drew forth a sheet of paper, obviously woman's note pap r inted and perfumed and of finer quality than the cheap envelope. Th re was no writing on the sheet of paper, only a rough dia ram and under it a large question mark.

He looked again at the envelope. It was addressed to Dorotha.

She watched him eagerly, intently, with bated breath.

He r cognized the diagram as that o the home of Nanett L Roi. 'Where did this come from?" he dem nded

"I found it in Nanette's room tonight." As he cast a questioning glance at her she went on hurriedly: "I saw that it w s addressed to me so I took it. When I saw what it was I decided to come to you."

"Is that Miss LeRoi's handwriting?" He indicated the inscription on the envelope.

"No."

He held up the sheet of paper. 'Do you recognize the stationery?"

"Yes," she s oke in a whisper. "It is from her personal folio."

"Why did you come to me?' he asked. "Why didn't ou ask her about it?"

"Because she isn't at home."

"Not at home!" he exclaimed in surprise.

"No. She and Mr. Holmes motored over into Nevada to be married.'

Kane smiled in a satisfied way, but th smile quickly faded and his brows furrow d in puzzlement. They had gone o be married! Richard Bailey was hardly in his gr ve and ye—

He though: of that queer provis'on of th aw behind which so many murderers have hidden: that a man or wife cannot testify against his or her mat . What did this new development mean?

To Dorotha he said, "You'd better go home. I suppose they will return tomorrow. I will see you then.'

She was cognizant of the fact that he was puzzl d about something and she explained:

"They're not going to reveal their marriage for some time. You can understand why."

Kane thought he did understand.

"Lucy Wilbur and Larry Weldon went with them," he added.

He started, but said nothing. Dorotha said that she had driven down in her own car and that she could get home safely enough. He accompanied her outside and then went to his room.

This new turn of event disturbed him. He dropped down in his chai. before the window and stared out into the moonlit night. Perhaps he would have been even more disturbed if he could have been in the office of Police Chief John Lee at that moment

Lee, with two of his men, were seated at his desk. They were going over a sheaf of papers. When they had looked at the last one:

"Bailey was spending money like a drunken sailor," Lee growled.

"Yeah," one of the detectives muttered, "but where was he gett ng it?"

"That's the question," Lee agreed. "Look at these cancelled checks. Here's one for a thousand dollars. Here's another for five hundred. And here's another one for seven hundred and fifty."

"Don't it strike you as being kind of que r, chief," the second detective asked, "that there ain't none of them made out to nobody. Everyone of hem is made out to 'cash,' which means that he got the money at the bank himself and passed out he good old hard coin to those who go the dough."

"Yes, and doesn't it strike you as being a bit peculiar," the chief added, "that every one of these checks was drawn during the past three weeks?"

"Which make: Clancy's question double barreled," the second detective grunted. "It ain't only where he was getting the money but where he was spending it."

"It's strange," John Le mused, "that he didn't keep any record of where he was getting his money."

While the chief and his two men were discussing this phase of the problem Jere Kane was considering the answer. He had procured Bailey's diary from his valise, where he had deposited it for safe-keeping that morning, and had turned to an entry made several days before the fatal night.

He knew where Richard Bailey was getting his money. Here it was before his very eyes, screaming at him, trying to make him comprehend:

"Bernie seems interested in my foreign importation. If I can put over that fraud—it has been done before in Hollywood—I will be on top of the world again. Once more the gods will smile on me and call me 'Richard Bailey, Star Maker.' The poor little fool! She's willing to give me half her fortune to put her over.'

Idly, almost unconsciously, he turned the pages until his gaze fell on the entry that had so in rigued him when he first came across it:

"Men are queer creatures. I suppose that th y are bigamists by ordination of God. What other explanation can there be for their unholy deeds? But, being bigamists, there always comes i to their lives one woman whom they would place upon a pedestal as they would their God. Men will fight to protect her, to guard her welfare, to keep her clean. He looks upon her as a creature of gold and alabaster. Then, when he finds her feet are made of clay—what happens to him?"

What an insight into a man's soul! Those who knew Richard Bailey would have thought him incapable of such thoughts. Was he tortured by remorse when he wrote that? Was there some woman in the past who had inspired those words? Or ha someone come into his life to chasten him and then reveal herself as something different from what he had considered her?

Thus Kane's thoughts ran and he found himself even deeper in the mire of bewilderment than ever before.

He closed the little volume and balanced it on his knee, the while he gazed at it in contemplation. Suddenly, he tossed it onto a table which stood in the corner of the room with a cry of disgust.

"What I need is sleep," he muttered, and a few moments later he was in bed and sound asleep.

CIVIC INTEGRITY.

Dear Mr. Editor:

The letter of the Hon. George N. Gordon to The Examiner has the merit of frankness and approval of the trend toward investigating commissions, "with the object of cutting down useless and wasteful expenditures" and "a strict financial review" of what has actually happened, or as a guage of what to avoid in the future.

Fault finding is in the air and the air is murky. The people need a deeper sense of consciousness as taxpayers before they can, in fairness, discredit representatives they deliberately choose to conduct their business. Few taxpayers know or care about assessments, levies, taxrates, outlay or debt as they multiply—even since 1925—until 'all of a sudden' they become keenly concerned. Then, what is more needful than clear air and clear, discerning vision to see the right way ahead—not behind.

Though Mr. Gordon did not directly refer to Civic Integrity, he implied a tampering with it, by reference to incidents that, in his view, were vague and unexplained. The usual purpose of a review commission is to discover hidden faults or guilts; as a constructive measure it has little force or value in the public mind, aside from partisan bigotry.

The competent administration of the affairs of the City requires executive subordinates; precisely as they exist in every well-ordered business or municipal corporation. If the taxpayers sensed the trend of the city's affairs and now perceive the ultimate value of conservation and Civic Integrity, the Council, Board of Education, Utilities Commission, and every division of the public service, will do closer figuring and more careful planning than has ever been done or is now being done.

Peterborough needs a Royal Commission of thorough-going competency, to be appointed on merit of fitness, for the job of analysing the City's business for the future. That and that only will correct the faults and liberalities of the past. Originality, ability and the courage of integrity will hold and develop a city of distinction in its greater future ahead.

ASKS FOR MORE VARIED DIET.

Peterborough, Feb. 3, 1933.

Editor, Examiner, City.

Dear Sir,—While we are all waiting for prosperity to come out from around that famous corner will you kindly allow me space for a few remarks concerning just the food that people unfortunate enough to be maintaining existence on relief are expected to do with.

I am aware of the heinous charges of ingratitude which some will make in answer to this statement. Also, I appreciate the problems the Relief Board have to confront, and also the good work our different charitable organizations are doing.

It is well for the rest of humanity that there are these people seeking no reward for their good works, but the knowledge that they are helping to relief distress, but it needs no dietition to understand what happens to the health of people who are forced to live on a diet of potatoes, beans, bread and bacon. True, it maintains life and prevents hunger if one can eat it, but if the Government is penny-wise and pound-foolish enough to dole out only certain articles of food, they will in turn be forced to pay for medical attention and medicines. This is not ingratitude, but common sense, and there is no need of such restraint, not that anyone would expect relief to supply luxuries or things one formerly was accustomed to. That would be impossible. But with prices at the low level they are to-day, abundance of everything, certain articles refused to people are not luxuries—they are no more expensive than the articles listed on the relief orders. For instance, apples are plentiful and cheap, but are tabooed. Fruit or green vegetables are necessary for the maintenance of health. Is health so unimportant a thing then? Truly man cannot live by bread alone. The morale of the people is being broken by such drastic measures, the spirit of humanity being slowly crushed. The poor are forbidden any amusement, although I believe they were permitted to look at the free street parade recently. Now, even the criminals in our prisons are not required to exist without any recreation or amusement. On top of this the strain of worry and care will be such that our mental homes will never lack occupants. People are breaking and the optimists can no longer fool them with Pollyanna talk. Patience and resignation are preached to keep the people quiet, on the other hand. "The ungrateful poor!"—when all they ask is a chance to earn a living. They can no longer obey the command to earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. This is denied them. In by-gone times when food was scarce, before land was cultivated or farms settled, it was necessary to live in a certain manner, but not necessary nowadays. The stuff is here and is cheap. What is the point in refusing to allow it? What possible difference can it make to the Government if a person eats an apple or a potato? Are our children to grow up under-nourished and anaemic to satisfy a whim which has no justification? I know people who go hungry because they cannot eat the sort of food that no one but a hard-working, robust lumberman could relish. It is all so unnecessary, too.

Secondly, there would be no oversupply of anything if men had work and money to buy. Over-production would be unknown. There are just as many people to require things as there ever were. The trouble is they cannot buy them. They have no work. Things do not happen of themselves. They have to be made to happen. Blind chance will never solve any problem.

Thirdly, and last, it cannot be that Peterborough is less generous than other cities that have raised funds for relief. This is a working man's town, and when the working man cannot give it makes a difference. Those who can give do not appreciate the need or are leaving it to the other fellow.

Thanking you for your space, I remain, "DEPRESSED."

JOHN JOSEPH SEITZ

President, Underwood Co. Ltd., Toronto, Ont., Industrialist.

This is the signature of a man who possesses the dominant will, the fiery passions and the driving force of the dictator. The strength he exercises over the first two characteristics is the remarkable thing about him, together with his singular capacity for concentration. Here is a man who has adopted a uniquely objective attitude towards himself, as though he were in himself a mechanism, and has machine-like worked on himself, eliminating every trait he considered non-essential, subordinating every wayward impulse, until he has achieved an extraordinary degree of precision. He sees issues clearly so that his first is usually best. Generally he reverts to it, after reflection, concentrates on it, and, from inherent desire for order and improvement, keeps touching it up, building it up, working it over and over. He likes things one at a time and pursues each thing in its turn with tenacity and thoroughness. He knows how to wait, too, and believes in making haste slowly. Because of the stern hold he has on himself he is often mistaken for a hard and cold man. But he has imagination and generosity and is capable of great feeling, although he is slow to show that side of himself. By temperament he would be a thoughtful and critical though conventional conservative.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE BROWSER

HERE SITS that foolish Browser ....Reading, reading, reading.... It's late. His eyes are bleary. His back aches. He ought to go to bed. He knows that if he doesn't go there now, he'll have an agonizing time getting up in the morning. But he keeps on reading, turning the pages, driving through 562 pages of "Ann Vickers" by that Sinclair Lewis. You know, that red-headed homely fellow who used to work on newspapers and write rather commonplace novels and then wrote "Main Street," "Babbitt," "Elmer Gantry."

(It was odd about "Elmer Gantry." All the editorial writers abused it as a mean caricature of a preacher, but when the Browser mentioned that book to ministers, they usually looked solemn and said that they knew a fellow who was like Elmer Gantry.)

Here the Browser sits and reads "Ann Vickers" and can't put it down....It isn't great. The writing isn't brilliant, but its solid stuff. And here is Sinclair Lewis quite grown up, passionately interested in people who are poor and sick and stupid and sometimes get into prisons and suffer agonies. Lewis dedicates it to Dorothy Thompson, his wife and he says "her knowledge and help made it possible for me to write about Ann."

There isn't any doubt about that. Dorothy Thompson is a large part of this book.

Some people will like this book. Others will say, "What's the use of writing about criminals and other people who can't keep out of difficulties, when other people are in such trouble and can't get a job and don't know where their next meal is coming from?"....There's no answer to that question. If you ask it, you don't want an answer ....But the Browser does recommend "Ann Vickers." It's about two brave people who love each other.

He'll probably recommend a number of books, too: David Garnett's "Pocahontas: The Nonparell of Virginia"; and Mable Ludhan's "Intimate Memories" of her Victorian girlhood; and "Red Virtue" by Ella Winter, She's Mrs. Lincoln Stefens and her book, as you might guess, is about "Human Relationships in the New Russia."

And there's "Vagnbonding at Fifty" by Elsie Mitchell and Helen Wilson. They're more than 50 years old, apiece, but they hitch-hiked from northern Siberia to Samarkand; traveled 7,700 miles, spent $350, and were bothered only by sore feet and mosquitoes.

* * *

Recently the Browser made a speech. He swore he never would, but he did. He talked about books. Wound himself and let go. Got red, stumbled around, talked to an audience of very kind women about books. They were nice, afterwards. They asked him whether he thought Pearl Buck's "Son's" is as good as "The Good Earth." He said no, they asked him whether he thought Charles Morgan's "Fountain" would live. He said no. They asked him whether he thought people had stopped reading Dickens. He said no. They asked him whether he thought there was any symbolism in Hemingway's "Death in the Afternoon." He said no.

They thanked him for saying no so many times and hoped he'd talk to them again. He didn't say no.

O. O. McIntyre says that Shakespeare used the word "lousy." Where did he use it, Double-O? Bet you dont know! But the Browser knows. Will wrote a jingle about the country magistrate who ran him away from his home town for poaching. He wrote of Sir Thomas Lucy:

"A parliamente member, a justice of peace,
At home a poor scare-crow, at London an asse,
If lowsie is Lucy, as some volke miscalle it,
Then Lucy is lowsie whatever befall it."

Such pediculous poetry....D. H. Lawrence called handkerchiefs "hankies." The Browser observed that in his letters and wondered why able writers are so frequently sloppy in personal speech. They use phrases they'd shudder to use in print.

* * *

The Browser met Lion Feuchtwanger, author of "Power," "Success," "Josephus" a short time ago. Feuchtwanger is a tiny man, with eye-glasses, a rather large nose. Humble. Interested looking. No swagger at all. The Browser was fascinated .... He wondered and wondered, just where, in that little man, was buried the secret of his power and magic....Others may have wondered, too. His lecture wasn't exactly a success. The Browser didn't go. He never goes to hear people talk about books or anything else.

And now for "Ann Vickers" again. He'll be sorry in the morning. He'll wish he'd gone to bed earlier.... The poor, foolish, mad-about-reading

Orillia Collegiate Status Will Stand

ORILLIA, Ont., Feb. 7 (C.P.).—A motion asking the Orillia Board of Education to consider forwarding to the Ontario Department of Education a request to have the status of the Collegiate Institute reduced to that of a High School, as an economy measure, had been defeated to-day, and an amendment asking the Board to effect every possible economy, passed in its place.

The motion submitted to the Town Council by Alderman Cramp and seconded by Reeve Hugh B. Tudhope, precipitated a heated discussion at the monthly meeting of the Council last night before it was defeated.

Speaking to the amendment, Mr Cramp declared it looked like a deliberate attempt to side-track his motion.

"It would be a retrograde step, the Board of Education told me," declared Deputy-Reeve George, who along with Ald. Thomas Brown, opposed it.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE

WINNIPEG, Feb. 7. — (CP) — Wheat prices slipped off fractionally in early trading today in sympathy with easiness at Chicago and as support from the start was rather disappointing values held at levels about 3-8 cent under yesterday's close.

Prices had declined ⅝-¼ at midsession. May was quoted at 47; July at 47¾ and October at 48⅞.

Selling by locals accounted for some of the offerings, while scattered support was credited to eastern interests. Export business overnight was disappointing and pit trade for the most part was extremely dull.

Influenced by short covering due to a moderate enquiry for near-by Canadian wheat, Liverpool futures opened higher and near the close showed gains of about ¼d. Buenos Aires wheat at noon was ⅝c to 1c lower.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (C.P.).—Heavy buying of International Nickel was a feature of the Toronto Stock Exchange trading this afternoon. It is understood the orders were coming mainly from New York. The rest of the list was also firm, though losses outnumbered gains.

Nickel was up ½ and C.P.R. 1-8 higher, while Brazilian merely held and Ford "A" failed to recover from 6¾. Smelters at 58½ was up a fraction.

Oil shares were under considerable pressure during the late afternoon, when the trend was reversed and gains were registered for International Pete, British American and Imperial.

Utilities as a group were weak throughout the day, small losses appearing in Bell Telephone, Montreal Power, Power Corporation, Shawinigan and Consumers Gas. A fractional gain was registered for Union Gas.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, February 7 (C.P.).—Stocks moved narrowly in dull trading to-day. A slow rally during the last hour failed to hold entirely, but American Telephone, United States Steel Preferred, Allied Chemical, American Can., Drug and Case were up a point or more toward the close. Tobaccos partially recovered earlier losses. Utilities and rails were steady to firm, fractional gains appeared for Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central, and Public Service of New Jersey. United States Steel Common, Dupont, and General Motors were up slightly. Sales approximated 600,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (C.P.)—Like Napoleon's army the Mining Market marched down the hill this morning and marched back up this afternoon. The profit-selling that disrupted the price structure in the early session, driving Lake Shore to $37, Sylvanite to $1 and other leaders nearly as much, dried up about mid-afternoon, and from then on the recovery was rapid.

Buying in the last hour put Lake Shore more than half a dollar above Monday's close and all the other high-priced shares chalked up gains for the day. The accumulating carried Ventures to 1.19, up 7.

A feature of the trade was the heavy turnover in Nickel, which advanced to 9.20. Noranda recovered $24.

Good buying came into the silver stocks, and Nipissing recovered its recent loss. Eldorado showed a gain of 3 to 1.50.

Amtorg Official Says Russia Willing to Trade With Canada on "Give-Take" Basis.

NONE BARRED.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 7 (CP)—The existence of a proposal for a barter deal between Canada and Soviet Russia whereby Canada would exchange cattle for Russian products was admitted for the first time to-day at the offices of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, official Soviet purchasing agent in North America.

"Russia," Shipman said, "is willing to trade with Canada and any other country, on a basis of mutual benefit. In other words: Give and take."

The Canadian syndicate, Shipman said, is being represented by G. G. Serkau, who made a trip to Moscow in the interest of the negotiations and has consulted officials of the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa.

STOLEN CRUISER STILL AT LARGE

Craft in Charge of Native Mutineers Reported Heading For Souraboya.

PURSUERS CLOSE IN.

BATAVIA, Java, Feb. 7 (C.P.).—Chased by warships, submarines and flying boats, the fugitive Dutch cruiser de Zeven Provincien, with native mutineers in control, was west of Nias Island to-day, making for the Java naval base at Souraboya.

(Nias Island is off the west coast of Sumatra, about 800 miles northwest of Batavia, and about 1,200 miles north-west of Sourabaya).

The ship, on which the natives, mostly Sumatrans, kidnapped eight of their Dutch officers after a dispute over pay, was proceeding at a speed of seven knots, apparently economizing on fuel.

The Government steamer Eridanus last night replaced the Government vessel Aldebaran, which was running short of fuel, in the chase, and there was little fear now that the Zeven would escape. The commander of the Dutch cruiser was ashore when the natives stole his ship. He immediately put out after them in the Aldebaran.

"Millich would not open the door until we made an agreement and he asked to talk with Convicts Evans and Powell. I sent for these men and they spoke to him, telling him that everything was all right and that he could trust them. Millich then opened the door.

"What did I say to you when I opened the door?" asked Millich.

"You asked for a fair trial," replied Mr. Smith, "and did not ask for immunity."

Uproar in Yard.

John Edgar, assistant steward in the kitchen at the penitentiary, said that about three o'clock in the afternoon Millich stopped work and walked around the kitchen from one group of men to another. Mr. Edgar testified there was a disturbance in the yard which could be seen from the kitchen window.

Witness said that prior to three o'clock he had received a precautionary phone call and had locked both doors of the kitchen. He decided to lock the men up he said, and had about 10 convicts lined up when Millich shouted: "Are we going to allow this—to lock us up?" "Follow me," he ordered, and reached for a large soup dipper that was displayed in court. Walking over to the assistant steward, the convict intimidated him with the dipper and yelled, "Give me the keys."

Surrenders Keys

Witness said he passed out one key, which opened a door to the cell corridor and Millich then ordered him to give up the other keys, saying "That won't do: I want the rest or I'll brain you."

Mr. Edgar said he then gave to the convict the keys to the food closets.

There was a switch box broken controlling the lights for the whole place, 53 panes of glass broken, four chairs, 20 pounds of evaporated milk destroyed, 40 pounds of sugar and one sack of flour.

This was all that occurred on the afternoon of Oct. 17, witness replied when questioned by the Crown.

MAYOR STICKS TO HIS EVIDENCE

States He Had Nothing to Do With Sending Relief Statements to Government.

ADMITS ADDING NAMES.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Feb. 7 (C.P.).—Mayor J. P. Marchildon today declared everything he had said in previous evidence before the Royal Commission investigating relief disbursements here was correct, and when given an opportunity to change or correct his evidence, refused to do so.

"Perhaps if we drew to your attention some of your evidence you would know you were wrong," said W. H. Williams, K.C., Commission counsel. "You said you had nothing to do with preparing any of these statements to the Government. Do you say that now?"

"Maybe I added some names to the rent list," said the Mayor, "but I had nothing to do with sending the statements."

"I don't mean mailing them. I mean preparing them," said Mr. Williams.

"That is what I meant," said Mr. Marchildon.

"What about the rent list?"

"I may have handed in some names."

BRITISH FLIERS AFTER 3 MARKS

Long Distance Pair Cover 2,700 Miles—Smith Tries for Amy Johnson's Record.

MOLLISON NEARS COAST.

(By Canadian Press)

Three British attempts to set new flight records were well under way to-day — one seeking the world's long distance record, another a new record between England and South Africa, and the third an attempt by Captain Mollison to fly from England to Brazil, which includes a 3,000-mile span of the South Atlantic.

The big R.A.F. monoplane which Squadron Leader C. R. Gayford and Flight-Lieut. Nicholette ae flying From England in an attempt to best the present long-distance record of 5,012 miles, was to-day over Nigeria, reporting by their own wireless they had travelled about 2,700 miles.

Captain J. A. Mollison took off again to-day from Morocco for West Africa, his jumping off place for the ocean hop, while Victor Smith, youthful South African, got away to-day from Southampton on his attempt to beat Mrs Amy Johnson Mollison's record for the England-Cape Town flight.

Smith, making his second attempt at the record to the Cape, is flying a tiny monoplane with an engine of only 75 horse-power, considerably smaller than the p'ane being used by Mollison. The R.A.F. machine is a big monoplane that has been gdoomed for many months for the present attempt.

Off To Gran Chaco Front

Although there has been no official declaration of war between Paraguay and Bolivia, this scene looks like the real thing. Paraguayan soldiers are shown marching through the streets of Asuncion on the way to embark for Concepcion and the Gran Chaco front. They are reinforcements being rushed to the frontier to counter the offensive of General Hans Kundt, German commander of the Bolivian forces in an attempt to wrest the disputed Gran Chaco territory from the Paraguayans.

STRIKE TIES UP HUDSON PLANT

Over 3,000 Employes Walk Out Asking 20 Per Cent Wage Increase.

RED AGITATION SEEN.

DETROIT, Feb. 7 (A.P.)—Officials of the Hudson Motor Car Company announced to-day that 3,000 employees of the Hudson body plant went on strike to-day, demanding a 20 per cent. wage increase and time and a half for overtime.

The officials said they had a considerable stock of bodies on hand which would keep the assembly plant in operation for several days, but reported they would be forced to close the entire plant if the strike continued more than a day or two.

Insisting the walkout, which occurred shortly after 10 a.m. to-day, was due to Communist agitation, the officials said they hoped to "have the men back at work in a day or two—as soon as we can get in communication with them."

Members of the strike committee, the officials reported, presented them with a list of demands shortly after the walkout occurred.

HARRY SALTERN FIRST WITNESS IN MURDER TRIAL

une street; W. B. Miller, Dublin street; Wm. Montgomery, Conger street; James R. Baskin, Norwood; Wm. J. Robson, Peterborough; Jos. H. Bell, North Monaghan.

Harry Saltern.

The first witness, Harry Saltern, said he lived on the 9th line of Dummer with his brother William.

"Jackson and Lee came into our district on June 16 last. They bought a lot about a mile east of us and were building the foundation of a house. They lived in an automobile. Lee came to our place on October 12 and stayed until the 17th, the day he was killed."

"When I came home that day about 5 o'clock Lee was there. He suggested a hunting trip for the next night. I saw Jackson coming about that time. I went into the house. He said good-night to me and "good-night, Capt." to Mr. Lee. He asked Lee when he would get the balance of the cement. He said he woud want 4 or 5 bags and about the same quantity of lime. Just then the little girl asked me to fix a nail in her boot. I turned inside the shed door to fix it, and just then I heard the shooting start. I looked back to the door and saw Jackson shooting Lee. Jackson was 4 or 5 feet from Lee.

All I saw Lee do was to throw up both hands during the shooting. His eyes were closed and I heard him say "Oh my Lord." He fell to the ground. Jackson put the revolver in his pocket. He had a .22 calibre rifle in his left hand during the shooting. He put it in his right hand, loaded the register and held the barrel toward Lee's head on the ground. Jackson said, "Do you want any more old man."

Mr. Saltern said that Lee was cleaning a shot gun in the yard when Jackson was approaching the house. When they started talking Lee spoke in his ordinary voice, but I noticed that it changed; he spoke very low as if he was frightened.

When my brother came into the yard, Jackson said, "Here I am boys, guns and all. I'm done with them. If the law of this land is to hang me I'm ready to hang.

Both negroes were sober, Mr. Saltern said.

Cat Saves Lives Of Small Family

The loud meows of their cat awakened Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wheeler, and their son, McFarlane street, at 5.40 this morning, and saved the family from probable asphyxiation. Mr. Wheeler arose to learn what was troubling the cat and found the house full of coal gas. Mrs. Wheeler was overcome by the gas when she went downstairs. Later the house was aired out, and the cat rescued from the cellar. The gas escaped from the furnace.

missal of four or five officers for trafficking with the inmates, cutting off the sources of contraband. No damage whatever was done; the inmates yammered in protest and soon came into line."

Gen. Ormond's report cited Mr. Ponsford as apparently failing to obey instructions to erect a barrier across one of the prison gates, and further declared supervision had been insufficient during the past ten years.

Denies Inefficiency.

"General Ormond says inefficient officers were retained on the staff. This is absolutely incorrect,' said Mr. Ponsford. "When I left the Penitentiary we had there the most efficient staff in its whole history.

"Regarding the monotony of penitentiary confinement, during the years I was there I had no complaints. If any have developed since I left it is because not enough work was supplied.

"With regard to General Ormond's opinion that two or three convicts were the chief organizers and their identity is not known, surely this indicates absolutely the inefficiency of the who'e staff, himself included, that after such a long investigation they should not be able to locate the chief offenders," he declared.

HEALTH NURSES STAY DISMISSED

Toronto Council Turns Down Motion for Reinstatement By 18 to 11.

MAYOR JOINS DEBATE.

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (C.P.).—Alderman Ernest Bray's motion declaring the reinstatement of the two dismissed public health nurses should, "in the opinion of this council," be carried out at "the earliest possible moment," was defeated by the City Council in a session which lasted until early this morning.

The question of the nurses' reinstatement was the last matter to be debated by Council, which rejected the Bray proposal by a vote of 17 to 11.

Alderman Harry Hunt's motion for a 15 per cent. reduction in the salaries of members of Council met a similar fate, being rejected on a vote of 18 to 11.

Legislation will be sought by the City of Toronto at the coming session of the Ontario Legislature, which will permit municipalities of the province to levy a graduated super income-tax upon all incomes over $10,000.

A resolution to this effect, submitted by Controller George Ramsden, was passed late last night by Council, following a four-hour debate. The vote was 18 to 11.

Mayor W. J. Stewart, leading the forces opposing the proposal, warned the Council not to ask more from the Government, because the Government might take away the income tax from the city. Opponents of the bill also claimed the additional tax on income would drive many industries from Toronto.

Hush Policy Rapped By Orillia Alderman

ORILLIA, Feb. 7 (C.P.).—Strong condemnation of the "hush-hush" policy of which some Orillia officials have been accused in the past was voiced at the monthly meeting of the Town Council by Alderman W. M. Cramp, following introduction, by him, of a motion calculated to reveal the amount of crime in the town during the past year, and the record of the police in apprehending the malefactors.

Alderman Cramp's motion, which was seconded by Alderman A. E. Bard, and lost, after a prolonged and fiery debate, was: "That the chairman of the Police Committee instruct the Chief of Police to submit to Council the annual report of the police department for 1932, this report to be fully itemized."

PIPER MUST BE PAID REMINDER OF HON. GEORGE H. CHALLIES

that if you pay a certain salary we can make a certain contribution towards it."

Basis of Road Grants

Hon. Mr. Challies explained how the road grant percentages were arrived at.

"We take a census twice a year, and it has been found that 80 per cent of the traffic on the provincial highways is foreign to the localities in which the traffic count is made. On county roads, 50 per cent of the traffic is foreign to those localities, and on township roads it is 40 per cent, although the government pays a larger percentage in some instances. Census figures may vary in certain localities, but considering the province as a whole the percentages are those we have adopted, and they are used as the basis of our road grants.

Decide Own Expense.

The provincial government does not say what you shall spend. You decide that yourselve. I think that should be especially emphasized. But, if you go ahead and spend money, and bill us, then we pay you on the basis of the grants."

Warden Rickard—"It has been felt that since we pay 20 per cent of the cost of provincial highways, we should have at least 20 per cent of the say about them. But the counties council is not consulted. The Department goes ahead with work of that kind, and send us the bill, which weve got to pay."
